At a lengthy hearing into the charges McGuire and his counsel, W. Poole, walked out after charging the council lacked jurisdiction to deal with the case. McGuire later filed application with the Supreme Court of Ontario to have the hearing voided.

He later withdrew the application and was reinstated as chief.

In May McGuire agreed to step down and a reorganization of the department was carried out. He said Monday he plans to go into business as a service station operator.

Child Missed, Found Asleep At Own Home

PICTON.—Missing for around five hours on Sunday eight-year-old Kenneth Kraglund, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Kraglund, Bloomfield, was the object of a widespread search Sunday afternoon and evening.

With his parents the lad had gone to the Outlet Beach where many hundreds sought relief from the heat.

Missed about 4.30 by his parents, Kenneth was soon the object of a widespread search. Crowds on the beach were informed of his disappearance by use of Bruce Martin's sound truck. The beach, Outlet river, sand dunes and woods were searched.

Then Allan Anderson of Bloomfield, drove to the lad's home on the chance he might have returned. Entering the home he found Kenneth fast asleep on the chesterfield, unaware of the commotion and anxiety he had caused. Brought back to the beach, the lad was re-united with his joyful parents.

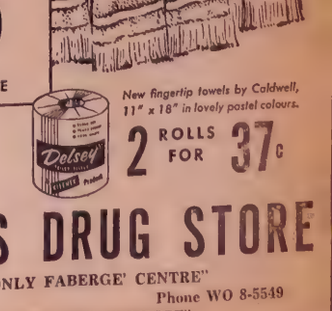
It appears that Kenneth was playing on the sand dunes while his parents were on the beach nearby. In playing, he wandered away and could not find his way back. Crying, he was picked up by a motorist who was able to elicit only the fact that the boy lived in Bloomfield, and so they drove him there.

OPP John Fletcher assisted in organizing the search.

Arthur K. Black Of Belleville Buys Globe Hotel

PICTON.—Sale of the Globe Hotel by J. J. Cox to Arthur K. Black of Belleville, is being completed this week. It is understood the purchase price is around $200,000. Mr. Black will take possession in a few weeks.

Mr. Cox took possession of the hotel nine years ago last March and during that time has made many improvements, to make it a modern hostelry.



The hotel has 54 rooms with private baths, ladies' and men's beverage rooms, a large dining room. Also in the block is a 6-alley bowl-o-drome, barber shop, lunch counter and tobacco stand. There is also an attractive garden for guests.

Mr. Cox, who purchased the hotel from the Vanalstine estate, has no plans for the immediate future except to spend a holiday at their cottage at Hamilton, N.Y.

DUTCH TREAT

Readers of editorials are not likely to be panicked by the announcement that Eddie and Debbie have decided to call off America's most publicized romance. Younger readers, however, will greet the news with the same enthusiasm the Japanese had for the second A-bomb. Perhaps the thunderous apathy with which adults will greet the news about Eddie and Debbie in an indication of their thoughts on romance.

Discouraging as this sounds there may be some truth in it.

In Genemuiden, in the Netherlands, for instance, adults take a keen interest in romance—not only pertaining to themselves but to their neighbors as well. An example is contained in the recent report of the trials of true love being endured by Herman Jagsen (a boy in case foreign names confuse you) and his sweetheart Wilhelmientje Visschers. Herman is the son of a poor laborer. "Willie" is the daughter of a rich merchant. Herman loves "Willie" and "Willie" loves Herman.

"Willie's" father does not love Herman so "Willie" was packed off to another city.

In America an irate father who sends his daughter "away" to break up a romance is dismissed by the teen age set as a "creep". In Genemuiden the neighbors ripped up paving stones and threw them through the windows of the Visschers' mansion. Glaziers refused to repair the windows. Bakers refused to deliver bread to the Visschers' household fearing a boycott by the rest of the population.

To date the Visschers are braving hunger, flying stones and broken glass to keep Herman from courting "Willie". The neighbors show no sign of raising their siege.

Can anyone imagine North Americans taking such a fierce and partisan interest in romance as the good burghers of Genemuiden? Modern American romance is a singularly unexciting parade of bridge games, tennis sets, drive-in movies and late television programs which culminates in a call to the golf club to inform the respective parents of the engagement. After a series of formal and semi-formal gift-givings to the accompaniment of tea cups and dainty sandwiches, the happy couple departs for Niagara Falls in a soaped automobile. The newlyweds return in a few weeks to their respective jobs of selling hand lotion and writing overdue notices for the finance company.

Nothing nearly as exciting as a siege complete with paving stones, broken windows and a general boycott. We venture to say that courtship in Genemuiden, while it has its hazards, is full of excitement. Whether or not Herman and "Willie" ever marry they will have some refreshing memories. If they do marry it is likely that the community's interest in their welfare will make their union a steadfast and happy one.

No one but the bride and bridegroom, and possibly the immediate families, seem to care about weddings in North America, and possibly that is one of the reasons why North Americans care so little about divorce. The community that boycotts a stern father to further the cause of young love is very likely a community that would mourn divorce with wreaths of crepe, weeping and wailing.

Who can say they are wrong?

CONVOCATIONALLY SPEAKING

Graduates "facing the long vista of the years" with "confidence and steadfastness'" and with "firm adherence to the ideals so diligently propounded by their teachers" will "embark on the sea of life" to "meet their responsibilities" in convocations all over the land in this month of graduations.

Graduates receiving good advice at convocation should be contortionists so that they can properly "put their shoulders to the wheel", "put their ears to the ground", "stand firm", and "take a long view".

Usually "the backward glance along the road they have travelled" consists of a nightmarish navigation of a highway that is filled with technical pitfalls and barricaded by formidable textbooks. That "bright future on whose threshold the graduate stands today" appears as a threshold of quicksand leading to the jungle of job hunting.

However, it is well for students to hear graduation platitudes. Graduates hear them for the first time and most of them contain a great deal of truth and inspiration. A call to adventure is the best of all calls to youth, and a challenge to idealism and an awakening of a sense of responsibility are good guide posts to the future.

Facts are perishable and especially so in an age that challenges yesterday's achievements with today's research for tomorrow's marvels. Facts are the bones and sinews of modern education and all too little time is spent in trying to define and capture ethical and spiritual intangibles that cannot be changed because they are unchanging.

Convocation provides an excellent opportunity, and the last one in a formal course, to weave the threads of various dissimilar courses into the general fabric of education, and to relate the whole to its place in the scheme of things. Talking of physics, home economics, medicine, law, language and literature, art, architecture, dentistry and all the other courses would not only be impossible but foolhardy. The only things that apply to all graduates are general admonitions to be good persons who will work honestly for themselves and for their fellow men and reassurance that the future can be full of pleasure and profit if faced bravely.

This message is timely and timeless. It may seem tiresome but it is a worthwhile message. That is why it is being repeated all over the world this year just as it was last year and as it will be all through the years when graduates are "called together" at convocation.

MOTHER NATURE

Mother Nature young remains.
Not a wrinkle shows.
Time her beauty never stains,
Tired she never grows.
Men who plant a shady tree
May not see it grown.
Mother Nature here will be
After years have flown.

Seasons come and seasons go.
She will know them all.
See the springtime tulips grow,
Harvests in the fall.

Men and women who are old,
Dread the winter wild.
Mother Nature braves the cold
Gayly as a child.

Mother Nature, year by year,
Stoutly carries on.
Knowing she will still be here
After we are gone.
All the lovely things today
Lovely still will be.
Things a million years away
She will surely see.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 21, 1935

Miss Helen Denike has returned to her home here after spending several months in Oshawa.

Mrs. B. C. Sisler and Miss Ivy Dickens were the tea hostesses at the Belleville Golf Club yesterday afternoon.

Miss Eugenia May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. May of this city has passed the examinations in the Physical Culture course at Toronto University.

Miss Vera Ray, a graduate of the Belleville General Hospital, has completed the course at the Bible School in Toronto, and will leave in September for Algeria where she will enter upon missionary work.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne A. Morton of Toronto are paying a visit to his former home in Foxboro.

Miss Helen Henderson of Kingston was a week-end guest of Miss M. Doyle, Albion Street.

30 YEARS AGO

June 21, 1925

Strawberries were plentiful on the market today and sold at ten cents per box. In crate lots they sold at twelve boxes for $1. The crop promises to be large.

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 3,146 boxes of white cheese and 80 boxes of colored cheese were boarded. All sold at 19 1/4 cents and 19 1/16 cents per pound.

Mrs. R. Myers and daughter of Napanee are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hoskins, Quinte Cottage, Trent Road.

Mr. T. P. Demo has left for Baltimore, Md., to attend the convention of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Mr. Harry James Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holland, Queen Street, has graduated in law and was called to the bar at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on June 18.

40 YEARS AGO

June 21st., 1915

The Return of the Katie Gray. The famous racing sloop, the Katie Grey, has returned to her first home and berth in the Belleville harbor after an absence of twenty years in Oswego, N. Y. The yacht was built here by the famous builder, Capt. Cuthbert, about thirty years ago for the late W. J. Campbell, former chief of the local fire department. The famous craft competed in and won many sailing races in days gone by and it is a source of much pleasure to local yachtsmen to see her return. The new owner is Capt. James Dougherty of this city. The yacht was rebuilt at Oswego and is in fine condition for cruising the waters of the old Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario. Many of the older citizens, who remember the Katie Grey, have been to the harbor to see her and call to remembrance her past excellent record.

Mr. Lyle Anderson of Edmonton, Alberta, a former resident and alderman of this city, is spending a few days here with friends.

50 YEARS AGO

June 21, 1905

The steamer Annie Lake will make three trips to Massassaga Park on Friday and also on Saturday. Many citizens enjoy spending a full day or an afternoon at this attractive spot, a few miles from the city.

The seventy-third annual picnic of Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School will take place on July 3 per the steamer Aletha to Twelve O'Clock Point. The boat will make four trips.

Mrs. Terrill, teacher at the D. & D. Institute, Trent Road, has left to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Forester and Dr. Forester at their summer cottage at Oakville.

Mr. S. Bertram of Marmora was in town today.

Mrs. Hugh Corbett of this city is visiting relatives in Palmerston.

Hillbilly Talk Is Old English

(North Carolina Guide)

North Carolinian's speech is as varied as the topography of their state. In the mountains the people have retained many early Scotch and English ways of speech.

So it comes about that what we consider Negro or hillbilly talk is quite likely to be the speech and enunciation of fashionable London or Edinburgh of a century or so ago, indeed the talk of Elizabeth I and Sir Walter Raleigh. Shakespeare and Marlowe, Dryden and Pope, Addison and Swift.

Thus, as Prof. George P. Wilson tells us in "The Frank C. Brown Collection of North Carolina Folklore," Shakespeare used "blowed" for blown, "broom" "mought" for might, and Elizabeth "hit" for it. Other usages in North Carolina which smack of illiteracy but have high authority in antiquity are:

Arter for after (which is the only way to make the nursery rhyme of Jack and Jill come out properly); ast for asked; fitten for fitting; cowcumber for cucumber; ingern for onion; git for get; Chainy for China; obleege for oblige; jine for join; bile for boil; pizen for poison; learn for teach, and mushmillion for muskmelon.

Our dialect is often funny and always expressive:

Giggle soup is liquor.

Slipper-slide is a shoe horn.

A claphat woman is a hasty one.

Journey proud applies to one who won't stop telling you about a trip.

A smidgen is a little, but a slue is a lot, and it might be a lavish or in some cases a God's plenty.

From kin-see to kain't see is a full day's work. A man lives down the road a piece or perhaps only a whoop and a holler. Sometimes we feel, with Sir Walter Scott, that a thing is ill-convenient or with Shakespeare, that a girl is right peart. We have plunder rooms where we keep worn out play-pretties or toys. Like Wycliffe, we reckon and we sometimes put things in a poke.

The widow woman goes to the tooth dentist, as she used to do in England. And a girl may apologize for not speaking to you as she passed you in an automobile, by saying "If I'd a-knowed it was you I'd a-flang my arm out and wove to you" sounds like Chaucer.

Yes., our speech, especially at its worst has aristocratic antecedents on the dialectal family tree.

Impulsive Britons?

(Detroit Free Press)

Away back, in the year 1409 A.D.—546 years ago — the villagers of Fressingfield, Suffolk, England, built a new parish church. At the same time, they built a town tavern which the church has owned and operated all this time.

Now, the vestry has decided to sell the pub and get out of the liquor business. "Some persons," they explained, "didn't like the idea."

To us, it seems like pretty hasty action to take such a step after only 546 years of careful consideration. That's what bothers us about some of our English friends. They're inclined to be a little impulsive.

Find Larger Homes Needed

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

A study by the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials showing that the need for larger dwellings is growing in both public and private housing markets is one to which builders should give some attention.

Many a family finds that the standard three bedroom houses going up on all sides are completely inadequate to their needs and that added rooms invariably run into prohibitive and seemingly unnecessary costs.

Certainly the building industry is as capable of providing economical housing for families with three or more children as it is for those with two or less. Many a prospective home buyer would like to see some proof of it.

Bird Walks Under Water

(By Bob Forbes, in American Forests Magazine)

More than one forester in our western mountains has been startled by a streamside bird which solemnly winked at him, bobbed up and down in a friendly salute, then calmly entered the creek and walked around under the water. This ordinary looking bird, about the size of a robin, with blue-gray plumage, yellow bill and legs, is the American dipper or water ouzel.

John Muir discovered dippers for the people by writing a whole chapter on the birds in his 1894 book, "The Mountains of California". "Among all the mountain birds", Muir wrote, "none has cheered me so much in my lonely wanderings — none so unfailingly. For both in winter and summer he sings sweetly, cheerily, independent alike of sunshine and of love, requiring no other inspiration than the stream on which he dwells."

Any number of bird lovers have traced the dippers' haunts throughout the western mountains — from the foothills of the Rockies to the headwaters of the Yukon river, the Aleutian islands, and higher elevations in Lower California and Guatemala. But the birds are never found far from creeks with waterfalls, cascades, rapids and occasional quiet pools.

The inconspicuous little birds will even stick it out during a mountain Winter, just as high up as they can find unfrozen water. For water is essential to their diet, largely of caddis fly larvae, with aquatic worms, mosquito larvae and beetles thrown in for variety.

Meals at any time during the day are gleaned by dippers wading in the shadows with their heads under the water, poking and probing for tidbits fastened to stones and pebbles. Meanwhile, the current of the creek erects a clear shell of water over the bird's backs.

Often a dipper will venture beyond the shallows of a stream, to spots where the water runs deep and swift, and get swept off his feet. But what's the importance of such a wetting in his busy life? He just picks himself up and heads for shore without a complaint.

A dipper may even dive into a deep pool — as always, in search of groceries — walk around on its bottom and sometimes speed his travel by swimming with his wings!

It is a wonder that dippers don't have webbed feet to suit them better to their constant habitat. When swimming on top of still water they paddle their feet back and forth, like a duck. But even if the birds are more like grebes and ducks their closet relatives are the wrens and thrushes.

Dipper fondness for water is complete. He never flies over land, even when he wants to get past a small bend in a creek. Invariably, he takes the longer route over water.

As fledglings tiny dippers jump from rock to rock in a creek on their first day out of the nest. They instinctively know at that early stage how to run, climb, dive, swim and flutter, if not fly.

A baby still in the nest, observed near Salt Lake City, carried the water affinity to the ultimate. He fumbled a juicy grub presented by his mother twice in a row, but retained it after she had soaked it for a moment in the nearby creek.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MIGHTY BUILDER

Cecil Rhodes was one of the most remarkable men of modern times. He made a fortune in South Africa, returned to England and purchased for himself the best education money could buy. Then he went back to South Africa again and until his death at the age of fifty, he threw the whole of his energy into the clearing of the jungle and the building of an empire. The natives loved him, buried him on a high mountain, and called his grave in their native tongue, "World View."

Think of being almost the richest man in the world and having to die at the age of fifty, with your work only apparently half done. "So much to do," he cried with his last breath, "and so little time in which to do it." But he laid the foundation of a real empire in a part of the world which most men shunned. He found riches where they found nothing. The scholarships he founded have enriched the educational life of even our own country.

Few people realize what an empire the southern part of that great African continent has become. Rhodes was a mighty prophet and builder.

He had a world view.

English As She Are Spoke

(Montreal Gazette)

One of several wonderful things about English is that it is a living language, forever undergoing changes.

One uneasy factor about such a language, however is that one generation taught one way may find itself baffled by words and phrases used by the next. For older readers, perhaps a few illustrations may help.

The Russian Embassy has informed the United States fish and wildlife service that 26 migratory birds, carrying United States leg tags, have been shot down in Russia. The birds had been banded in such attractive places as Texas. They were shot down in Siberia. Their choice of Siberia over Texas defines the term "bird-brain".

During Operation High Jump, in 1946-47, the United States Signal Corps left a radio set in Little America III, in the Antarctic. When the USN icebreaker Atka visited there last winter the set was recovered — in perfect working condition. This survival is simply explained. While other sets were being steadily worn down by jazz programs that were "real cool", that is, hot, this set was real cool.

If that one seems somewhat complicated, the lesson can be concluded with one that will be considerably simpler for older types than it will for younger. A crate broke at Paris' Orly Airport and 100 South African parrots escaped. Attendants ran around wildly with handfuls of crackers but the birds wouldn't bite. Not one consented to being recaptured.

"How you gonna keep 'em down at the zoo after they've seen Parree?"

Class dismissed.

Sausages As Missiles

(Hamilton Spectator)

Are cold sausages permissible ammunition for use in a family row, and if so, how many can be hurled before one becomes guilty of assault? A retired British colonel and his son-in-law became involved in a dispute the other day and the son-in-law hurled cold sausages at the colonel. We cannot help feeling that there is something decidedly unsporting in this, not gentlemanly either, and we were glad to hear that the colonel did not retreat before the unworthy barrage.

Apparently, the colonel had ordered the son-in-law out of his room. One can imagine the scene with all its stern military overtones. Instead of obeying, as a good soldier would, the son-in-law pelted the colonel.

Of course, the whole affair is absurb, but it is pleasing to know that there are some folk who can bring a touch of originality into what is usually a humdrum business — the good old fashioned family row.

"I am not afraid of my son-in-law, or six cold sausages," the colonel told the court, "but it was in fact, seven cold sausages."

That is the statement of an honest, and a gallant, man, and neither more nor less than what we should expect in the circumstances.

Tie Is Hottest Thing to Wear

(Miami Herald)

Some day, American men may put their neckties in mothballs for the whole summer, along with their overcoats. It would be sensible, judging from the findings of Dr. Maurice E. Barker, who has spent five years studying the best ways to dress for comfort. "The hottest thing a man can wear," says he, "is is a necktie. It stops up the hot air outlet at the neck and adds as much warmth as another shirt would." Dr. Barker's authoritative voice may help spread the wearing of open-necked short-sleeved sports shirts in summer. And we can't overlook the chance to point out that it started in Florida.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Spurious Sinusitis

It is absurd to label ache, pain or other sensation "neuritis" if it is here today and gone tomorrow, no matter what pain-killer or sense-deadening drug or physical therapy the poor soul may be persuaded to take for the "neuritis." Oh, yes, indeed, neuritis happens, but not nearly so commonly as your trick specialist or "clinic" racketeer would have you believe.

Sinus trouble, chronic sinusitis, so-called, is genuine inflammation, infection or suppuration of one or more of the air-spaces in the skull, all of which are lined with mucous membrane continuous with the lining of the nasal passages.

In a great many instances of chronic sinus trouble the condition seems to be a manifestation of allergy, or at least allergy is the chief contributing factor.

If you are subject to chronic sinus trouble, the following report should interest you:

Dear Dr. Brady:

For three years I have been going to doctors for sinus trouble. They give me penicillin shots. In '52 had operation on both mastoids. . . I was going for heart treatments twice a week . . . saw your recommendation, of calcium and D, began taking six a day . . . haven't been to the doctor now for over two months.

(Signed)

Now of course I don't know whether the mastoid operation and the "heart treatments" (whatever they may be) or high calcium diet and calcium feeding brought about the great improvement or recovery, but I believe correcting calcium deficiency will bring such relief in many cases of real or spurious sinusitis.

Let me remind you that no medical authority to date has negated the dictum of Sherman that—

"The ordinary mixed diet of Americans and Europeans, at least among dwellers in cities and towns" (where they don't get enough milk and milk products) "is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element."

Oh, you're allergic to milk, eh? We'll talk about that later. Right now I'll say it would be as sensible to say you're allergic to people.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the working world, there are two broad classes. There are those who pretend to be working who aren't. And there are those who are working and love to pretend they are not. In my youth, we had a famous city editor, Colin Campbell, who made a sinister study of his staff along these lines. He found a type that not only appear to be working furiously, but really are. For these he had a mild contempt. He found a second large group who appeared to be working furiously, but were doing little or nothing. For them he reserved most of the night assignments, desk duty right under his nose, and service club luncheons. The class he loved best were those who were working hard, shrewdly and effectively, but who delighted in appearing to be doing nothing. These were his pets. From them he made his feature writers, he boosted them to the publisher as editorial writers, and all the sweet assignments out of town, with expense accounts, he reserved for these pretenders.

I thought in those days that this was merely a whim on the part of a wily, clever, headstrong man who was a most gifted city editor. But only the other day the president and general manager of a very big industrial plant whom I was interviewing called in one of his junior executives.

A more indolent-looking man I never saw. He came into the presidential presence with neither spring nor bounce. He entered leisurely. He took a chair without ceremony. He answered the Old Man's questions reflectively, thoughtfully. He scratched his head. He lit a cigarette and got up and walked over to take the ash tray off the president's desk. He did not wait to be dismissed. He simply got up, asked if that were all, and strolled out.

"Your nephew?" I asked.

The Old Man laughed up roariously.

"That," he said, "is the hardest working man in this whole organization, counting even me. When he came into the business eight years ago as a kid, I thought he was the laziest coot I had ever hired. It took me a year to find out. He just doesn't like to appear to be working. It is an affectation of a great many of the smartest characters I have ever met."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT MAKES IKE CLICK

Interested as I am in reading the stories of great men and women, I came across a most interesting item that John Gunther wrote on Eisenhower during the second World War. They were on a ship cruising along the coast of Sicily; Gunther suggested that they make a landing; Eisenhower wanted to meet someone in the Canadian forces a short distance inland.

A landing was ordered. Eisenhower accosted the first officer met, a Britisher. "I am General Eisenhower." The officer almost fainted with surprise, Gunther stated. He was informed that this was the Canadian beachhead but that the headquarters were further inland. "I don't care if it's a second-lieutenant, but I want to meet some Canadian officer. I have come to welcome Canada to the Allied command," stated Eisenhower.

It has always been such human experiences as this that have endeared General Eisenhower to the world. I have been reading about his early days in Texas and Kansas and at West Point. Always that human touch was there. It was the same with Lincoln. Endless stories emphasize the fact, but that one about Lincoln's having to wait outside General McClellan's tent inspired this statement by Lincoln: "I will hold McClellan's horses if he will only give us victories." Some people are too great to be snubbed!

That which is so outstanding in President Eisenhower is that he looks to others so much for guidance and information. He has no thoughts of the "superman" within him. He is humble, sincere and devout. He is a listener for all of the people whom he serves.

At a speech in London, June 12, 1945, tendering him "the freedom of London," Eisenhower contrasted the great metropolis of London with those small towns of Abilene, Kansas, and Dension, Texas, and said: "I come from the very heart of America — to those people I am proud to belong."

88 Veterans Join Legion In Public Initiation Ceremony

PICTON (Staff) — Picton's branch of the Canadian Legion (Branch No. 78 on the records) today has 88 more members than were registered 24 hours ago.

The spiral in membership follows last night's mass public initiation ceremony of candidates at the armouries here.

Nearly 200 members of the public and 380 Legion representatives were present from Belleville, Tweed, Trenton, Madoc, Consecon, Brighton and Lindsay. Besides the solemn ceremony of enrolment the assembly:

(1) Saw Opposition leader George Drew receive a standing ovation;

(2) Heard Eastern Area commander, Brig. M. S. Dunn, urge the Legion to take an interest in militia affairs;

(3) Saw Mr. Drew present veteran Frank Starr, dean of Legion activities in this town, with a meritorious award and;

(4) Applauded as branch president Len. J. Foley presented $1,000 to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital Building Fund.

The ceremonies got under way shortly after 8 p.m. when the candidates paraded to the armouries from the Legion Hall. Led by the Royal Canadian Artillery band, Picton, the contingent of 88 comprised veterans of various ages marching side by side with comrades still in khaki of the permanent services.

After the candidates broke parade on the armouries' floor district commander Scotty Broughton opened the auspicious occasion. With the traditional tributes of The Last Post, Reveille and the Two Minutes Silence over president Foley introduced the guests and short plethora of speeches.

First to speak was Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland, who briefly welcomed the gathering on behalf of the town.

URGES MILITIA SUPPORT

Eastern Area Commander Brig. Dunn in a short address on behalf of the army suggested to the Legion members that they give their support to the militia. He called on parents to interest their sons in joining the local unit of the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment.

Lt.-Col. E. S. Fairman, commanding officer of the Regiment, who reiterated some of Brig. Dunn's remarks. He told Legion members: "It is you to whom we look for strong support throughout this location of Prince Edward where the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment is situated."

He stressed the importance of encouraging the younger generation's interest in the militia.

Ontario Provincial vice-president of the Legion, Jack Burnett, mayor of Cobourg, said the Legion, primarily formed to look after disabled comrades, widows and dependents from the war now is eral government, and "we exert that influence for good."

"Our power is never used for unworthy causes and it is never used unwisely," he said.

"In this community of yours I think that you all should be very, very proud of the wonderful Legion branch that operates in the town of Picton for the leadership they are giving and for this tremendous increase in leadership for the community."

The traditional initiation ceremony was directed by Zone F-3 commander Len Taylor and a party drawn from the Tweed branch.

BADGES DISTRIBUTED

With the oath administered commander Taylor, Scotty Broughton, Jack Burnett and Len Foley commenced to distribute membership badges.

By request, Mr. Drew, himself a veteran Legion member, stepped down from the platform to assist them. The pins distributed, the new members were dismissed and walked back to their places to a rattle of applause.

Minor highlight of the evening was presentation of a $1,000-check to Donald Baxter, representing the Prince Edward Memorial Hospital Building Fund. It was the fourth $1,000-instalment on a $10,000 pledge made to the planned 58-bed hospital, which when complete will stand as a memorial to the fallen of two world wars.

Surprise of the entire event was presentation of a meritorious award to Frank Starr, active veterans' figure in Picton for many years.

Among the distinguished guests present were Dr. G. Allison; George Tustin, M.P.; Norris Whitney, M.L.A.; Homer Shiels; Lt.-Col. Gerald Coffin, commanding officer, L.A.A., Picton; Lt.-Col. T. L. Vincent, commanding officer, R.C.S.A., Picton stone unturned to work for peace," he said. "We shall reject no method, however novel, that holds out any hope, however faint."

Members of the Tweed color party were: James Halpenny; Ray Woolfrey; Carthe Cassidy; A. Millan; Jack Rashotte and Terrence Rashotte; Oscar Thurston was sergeant-at-arms.

DECLINES PREDICTIONS

Although he promised that the U. S. would do its best to make the Geneva talks a success, he declined to make any predictions, saying:

"Whether or not we shall then reach the initial decisions that will start dismantling the terrible apparatus of fear and distrust and weapons erected since the end of World War II, I do not know."

Macmillan said the president's speech "gave a very fine start to the conference." Belgium's Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak called the speech inspirational, and Brig.-Gen Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines described it as "excellent . . . a very strong speech which the United Nations should take to heart."

Eisenhower left for Washington in his private plane Monday night, approximately 21 hours after his arrival.

It now appears almost certain that the 60 UN members will conclude their session Sunday by adopting a peace pledge, to be known as the San Francisco declaration.

Molotov brought up the issue at Monday night's Big Four talks He was told by the Western diplomats that this was no time for resolutions, but that they would not object to some sort of peace declaration by the president of the San Francisco meetings, Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens of The Netherlands.

Speaker Predicts Increased Activity in Building Trade

Increased construction activity in Canada generally and in the St. Lawrence Seaway area particularly was predicted by Raymond Brunet, O.B.E., of Hull, Que., immediate past - president of the Canadian Construction Association, at a joint dinner meeting of members of the Belleville and Kingston Builders' Exchanges at the New Queen's Hotel, on Thursday evening.

Hugh H. Murray, president of the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange, acted as chairman of the meeting. Jerry Low introduced the speaker with the thanks expressed by Pete Wills. Ossie Maughan, president of the Kingston Builders' Exchange, and Don Chutter, general manager of the C. C. A., Ottawa, also addressed those present.

"The construction program this year will exceed $5 billion — or quite a bit more than the entire federal budget", said Mr. Brunet, "and provides jobs to over a million Canadians on construction projects and supplying us with materials and equipment. If the present rate of increase continues, there will be a 60 per cent increase by 1960; that is, a volume of about $8 billion five years from now," said Mr. Brunet.

SKILLED MANPOWER NEEDED

Mr. Brunet cited the shortage of adequate numbers of skilled tradesmen, superintendents and engineers as being one of the construction industry's main problems, both present and potential.

"We need much larger apprenticeship and professional training programs", he said, "and we should encourage the immigration of people from other countries that will help us build up Canada. If we don't increase our population and develop our rich heritage ourselves, we can only expect uninvited "assistance" from other peoples. Don't forget that the Americans are not our only neighbors", he warned.

OPPORTUNITIES EXIST

Mr. Brunet pointed out the opportunities that existed for those entering the construction industry. Boys who received a thorough apprenticeship training soon became in many cases foremen, superintendents and contractors. An ex-mayor of Hull himself, he also noted that His Worship Mayor Both in the audience was a construction man, as was Mayor Harvey MacFarland of Picton. "There is no knowing where construction can lead you!" he concluded.

The Hull builder added that new techniques enabled the vast majority of building projects and many types of engineering work to be carried out on a year-round basis. Work executed during the wintertime was at comparable costs to work done in the so-called "building season", all things taken into consideration. "There used to be a four-month shutdown in the winter months", he said, "and even now about 25 per cent more are employed in construction in the peak month of September than in the low month of February. With the co-operation of owners, architects and design engineers, we can even better our record."

On housing, Mr. Brunet stated that the 1954 program of new houses and apartments was enough to accommodate the entire population of Winnipeg and would fill up both sides of a road stretching from Montreal to Regina. The 1955 program would undoubtedly be larger, following the amendments to the National Housing Act providing for somewhat easier financing; the entry of the chartered banks into the housing mortgage field. "Few families with an income of $4,000 a year or less can afford to own their own home under the N.H.A., however, and there is still considerable scope for further extension of our housing legislation to meet the needs of our people."

Minor Softball

The opening game of the pee wee section of Belleville's minor softball association was played at the No. two firehall last night with Booth Radio TV's whipping Mott's Lumber 22-16.

Turner and Rose formed the winning battery, Turner allowing 14 hits, whiffing four and walking nine. Roger Ling toiled for the losers and gave up 18 hits, chalking four on strikes with eight walks. Williams and Kiser did the catching.

Fisher led Booth's with the hickory, pounding a homer, double and single while Stu Mulrhead had a trio of singles and Rose slashed a homer. Conner was best for Mott's with a trio of singles while Ling, Thompson and Vance each had two.

Manitoba Town Starts Clean-Up After Tornado

VITA, Man. (CP)—Residents of this tiny southern Manitoba community today set out to clear away wreckage left after a two-minute tornado swept through the community Sunday.

Resources Minister C. E. Greenlay, who toured the area Monday with Health Minister R. W. Bend and Deputy Health Minister Dr. R. M. Elliott, said he believed the damage would easily exceed $500,000.

As acting premier, Mr. Greenlay said the province would provide any equipment needed to help in clearing away the rubble. The tornado injured at least 30 persons and shattered about six homes, the hospital, school, drug store, bakery, lumber yard, restaurant, hotel and funeral parlor.

SET UP COMMITTEE

The three government officials surveyed the damage and attended an organizational meeting of a disaster fund committee, headed by Dr. V. H. Waldon, superintendent of the Vita Hospital.

The committee will accept donations for the tornado victims, direct the clean-up of the village and assess the damage for the government.

Mr. Bend, who will give an account of the damage to a cabinet meeting in Winnipeg today, said the government may appeal to the National Disaster Fund, which was started with money left over from the Winnipeg Flood Relief Fund.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. Will Coulter, Foxboro, was the recipient of many well wishes on his 91st birthday on Monday. He was tendered a birthday party attended by his children and grandchildren on Saturday evening in Belleville.

Young Couple Honored By Community

On a recent Saturday evening, friends and neighbors gathered together at Carmel United church hall, Corbyville, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bieman, nee Margaret Clarke, Reg.N., with a miscellaneous shower.

The address was read by Mrs. Clarence Barlow, former school teacher of Margaret's. It was humorous and full of good meaning for both and much enjoyed by all.

Mr. Carman Dafoe led in a singsong after which Lowell and Margaret took their places of honor and opened many lovely and beautifully wrapped presents for which they ably thanked each one for the lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served which were well supplied by the ladies of the community.

All wished the new bride and bridegroom many years of happy married life.

Series of One-Act Plays Provides Fine Entertainment

Last Friday evening, three charming one-act plays were given by the pupils of Jessie B. Tuite in the Sunday school auditorium of Bridge Street United church.

All the young actors acquitted themselves well. When one realizes that the oldest actors were 15 and the youngest six years old, one wonders how the director managed to achieve such smoothness of performance.

The first play "The Tale of Tarts", a slightly varied edition of the nursery rhyme, was given by the youngest pupils. The King of Hearts (Thomas McMullen), did not forget for one minute that he was a king, and the Queen, (Valerie Leeman) behaved in a regal manner. Their son, Prince Ferdinand, (Harold MacDonald), with his fondness for tarts added a touch of humor to his royal role. Princess Pamela (Sidney Pringle), made a pretty, dainty princess. Little Elaine MacDonald looked and acted like a fairy; Ian MacArthur, son of the Knave of Hearts, and maker of the tarts showed a real interest in his wares; tiny Nancy Williams was a charming page; Mrs. Gamp, (Heather Persons), acted well the part of a privileged nurse and mixed things up effectively. Trudi Haig, lady-in-waiting, had the final speech of the play and she gave it convincingly.

"CINDERELLA'S SLIPPERS"

The second play, "The Slippers of Cinderella", given by Miss Tuite's intermediate pupils made real demands on the young actors. A delightful mixture of fairy magic and humor, it portrayed a poor, but happy family, whose hopes were placed on their father's obtaining the position that he was seeking, rich Aunt Maria, and Belinda's firm belief in fairies, especially fairy godmothers.

It is hard to pick a star in this all-star cast. Helen Sulman, the only adult in the play, won gales of laughter by her clever performance and her costume.

CAST OF PLAY

As each actor deserves mention, a brief comment will be made after each name in the cast.

Myra Tremaine (Alice Louise Layton), a clever young actress at ease on the stage and never out of character; Polly Tremaine, (Sandra Allen); Holly Tremaine, (Sylvia Allen), did not believe in fairies and their acting brought this out clearly; Jimmie Tremaine (Terry Silsbury), was absolutely natural in his role of only brother; Belinda Tremaine (Patricia Miller), was a poised young actress and was almost able to convince one that there were fairies; Agatha, a next-door neighbor, (Valerie Leeman), with her airs and graces was in contrast with the natural Tremaines; Jane, the maid, (Helen Sulman), the comic maid par excellence; Eliza, (Roberta MacDonald), in her brief appearances gave the correct impression of the over-worked little maid; fairy godmother, (Elizabeth Gurnett), brought a touch of magic with wand and voice.

"REST CURE"

The third play, "The Rest Cure" was given by the senior pupils. Clarence Reed, a nervous wreck, who had come to the hospital for the rest cure was played by Bob Franklin. How a teen-age boy could play the querulous nervous patient so convincingly is amazing. Every movement in bed, every tone of his voice was just right.

Mary Elizabeth Lally gave a satisfactory performance of his wife, Olive, gentle and afraid of irritating or exciting him. Diane Burrows and Anne Blakely looked starched and professional in their nurses' uniforms. They had just the correct impersonal manner for their parts.

Carolyn Franklin made an excellent harassed maid with aspirations of becoming an author. She did all that was demanded of her in a slap-dash way. Her manner was as forthright as the way she slammed the door.

APPROPRIATE SETTINGS

All three plays had simple but appropriate settings. The director had planned her stage grouping expertly, and the young actors moved with ease on the stage. They set a high standard for clear enunciation, which could well be emulated by mature actors.

Between the plays, pupils of Miss Bessie Handley gave piano numbers. Margaret Kane, gave a pleasing performance of "In a Monastery Garden". Joan and Donald MacKenzie played a piano duet "Minuet" by Mozart. These numbers added to the evening's enjoyment.

It was an evening of pleasant entertainment for all those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid Mark 25th Anniversary

On Saturday evening, June 18, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reid of Stirling, were pleasantly surprised when 30 of their relatives gathered at the Clare cottage, Oak Lake, to celebrate with them their 25th wedding anniversary.

All sat down to a bounteous dinner after which Mr. Burton Coulter made the presentation of a mirror, floor lamp and smoker to match. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coulter of Tweed, presented a beautiful table lamp, while their three children, Carl, Marilyn and Grant gave an electric clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid both replied thanking everyone for their kindness.

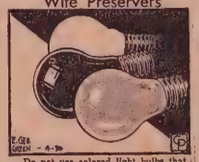
The evening was spent in boating, bathing and in-door games.

Around midnight, all left for home wishing Mr. and Mrs. Reid many more years of happiness.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. W.A.

The closing meeting of Holloway Street church WA was held at the summer home of the president, Mrs. G. Dobbs.



Mrs. Geddes read the Scripture and Mrs. Brown the meditation taking for her subject "I Am the True Vine."

Mrs. Cordes gave two appropriate readings which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Welbourne gave an excellent report on the WA convention which was held in Madoc in May.

After a short business period the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and an excellent pot-luck supper was enjoyed by all present.

Freezing Fruits and Vegetables

Freezing is a quick, convenient and easy way of preserving foods We cannot say it is new because our grandmothers used to freeze meat and pies and bread in their back kitchens or porches and for years the people of the north have used the great outdoors as their home freezer. It is much better today, however, because we do not have to wait until winter to freeze foods and there is no worry about the effects of a spring thaw either. With the use of modern locker plants and home freezers the summer-fresh flavor of frozen fruits and vegetables is retained from one season until the next. Even grandmother will agree that this is a much better arrangement than she had in the old days.

Since so many families now have a home freezer or locker the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have sent along a few suggestions that may help you in planning your freezing program.

What to freeze must be decided on the basis of the family's needs and desires, and on the space available for storing. Short - season foods like strawberries and peas are a good choice for year around use from the freezer and locker. It is a good idea to make up a tentative plan showing the approximate number of packages of each fruit and vegetable your family will consume in the year ahead. At the beginning of the season do not be tempted to freeze too much of any one food and then later on discover there is not enough space left for all the others you want to freeze.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Frozen fruits and vegetables with their fresh color and flavor sealed right in them are almost as much of a treat on winter days as the fresh products are now.

Those vegetables which are usually eaten raw, such as celery, tomatoes, lettuce, cucumbers and radishes no not freeze satisfactorily. Whole kernel corn is generally better to freeze than corn on the cobb as the latter sometimes develops off-flavors during storage. Most root vegetables and cabbage may be frozen but they keep well without freezing so why give them valuable space in the freezer.

Most of our Canadian fruits may be successfully frozen and some of them — currants, cranberries, gooseberries, blueberries and rhubarb — may be frozen without sugar. Other fruits are best frozen with sugar, either dry or in a syrup. Apricots and peaches require special treatment such as the addition of ascorbic acid to prevent discoloration. Pears do not freeze well because the texture changes during freezing and they are soft and mushy when thawed.

Perhaps you have wondered why vegetables have to be blanched before freezing. All fresh vegetables and fruits contain chemical substances called enzymes which, if left uncontrolled will cause unfavorable changes in the flavor, color and texture of the product even if it is frozen. To kill the enzymes in vegetables we blanch them and this preserves their fresh characteristics. To retard the action of enzymes in fruits we generally use sugar.

A good point to remember is that the frozen foods that are taken out of a locker or freezer will be no better than the fresh foods that are put into it. So it is important to use only the highest quality fruits and vegetables for freezing and to freeze them as soon as possible after they are picked.

FREEZING STRAWBERRIES

Nearly everybody likes strawberries and right now we can enjoy them in all sorts of wonderful desserts and salads. But — and probably because the strawberry season is short — no one ever seems to be able to get enough of them This year, so that you may go on enjoying their special goodness until next strawberry season, why not freeze some and put them away in your home freezer or locker.

The berries after being washed and hulled and either sliced or left whole, may be covered with dry sugar in a bowl, using two cups of sugar to 12 cups of berries. Before packing in freezer cartons the berries should be shared very slightly to distribute the sugar evenly. This will partially dissolve the sugar and give the frozen strawberries a better flavor. Or the berries may be packed into freezer cartons and covered with a cold medium syrup made from one cup of sugar dissolved in one cup of water. Two-thirds of a cup of syrup will be required for each pint carton. Strawberries frozen without sugar or syrup lose their flavor and color.

IRAN SETS UP PLAN

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The shah Monday approved a seven-year economic plan for Iran which will cost about $3,000,000,000. The plan calls for reform of communications, rehabilitation and development of agriculture, irrigation, mines, and industry. Authorities said its implementation is "essential for stopping a possible revival of communism in Iran."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE SAYS MARRIAGE IS A "SOUL - DESTROYING MOCKERY"

Remember the woman who asked, in a letter published here about a week ago, if she was "completely trapped" in a desperate marital situation?

Well, here is another wife who, while she has no children and the other one had three and another on the way, still feels that marriage can be not only a "trap" but "a soul-destroying mockery."

She begins her letter by saying that she is writing to me because he hesitates to take her problem to either family or friends for fear of misunderstanding or ridicule. The reason she feels this way, she explains, is because her husband "is an entirely different person around others than he is at home in private with me."

The wife is 12 years younger than her husband and, she says, while he has none of the outstanding faults such as drinking, philandering or gambling, he is "always moody, cranky, unsociable, fretful, stubborn, possessive, narrow and childish at home." In addition to all this, his wife declares that he is "completely unresponsive to cheerfulness, enthusiasm, humor and sociability. He will never visit friends with me or go out with me, and he has absolutely no interests outside his newspaper, an occasional Western story or movie, eating and sleeping, and insisting on having me home alone with him."

This state of affairs has gone on for years, according to his wife, who goes on to say that she finds herself "asking more frequently every day what I am really getting out of life or contributing to it, tied down eternally to housework all day long and sitting around nights and Sundays with such a man."

With no children to consider, she wonders whether she should "go on and on like this, or lay my cards on the table and break loose, thereby incurring the condemnation of the community and probably of my own conscience forever more." She is torn, she says, "between what this situation is doing to my spirit and attitude and mind, and my sense of honor, responsibility, duty and pity toward my husband."

Finally she asks: "How is a woman to find any measure of fulfillment under such circumstaces, oppressed by, and under the domination of, a moody, possessive, childish, narrow stranger who no more understands her soul, mind, and spiritual, mental and emotional needs and interests than an ignorant, selfish child?"

What I think this wife should do is to get out of that "marital trap" at once, and start making a life of her own. I can see no reason at all why she has to go on as she has been doing all these years, eternally staying within the same four walls, with only house-work for companionship during the day and her moody, possessive and so forth husband at night. Surely there must be many different sorts of community organizations, activities and projects in her town in which she could participate, if she would only get herself out of the house and begin.

Suppose her husband did object, get angry, sulk or whatever. Would that be any worse than those attitudes of his she now faces daily? At least she would have outside friendships and interests to offset the ugliness at home.

I suggest that she tell her husband quietly, once and for all, that she has given great thought to the relationship between them and has come to the conclusion that it does nothing for either of them. She should say that she wishes he would acquire some interests outside the home that would broaden his life, but that if he does not care to do this, then she intends to do it for herself. She should refuse to argue or quarrel with him about her decision, but simply go ahead and carry it out.

So far as I can see, her present circumstances are about as bad as they can be, and to break the vicious circle of monotony and frustratio which now confines her, and step out of it, can bring nothing but good. In other words, she has nothing to lose and everything to gain by showing some initiative and some initiative and some independence. What can possibly prevent her from taking her life into her own hands, and, while attending to her husband's needs so far as is reasonable , giving her own emotional, social and spiritual needs the chance for which they have so long been waiting?

After all, neither marriage nor anything else need be "souldestroying" unless you allow it to be.

Cooking School Review

By Mary Moore

One of the outstanding features of the Brandon Cooking school in my opinion, was the parfait pie: that Marion made.

The parfait part—the filling—may be used as a simple parfait dessert and served chilled and set in tall parfait glasses.

Or you may do what Marion did to perfection—turn the prepared parfait into baked pie shells. This will give you a more substantial but just as cool-looking a dessert.

STRAWBERRY PARFAIT PIE

The Parfait Part—One package lemon gelatin, 1 1-4 cups hot water, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, 1 1-2 cups sliced strawberries (fresh or semi-thawed frozen). Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add ice cream, cut in pieces, stir until melted. Add lemon juice. Chill until thickened but not set, 15 to 20 minutes. Fold in drained berries. Chill until firm, about 20 minutes. Top with whipped cream. Serves 6 to 8.

To Make a Pie: Turn the prepared parfait into a cooled, baked pie shell and chill in refrigerator until firm.

Variations: (1) substitute fresh, or frozen (thawed) blueberries for the strawberries in the recipe above. (2) Use 1 package lime gelatin dessert instead of lemon-flavored and use 1 1-2 cups well-drained or cubed canned pineple instead of strawberries for a Pineapple Parfait Pie.

A recipe that Marion makes to perfection is

FLUFFY LEMON DINNER ROLLS

I was asked by several ladies in the audience to repeat this in the column and am glad to have the space today for it.

Two cakes yeast, 1-2 cup lukewarm water, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup scalded milk, 1-4 cup cold water, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. In saucepan combine milk, sugar, salt, heat to scalding. Add cold water to cool to lukewarm. Blend in the beaten eggs, one at a time. Add grated rind and dissolved yeast. Gradually beat in sifted flour to make a soft dough. Place in greased bowl and cover. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk, 1 1-2 hours. Divide dough into four portions, cut each into 6 or 8 rolls. Coat each lightly with flour. Place on lightly floured baking sheet. Let rise double, 30 to 60 minutes. Bake at 375 deg. for 15 to 20 minutes. Make about 2 1-2 dozen dozen rolls.

NOTE:

(1) Of course the lemon rind may be left out or substituted with orange rind if you wish. (2) If lemon or orange are left out you could add to these fluffy rolls 2 or 4 tablespoons of poppy seeds—which have been soaked for an hour and drained and patted dry—when you would call them Poppy Seed Rolls. A few dry seeds could be sprinkled on top of the rolls before baking.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

BALANCED DIET IMPROVES THE COMPLEXION

Women are staying younger and looking prettier because they are getting a better understanding of basic beauty. We realize that health and vitality are the first requirements if the skin is to have fine texture and coloring, and if it is to be free of wrinkles.

If the skin is sallow, dingy, pale or coarse looking, because of large pores, no cosmetic in the world will disguise these defects. Usually the cause lies in faulty health habits.

Nutrition is of first importance. Women hear about the balanced diet, but few of them know precisely what is meant by the term. It calls for various food elements in proper proportions.

Proteins include lean meat, fish, egg white and cheese. Carbohyrates are found in starch and sugar. Each day a small amout of fat should be consumed in the form of butter, cream or salad dressings.

Breakfast should include fruit or fruit juices, an egg or several slices of bacon for the protein content, bread or toast and a beverage. Many hours have elapsed since dinner the night before and the digestive motors are in need of fuel. A cup of coffee and a slice of toast will not build enough energy for the forenoon activities.

The homemaker errs when she serves a meal that includes several starchy vegetables and pastry for dessert. A green vegetable or a salad should be a part of the menu.

Every child should consume a quart of rich milk a day; every adult a pint. Milk is not just a beverage; it is a food, containing calcium and many other elements necessary for well being.

The woman who goes on freak diets endangers her health While fats, sweets and starches build adipose tissue and should be reduced in quantity, they must not be completely deleted from the diet.

Reducing must progress slowly. To lose a couple of pounds a week may seem slow but it is safer than rapid reducing which may make one weak, worn-out and jittery.

Miniature Bandeau

By TRACY ADRIAN

Girls who like their hair to be seen and admired have been going bare-headed for a long time. This, of course, makes the milliners very unhappy. So, to please these difficult characters, hat designers have gone in for toppers that give the feeling of wearing no hat at all. This one is an example of the little, feminine type that gives an attractive flattery to the most becoming of coiffures. It is a miniature of tiny fruit on a bandeau. Done on a sort of bicycle clip it is very secure and gives a touch of glamor to afternoon and evening dresses.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHO GIVES TIP?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last week my daughter (23) and I were invited to lunch by a charming woman and her daughter (about my daughter's age) whom we had met on a cruise earlier this year. The hostess invited us to lunch with them at a well-known, and very expensive restaurant. I wanted so much to be right about everything. But I guess I wasn't—or at least my husband said I wasn't. I mentioned to him that when our hostess was paying the check to the waiter, I took from my purse what I thought would be the right tip and asked her if I might take care of the. It was obvious that she resented this, as she rather coldly said, "Oh, no please—I'm the hostess today." I murmured an apology, and let it go at that. Was I so much in the wrong as my husband insists I was? — H.G.T.

Yes . . . I'm sorry to have to say you were in the wrong. The tip is a part of the occasion to which you were invited . . . therefore, your hostess pays this as well as the luncheon check. However, don't worry about it, for I'm sure she did not misinterpret your generous gesture.

TO RE-MARRY FORMER HUSBAND

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My former husband and I plan to re-marry next month. The wedding is to be a small, quiet one. Our attendants will be my sister and her husband. I would like to have a small dinner party after the ceremony, to include our attendants of course, and to be given in a restaurant. Some of our friends have said they would like to be at the wedding dinner, and we would like to know if it would be our responsibility to pay the check for the entire group of guests, or just for our attendants and us? We want to keep the expenses at a minimum. — H.S.

If you invite these friends to your wedding dinner, you would, of course, be expected to pay all the expenses of the dinner. Any other plan would be so socially awkward that it would be far the best plan to have the dinner a four-some, you and the groom and your attendants.

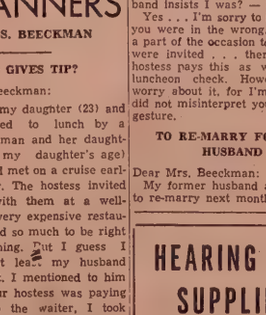
FRIENDS TO MEET HER MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother is coming to visit me for several weeks this summer. She lives in a distant city, and knows none of my friends. What is the correct procedure to get her acquainted with my friends here: to take her to call on them, or to ask them to call on her?—Sue

The graceful way is for you to give a tea for your mother, shortly after her arrival, and invite your friends to come to meet her. Or if you prefer to give a party for both men and women, you might give a Saturday or Sunday buffet luncheon or supper.

WHO INVITES WHOM FIRST?



Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter eloped a few months ago. Please tell me if it would be proper for me to invite her husband's mother and father to dinner first, or should I wait until they ask us. I do want to do the right thing. — M.S.

The right thing, the wise thing, is for someone to make any kind of social move that will bring the families together, will establish the cordial relationship between the two families that is so important. It doesn't make any real difference who invites whom first, and whether the invitation is to dinner or to any other form of get-together.

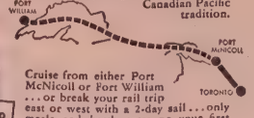
You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN



These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 33

Understand Hindustani?

Language is only one of the difficulties faced by Canadians who buy and sell in foreign markets. Currencies, exchange and trade regulations—payments and collections—market information—locating sales representatives abroad—all call for prompt, efficient handling over long distances.

The chartered banks are an essential part of this whole trade picture. Through their foreign branches, agents and representatives they provide permanent, on-the-spot contact in commercial centres around the world.

Facilitating the flow of international trade is only part of the work carried on every day by the chartered banks of Canada. Your local branch is a convenient banking service-centre where you can obtain expert help on money matters large and small.

Only a chartered bank offers a full range of banking services, including:

CURRENT ACCOUNTS
For individuals and companies who pay by cheque; your cancelled cheques serve as receipts.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES

No Mortgage Worries for New Homeowners

New Plan Will Ensure Mortgage is Paid Off!

Last summer, a young couple bought a home in a quiet suburban area for $15,000. They paid $5,000 down, with a 20 year mortgage for $10,000. As things stand, they should have no trouble paying it off.

The husband is taking no chances. He has a Confederation Life Mortgage Insurance Plan, with a Total Disability Clause. For $8.31 a month Confederation will pay off his mortgage in case of death. If he becomes disabled, the policy remains in force at no cost to him.

Yes, for less than 1% of your initial mortgage, providing you are under 35, you can protect your family from foreclosure at the time of your death.

Features of the Confederation Life Plan

1. This Mortgage Insurance Plan may be purchased on a 15, 20 or 25 year basis.
2. The cost reduces in later years.
3. After the mortgage period you may continue the protection at reduced cost, or receive a cash payment.

Rhonda Fleming In Squabble Over Nudity

By STAN SWINTON

ROME (AP)—A trans-Atlantic squabble over nudity broke out Monday between Hollywood's shapely Rhonda Fleming and Italian movie-makers.

Just back from five months of Italian movie making, she said:

"I play a nude swimming scene myself I didn't worry about it because it was all shot just like we do in Hollywood.

"Everybody was barred from the set. The cameras were hidden behind some trees—at too great a distance to see anything. In fact everybody was so far removed and so proper that I didn't even bother to wear the usual flesh - colored bathing suit."

SOME IMAGINATION

Her director here, Carlo Lodovico Bragaglia, read that and blew up.

"Absolutely false," he said. "There was no such scene in the screenplay nor was one ever filmed. Her statement concerning the placing of movie cameras behind trees is pure fantasy."

A cable has been sent to Hollywood asking Miss Fleming to retract her statements or face legal action, said the director and the producers.

In Hollywood Miss Fleming said her interview with Bacon was a "true one."

The picture—"The Courtesan of Babylon"—stars Rhonda in a series of scant costumes.

But the Italian Film Information Service issued a special release to deny they went as far as a nude scene with the star.

Indian's Death May Be Murder

KENORA (CP)—Inspector T. G. Corsie of the Ontario Provincial Police said Monday night the OPP is investigating an incident near Red Lake, Ont., that may prove to be murder.

Insp. Corsie said James Paishke a treaty Indian, was trapped inside his wooden shack which was destroyed early Monday in a fire in the Cochenour gold mines district five miles from Red Lake, about 90 miles northeast of here.

Two OPP constables, investigating the death and fire, have detained a young Indian for questioning, he said. Apparently the fire was not started accidentally.

It also was believed that a second and older Indian was in the shack at the time of the fire but escaped through a window.

Details Will Be Forwarded To Parliament

BIELEFELD, Germany (Reuters)—Details of brawling and individual attacks on civilians by Canadian troops in the Sennelager area near here are to be sent to the Canadian Parliament, it was announced Monday night.

The regional women's headquarters of the Social Democratic party has built up a dossier which will be forwarded through the party federal executive. The Social Democrats are the main opposition party.

There have been several recent complaints of the behavior of Canadian troops near Sennelager, a large troop training ground.

The worst incident occurred Sunday when one Canadian military policeman and several German policemen were injured in a fight with Canadian soldiers in a beer hall.

The Duesseldorf newspaper Der Mittag says Canadian soldiers are terrorizing German civilians in the Paderborn area "as though this were 1945" and the area "lay east of the Elbe (Russian territory)."

Der Mittag says there had scarcely been a day in the last few weeks in which Canadian soldiers at Sennelager training camp had not "come into public attention in an annoying way."

It says "Girls are attacked and raped, civilians are beaten up, inns are flattened. . . ."

This is unfortunate, the paper says, for Germans had so far had a solid portion of good will for the Canadians.

At Ottawa, an army spokesman said headquarters have asked the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany for information on the reported brawl.

The spokesman said past experience has shown that some German newspapers exaggerate relatively minor incidents, such as barroom fights, accidents involving army vehicles and the like. Other papers were more objective. It was not known just where the newspaper Der Mittag stood.

Liberals Secure Largest Number Of Service Votes

TORONTO (CP)—The Liberals, who won only 10 of Ontario's 98 seats in the June 9 election, got more votes than the victorious Progressive Conservatives from Ontario men on active service with the armed forces.

Roderick Lewis, chief election officer, announced the service vote count today before telegraphing individual constituency results to local returning officers. They do not change results from the election-night count with 38 seats. The CCF sive Conservatives were returned to power with 38 seats. The CCF won three, Liberal-Labor one and Independent Progressive Conservative one.

The figures show that the service men, stationed in camps in Canada, the United Kingdom and Europe, cast 4,681 votes. The Liberals got 2,231, 48 per cent; Progressive Conservatives 2,150, 46 per cent; CCF 257, five per cent; others 43 one per cent.

The civilian vote percentages were: Progressive Conservative, 48; Liberal, 33; CCF, 17; others, 2.

Man-Mangling Muskie Again Up to Old Tricks

NORTH BAY (CP) — Mike, the man-mangling muskie, is up to his old tricks at Trout lake, just outside North Bay.

Latest victim, and first reported this year, is 15-year-old Bruce Marshall, who suffered a cut to his little toe and his ankle and a torn rubber "flipper."

The encounter occurred off the dock at the harbor while Bruce was trying to beat the weekend heat.

"I thought it was one of the other kids trying to pull my foot," Bruce told bystanders. "But when he came back the second time, I got out of there quick."

ONLY ONE BAIT

Mike usually makes his headquarters at another dock several hundred feet away. Lounging beneath the shade of the dock during the hot summer months, he is often visible to sightseers and frustrated anglers.

During the last four years, Mike has nipped several unwary swimmers who have invaded his domain.

The only bait he will rise to is live human toes.

Twelve Practice Rockets Cause Heavy Damage

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A parked U.S. Air Force jet fighter plane suddenly began spewing rockets Monday, and shot up the Portland air base.

No injuries were reported, but damage was estimated by the air force at $2,000,000.

Twelve practice rockets flew over the area, destroying two other jet fighters, damaging two more planes and hitting a house a mile away from the base.

An air force spokesman said the 3½-foot-long rockets had no war heads, but two of them hit F-89 jets in the fuel tanks, causing fires that destroyed the two planes. Another rocket ripped through a C-46 transport with minor damage resulting.

Skin Specialist Takes Doctors To Task

TORONTO (CP)—A British skin specialist today took doctors to task for making life unpleasant for young patients.

Dr. R.B.M. MacKenna of London said in a paper presented to the joint annual meeting of the British, Canadian and Ontario medical associations that some treatments and attitudes concerning skin disease have become outmoded.

"It is the common mistake of doctors, when dealing with adolescents suffering from acne vulgaris, to burden them with too much advice.

"To a boy or girl of 16 it is sufficiently devastating to find that chocolate and ice-cream are forbidden, without having to carry away a long diet sheet which takes half an hour to memorize, and which seems to cut out half the pleasures of life."

Dr. MacKenna urged doctors to make treatment of exposed areas of the body, particularly the face, as pleasant as possible.

"Skin patients," he said, "are often depressed and embarrased and to give them a solution which is disfiguring only adds to their burden."

COLD VIRUS ELUSIVE

The cold, most common ailment of all, came in for attention, but doctors reported they are no nearer isolating the virus which causes it.

Professor R. Cruikshank of London, England, one of 3,000 medical delegates assembled here, said a new study of the common cold shows that young children contract the virus twice as often as adults.

Professor Cruikshank said the best means of avoiding cold is still to maintain an even temperature, but it is no sure safeguard. Observation of human guinea-pigs who volunteered to catch cold showed they did so even under warm, favorable conditions.

Hitler 'Threw Away' Chance To Beat Britain--Von Manstein

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Field Marshal Erich von Manstein, mastermind of the Nazi blitzkrieg against France, says Adolf Hitler "threw away" his big chance to defeat Britain in 1940.

He also says Hitler admitted to his leaders he was solely responsible for the German debacle at Stalingrad.

Von Manstein, top wehrmacht strategist in the Second World War, sets forth his views in his memoirs, "Verlorene Siege" (Lost Victories), published by Athenaeum Verlag of Bonn.

Von Manstein's 18-year prison sentence, imposed by a British war-crimes court in 1949, later was reduced to 12 years. In 1953 he was freed after undergoing an eye operation. His book makes no comment on his imprisonment.

He says it took four months for Hitler to abandon an earlier plan and agree to von Manstein's blitzkrieg blueprint, devised in 1939 when he was a chief of staff under the late Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt.

DUNKERQUE ERROR DECISIVE

Von Manstein based his blitzkrieg on a rapid and surprise tank attack through the Ardennes, where terrain was considered unsuitable for such a manoeuvre.

Victory was achieved in six weeks. Von Manstein returned from his post in east Germany as 38th Corps commander to take part in the cleanup operation.

He says Hitler made a "decisive mistake" in the escape of the British at Dunkerque.

"This stopped him from risking an invasion of Britain and eventually permitted them to stage their African and Italian campaigns."

Von Rundstedt once told him, von Manstein says, that Hitler confided he had let the British escape at Dunkerque to reach easy terms with them.

WEAKNESS NOT EXPLOITED

After the victory in France no over-all war plan existed, von Manstein continues. "Thus we were forced to throw away our best opportunity to exploit Britain's weakness . . .

"There is no doubt Hitler always wanted to avoid fighting Britain. He often said destruction of the British Empire would not be in the interests of the German Reich. He did not want to land in England."

Von Manstein comments the Russians were unprepared for Germany's sudden push across their frontier, and "not poised for immediate attack."

Hitler ordered German troops to stand at Stalingrad at any cost in 1943. When he ignored a request by von Manstein that the 6th army be allowed to withdraw the field marshal himself gave the order.

Col.-Gen. Fredrich Paulus, commander of the 6th, faced contradictory orders. He chose Hitler's, Manstein says he thus lost his last chance of escape.

"I am alone responsible for Stalingrad," Hitler told his army leaders afterwards, von Manstein says.

EMERGENCY AMPUTATION

CARDIFF, Wales (Reuters)—A surgeon amputated a man's arm here Friday night as he balanced on a plank above a 50-foot drop. The trapped workman, Richard Jones, 32, was working on an elevator when some chains slipped and his left arm was crushed between two girders. After the operation Jones was lowered down a ladder.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster attended the 10th anniversary of Bowerman's Church on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Theodore Foster and Miss Norma Foster, Mr. and Mrs. B. Foster and Darlene were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. George Foster, Moira.

Mr. and Mrs. William McGee were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Beuford, Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stone were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Jandrew and Brenda, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Baxter, Lindley and Jean, accompanied by Mrs. Scott, of Foxboro, motored to Toronto on Sunday and visited an aunt at the hospital and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baxter and family, Newmarket.

GYPSIES IN CLASH

ANGOULEME, France (CP)—Two men were wounded when a tribe of gypsies, armed with revolvers and knives, raided a rival clan near here, police reported Friday. The first tribe after a violent argument marched on the camp of their rivals, dragged their children from bed, then fired revolvers at their parents.

CROLL CHARGES

Mr. Drew suggested limited legislative action this session to set up the defence production department on a permanent basis, postponing to next session the question of the powers held by the minister.

POLITICAL ATTACK

Mr. Croll said the Conservative opposition is "a bold, calculated political attack" on Mr. Howe in which Conservatives hope "to gain their greatest victory and at the same time to bring upon us our most inglorious retreat."

"Their purpose is to divide the cabinet and to isolate the minister" he said.

The powers had to be continued to meet a situation which could arise suddenly at any time. It would not be enough to let them lapse and then call on Parliament for a renewal if a crisis developed.

"We don't need a Pearl Harbor to prove a point."

Mr. Croll said Mr. Howe has held wide powers since 1949 to direct procurement of defence supplies. No member had claimed he had abused them.

"The truth is that power opens to him the doors of opportunity for public service and he has taken advantage of it."

J. W. Murphy (PC — Lambton West), replying to Mr. Croll's charge that the Opposition is seeking to divide the cabinet, said the cabinet is "frozen in futility and divided in disunity."

ISSUES CHALLENGE

He challenged the government to call an election on the issue.

W. M. Howe (PC—Wellington-Huron) said the measure is an affront to personal freedoms, including freedom from arbitrary controls.

John A. Charlton (PC — Brant-Haldimand) said the powers could be used to destroy advantages gained by Canadian farmers in the last 50 years. Farmers could be told what to grow and what price they could obtain. Even their farms could be expropriated.

George McIlraith (L — Ottawa West), former parliamentary assistant to Mr. Howe, said the long-term nature of many defence projects—warships, radar, aircraft—requires continuing powers. There were statutory limits on exercise of the powers and provisions for legal recourse to individuals who felt themselves harmed.

JAILED FOR SPYING

ANKARA, Turkey (Reuters)—A military court has sentenced Kemal Kavetli, a Bulgarian emigrant, to 12½ years' imprisonment on espionage charges. He was arrested attempting to enter Bulgaria from Turkey with plans of the defence of Thrace.

REPORT FOOD POISONING

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Twelve persons were taken to hospital here Sunday night after numerous cases of food-poisoning were reported among pilgrims following a picnic lunch. The victims had been among a group of 99 pilgrims from Levis, Que., travelling to a monastry at Saint-Benoit-du-Lac, 30 miles north of here.

CUTE, WHAT?

It would appear, if one can believe reports from south of the border that one, Archie Moore, who balances the world light heavyweight crown on his dusky pate, is not only a champion boxer but aspires to become one of the world's best leg-pullers.

And if the reports are true, Mr. Bobo Olson's nether extremities are about two feet longer than should be if the dastardly trick played on him by the crafty Moore had a physical effect.

It seems Mr. Moore inveigled Mr. Olson into thinking that he, "Moore," would be a rattling ghost of a boxer, shrunk to an awful size through efforts to make the 175-pound mark. It also seems that Archie did not weigh an upholstered 198 when he met Nino Valdes early in the year —but he rattled into the ring with a bone-shaking 186.

Behind all this skullduggery, the reports state, is that master craftsman, Jack "Doc" Kearns, one-time manager of Jack Dempsey. Mr. Kearns, who never elevates his probiscis when offered three barrels of flour for a biscuit, seemingly has pulled another fast one.

If such is the case and with Moore's ability to shed pounds-age as easy as the proverbial duck does water, Mr. Olson is in for a big surprise. Moore can drop eleven pounds and never miss it. Mr. Olson's legs will be considerably longer when he steps into the ring with Moore tomorrow night.

As one writer puts it, "The new version, if true, alters the picture radically, and it probably is significant that the odds against Olson lengthened immediately after the story got around that Kearns had his foot on the scales. If Archie really pulled only 186 pounds for Valdes, then all the recent literature about his horrible sweating-off ordeal at his training camp is so much balderdash."

Olson will probably weigh in at around 170 and will find himself up against a fighting fury who is gambling a lucrative future on this fight. If Olson whips Moore, Archie can hang them up as far as a bout with Rocky Marciano is concerned. If he wins, as is the general sports consensus, the path to a bout with the heavyweight king is more or less clear. There "jest aint nobody else around."

SOFTBALL

Ontario Amateur Softball Association Frank Feaver bulletins that 1955 affiliations from local associations are now being received by his office. Requests for affiliations must state names of officers, classifications desired, population and names of teams.

Feaver reminds all clubs that players' certificates must be in the OASA office not later than July 15th. No player or team may play with or against unaffiliated players or teams without permission from the OASA.

He urges all and sundry to watch the residence rule. This requires continuous residence from March 15 to July 16 except in very special cases.

The OASA championship will be operated on a home-and-home basis with local association winners, commencing August 15. In the bantam and peewee series, tournaments will be held in central locations for zone winners. In other series, the home-and-home games will apply unless the distance is too great and finals or semi-finals may be scheduled at one site. All intermediate series winners must be declared by August 15.

BASEBALL

Allan Kelleher's Haggis Juniors baseball team take on some strange opposition here Thursday night starting 6.30 at the Fair Grounds. The Kingston Giants, current leaders of the Limestone City Baseball League, will be on hand for an exhibition tilt. There will be one familiar face in the Giants' line-up, that of Tony Petitti, first string catcher of the Belleville Batas last season. Tony is riding high down thataway and is hitting the ball at a .450 clip.

WRESTLING

They're bringing 'em back in twosomes, foursomes and sixsomes. Friday night those Terrible Texans are back with more skullduggery while matching them will again be that pair of rasslin' royalties, Prince Malava of Samoa and Lord Athol Layton. The judge and jury will be Bert Maxwell and Billy Stack, who failed to agree on a decision last week.

Gad, men, the Prince and the British blueblood were put out no end, take that as you like, in no uncertain manner after last week's award to Lou Plummer and Dick Raines, those Texas Terrors. Layton threatens dire revenge come Friday and the Prince echoes "Yakka dula hickey dula," which in Samoan means "you can say that again, bub."

The tightrope antics of the Prince and the solid buffeting of the Lord have made quite a hit with Belleville fandom and a large crowd will likely see 'em give the come-uppance on Friday night. But they're tough and rugged, these Texans, and it should be quite a battle.

Milwaukee Braves Nudging Second-Place Chicago Cubs; Giants, Redlegs Close Behind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Leo Durocher may have diagnosed the whole National League pennant race when he explained why he benched Willie Mays, the darling of the New York Giants a year ago.

"Confused," is the way Leo pegged Willie's trouble. And if that doesn't describe the way the National League is behaving, it'll do until something better comes along.

This was supposed to be one of those "dream" races, with everybody getting into the act. Trouble is, the Brooklyn Dodgers rocketed away out front and have shown no signs of faltering.

Once you forget about the Dodgers, 11 games in front, the race is pretty tight. The second-place Cubs are just 2. games up on Milwaukee. The Giants are another two games back and two games ahead of fifth place Cincinnati. Philadelphia and St. Louis are in a virtual tie for sixth another game back.

WINS NINTH

Milwaukee moved up on the Cubs as Gene Conley won his ninth decision Monday night, 2-1 over Pittsburgh Cincinnati, meanwhile, made it five straight defeats for the Mays-less Giants 5-3, and St. Louis topped Philadelphia 4-1 with rookie Luis Arroyo winning his eighth.

Brooklyn and the Cubs were idle. So was the entire American League.

The Braves made it four straight behind Conley's four - hitter, although getting just four hits themselves off loser Vern Law and Bob Putkey. Billy Bruton singled and stole second to score on Johnny Logan's double in the fourth inning then got all the way to third on an error in the sixth to score the other run on Logan's sacrifice fly.

ONE EARNED RUN

Only one of the runs scored at St. Louis was earned. It came in the first for the Cards, who put away the game with three tainted tallies in the fourth. Arroyo, beaten only twice, dropped his earned run average to 1.91 and batted in two runs with a single after becoming the father of a baby boy earlier in the day.

Both clubs had seven hits—the Cards got theirs from loser Murry Dickson and Ron Mrozinski—but none went for extra bases.

Hearn contributed a run-scoring throwing error as the Redlegs got four singles and a double by Stan Palys in the frame.

Art Fowler went the route for the first time this season, winning his second. Dusty Rhodes and pinch-hitter Bill Taylor scored New York's runs with homers.

Leafs, Royals Ready For 3-Game Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings have a golden opportunity to move into first place in the International League pennant race in the next few days.

The front-running Toronto Maple Leafs and runner - up Montreal Royals open a three-game series tonight, while the third - place Cubans are in the midst of a four-game set with the Syracuse Chiefs.

Havana moved to within a game of the idle leaders Monday night by edging past the last-place Chiefs 2-0. If the Sugar Kings can sweep the series with Syracuse, while Toronto drops two of three to the Royals, they can take over the lead. And just about anything can happen when the first two teams tangle.

In the only other game Monday night, Buffalo Bisons defeated Rochester Red Wings 6-2. The contest between the Richmond Virginians and Columbus Jets was postponed by rain.

The Cubans made speed pay off as Julian Ladera and Pat Scantlebury combined to yield four hits to the Chiefs. Havana got its first run in the sixth. Pompeyo Davalillo opened the inning by stretching a single into a double and scored on two outfield flies.

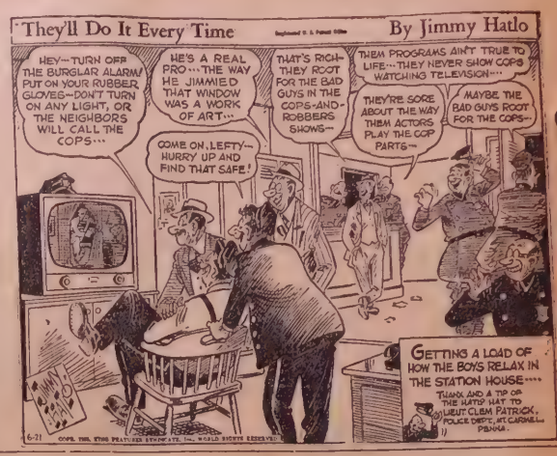
The Sugar Kings added the clincher in the ninth, when Clint Hartung and Ray Noble opened the inning with singles. Pinch-hitter Pedero Formental walked to load the bases and Johnny Lipon laid down a neat squeeze bunt to send in the run.

The Bisons took advantage of seven walks and three hit batsmen to take their second victory from the Red Wings in nine decisions. Dick Marlowe went the distance for his third victory against two setbacks. A two-run homer by Tom Burgess in the ninth deprived Marlowe of a shut out.

Bruise-Proof Athletes Seen In Future

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—You can no longer spot a fighter or football player by the bruises or black eye he sports, says Dr. A. Lee Lichtman of New York.

Describing his work with Madison Square Garden boxers, Dr. Lichtman said Monday athletes fortified with citrus fruit substances bruise far less frequently.



Furthermore, bruises which once would have been sore (as well as eyesores) for weeks can be reduced much more quickly now by injection of the enzyme trypsin.

"We see bruises that would ordinarily be painful for 10 days subside almost overnight," Dr. Lichtman told the National Athletic Trainers' Association.

CANADIANA THIRD

NEW YORK (CP) — E. P. Taylor's Canadiana, winner of the 1953 Queen's Plate in Toronto, placed third Monday in the $29,350 Distaff Handicap at Aqueduct race track.

Winner of the seven-furlong race was Oil Painting, by 1½ lengths over God Child, which beat Canadiana by a neck for the place.

Leading Gals Score One-Over-Par In Qualifying Round Ladies Open

BURLINGTON (CP)—Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., and Shirley Woodley of Toronto fired one-over-par 75s Monday to lead a field of 130 golfers in the qualifying round of the Ontario Ladies 40th annual golf championship. Sixteen qualified and start match play today.

Miss Milligan, Alberta's ladies champion who last week carded a record-breaking 71 over the Burlington Golf Club in a tuneup round, was two over par on the first nine, but birdied the 17th hole for a one-under par coming home.

Miss Woodley, of the Toronto Ladies Golf Club, scored even par 38 going out and was one over at 37 on the final nine.

The pace-setting score of 75 was second lowest qualifying round in the history of the tournament. Anne Sharpe of Lookout Point, defending champion, carded a 73 at Thornhill two years ago and went on to win the tournament.

Monday Miss Sharpe turned in a 38-39 for 77 and third place.

MARLENE QUALIFIES

Although 16 players were eligible to qualify, it took a score of 83 or better to advance into match play. Marlene Stewart of Lookout Point showed the effects of playing in the three-day Triangle round-robin in the United States, fired a 39-41 for an 80 and eighth place.

Miss Stewart, who arrived here Sunday afternoon from Grossingers, N.Y., played a practice round of 18 holes Sunday night. Only one of the five previous provincial winners, Mrs. C. H. Shuttleworth of Hamilton Glendale, failed to qualify. Mrs. Shuttleworth had an 87, 43 on the first nine and 44 on the second.

Bernice Smith of Lookout Point ballooned to a 93 and was far down on the list. Former champions who will enter match play are Miss Stewart, Miss Sharpe, Mary Gay of Kitchener and Ada Mackenzie of Toronto.

Qualifiers included:

Shirley Woodley, Toronto	38-37—75
Rae Milligan, Jasper Pk	40-35—75
Anne Sharp, Lookout Pt.	38-39—77
Mary Gay, Kitchener	37-41—78

SURGERY FOR BAB)?

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Doctors at John Sealy Hospital said Monday night surgery is being considered for golf star Babe Zaharias, in hospital with a ruptured disc in her spine.

They emphasized her present condition has nothing to do with a cancerous condition for which she underwent surgery in 1953.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Eighteen years ago this week — on June 22, 1937—Joe Louis knocked out the "Cinderella Man" James J. Braddock in the eighth round at Chicago and took the world heavyweight title.

Louis was a grand champion. He had a 12-year reign until he abandoned the title in 1949, and then followed the tradition set by Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, and other greats of the heavyweight division. He failed in a comeback attempt.

But his victory over the veteran Braddock who, apparently at the end of a spotty career, came off the relief rolls to beat Laughing Boy Max Baer for the title, hardly gave Joe his greatest ring thrill.

Of all the men Louis met in the ring he had hatred for only one: Max Schmeling. He hated him not because the German had knocked him out, but because of the things Schmeling told reporters after the fight. The Black Uhlan claimed his victory was the natural triumph of a superior race. He would beat Louis again and again. Louis, Schmeling claimed, lacked courage as well as intelligence. He was a foul fighter. (Schmeling is the only man who ever accused Louis of being a foul fighter).

Louis nursed his anger for two years, then finally vented it in a bout never equalled for ferocity and savagery. Louis landed 54 punches on Schmeling in the space of two minutes.

As Louis stalked in, a tiger ready for the kill, the best the plainly-frightened Schmeling could do to protect himself was to lean his head and shoulders outside the ropes. Louis, having no other target for a right hand that thudded and battered, pounded it to Max' side and back, until he screamed in a high pitched voice, "Genug! Genug! Genug!"

It was then that a white-faced Max Machen, Schmeling's trainer, threw in the towel that referee Arthur Donnovan picked up to throw out of the ring.

Schmeling was taken from his dressing room to a hospital. It was three weeks before he was able to leave. And that was the battle, we think, that gave Joe Louis his greatest thrill.

Kesselring To Play In Ontario Open

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener golfing product now on the United States tournament trail, will play in the Ontario Open championship at Kingston this Friday and Saturday, June 24 and 25.

Harold Banks, manager of the Ontario Golf Association, announced Monday he has received an entry from Kesselring, one of the qualifiers for the final round of the U.S Open last week.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, defending champion, also will be on hand. Like Kesselring, he has been playing in U.S. tournaments.

The Open at the Cataraqui Club is a 54-hole event with 18 holes Friday and 36 Saturday. Results will also determine makeup of the Ontario team for the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches.

SOMETHING SNAPPED

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP)—When John Justice, 18-year-old semi-pro baseball pitcher, delivered his first throw to the plate in a game here Sunday a snapping noise was heard around the diamond.

"I felt like lightning had hit me," Justice said.

Examination disclosed he had broken his arm—a clean break midway between the shoulder and elbow.

A Chance For Olson, Moore At Heavyweight Title Looms; But Winner Must Look Good

NEW YORK (AP) — Anybody want a slightly used light heavyweight crown?

Archie Moore owns it and middleweight champion Bobo Olson is challenging for it Wednesday night.

But nobody really wants it.

Ancient Archie, spry at 38, wants to fight Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight title in September. Olson talks of (1) Marciano (2) middleweights.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, tossed a little wood on the fire Monday when he discussed Marciano's September plans.

IT ALL DEPENDS

"I will talk with Al Weill (Marciano's manager) after the fight," he said. "A Moore match would be very desirable if he wins. But it all depends on how he wins it.

"If Olson should win and look real good. I'd like to match him with Marciano. I never talked to Weill about that match but I have talked to Sid Flaherty (Olson's manager)."

Moore eats, drinks and sleeps Marciano as he goes through his final training for his 15-round defence against Olson at the Polo Grounds. He carried on a winter-long campaign to convince fans and sports writers that he deserved the shot. When Don Cockell was given the chance, Archie picked up a little change beating Nino Valdes, the No. 1 heavy contender, and signed for Olson. But Rocky is what he wants.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Millionaire steamship tycoon Blaise d'Antoni Monday made identical $150,000 offers to light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and middleweight king Carl (Bobo) Olson to meet the winner of the Joey Maxim-Willie Pastrano fight in a New Orleans match.

Moore and Olson clash in New York's Polo Grounds Wednesday night for the light heavyweight crown while Maxim, the former light heavyweight ruler, takes on the up and coming Pastrano in a 10-rounder here June 28.

Louisiana Boxing Enterprises, of which d'Antoni is the chairman, wants to match the winners in a New Orleans bout later this summer. In event Olson loses to Moore, he would be offered $125,000 to defend his middleweight title against Pastrano, provided Willie whips Maxim.

Jack Kearns, Maxim's manager, predicted any of the three possible bouts would draw a $350,000 gate in New Orleans.

5. If you disregard any of the fundamentals of a good golf swing, you must try to compensate somewhere during the swing to correct the fault. That's hard to do. You set up more chances for error in making the stroke yield the distance and accuracy which should be yours. The player who sways his head and therefore his body forward, as pictured, as he swings his arms back, must sway his head and body backward when he swings forward and down. This gives his swing a loose-moving top anchor. Picture the error of head and body swing shown by the dotted line. Now fix your eyes on the solid outline figure and mentally copy that swing action. Do it the right way and you will stop practicing your errors.

15 DIE, SUSPECT ARSON

TOKYO (AP)—Eighteen mental patients, locked in wards, died today in an early morning fire that swept four wings of a private psychiatric hospital at Ichikawa City, 20 miles east of Tokyo. Eight other inmates are missing. Police estimated the damage at about $250,000. They said they suspect arson.

"Miss Supertest" Entered In Detroit Race

DETROIT (CP)—Gordon Thompson of London, Ont., owner of Canada's newest and fastest racing boat threat, said Monday he plans to enter Miss Supertest in the Detroit Memorial regatta this Saturday.

His Rolls Royce-powered speedster leaped into racing prominence in its first competition during the weekend in the Maple Leaf regatta at Windsor when it set a heat record of 89.427 miles an hour over the S-shaped 15-mile course.

Miss Supertest finished the Maple Leaf in second place behind Miss Cadillac, owned by Bud Salle of Detroit. Supertest limped home last in the second of the three heats when water soaked its electrical system. The boat won the third heat, but its loss in the second cost it the race.

SEE WORLD CHALLENGE

Speedboat authorities who watched Miss Supertest run in the Maple Leaf say it is fast enough to challenge for both the Gold Cup, emblematic of North America's speedboat championship, and the Harmsworth Trophy, the world title. Both these trophies are now held by the Slo-Mo-Shun fleet, owned by Stanley Sayres of Seattle.

Supertest has the acceleration to jump out of the turns and the straight-away speed to get the lead and hold it, one viewer said.

Thompson said he hasn't given any thought yet to sending Supertest to Seattle to challenge for the Gold Cup. He says, however, he would like to take a try for the Harmsworth in 1956. The last Harmsworth race was run in 1950.

Shellettes Win Over Brighton By 7-4 Score

The Osterhout Shellettes stretched their unbeaten string in the Belleville District Ladies' Softball League to five last night defeating the Brighton Ladies by a 7-4 score on their own diamond.

Linda Wagg turned in another fine mound performance for the Shellettes holding the opposition to three hits, one a homer, while her mates were pounding out 13 safeties including two home runs behind her. She struck out three, walked two and rapped out three singles to aid her own cause.

Donna Hill went the route for Brighton, wilting under three and walking one. She hit a home run while Beth Bonisteel and Carol Vansickle got the other two Brighton hits, both singles.

The Shellettes took a two run lead in the first innings, added singles in the fourth and sixth and tucked the game away in the 7th with a three-run rally Brighton scored their first run in the third and added three in the sixth.

Besides Wagg's three singles, Shirley Parks and Caroline Baker each hit homers; Rita Harder had a triple and single and Helen Reeves came through with a double and single.

The Shellettes meet the Belleville General Hospital in a league game at the Alemite Field Wednesday night starting 6.30.

While the bent-leg slide isn't used as often as the hook or "fall away," some of the best base runners in baseball use it frequently. Jackie Jensen, one of the most effective base stealers in the majors is expert at the bent-leg slide, and George Stirnweiss used it often when he was setting the base-stealing pace for the New York Yankees.

If the ball reaches the base before the runner, naturally he will have a better chance of avoiding the tag with another type of slide. But the bent-leg slide is particularly valuable in case of a force play. It gives runners a chance for a quick recovery and an opportunity to take another base if there is a fumble or bad throw.

Don Hoak of the Dodgers is young in baseball years, but he is one of the most versatile sliders in the game. He watches the tagger as he nears the base. If the tagger's actions indicate that the throw is wild or late, Hoak uses the bent-leg slide, which enables him to come up immediately and be off running for the next base. If the throw arrives ahead of him, he will hook slide away from the tag.

All's Well In Aussie Tennis Camp After Wedding Caused "Explosion"

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Australia's sports fans have undergone two shocks in recent days. First, one of their captive tennis heroes, Lew Hoad, upped and got married in England without obtaining permission from Sir Norman Brookes, president of the Australian Tennis Association. Then Harry Hopman, Hoad's Davis Cup captain, talked back to Sir Norman.

In Australia, where tennis is a sort of national mania and Sir Norman is a shade more important than the prime minister, the news must have caused many a breakfast to grow cold.

Hoad tossed the egg into the fan when he married his fiancee of some time, pretty Jennifer Staley, one of the Aussies' best young women players. We imagine this to have been the first time in his 20 years that he ever did anything on impulse. Hoad has been a full-time tennis-playing employee of a sports equipment firm since he was 14.

Even then, Hoad didn't quite go overboard. He let Hopman in on his plans. Hopman, in turn, wired news of the impending nuptials to Don Ferguson, vice-president of the Australian Tennis Association, but did not think it necessary to inform Brooks.

Sir Norman, 78, complained that there was an association law against such marriages in transit and that, anyway, he should have been asked.

Hopman, like everyone else in his country who depends upon tennis for civic prominence and a fast buck, has long genuflected to Brookes at every opportunity. But this time he snapped back to the effect that if Sir Norman had known what he was talking about he would not have popped off.

We waited for the explosion in Melbourne. The least we expected was a blast from Brookes relieving Hopman of his Davis Cup command.

Instead the cables said the Australian association had decided to congratulate Hoad and his bride.

We got in touch with one of our leading tennis lights and asked if he had heard anything lately which might explain Hopman's apparent affront to the Aussies' almost legendary net dictator and the dictator's failure to have Harry's head.

"Probably," he said, "it's because Sir Norman already has notified them he is retiring on June 30."

He added that his likely successor is Ferguson, the man Hopman told about the wedding.

Hush-Hush Probe Centre Of Track Inquiry

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Five aides of George P. Monaghan, state harness racing commissioner, Monday joined district attorney John M. Liddy in a hush-hush inquiry revolving around Vernon Downs.

The task force from Monaghan's office, headed by deputy commissioner Michael M. Monz, sat in as the Oneida county prosecutor questioned two drivers suspended last week.

Liddy said he was trying to determine whether there was any basis for criminal prosecution. He did not say who might be prosecuted or what the charges might be.

The drivers are William Harvey of Norwich, Ont., and Louis Rapone of Caledonia. Police would not talk and the reinsmen declined to give details of their session with Liddy. Harvey said a state trooper had instructed him not to discuss proceedings with reporters.

The harness drivers said last week that he had done nothing wrong and never had been asked to do anything wrong.

Pitching—Luis Arroyo, Cardinals kept seven singles scattered to win his eighth decision and lowered his earned run average to 1.91 as the only run Philadelphia scored was unearned in a 4-1 St. Louis victory.

Hitting—Johnny Logan, Braves, drove home both Milwaukee runs with a double and sacrifice fly in 2-1 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Doris Hart Opens Bid For Tennis Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., the sentimental favorite with British fans, opened her bid today to win the Wimbledon women's tennis crown in what she says will be her last appearance in this famed old tournament.

Except for a few men's doubles matches, the girls were involved in all the action in the second day of the two-week grind.

Miss Hart won the title here in 1951 and is just about as well-known on British courts as she is in the United States. She is the favorite of the spectators as well as being No. 1 seed now that Maureen Connolly has quit the tournament circuit.

Miss Connolly—now Mrs. Norman Brinker—is on the scene, but she's following the action from the press box. She won the title the last three years.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

Duke Snider Hitting At .698 Clip

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn's Duke Snider, seeking to regain the National League slugging championship he lost to Willie Mays of the New York Giants last season, led the circuit in slugging today with a sizzling .698 average.

Snider has banged out 162 total bases in 232 official at bats. The Dodgers' centre fielder has collected 74 hits, including 15 doubles, two triples and 23 homers. His home run total tops the majors.

Al Kaline, Detroit's sensational sophomore, is the American League pace-setter with a slugging mark of .603. He numbers nine doubles, five triples and 11 homers among his 88 safeties for 140 total bases.

Studney Extends Unbeaten Record

TORONTO (CP) —Walter Studney, a Toronto middleweight, stretched his unbeaten record to 11 bouts Monday night when he knocked out Sudbury's Johnny Loftus in a main bout on an amateur boxing card here.

Studney flattened Loftus at 1:53 of the second round of their scheduled five-rounder. It was the ninth knockout in 11 scraps for Studney, a 165-pounder.

In another main-eventer, George Ferenczi of Toronto won a split decision over Jorma Ahopelto of Sudbury in five rounds.

Other results:

147 pounds—Pat Campbell of Guelph scored a technical knockout over Al Most of Toronto at 1:56 of fourth round of scheduled five-rounder.

135 pounds—Alex Leck of Sudbury gained a split decision over Paul Lengyel of Toronto in three rounds.

Down With Death Says Paper On Motor Racing

ROME (AP) — "Down with Death," said a sports page editorial on motor racing in Giornale d'Italia Monday.

Three motorcycle racers were killed in Sunday's Milan-Taranto race, only a few days after the bloody Le Mans disaster.

"What purpose do races serve anymore?" it asked, citing the new deaths. It said the continuing toll from auto and motorcycle racing must rest heavily on the consciences of the auto industry, the governments which permit racing and on those involved in the races.

SHELL

Why only TCP gets the full power from High Octane Gasoline

You might expect that all you need to get the full power out of a high compression engine is high octane gasoline. Actually you need more than just high octane—you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

That's because the way most of us drive most of the time—short trips here and there—creates a power-wasting problem that neither engine design nor highest octane gasoline can solve by themselves.

This problem is the increased build-up of certain deposits within the combustion chambers... the principal cause of power waste.

What happens is this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time... before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there's an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

SHELL

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

FOUND SCOTT'S BODY

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Frederick John Hooper, Antarctic explorer who found the body of Capt. Scott near the South Pole, died Monday at his home here. He was 64. Hooper sailed around the world three times before joining Captain Scott's last expedition in 1912, at the age of 18. When Scott failed to return from an advance exploratory trip, Hooper went out with a search party and unearthed Scott's last camp.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A beautiful defence bid is a takeout double. It reflects the kind of hand that contains five tricks, four high cards, two sures. It is as good as an opening one bid. It looks good.

A handsomer defence bid is a jump overcall. It sounds better. It looks better, in a long and strong sort of way. It shows a hand with a reliable trump suit and eight tricks.

The takeout doubler expects to hear a bid from a partner who may not be strong enough to make a free bid. It is prepared for a forced bid from partner. It feels good. It is good.

Since it has a long suit the jump overcall must have some short suits. With eight tricks it must have plenty of shorts or high cards. So, it shows suit length, short suits, strength.

The very nature of the expectations of a takeout double tells you it is an unbalanced hand.

Of course, the takeout doubler could have six or seven tricks to make it less balanced. And the jump overcall could have more in strength than shortage to make it less unbalanced.

In suit length or tricks the double might lap into the territory of the jump overcall. But where both suit length and tricks overlap into the higher field, it becomes a jump overcall.

Grab a handful of cards like these:

WEST
♠ Q 8 7 6
♥ A K Q 9 5
♦ 8
♣ K J 4

South opens with a bid of one diamond. Your west hand has the kind of a suit it takes for a jump overcall. But it contains only seven tricks; not quite enough for a true jump overcall.

The high cards and sure tricks are enough for a takeout double. So, it is not a jump overcall of two hearts. It is a double for takeout. You can jump overcall if you like. But will partner like?

RETURN JAPANESE BELL

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A Japanese temple bell, hung in the Pasadena city hall after United States sailors "liberated" it in 1946, is going back to its homeland as a goodwill gesture. The 700-pound bell was taken from the 1,120-year-old Gochizan Soji temple at Tokyo by Buddhist priests who donated it to the war effort. Sailors found it in a Japanese shipyard after VJ-Day and took it to Pasadena. Now it goes back to the temple.

Vaughn Monroe Likes Role Of Commercial Announcer

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Vaughn Monroe, who returns to the air as a singer in a few weeks, has just completed his first season as a commercial announcer, and likes the role.

Vaughn takes the view that commercials can be entertaining—sometimes as much so as the show they accompany. His sales pitches for his sponsor on the NBC color spectaculars and the Sid Caesar show have been off-beat and whimsical, in contrast to what the trade calls the hard sell.

"To me they are the kind that are effective," he says. "My feeling is that viewers resent the high-pressure commercial."

His new musical show, starting July 19, will be a twice-weekly program that will be Dinah Shore's summer substitute.

Vaughn's telecasting role as a commercial announcer has been in sharp contrast to most of his career spent as band leader and baritone soloist. He conducted one of the best-known dance bands for 13 years and disbanded it in 1953 because the tours interfered with his radio-TV, phonograph record, motion picture and other activities.

The deep voiced 43-year-old Monroe was a radio regular for several years and had a TV musical show four seasons ago. He believes he may have been ahead of the times a little with this show, but says music is coming into its own on TV now.

Paddy Chayefsky's play, "The Catered Affair," received some critical reviews when it was presented on NBC-TV's Television Playhouse recently. But he should worry. Several movie companies bid for it, and he accepted the top offer of $50,000 from MGM. He previously had sold his TV play "Marty" for a movie that since has received wide critical acclaim.

It will be Roy Rogers in the finals of his rodeo at San Antonio, Tex., tonight in the NBC-TV time in which Milton Berle, Martha Ray and Bob Hope usually take turns.

Dick Haymes Opening 3-Week Singing Date For $15,000 Per

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week Dick Haymes begins the task of picking up the pieces of his career.

During the last two years he has been largely inactive professionally for reasons that are well known. Now the Argentine - born crooner has won his battle to avoid deportation.

He is opening a three - week singing date at the Dunes in Las Vegas. The salary, $15,000 a week, will help relieve his celebrated money problems.

"I'm very excited about this engagement," he said between rehearsals. "It's the first time I've felt like singing since the whole trouble began. If I succeed in this I think other good things will follow. I believe the recording companies and film producers are waiting to see how my voice is. Then we can start making deals."

PLANS PICTURES, TOO

But he does not intend to return full time to the crooning business. "I'm not going out to play 39 weeks in night clubs, the way I used to. I would like to pick three or four top spots and play them every year.

"The rest of the time I'll devote to picture work, both as an actor and a producer."

His plans for film production are no idle dream. He and spouse Rita Hayworth have set up their own company to release a series of movies through United Artists. The first one, he said, will feature himself and will be made this summer.

"We've got two important stories we're considering for Rita," he added. "Unfortunately, we can't go ahead with them yet because she isn't free. But that will only be a matter of time. She's in the right."

COURT TO DECIDE

Columbia Pictures doesn't see it that way. The studio placed her on suspension for failing to report for "Joseph and His Brethren" and warned that she could work for no other producer. She claimed that the studio broke the contract by not starting the picture on the stipulated date. The courts will decide who is right.

"Rita is eager to go to work," Haymes reported. "And I'm eager to have her work, too. I think it's important for her to have a really good picture now. She can do it, too. She has blossomed into an accomplished actress."

PIONEER CAR BUILDER

Pita, Poirier Engage In "Fight of Year"

NEW YORK (AP)—Oscar Pita, the latest Argentine import, and Gene Poirier, an ex-platoon sergeant from Niagara Falls, N.Y., probably fought the "fight of the year" Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena.

Pita won on an eighth-round knockout when Poirier had to be dragged back to his corner at the end of the round. Using his discretionary power, referee Ray Miller called it a knockout although the bell had rung. He said he could have counted to 10 if the bell hadn't sounded.

Obviously Poirier, who had been leading on 2 of the 3 scorecards, was in no shape to continue. Pita, unbeaten in 42 bouts, came in to shake hands with Poirier and added "you give me toughest fight." Pita returns to Argentina Friday but will be back in September.

Pita was down twice in the second, half falling through the ropes each time. Poirier was decked for nine in the eighth before he finally was flattened.

APPEALS VERDICT

CALGARY (CP)—Michael Kuzmack, twice convicted of murder and sentenced to hang for the May 8, 1954 stabbing of Mrs. Minnine Engel in Lethbridge, Alta., once more will make a bid for his life. Notice of appeal was filed Monday by Kuzmack's defence counsel. A new trial is asked on the basis that the trial judge at the 41-year-old Windsor, Ont., man's second trial misdirected the jury.

Mau Mau Terror in New British Film

"Simba" . . . the dreaded sign of a Mau Mau leader, stalks through the new J. Arthur Rank film like a vicious lion. From this man and his fanatical followers, the film takes its title, and from the effect of his activities on the white farmers in the area of today's Kenya comes the gripping story. Here is a movie which captures to the full, the tense and frequently terrifying experience of people battling against the Mau Mau threat. These are people who cannot trust even their own servants . . . people who must bolt every door behind them . . . who carry revolvers strapped to their hips.

"Simba" is a film which pulls no punches . . . a film with power and sincerity . . . a film to have audiences on the edges of their seats. It gives Dirk Bogarde his most demanding role to date. As the young man who determines to settle in Kenya despite the Mau Mau campaigning against him, Bogarde surpasses everything he has done in the past. It is a performance of sheer intensity. Virginia McKenna, as his fiancee, teams admirably with Bogarde, striving to prove to him that the white heat of anger is not the right solution to their terrifying problem. Donald Sinden, too, contributes another excellent performance as the Police Chief, who can rarely act until it is too late.

A picture to remember, "Simba" comes to the McCarthy Theatre on Thursday for 3 days.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, June 22, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Especially favored are home and family affairs, and artistic matters. You can gain more if you will give even the prosaic and practical a delicate touch, some finesse. Good rays generally.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — The Moon and Venus are favorably aspected for your interests and specific talents. Caution advised if handling machinery, tools, in dangerous work. Careful thought and consistent action will bring benefits.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may need extra patience and deeper study where contracts, legal papers, making estimates, handling real estate and home affairs are concerned. Useful, needed manufacturing, building, artistic professions should show gains.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon is in splendid position and fine Venus rays favor your talents, personal and business interests. But, Saturn's aspect suggests sensible moderation and caution. Tact!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Mild solar influences and mixed rays generally stress a thoughtful program. Take care of urgent matters first; then others in the order of their importance. This can be pleasant, gainful day.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Similar indications to Gemini now. Don't worry, but carefully scrutinize papers, contracts, (anything to be signed or evaluated). Carry out plans and orders with your usual efficiency and you can gain.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — This can be a peak day for you and most of your activities. There's no need to rush, but you'll have a better score if you plan your program carefully to save time, energy. All worthwhile activities favored.

October 24 to November — (Scorpio) — Mixed vibrations tend to make this day an interesting and challenging one. Sell yourself and your produce (or work) with finesse, fresh packaging. Unusual artistic interests, home affairs favored.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Similar indications to Scorpio now. This should be a responsive period in which to promote your cleverness in handling delicate matters; to use your keen judgment in selling, buying.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Saturn's position urges caution if in dangerous work, handling aircraft, machinery, sharp tools, etc. Otherwise the day is generally friendly, helpful for skilled work, trades, etc.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — With a reasonable amount of effort, you can benefit considerably today. Avoid carelessness in important matters and don't risk health or assets. Recklessness taboo. Much is up to you now.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Mild influences will become more favorable late today and tomorrow. Some encouraging aspects for all sound matters, for artistry, skill, cleverness, trade, profession, home interests.

You born today are endowed with wit, a talent for story-telling, an unusual memory. You are personable, sincere, kindly; have a strong love for home and family, old traditions, religion and good things generally. But tone down your indignations and study possible faults. A tendency to argue could cause more serious contention than you may realize. Do not be oversensitive or jealous of loved ones; both of these traits can bring needless unhappiness, even overshadow your truly fine, generous nature. Control restlessness. Pray when troubled; have faith in God's love and help. Birthdate: H. Rider Haggard, novelist, Guiseppe Mazzini, Ital. patriot.

Rare Okapi Featured in Ringling Circus

"Arabi," the only specimen of the strange camelopard known as the okapi which has ever been taken on tour, is one of the principal attractions of the Big Show's great menagerie this year. "Arabi" was trapped in the Belgian Congo.

One of Nature's zaniest creatures—an okapi, which appears to be part zebra, part giraffe and part antelope— is now on tour for the first time in history.

Brought to the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus menageries by McCormick Steele, chief wild animal hunter for The Greatest Show on Earth, the okapi is a native of the virtually inaccessible Ituri forest in Africa's Belgian Congo.

This rare aristocrat of the jungle has unusual black and white zebra markings on his hindquarters, the head and neck resemble a giraffe, and the hooves are cloven as are those of the antelope.

After the animal's capture he was flown from Stanleyville by Sabian airlines in a specially padded cage. Throughout the long trip he gave evidence of his fastidious nature, spending much time licking his beautiful coat with his long prehensile tongue. He is a solitary animal in his native state, except during the mating season.

Other odd features of the okapi are that, like the giraffe, he lacks vocal cords and he insists on eating his food only at head height or above, never from the ground.

The beautiful, three-year-old creature, which has been christened "Arabi", will be on exhibition in the huge menagerie tent. This opens daily at 1 and 7 p.m. one hour before the daily 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. performances of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which will be held at Belleville, June 27.

Minor Baseball

Tom Hookings' Tigers were on the long end of a 14-8 score over the Orfuns last night in one of the three opening games of the Belleville minor baseball pee wee division. In other games, Parkdale edged Goldie's Shellers 7-5 while Deacon Quakers mauled the TPT's 27-1.

Ted Hook went all the way for the Tigers, scattering seven hits for eight runs and fanning ten of the Orfuns. Ross Tracey was his receiver. Roberts started for the loser's and gave up ten runs on five hits in five innings with Simpson allowing four runs off three hits in two frames. Dugind was the Orfun catcher.

Ross Tracey had a three-run homer for the winners in the third frame but Devereaux replied with a grand-slam homer for the Orfuns in' the fourth. Terry McCabe smashed a pair of doubles and Bob Spafford hit a triple for the Tigers while Burley claimed a double in defeat.

Line score:	R	H	E
Tigers	307	301	0—14	8	2
Orfuns	020	400	2— 8	7	0

Batteries: Hook and Tracey; Roberts, Simpson (6), and Dugind.

Scoring 18 runs in the first inning, Deacon Quakers buried the TPT pee wees 27-1 in a pee wee baseball game at King George school last night, while Parkdale edged Goldie's Shellers 7-5 at Prine Street school.

Archer and T. Thompson combined to hurl three-hit ball for the Deacon nine in the five-inning contest while S. Thompson did the catching. Jim Stansfield and Ted Rollins threw for the losers while Gilroy caught.

Deacon's hit four home runs. Maverly getting two with one each for Archer and McKee. Archer led all hitters with four safe blows while Pointer, Maverly, Bronson and Sinclair each had three. The losers had three hits, one each for Gilroy, Masterson and Ward.

Archer was the winning pitcher while Stansfield took the loss.

Goldies had a 5-1 lead going into the fifth innings of their game but Parkdale exploded for four in the top of the frame to knot the count. They went to score singles in the sixth and seventh to win.

W. Keeble started for Parkdale but gave way to A. Dever in the first frame who went the remainder to grab the win. He allowed only two hits, getting 12 on third strikes and walking six. Latchford went the route for Goldies and allowed five hits while fanning 12 and issuing six free passes.

J. Lewis slammed a one-run homer for Goldies in the initial frame.

Dever led his team at bat with two singles and a triple while singles went to Brian McBride and J. Wood. J. Lewis was best for the losers with a homer and triple while B. Carson claimed two singles and Larry Rowbotham one.

Disposing of Atomic Waste No Problem Says Scientist

GUELPH (CP)—Canada's atomic scientists have come up with a solution to the country's most tricky garbage disposal problem—what to do with the radioactive waste from atomic energy plants.

Ivan Ophel, limnologist with Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., says the waste can be disposed of without danger to the health of humans, animals or plants.

Mr. Ophel told the industrial waste conference here Monday that constant checks on the water of the Ottawa river show no radio-activity in fish or plant organisms outside the company's Chalk River atomic plant.

Inactive waste is disposed of in the normal way through the domestic sewer system into the Ottawa river. Potentially dangerous material, such as cooling water from a rector which only becomes radio-active if an accidental leak occurs, is held until it becomes known whether radioactivity will develop.

If it does, it comes under the category of "cruel" active waste. It is then fed into a delay system where its radioactivity decreases by one-half per day. After 10 days, its potency is down to about one thousandth of the original.

Intermediate and hot wastes however, require special treatment.

Some intermediate material is dumped into pits where soil absorbs the radioactivity, some incorporated in concrete blocks and covered with stainless steel drums before burial.

Hot wastes, of which the plant normally produces less than 100 gallons a day, are held in delay tanks until radioactivity is reduced, then fused into blocks and stored.

OTHER PROBLEMS

The conference Monday also heard some thoughts on waste disposal of the non-radioactive type.

E. Rupert Kountz, professor of sanitary engineering at Pennsylvania State University, dealt with treatment of wastes from small packing houses and said the septic tank doesn't work too well.

"You have to hold the waste so long that you sometimes end up with a tank bigger than the plant. When you have an outhouse bigger than the house you live in, there's something wrong with your philosophy of sanitation."

Clarence M. Tarzwell, chief of the biology section of the research and development branch of the United States public health service, said water resources are a vital part of the economy of a country.

He said it has been estimated the United States produces 5,000,000,000 pounds of fish a year. He placed the number of fishermen in that country at 25,000,000 outside the commercial ranks and estimated it cost them $1 a pound for every fish they took.

Mr. Tarzwell said the value of streams to recreation industries in various states is considerable. Some states, such as Michigan or Washington, rated it first or second among their industries.

Some streams must be preserved in their natural state, Mr. Tarzwell said, if only for the benefit of an industry which brings in between $5,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000 a year.

British Hold "War Council" As Cyprus Terror Continues

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — British authorities on this Mediterranean island today held a "war council" after a fresh outbreak of underground terrorism.

During the night two anti-British attacks left two persons dead and 16 wounded.

It was the second successive night of terror, apparently engineered by the underground organization EOKA which vows it will drive the British out of the colony and unite it with Greece.

In the last 48 hours the terrorists have exploded 22 bombs, chiefly in attempts against British military or police personnel.

All through the night, British troops carrying rifles and machine-guns joined police patrols to search for terrorists or caches of arms. Barbed-wire barriers surrounded all the major towns and cities of the island. Police set up checkpoints on all main roads.

CANCEL ALL LEAVES

The war council was held between military authorities and government chiefs. A plan drawn up to combat the wave of violence was kept secret because some "policy suggestions" have been referred to London for approval by the colonial office, a military source said.

All police leave was cancelled. Urgent appeals were broadcast throughout the island for special constables.

Trans-Polar Jet Flight Thursday

LONDON (AP)—The first intercontinental trans-polar jet flight is set for Thursday, the British air ministry said Tuesday night.

A Canberra two - engine jet bomber of the British RAF will take off at 9 p.m. local time from the Royal Norwegian Air Force base at Bardufoss, Northern Noray.

If all goes as planned, the Aries IV will arrive at Fairbanks, Alaska at 5 p.m. local time the same night.

The aircraft's speed across the meridians will outpace the sun and permit the jet to arrive—in terms of local time—four hours before it started on its 3,210-mile trip.

Thus, the crew can have a late dinner in Norway and tea in Alaska.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Scattered thunderstorms occurred over southern Ontario Tuesday afternoon heralding the arrival of slightly cooler and less humid air from the north. This cooling trend will continue today and Thursday throughout the province, with a few showers expected in most regions today, but mainly sunny skies Thursday.

Freighters Flee Waterfront Fire At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Two Great Lakes freighters slipped their moorings and pushed out into Lake Ontario today to escape a $550,000 waterfront fire, worst of the year so far.

Firemen kept the fire from spreading from seven blazing harbor warehouses to nearby oil-storage tanks.

The waterfront was lit up by vivid flames as the 75 firefighters battled with every available piece of equipment to save other valuable waterfront property.

Firemen and officials estimated damage to the premises of Toronto Elevator Company at $550,000.

With a wall of flame creeping close, the grain carriers Howard L. Shaw and Victorious left Pier 2 and moved into open water.

No one was killed or injured in today's outbreak.

Police were called when firemen reported serious explosions "imminent." Flames crept to within a few feet of chemical drums and large oil tanks but firefighters managed to keep them cool. No serious blasts occurred.

Officers of the city police arson squad began an investigation into cause of the fire. Firemen said it apparently started in one of the sheds and "just went wild."

RED FLEET EMERGING

Statue's Head Is That of Churchill But Body Belongs to Pro-German

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—That's the head of Hitler's nemesis on London's new statue of Sir Winston Churchill, but the body belongs to a man interned as pro - German during both world wars.

Gerald Hamilton, 67, disclosed today that he was the stand-in model for the bigger - than - life seated bronze of the 80-year-old statesman unveiled in London's Guildhall Tuesday.

"I must say the situation did strike me as a little strange," Hamilton told reporters. "But I was only the body. The statute is me only from the head down."

The model explained he has roughly the same measurements as Churchill, and even the famous stoop. Since the former prime minister's time was precious—and his patience on the short side—sculptor Oscar Nemon asked Hamilton to pose for the 60-odd sittings in which he worked on the body.

Hamilton was interned in the First World War as a friend of Sir Roger Casement, the Irishman hanged for dealing with the Germans in the interests of Irish independence. The government put Hamilton under wraps again in 1941 for trying to organize a separate peace with the Germans.

"I'm not a Fascist or a Nazi," he said. "I just thought it was better to deal with the Germans than the Russians—and I still think I was right."

Churchill saw the statute at the Guildhall ceremony Tuesday. Unlike his chill reception of the modernist portrait Parliament presented him on his 80th birthday last November, he admired the bronze figure.

Of his stand-in, the old man was reported to have commented: "Couldn't they pick anyone else?"

THINK MOLOTOV WILL DEMAND UN PEACE PLEDGE

Agrees to Admittance Of New UN Members

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Russia's V. M. Molotov was expected to bring into the open today his demands for a United Nations declarations pledging all its 60 members to work for peace.

Western diplomats believed this would be the centrepiece of the foreign policy statement the Soviet foreign minister was scheduled to make before today's UN 10th anniversary session.

Diplomats here reported that Molotov was agreeable to ending a long stalemate over admitting new United Nations members. He was said to have agreed to admission of Austria, Italy and Finland along with three Communist nations, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

Molotov was reported Tuesday night to have given the Western Big Three foreign ministers a partial reply to their proposals for setting up the "summit" talks in Geneva next month.

Informed quarters said the Soviet foreign minister made reservations on only one important point, namely the Western proposal to limit the talks to four or six days. He was understood to have expressed the belief that no time limit should be placed on the Geneva talks.

JOE ADMITS DEFEAT

(In Washington, Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) conceded today that he has "no chance of success" in efforts to win Senate approval of a resolution aimed at forcing discussion of Russia's satellite states at the Big Four talks.

(A 14-to-0 vote by the Senate foreign relations committee Tuesday night to recommend rejection of the proposal apparently foreshadowed an overwhelming tally against it on the Senate floor. It had the united opposition of the administration and of Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate.

(Committee members generally agreed that adoption of the resolution might tend to tie President Eisenhower's hands in the talks due to open July 18.)

U.S. Wants All To Provide UN With Atomic Facts

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United States wants all countries to give the United Nations information on nuclear tests so the world can see they are not a threat to human health if properly safeguarded.

Should everyone agree to this proposal it would mean that the Soviet Union and Britain, the only other powers known to have conducted atomic tests, would turn in data on the problem of radiation, commonly called the problem of the fall-out.

Results of the fall-out from U. S. nuclear tests in the Pacific and in Nevada have been published, but nothing has come from the Russians on their nuclear tests.

Agreement on Jobless Relief Reached at Ottawa Parley

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) —Federal and provincial authorities are in general agreement on terms for the federal treasury sharing in the cost of unemployment relief.

As tentatively clinched at a 1½-day conference that ended Tuesday the formula would have the central government in effect paying half the expense of caring for able-bodied jobless not drawing unemployment insurance.

At present, when these are looked after it is at the expense of the provinces or municipalities, or jointly by both.

The proposed new arrangement, which provincial conferees are to take back to their cabinets for consideration, would cost the federal treasury an estimated $10,000,000 a year on the basis of the post-war record high of unemployment during the last year.

The federal formula — proposed originally by Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday and made more generous Tuesday after provincial objections—calls for the central treasury picking up half the bill for relief of unemployed above a specified level.

This floor would be .45 per cent of the population, by provinces, which would be regarded as the normal level of unavoidable unemployment caused by physical disability and the like. As jobless rose above that figure in each province with a federal-provincial agreement, the 50-per-cent federal payments would start.

For the whole country, the floor would be about 68,000 persons. By provinces, on the basis of last year's population figures, the individual floors would be:

Newfoundland, 1,431; Nova Scotia 3,028; Prince Edward Island, 472; New Brunswick, 2,461; Quebec, 19,746; Ontario, 22,707; Manitoba, 3,766; Saskatchewan, 3,851; Alberta, 4,675; British Columbia, 5,697.

While there was no flat announcement of federal-provincial agreement after the conference, the prime minister told the Commons Tuesday he thinks "it is the desire of those who were at the conference to try to have agreements worked out."

Delegates told reporters that at the closed sessions there was a unanimity of feeling that the federal offer would be accepted, though some thought it too low. A number of provinces have called for full federal responsibility for the care of able-bodied unemployed not drawing benefits from the unemployment insurance fund.

Beyond the relief plan, the conference also agreed, at the insistence of Ontario's Premier Frost, that consideration be given to public investment and other work-boosting measures to keep employment high.

British Columbia and Nova Scotia are known to be two other provincial governments urging emphasis on this. It will come up at the October federal-provincial conference on general fiscal matters and is to be studied by a continuing advisory body of financial deputies here next month.

On relief, the federal government specified that individual agreements are to be made between the central government and each province, to come into effect as each is signed. None would be effective before July 1.

Federal payments would be based on the number of persons being assisted by provincial or municipal authorities, subject to monthly checks. There would be provincial - municipal administration. The provinces could lay down "means tests"—that is, the amount of income a recipient could get from other sources and still qualify for unemployment relief.

However, the federal government has specified that those receiving provincial mothers' allowances cannot receive the new form of federal help. Nor will provincial-municipal payments for medical, hospital or dental care or for burial cost be met from the Ottawa treasury.

Those receiving federal family allowances will not be disqualified and it is expected also that help will be available for war veterans receiving pensions or allowances.

Firefighters Make Headway Against Chain of Forest Blazes

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—The tide of battle appeared to be turning in favor of the firefighters today as they renewed their assault on a chain of fires across northern Ontario timberlands.

There were cautious predictions that the two biggest blazes—at Hornepayne and Goulais lake—could be held in check.

Smaller outbreaks, about 40 of them started by lightning in the wake of storms Monday and Tuesday, were being extinguished or controlled in the districts of White River, Cochrane, Sudbury, Kapuskasing, Chapleau, Gogama, North Bay, Swastika, Port Arthur, Tweed, Pembroke, Parry Sound and Geraldton.

Chief Ranger Harold Green, a veteran of 32 years of fire fighting, said he was hopeful a 4,500-acre fire at Goulas lake, 60 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, could be brought under control while it was still in the hardwoods.

"With a decent break in conditions we should be able to hold it," he said. "There's some evergreen slash ahead of it and we are trying to keep it out of that at all costs."

At Hornepayne, 200 miles north of the Soo, rain helped slow a blaze a few miles from the village of 1,600 but Chief Ranger Robert Wilson said:

"The town is not out of danger yet. It's hard to predict a forest fire's movements."

Elsewhere, the weather brought little comfort. Most of the fire belt was dry and hot with no relief in sight.

Every available aircraft was pressed into service by the lands and forests department to bring men, equipment and supplies to areas unreachable by roads.

With a husky trapper acting as bombardier, pilot Tom Calladine flew over 14 firefighting camps around Goulais lake to drop hose, tents, blankets, gasoline, bread and canned goods to the 270 men in the bush.

Trapper Bidoux Robert, who knows Goulais lake like the back of his hand, dumped the bundles at a signal from Calladine as his big Otter bush plane cruised along at 300 feet.

Robert's only complaint was the lack of handles on the heavy canvas bags. He lost several fingernails.

Stevens Resigns As Secretary Of Army in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert T. Stevens resigned today as secretary of the army and President Eisenhower nominated Wilber M. Brucker, general counsel of the defence department, to succeed him.

Stevens gave "compelling personal considerations" as his reason for quitting. He was a principal in last year's dispute between Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) and top defence department officials, but neither he nor Eisenhower, who accepted the resignation today, made any reference to that event.

Brucker, a former governor of Michigan, has been general counsel at the defence department since April 1954. His home is in Detroit.

Stevens will leave his post about the end of July. He told Eisenhower he will work out the precise date with Defence Secretary Charles Wilson.

Troops Ordered Back to Barracks In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Troops guarding the Argentine capital's public buildings and churches since last Thursday's revolt were ordered back to their barracks today. A communique again reported the country "absolutely calm."

The announcement was issued by Maj.-Gen. Franklin Lucero, the army minister whom President Juan Peron named "commander-in-chief of the forces of repression" after the brief but bloody uprising by navy and marine personnel.

Peron apparently resumed his normal routine Tuesday in improvised offices. Peron had remained in comparative seclusion at his home Sunday and Monday, while the local newspapers gave much attention to Lucero and almost none to the president.

There was no announcement of any change in the government despite widespread speculation that it would be reorganized.

CCF OPPOSES DIVORCE BILL IN COMMONS

Says Racket Must Be Cleaned Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The long-standing CCF opposition to Parliament granting divorces has been aroused again by the second successive attempt of a Montrealman to have his 24-year marriage dissolved.

"This racket has to be cleared up one way or another," Erhart Regier (CCF — Comox Alberni) said in the Commons Tuesday.

He spoke in opposition to a bill entitled an Act for the Relief of Joseph Delphis Guillaume Delorme and said Parliament should not be spending time on such an "utterly unworthy" case.

It was the second time a bill of divorce for Mr. Delorme has come before Parliament, which deals with cases from Quebec and Newfoundland where there are no divorce courts.

TALKED IT OUT

Last session the Senate approved Mr. Delorme's divorce petition, but when his divorce bill came to the Commons, CCF members talked it out, preventing passage before adjournment. They argued it could cause injustice to the wife, who opposed the divorce.

Tuesday CCF members offered no opposition to 45 other divorce bills given second reading — approval in principle—and sent to a committee for detailed study. But the Delorme bill, approved again by the Senate committee on the same evidence presented last year, was debated for the remainder of the hour set aside for private bills.

For years the CCF party has criticized the fact Parliament is required to deal with divorce cases. In previous sessions the party whip, Stanley Knowles, Winnipeg North Centre, has presented a bill which would hand the work over to the Exchequer Court of Canada.

In the Senate Tuesday night the chairman of the upper chamber's divorce committee, Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) reported that a record 407 petitions were approved this session by the committee, 25 more than last session. He said Parliament can expect a continuing increase in future.

Senator Roebuck said the average length of marriage of the cases granted was 8.2 years. One divorce was to a couple who had been married 36 years. Another was to a couple married 12 days.

The latter, he said interesting, at least to moralists, that 50 per cent of the families in which there was application for divorce had no children. It seemed to me that fact, in some cases, was the reason for the application."

Senator John T. Haig, Opposition leader, also said that many senators who do not serve on the divorce committee are idle four days of the week. He urged that the divorce committee be permitted to sit while the Senate is adjourned.

The government should be prepared to take such a step because "divorce has become a big business."

Mr Regier said he was bringing the Delorme case to the Commons' attention to show the shortcomings of parliamentary divorces — "the needless misery inflicted on thousands of women unable to defend themselves, who allow themselves to be intimidated and later profess to sue their husbands for divorce."

Quoting from evidence given before the Senate committee, he said the man, married in 1931, said he had seen his wife commit adultery several times since 1938. The first two times he had walked out—the second time to a hockey game.

Mr. Regier said the man decided to rid himself of his wife "by the misuse of the Parliament of Canada" only when she got a court separation ordering the husband to pay $20 a week and divide their community property.

Forced Landing by Duke's 'Copter Gives Queen Anxious Wait at Train

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A helicopter carrying the Duke of Edinburgh made a forced landing in bad weather on a football field near here today—and Queen Elizabeth suffered an anxious 15 minutes.

The duke, being flown by an RAF pilot on a hop here from Edinburgh, was due to join his wife aboard a royal train at Uddingston, a Glasgow suburb.

But when there was no sign of the helicopter when the train arrived. It should have landed in a field adjoining the station.

Eventually there was relief when a message came through saying bad weather had forced the machine down at Bathgate, 20 miles from Edinburgh. The duke continued the trip by car.

The air-minded duke, already a practised pilot, has been taking lessons on helicopters recently. He makes frequent use of helicopters for dodging congested road traffic in keeping appointments.

The duke took off in the machine from Dalmeny House, near Edinburgh, where he has been the guest of the Earl and Countess of Rosebery since Sunday.

He was to have made a rendezvous with the royal train carrying the Queen to Glasgow for today's ceremony of christening the new Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain.

Scelba Resigns Facing Italy With New Crisis

Heated Cabinet Session Hastens Govt. Resignation

ROME (AP) — Prime Minister Mario Scelba today turned in the resignation of the coalition government with which for 15½ months he had battled Italian communism and backed the West.

Even as Scelba was closeted with President Giovanni Gronchi a communique from this morning's heated cabinet session said:

"The council of ministers agreed unanimously on the presentation to the president of the resignations of the entire cabinet."

As usual, there was no immediate word whether Gronchi would accept the resignation.

DIFFICULT CHOICE

If he does, as most observers expect, the president will begin immediately a series of conferences with senior statesmen and party leaders to pick a new prime minister.

Indications were that the new choice would be a member of Scelba's Christian Democratic party, largest single faction in Parliament. But the president would have to choose between the right and left wings, which are badly split.

Despite last-minute efforts to patch up his government by reshuffling some cabinet posts, Scelba was doomed Tuesday night when his party's directorate announced "with regret" that the attempt had failed.

SPLIT IS KEY

Christian Democrat leaders officially blamed the failure on the refusal of the small Republican party to promise support for the government in a parliamentary confidence vote scheduled for Thursday. But the key factor really was the split in Scelba's own Christian Democratic ranks and especially the opposition to Scelba from the right wing.

With his party holding only 262 of the 590 Chamber of Deputies seats—far short of a majority—Scelba had relied on a coalition with three minor centre parties for the votes necessary to put his policies over.

The rightist Christian Democrats, headed by ex-premier Giuseppe Pella, wanted to do away with the coalition and form a cabinet only from their own party, presumably relying on the 39 Monarchists in the chamber for the needed votes.

Tour Boat Aground

KINGSTON (CP) — Miss Kingston, a Thousand island tour boat, went aground Tuesday at Cassidy's shoal, six miles east of Kingston on the St. Lawrence river.

The 56 passengers were removed safely and returned to Kingston, Capt. H. Cosgroove reported. Damage is undetermined but the boat will be put in drydock for inspection.

5 DIE IN CRASH

SOMERVILLE, N.J. (AP)—A car with six teen-agers returning from a ball game crossed the white centre line of the highway to pass another auto near here Monday night, police said, and smashed head-on into a truck loaded with 10-inch cement sewer pipe. Four boys and one girl were killed and a fifth boy taken to hospital in critical condition.

Scientist Finds Atom-Smasher Slows Toaster

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A visitor attending the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting wondered why his tuna sandwich was taking so long to toast at the California Institute of Technology campus coffee shop Tuesday.

Mrs. Florence Lyall, manager of the shop, explained:

"That darned atom-smasher here saps all the electricity and slows down the electric toaster."

Cunard Liner Caronia Sails On Schedule

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters)—The 24,000-ton Cunard luxury liner Caronia sailed on schedule from here today for New York in defiance of a wildcat strike of crews aboard 11 trans-Atlantic liners.

It was the second setback of the day for the 1,000 strikers whose demands for better wages and conditions have bottled up the liners for three weeks.

In Liverpool, a full crew this morning marched past silent pickets to board the Canadian Pacific's 26,313-ton Empress of Scotland in readiness for the scheduled voyage to Montreal tonight. It would be the first of the Canadian Pacific liners to sail with passengers since the strike.

Biggest prize in the dispute is the 83,000-ton Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth, due to sail Thursday for New York.

The strikers today made a desperate final attempt to win over the Elizabeth's crew, who coldshouldered their appeal Tuesday. If the liner sails on time, shipping quarters anticipate that the strike will be broken.

DOCKERS STILL OUT

Meantime, the month-old strike of 20,000 dock workers for recognition of their breakway union took a dark turn today, Strikers at Hull, Manchester, Corston, Liverpool and Birkenhead.

Ivanhoe-Thomasburg District Bears Brunt Heavy Hail Storm

Rows of hailstones lying at the side of the road 16 hours after they fell at mid-afternoon Tuesday were reported today between West Huntingdon and Ivanhoe, 15 miles north of the city.

The hail storm which swept through the Ivanhoe-Thomasburg district shortly after four o'clock smashed windows, ripped awnings to shreds and even punched holes through asphalt roofing.

Windows in the West Huntingdon public school were broken by the hail as were windows in McMaster's store at Ivanhoe where awnings were also ripped to shreds.

The asphalt roof on Albert Ashley's house at West Huntingdon, was punched full of holes by the hail and will have to be completely replaced.

W. J. Logue of Foxboro, driver for Wannamaker's bus, said that hailstones almost as large as hen's eggs fell in the West Huntingdon and Ivanhoe district. This morning 16 hours after the storm, the hail was still lying in the ditch.

"It looked like the winter time after the snowplow had cleared the highway," Mr. Logue said.

CITY MISSED WORST OF STORM

The city of Belleville missed the worst of the storm which was seen to sweep across in the north earlier in the afternoon. Only a few hailstones fell in Belleville but nearly three-quarters of an inch of rain fell in a comparatively few minutes just after five o'clock. The downpour came with startling suddenness and sent shoppers scurrying for shelter.

The hail extended as far north as Madoc where there was a "terrific" storm but no damage was reported.

In Belleville the storm sent temperatures down more than 20 degrees in less than half an hour the 60 degree temperature being an appreciated relief from the 80's together with high humidity. The storm played havoc with Ontario Intelligencer carrier boys.

A brother team with a route of 80 customers on the old Frankford Road west of the McFarlane Woodenware factory had delivered 40 papers when yesterday's storm struck. Wind whipped the remaining 20 papers from the boys' paper bag and scattered them over the field. The ensuing rain not only soaked the boys but ruined the papers.

A customer with a kind heart took the boys in, and when the storm was over sent them home in a change of dry clothes.

At Frankford, a bundle of papers tossed from a bus fell into a gully and 56 were ruined by water.

8th Belleville Group Holds Field Day

On Saturday, the first annual field day of the 8th Belleville was held at Zwick's Island, with the weatherman providing ideal weather.

The afternoon was spent in passing tests connected with the athlete's badge, under the leadership of Akela L. Ashley and Scoutmaster G. S. Kerr, assisted by the Cub assistants and fathers of the boys. Afterwards many games were played, highlighted with the ball game between the fathers and sons which was won by the boys with a score of 13 to 12. During a break in the game called by the umpire, A.D.C. F. Allcorn introduced Reg. Com. A. Lewis who presented Akela L. Ashley the 10-year medal and badge.

The winners of the ball game received candy while the losers being the fathers all received a new car or truck.

Athletes badges were awarded to the following: W. Spafford, R. Campbell, W. Woods, B. Buddle, J. Archer, J. Francis, J. Burnett, V. Sargent, T. Horton, B. Goodman, D. Reid, D. Watch, R. Reddick, G. Pollard, H. Elliott.

50 yard dash—B. Goodman.

60 yard dash—J. Burnett.

High jump—Juniors: R. Campbell; Seniors: H. Elliott.

Broad Jump—Juniors: G. Pollard; Seniors: J. Burnett.

Sack Race—Juniors: S. Flindall; Seniors: H. McGuire.

Tug of War team— L. Doxsee, D. Watch, R. Demorest, R. Reddick, H. Elliott, J. Middleton.

Bean Balancing Race— H. McGuire, B. Goodman, B. Buddle, J. Archer, R. Campbell, W. Woods.

Three Legged Race—H. McGuire and P. Campbell.

No outing would be complete without a campfire, where skits are presented and songs sung. During this time Mr. F. Lang, chairman of the group committee, presented Akela L. Ashley with a suitably engraved silver tray from the ladies' and men's group committees, in appreciation of her work in cubbing. The Cub pack presented her with a silver locket, and the Scout troop, a gift to be given at a later date.

The parents and the boys enjoyed a picnic supper and one and all expressed their enjoyment of the afternoon and hopes of more outings with the boys in the future.

District Fire Dept. Heads Attend Meeting

An organizational meeting for the setting up of a mutual aid program for fire departments in the Hastings and Prince Edward county district was held Tuesday evening at the Moira Street firehall.

Attending the meeting were members of council and fire department representatives from centres Trenton to Deseronto and Picton to Bancroft. Alderman Frank Grandame, chairman of the city council fire committee, was present.

Inspector J. Turnbull of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department outlined how fire departments within the district would be expected to co-operate in case of a serious fire or other emergency and noted that as result of the standardization program carried out within the past year all departments could now assist with assurance that hose connections and other couplings would fit.

Inspector Turnbull presented Fire Chief Gerald Vance with his card and badge as deputy fire marshal. Chief Vance is the fire co-ordinator for the Hastings and Prince Edward district.

The Belleville Fire Department was presented with a merit of honor certificate for its program during the Fire Prevention Week last October.

CLAUDE C. WANNAMAKER

After a long illness the death took place at his home on the fourth concession of Ameliasburg, of Claude Christopher Wannamaker, only child of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton Wannamaker.

He was in his seventy-second year and is survived by his wife the former Margaret Fox, to whom he was married in 1909, and three sons: Campbell, Douglas, John and a daughter, Ruth (Mrs. Charles Margetson), all of whom mourn the loss of a loving husband and father. He was deeply interested in the work of the church and Sunday school and was a member of the Free Methodist church.

The funeral service was held at the home of his son, Douglas Wannamaker, with the Rev. H. A. McLeod of Picton, in charge.

The bearers were his three sons and son-in-law, also Robert Pennell and Richard Haggerty.

The floral offerings were beautiful and a substantial sum of money was donated by friends and relatives to be used for the purchase of Gideon Bibles.

Interment was in Grove cemetery, Roblin's Mills.

Shunting Engine Slices Corner Off Motor Car

Raymond E. Howe of Thomasburg, escaped little more than a good scare early today, when he failed to see a CNR shunting engine as it approached a crossing on Station street and had a rear corner sliced off his auto.

The accident occurred at 2:45 a.m., when Howe was westbound on Station Street near the Swift Canadian Company plant.

Howe had almost cleared the track when the shunting engine proceeding northeast caught the left rear of the car, damaging the door, fender and body to the extent of about $400.

"I just failed to see the engine until it was too late," Howe told police.

Engineer on the shunting engine was Robert C. Jones, 31 Meyers Street.

Three Members Of Kiwanis Club Go to Cleveland

Three Belleville Kiwanis members and their wives next week will attend the 40th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mingling with more than 13,000 other Kiwanians at the five-day convention which starts June 26, will be president Stafford McKenna and Mrs. McKenna; Mr. and Mrs Don Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Len Fozard.

Among principal speakers at the convention will be U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson; Canadian ambassador to the U.S., A. D. P. Heeney; General Nathan F. Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff and Mrs. Kathryn Metz, well-known woman journalist.

Principal events of the convention will be the election of officers June 29, and the president's reception and ball the same night. Bandleader Ted Lewis will entertain at the ball.

Another feature of the huge meet will be the June 28 district dinner. Each of these will be a miniature convention banquet in itself. They will be held simultaneously throughout the Cleveland area.

—Mrs. Jennie Donohoe.

Police Blotter

A missing boy, a stolen purse, a minor break-in and boys making a nuisance of themselves with a BB gun were routine matters investigated by city police during the past 24 hours.

Police were notified that Rodger Brunette, age 15, of Herchimer Ave. had failed to return home after leaving in the morning. Both city and provincial police were asked to be on the lookout for the boy described as being five feet tall, weighing 120 pounds and wearing gray pants and white T-shirt.

A Point Anne girl complained she had laid her purse on the counter at a local women's wear store and a minute later it was missing. The purse contained nearly $20 in cash along with personal papers.

Boys playing with BB guns in the MacDonald Ave. area resulted in a complaint to police. Police checked the area but the boys had disappeared.

And finally there was a break-in at the Belleville Metal and Waste company premises. A bunch of keys was reported missing.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials held firm but other sections showed easing tendencies in afternoon trading on the Toronto stock exchange.

General Motors made a two point gain in industrials and others on the up side included Great Lakes Paper, Canadian Pacific and Canadian Car.

In base metals, Nama Creek dropped cents while Coulee Lead-Zinc and Copper Cliff gained eight and 15 cents respectively.

In uraniums Meta traded heavily for a gain as did Can-Met. and Sudbury Basin. Nesbitt Labine was off seven cents.

Oils were mixed, with Triad a strong performer.

In the golds Giant Yellowknife and Chima dropped off while Headway and Goldhawk were active and unchanged.

Ontario Doctors Elect Officers

TORONTO (CP)—The 4,000-member Ontario Medical Association Tuesday night held its annual meeting here and installed as president Dr. M. O. Klotz of Ottawa.

About 1,000 Ontario doctors convening jointly with the British and Canadian Medical Associations were celebrants at a giant square dance.

Other officers include Dr. J.C.C. Dawson, Peterborough, president-elect. Past president is Dr. R. M. Mitchell of Sudbury.

The OMA also named for life membership four doctors with more than 40 years service in the association. They included Dr. J.T. Phair, Ontario deputy minister of health; Dr. Walter Dales, Sudbury; Dr. W. J. H. Forster, Stratford.

Try to Catch Runaway Calf In Hail Storm

Ever try to catch a runaway calf in a hail storm?

Just this was the experience yesterday afternoon of Richard Preston of Guelph, who had his work cut out for him in attempting to catch a startled calf which led him a merry chase down the highway after it had kicked himself free from his box on a small auto trailer.

It all happened in the village of Latta just at the commencement of yesterday afternoon's hail storm. The car driven by Preston collided with a half-ton truck driven by John Harrison causing damage of about $100 to each vehicle.

Preston's auto was hauling a trailer in which he was taking a calf owned by his mother to the Belleville sale barns.

The calf became startled as result of the accident and matters were worsened when the hail began to fall. The young bovine kicked himself loose from his box and high tailed it down the highway with Preston in pursuit.

Ten minutes later Preston had the calf corralled but not before he was drenched to the skin.

Changes In Softball Dates

Rain called a halt to activity in the Belleville and District softball league last night with the Bobcats at Point Anne and Frankford at Madoc both cancelled. The game at Point Anne has been re-scheduled for tonight at 6.30 p.m., but at the time of writing no date was available for the Madoc-Frankford fixture.

Other changes in league games also were made public by secretary-treasurer, Ken Duesbury. The scheduled game on Friday night, June 24, Point Anne at Frankford has been changed to Thursday (tomorrow) evening at 8:00 p.m. Another change sees the Belleville Orfuns at Point Anne game scheduled for the Pointers' diamond on July 1st transferred to Thursday, June 30.

It was announced yesterday that a meeting of all league executive members and the managers of all teams participating in the B. and D. schedule has been called for Wednesday, June 29, at the West Moira Street firehall at 8:00 p.m. Several business matters will be discussed and any team grievances ironed out.

Doctor Describes New Stimulation Of Leg Growth in Polio Paralysis

TORONTO (CP)—Surgery which restores the power of growth to legs paralyzed by polio was described here today by Dr. Joseph M. Janes of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Janes said in a paper presented to a joint meeting of the British and Canadian Medical Associations that, briefly, the surgery involves the connecting of certain arteries and veins in the paralyzed leg.

"After experimenting on puppies with this method, we successfully operated on 11 children who had shortened legs for one cause or another," he said.

"Although it is still too early to allow final results we can say that no child to date has suffered any serious heart damage from such procedures."

The surgery also has been used to slow abnormal leg growth, Dr. Janes said, but the method was not recommended for stimulating or decreasing arm growth.

"On the basis of our work so far it would appear that surgery should be undertaken before the patient has reached 12 years of age," he said. After that age bone growth was likely to be too mature.

He told of a case where a 10-month-old child contracted paralytic polio and lost the use of the left leg At the age of six years the leg was 1½ inches shorter than the right leg.

After surgery, however, growth in the paralyzed leg resumed. Seven months later the difference was one inch, and three years later one half inch.

The surgical method also had proven successful in other conditions contributing to faster growth of one leg.

A summary of the paper was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Bavarian Youth, 18, Balancing Virtuoso

A young and handsome Bavarian youth performing unbelievable feats of balance atop a 25-foot ladder will be seen when Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus comes to Belleville, June 27.

Now 18 years of age, Alfred Burton, Jr., was entertaining US occupation forces in Germany by balancing on beer steins stacked high in precarious columns when he was only 10 years old.

It is well known that there are thousands of very fine hand balancing artists of every description, but Alfred is undisputed world champion in this crowded field.

Climbing to the peak of his 25-foot vertical steel ladder after completion of the preliminary part of his act in which he warms up with head and hands stands atop his father's head, Alfred supports his 145 pounds first with one arm and then with the other, catching white blocks tossed up by his dad and painstakingly building them into delicate columns.

The audience catches its breath as occasionally a mistossed block strikes one of the carefully built columns, causing it to topple. Alfred must hold his weight on one arm while he again rebuilds the column.

In addition to Alfred and his father, patrons of the circus will witness a great number of first-time-in-America sensationalists both on the hippodrome track, and high in the pinnacle of the Big Top.

Among these are Octave De Jonghe's educated dogs, The Great Adanos, Delia Canestrelli, Attiana, Evy Karoly, The Oliveras, The Four Seguras, The Naukos, Takeo Usui and dozens of other thrilling new entrepreneurs of the daring arts.

The remarkable Alfred Burton demonstrates his equilibristic skill atop a high ladder in The Greatest Show on Earth. Alfred is just 18.

Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus performances are scheduled for 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. with doors to the newly enlarged and completely stocked wild animal menagerie opening at 1 and 7 p.m.

Suspend Policeman Over Bribe Charge

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—An Ontario Provincial Police constable was suspended from duty Tuesday after being charged with carrying a bribe from one man to another.

Roy E. Feeley, OPP No. 8 division, Peterborough, is alleged to have taken a bribe from his cousin, Geoffrey Feeley, to Bruce Castle, 32, Peterborough.

At a trial last week, Castle was acquitted on a charge of attempting to extort $1,000 from Geoffrey Feeley, convicted of bootlegging June 14, 1954. The defence at the trial argued that the alleged extortion was actually a bribe attempt by Geoffrey Feeley and that the policeman carried the offer to Castle.

Two Children Burned to Death Near Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Two small children were reported to have been burned to death today when fire swept through at least four homes in the village of Brucy, near Ste. Anne de Bellevue, about 30 miles west of Montreal.

First reports said the children were a 10-year-old boy and a 19-month-old girl.

Civic Workers At Kitchener Stage Walkout

KITCHENER (CP) — About 165 members of the Kitchener Civic Workers Union went on strike today following 25 months of unsuccessful negotiations on the 1954 wage contract. The union is demanding a 10-cents-an-hour increase in the basic wage of $1.20 an hour. Council will only offer four cents.

All key points in the city system, the municipal yard, sewage treatment plants, dumps, cemeteries, city hall and incinerator were picketed, starting at 8 a. m. Garbage put out by home-owners for collection was left piled on the streets.

Kitchener council personnel committee, and at one stage the whole council, were in session off and on all day Tuesday, but no new offers were made to avert the strike.

Although no statement was released by Mayor Donald Weber following a full meeting of council in the afternoon, it was learned two aldermen favored offering nine cents.

Ald. John Cook said a motion for continued adoption of council's former stand of offering only four cents was supported by all but two of the aldermen.

STAFF SEWAGE PLANTS

Ald. Cook said he proposed an amendment which would have been to accept the majority conciliation report, recommending a nine-cent increase, and the only supporter was Ald. Clarence Seibert.

Tuesday night George Downing, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada representative, said the union has agreed to keep skeleton staffs in operation at the sewage treatment plants. He said this action was decided on by the union following a call from Deputy Labor Minister Metzler and in view of the welfare of citizens of Galt, Brantford and Dunnville. They are the ones who would suffer most from a flow of untreated sewage into the Grand river, he said.

Bank Building Having Face Washed, Cleaned

The Bank of Commerce building is having its face washed.

Two men using powerful jets of water and a chemical cleaning solution were giving the downtown bank building a real massage on its Campbell street side this morning. A canvas screen kept water from spraying over Front Street.

Pedestrians watched while the men, employees of the Ontario Building Cleaning Co. Ltd., dressed from head to toe in rubber suits, wiped a cleaning solution over the stone work with long - handled brushes. They then directed powerful streams of water on the stone face and cleaning solution and dirt sluiced away.

Shields on the windows protected bank employees while canvas confined spray to the work area.

FREIGHTERS SET PACE

Well, passenger trains have finally caught up with freights again.

This time it is the new "Vista Dome" cars that have extended the beauties of travelling by train from crew to passengers.

Veteran railroad men, seeing colored two-page magazine advertisements of Canada's new transcontinental passenger trains are having a hard time keeping a straight face. After all, what is a "vista dome" but a caboose all dressed up and masquerading under an assumed name?

Railroads of course provide passenger service because they cannot do otherwise. It is freight that pays the railroad's bills, not passenger traffic. Consequently, through the years, railroads have made their greatest improvements in freight service and then passed along the benefits to passenger service if, as and when feasible.

Diesels pull today's freights while steam continues to haul passengers. Why? Not because freight is more perishable than passengers, but simply because it is more profitable for railroads to put the best equipment in freight service.

One notices that when railways announce the number of new units put into service each year the number of freight engines and cars is in the thousands while new passenger cars can be counted in dozens, if at all. On certain roads in the United States engineers on freights are in touch with brakemen in the caboose via two-way radio.

Word from the waterfront this year has it that Great Lakes' freighters are now not only faster than passenger ships but just as commodious for the individual. Furthermore, recreational facilities on certain iron ore carriers now include television. Company officials explaining television sets state that carriers anywhere on the Great Lakes are almost always within range of shore stations. Radar and sonar, electronic and depth sounding devices, are considered safety measures. Individual cabins for crew members on new ore and grain carriers contain showers, radios and writing desks as well as curtained portholes.

It took railroads almost a half century to extend "vista dome" luxury to passengers. In so doing they revealed why railroaders are so loyal to their jobs and so fascinated with the task of "hinhballing" an express.

Perhaps now that ore and grain carriers have pioneered certain niceties afloat Great Lakes' passenger ships will obtain similar services. Perhaps it is not too much to hope that in five or ten years passengers afloat will enjoy comforts almost equal to those enjoyed by the crew.

FARMERS' PURCHASING POWER CUT

The purchasing power of Canadian farmers' net income in 1954 was down 50 per cent from 1951, states the Canadian Federation of Agriculture news and information bulletin.

That statement is alarming.

A second glance will reveal, however, that the situation is not quite as bad as on might suppose.

In 1951 the purchasing power of Canadian farmers was at a peak.

In terms of constant dollars, with 1949 real income equalling 100, the index for 1951 stood at 115, while in 1950 it was only 86, in 1952 97 and in 1953 88. For 1954 the index stood at 58, a drop of less than 33 per cent from the 1950 figure, which might just as reasonably have been taken as a base as the figure for 1949.

Still, even a decline of one-third in farmers' purchasing power is bad news for the country. The greater part of this drop is the result of a reduction in net farm income in the prairie provinces, particularly Saskatchewan. Net farm income in that province was only $127,000,000 last year, while in 1952 it hit a peak of $566,000,000. Wheat farmers, however, have learned that they have to take the poor years with the good. When they are rich they are not always very, very rich, but a great many of them, in the lush seasons, have been able to pack up and go to California for the winter, after the fashion of tourist resort operators.

Here in Ontario the drop in farm income was large enough to cause concern, without reaching the proportions of that suffered by western farmers. In 1954 net farm income in Ontario was $381,000,000, compared with a peak of $558,000,000 in 1951.

Incidentally, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture bulletin contained one of those misleading graphs, in which equidistant lines mean varying, instead of identical, amounts. But in this case the result of this system was to give the impression that the drop in farm income was not as large as it was. Generally the opposite effect is achieved when somebody has a graph drawn in an effort to prove something.

LEARNING BY PRACTICE

Canadians learn about government by serving on councils and boards and commissions. In Canada there are 40,000 who at one time are members of such groups. That is a large body learning the mechanics and principles of democratic governing, and it is an admirable thing because these people develop an increasing pride in the processes that mean so much to us, as well as experience in the important fundamentals. — (Nelson News).

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1955, Edgar A. Guest)
By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE BARBER AT BAD AXE

The barber at Bad Axe is just a bit older
And bothered at times by a twinge in his shoulder.
The sad and deplorable fact that I write is,
His fingers show signs of a touch of arthritis.
But out on the golf course he seems to be thriving;
His aches and his pains haven't bothered his driving.

At the chair when he stands every morning to clip them,
A recital of miseries many he'll slip them.
The time that he spends while his razor he's honing,
He uses for wailing and moaning and groaning.
But out on the golf course his wallet gets fatter;
With his putting there plainly is nothing the matter.

His legs have grown shaky; much sooner he wearies.
Of surgical treatment now greater his fear is.
His appetite's failing; his ulcers upsetting;
And better, he's certain, he'll never be getting.
But the barber at Bad Axe, so pale and so sickly,
Once out on the golf course gets well rather quickly.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It wasn't away back in bygone days. It was in the girlhood of most of the elderly ladies now scampering about in sun suits. And to keep the sun from touching their milky white complexions, they carried parasols. A parasol is just what it says: an "against the sun." It differed from an unbrella in that it was a fancy bumbershoot, very delicate and frilly. And no young lady would risk going out in the full sunlight without it.

To be sunburned was a serious matter, in those days still attached to us by these elderly ladies romping amongst us in Bikinis. Sunstroke lay in wait for any damsel scrappy enough to let the summer sun touch her. And as for being sun tanned! Brown? Ladies were milk white.

Indeed, they were a sickly white. In 1900, which is only yesterday to those of us who are sixty, rouge was the mark of the fallen woman. Lipstick belonged to the stage, and to chorus girls walking along the street from the theatre to the hotel, after the show. Ah, what a morbid thrill to pass a bevy of them on the street, Vice, carnality, turpitude, depravity, lipstick, rouge!

With no sun touching their pallor, with no cosmetics sullying their pure waxiness, the female of 1900 looked like something that lived under a log. I realize that there are songs and ballads of the eighteen hundreds celebrating the lovely roses that bloomed on the cheeks of the girls, and the ruby lips. But those were country girls they were singing of. The city girls gloried in their achromatism, their etiolation. They looked anaemic. Possibly they were anaemic. I have some old class pictures of my schooldays. The boys look like contemporary boys. The girls look like suet. They all wore brimmed hats to keep the sun off them. They hid from the sun. A summer resort in 1900, was a large hotel with verandahs, awnings. It was not from modesty alone the ladies wore bathing suits from their ears to their ankles. It was for fear of the sun.

Now, if you can't get enough sun, you can buy cosmetics to turn you brown. Buy them from the store counter loaded with rouge, lipstick, nail polish, eyebrow pencils, shadow for eyelids, eyelash wax. Gosh!

Subsidy Sticks Around

(Winnipeg Tribune)

During World War II the Dominion Government decided to pay part of the freight costs on feed grain moving from the prairies to Central Canada and to British Columbia, in order to encourage production of meat which at that time was in critically short supply. The subsidy was supposed to be an emergency measure. Yet the subsidy is still being paid today, long after the end of the war and long after the wartime need for meat for export ended.

Dancing Rats

(New York Herald Tribune)

There is a breed of rats, according to Professor Jean Mayer, of Harvard, which waltzes. dancing school, just born that way.

The professor told the British Association for the Advancement of Science about his experiments in making rats get fat. He could make lazy rats gain weight, but could not put poundage on the waltzers. He drew the conclusion that obese humans should resort to proper dieting plus waltzing if they wish to reduce.

Bamboo Is Staunch Ally Of Unseen Jungle Fighters

(From The Crowsnest)

Jungle warfare is something which appears to lie well outside the orbit of the Royal Canadian Navy's activities and even in these days when hot spots develop in distant corners of the world the chances of Canadian sailors having to fight their way through steaming tropical rain forests seem remote indeed.

During the Second World War one Canadian officer, Lieut. Ian Alcock, RCNVR, did, in fact, find himself stranded in the Malayan jungle for two and one-half months. His story has been told in "Prize Distant Ships", the unofficial operational history of the RCN.

At the present time three officers of the RCN are in Indo-China as part of the Canadian truce team serving with the International Commission to Viet Nam. They are Lt.-Cdr. George C. A. Hudson, Lt.-Cdr. Thomas E. Connors and Lt.-Cdr. (L) Frederick C. Palmer.

Lt.Cdr. Hudson was intrigued by the problem of how war could be carried on in the jungle under seemingly impossible conditions. His inquiries disclosed to him that the jungle fighters had an extremely valuable and versatile ally in the tallest member of the grass family, the bamboo. From these graceful tropical trees were derived spears which could quietly drop a sentry or stick a wild pig; torches to light the way along jungle trails; water to drink; fuel and cooking utensils to prepare the daily rice ration, and, when supply lines failed, edible green shoots to stave off hunger.

In the following article on jungle warfare, the initials "PAVN" stand for "People's Army Viet Nam", the French equivalent being "APVN" for "Armee Populaire de Viet Nam". Lt.-Cdr. Hudson explains that the title Viet Minh is no longer used, as it was the name of a political party and, now that it controls the north of Viet Nam, its members have called the country the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam, or DRVN.

From conversations I have had with PAVN officers concerning jungle warfare, it would appear that they did not employ Chinese or Japanese instructors to benefit from their experience, but relied on their own people who lived in the jungle to provide the nucleus of instructors.

It normally took three months of living in the jungle to produce a trained soldier. During the whole of that period, the soldier was in a "mobile school." It was "mobile" for security reasons and the site of the school could always be moved from one area to another to avoid any dislocation in training. I have been assured that on completion of the course, life became quite pleasant in the jungle and very safe.

One of the earliest things taught about the jungle was the many uses to which bamboo could be put. It was an axiom that the bamboo tree was of far greater value than a rifle. There are more than 22 varieties of bamboo normally found in Northern Viet Nam.

A simple illustration of one of the uses of bamboo, is the question of movement at night in the jungle. I had asked how their patrols moved around at night, without any light, particularly when they had been trained to move so quietly. I was informed that certain kinds of bamboo trees had leaves of which the underside was iridescent. When darkness descended it became luminous. At dusk each man collected three or four leaves and tucked them under the collar at the back of his coat. These leaves are clearly visible on a dark night at five or six yards. All a man had to do, then, was to watch the leaves of the man in front.

Glow-worms pinned to the trees with bamboo splinters, were used as sign posts at night. If carefully pinned to a tree, the insect would remain alive and wriggling for several hours.

MOVE QUIETLY

Much of the early stages of training in jungle warfare consisted in teaching a man to move quietly. This is done so thoroughly that a soldier can move around you at five yards without fear of being detected. All movement in the jungle is done in bare feet. The practice of keeping completely motionless was greatly encouraged amongst guards and sentries even in peacetime.

Amongst the many reasons given for remaining barefooted in the jungle was that of the leeches. During the rainy seasons, leeches are a plague, and could crawl inside a shoe or down a sock. As the bite produced no pain, a man could lose a great deal of blood before he noticed the leech. When barefooted, however, he could quickly spot the leech and remove it with a sharp knife.

There are two main diseases which affect the fighting efficiency of men in the jungle. One is dysentry and the other malaria. Previously the treatment for malaria had been quinine, but in 1952 a paludrine plant was established in northern Viet Nam and they have been using paludrine ever since.

All water in northern areas was boiled before use, not as a precaution against dysentry, but to remove some of the limestone found in these areas.

Bamboo trees contain much water in the hollow trunk; a tree about four inches in diameter contains the most water. After the water has been drunk, the trunk might be cut into sections, one end of each section being cut obliquely to provide a spout. Water from streams would then be put in these sections and boiled, by the simple process of propping up the section and lighting a fire underneath it, the pith of the inside of the trunk absorbing some of the limestone content of the water whilst it boiled.

To avoid carrying excess weights these hollow sections of the bamboo trees were also used as pans in which to cook rice. To avoid any loss of bulk, the rice was not put in water until the water had first been brought to the boil; the rice was then added (which reduced the temperature of the water) and allowed to cook only until the water again started to boil. It was then drained off and eaten.

MUST HAVE SALT

As far as food was concerned, nothing was lacking in the jungle except salt. No shortage of food was as serious as that lack of salt, which is absolutely essential in their diet. They would sooner go without food than go without salt.

Soldiers made their own slingshots and easily provided enough birds to supplement the rice ration. Larger animals such as wild pigs and deer were stalked and then killed with a spear made of bamboo and carefully sharpened at one end. Enemy sentries were also stalked in the same way, and a sharp bamboo spear could transfix a man.

All troops carried in their pockets the leaves of a plant, which when dried produced a strong smell of cooked rice. In the event of the failure of the rice ration, a man would have to content himself with the smell alone. I am assured that it did not excite his appetite but rather tended to satisfy it. The young shoots of the ubiquitous bamboo tree were eaten if all other sources failed.

The pay of the PAVN soldier is based purely on a rice ration. A private, for instance, was paid 50 kilograms of rice a month, and a captain 70 kilograms. Each consumed 20 kilograms of rice a month; bartered a small portion of it for other foods, and the remainder was converted into "dongs" which he could send home. However, the actual amount he could send home would depend on the rate of exchange in the area in which he was at the time.

Flashlights are never used in the jungle, as it was found that animals such as tigers and panthers were apt to regard them as the eye of some large beast and would approach to attack it. The use of flashlights was discontinued and once again recourse was made to the bamboo tree to provide flares. These consist of a three-foot length of bamboo split lengthwise and then turned inside out, so that the soft pith was now on the outside. It was then ignited and, provided it was dry (i.e., yellow on the outside), a torch of this length would last the user for nearly an hour.

LIKED BY SNAKES

However, such flares had one grave disadvantage; the ash of the bamboo is extremely attractive to snakes who would attack the man carrying the flare before eating the ash. This danger was generally obviated by having an additional man to act as lookiut behind the torchbearer.

On the subject of snakes, experiments have been carried out to ascertain the best deterrent. One PAVN I have spoken to told me that he had taken part in some tests and it was found that nylon seemed to be the best. While they had proved this to their own satisfaction, they were unable to give any reasons as to whether it was the color, smell or texture or nylon which warded off snakes. Nylon tents and nylon groundsheets were considered ideal. The nylon ropes of parachutes were "un-laid" and the yarn used with bamboo slats to make a hammock which they rigged in the trees, where they could sleep secure from wild animals and where they could also remain as scouts during the daytime.

The difficulties experienced in cooking food without being detected, were solved in 1950 by a Viet Minh soldier who devised a fairly simple stove. The stove is constructed by first digging a hole in the ground; this forms the furnace. From this hole lengths of bamboo are laid in shallow trenches, radiating outwards from the hole like the spokes of a wheel. Each of these spokes is six to eight feet long, and at intervals of approximately eight inches small hollow pieces of bamboo are inserted; the tops of these pieces being level with the ground. A tunnel of earth then filled in. 70 centimetres in (at least) length) leads to the main furnace.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

So Steeped In Fishlore

A professional man (not a physician) gave my morale a boost when the impediments in the way of teaching the truth were getting me down.

For too long, the professional man writes, I have been meaning to write this appreciation. . .

"Something in the way you treat the matter of the critical period of a woman's life first amazed and then seemed to lift a great anxiety from my good a wife's mind. You gave her a wholly new outlook upon the change of life. Her friends, her older friends, had led her to expect all sorts of dreadful things.

"Now if you think it is odd that I am telling you about this instead of the boss herself. . ."

It is not odd. It is just unusual for a busy professional man to bother—to say thanks, I mean, although it is unusual, I regret to say, for a man to show such tender solicitude for the peace of mind of the mother of his grown children.

That so many young women dread the menopause as a "critical period" and call it "change of life" is a sad commentary on education in Yankeeland. It seems that it suits the book of the quacks and nostrum mongers, to keep the credulous sex ignorant.

Middle-aged men and women alike are subject to physical degeneration, which manifests itself in various ways. Maybe I bend too far backward, but I'd rather not say any more about these manifestations at present, except this: If or when you find or fear that you are not so well or not so efficient or not so cheerful as you should be, no matter whether you're 35, 45 or 55, don't mess around, report to your physician for a health examination — not a "check-up," but a physical examination and whatever functional or laboratory tests your physician considers necessary.

Strength for the Day

AGE OF NERVOUS BREAKDOWNS

One out of every twelve persons will spend some of his life—perhaps the most of it—in a mental institution. More than half of the hospital beds in our country at the present time are occupied by mental patients.

There is at least a little comfort in the realization that these figures are not quite as bad as they seem. Many people are in institutions today who, fifty or a hundred years ago, would have been at large or in their own homes. But certainly it is true that the more refined and sophisticated a civilization becomes, the more do people suffer from nervous disorders. Some say this is due to frustration, but the frustrations of the past apparently have been much more severe than the frustrations of the present. Tension certainly has a great deal to do with mental breakdowns. Alcohol is still the same vicious factor it has always been in the situation. Living cooped up in cities and especially in slums has done our generation no good.

We need to ponder the fact that the most enlightened generation is satistically worse than any previous generation, as regards mental diseases. The more enlightened we become, the more money we have to spend for insane asylums.

Since mind and soul are so closely related, may it not be that this dire modern situation may be chiefly a spiritual problem rather than a social, economic, or psychological problem?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNEXPECTED SPARKS

In my Nova Scotia summer island retreat I have a big log fireplace. I wouldn't have a home anywhere, if I could help it, that didn't have a fireplace, no matter how small. It does something to you that you may not realize at the time, but as you sit before its fire while it warms to you! And there is something nostalgic about it—especially as it dies out.

Many a thought and lesson on life is displayed in the log fire. I recently came across an apt quotation but I do not know its author. Here it is: "Our brightest blazes of gladness are commonly kindled by unexpected sparks." An unexpected letter, perhaps, a telegram or some simple, though inexpensive gift, or an unexpected meeting with a stimulating friend. These unexpected sparks are the life of life! Those sparks that crackle and often shoot against the fire screen are symbolic of the bright thoughts that come to one when sitting before such a burning of logs, while engaged in good talk with a friend.

There are writers who have the gift of so composing their thoughts that their talk sparkles, and when put into print it loses nothing of its original expression. I take little stock in these modern humorists who have to depend upon ghost writers to give them popularity. Their humor is synthetic. Rather have I always enjoyed Mark Twain, George Fitch (Siwash College(Kin Hubbard (Abe Martin) Don Marquis (archy and mehitabel) and delightful H.I. Phillips. These natural humorists have sparks to their talk. Long may their names be blessed!

Many of our days would seem dull and dreary were it not for the fact that unexpected sparks of some nature enter into the experience of almost every day—if we get in their way In fact we can create them ourselves. It's the tiny spark that ignites in our automobile engine that makes it go. The unexpected ones in our daily lives are what make us go!

This provides the draught which keeps the furnace going and which also forces the smoke along the main "spokes" and up the smaller pieces and out into the air.

The effect is to split up the concentration of smoke and disperse it in small quantities over a wide area. At 25 yards it is impossible to observe any smoke whatsoever.

This camp fire was an immediate success and troops were able to have hot meals by day and night. This important contribution to morale was recognized by Ho Chi Minh who gave orders for a special award to be given to its inventor.

It was generally considered that life in the jungle was relatively easy once one had undergone training, which was one of the reasons why large numbers of women were employed in the jungle, even as soldiers.—E.C.H.

Former CP Editor Doug How Moving to Parlaiment Hill

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Free-lance writer Doug How is leaving his semi-hermitage at Halfway River, N.S., to help a busy cabinet minister look after Canada's public works. He becomes executive assistant to Works Minister Winters July 4.

How, 36, is a tall hard-muscled man with grey-brown eyes and a mouth that grins warmly under a black moustache.

He said during a trip to Halifax that he retreated to the Cumberland county hamlet two years ago to write what he pleased. His pleasure included a coast-to-coast daily newspaper column, Maritime coverage for Time magazine, radio talks for CBC and the history of the 8th New Brunswick Princess Louise Hussars of Sussex, N.B.

WIDE CAREER

Since he graduated from a Dorchester, N.B., high school in 1936 he has been a sports writer and general reporter with the Moncton Times and Transcript, an editor in the Halifax bureau of The Canadian Press, an overseas officer in the Cape Breton Highlanders, a CP editor and war correspondent and has served eight years as a CP parliamentary reporter in Ottawa.

He recalls his work for CP on the Halifax waterfront in the early years of the war as his "most colorful and most active beat."

In Ottawa, part of his job will be maintaining liaison between Mr. Winters and the press, Parliament and his constituency of Lunenburg-Queens.

He says he's not sure he's happy about leaving peaceful Halfway river where he lived the "life of a country squire, just hunting, fishing and walking."

TERRIFIC YEARS

"They were terrific years. I recognize the hazards of free-lancing, but I had the regimental history as my bread and butter," he says.

But he looks forward to returning to Ottawa. "I have a high respect for the parliamentarian and the institutions of the House. For that reason I'm glad to be going back."

Douglas W. How was born in Winnipeg in 1919. His father, a Nova Scotian, died when he was two so his mother moved back to her native New Brunswick with her daughter and three sons. Now she lives in South Burnaby, B.C., with a son, Jim. Another son, Henry, edits an Ontario weekly.

Doug was brought up in Dorchester. He married a Springhill, N.S., girl seven weeks before he went overseas in 1942. They have two girls and a boy. The oldest is 12.

EDITED PAPER

After his release from the army overseas to become a war correspondent, he edited "CP News," a Canadian Press newspaper for servicemen for six months, then covered Canadian forces on the Italian front until December, 1944.

A year later he was in CP's Ottawa bureau where he helped cover the Russian spy case. While he was on the defence department beat in Ottawa he took a trip to Germany where he broke the story that Kurt Mayer, controversial German SS general, was being allowed out of prison to spend weekends with his family.

Doug met his new boss when the latter was a young back-bencher still wearing the uniform of lieutenant-colonel.

"I always thought he was a very fine fellow," How recalls.

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. The "pain cry" should have instant attention. If it is caused by the distress due to gas on the stomach or bowels, or those common digestive upsets, try sweet-tasting Baby's Own Tablets.

As one Ontario mother reports,—"I used to be a worry when it was time my baby had an upset spell, needed a regulator. Well, that problem was solved when my sister said, 'Give Baby's Own Tablets.' And during teething times—when babies are feverish, restless due to irregularity or have an upset tummy—Baby's Own Tablets not only relieve efficiently, but do it quickly. I wouldn't be without them."

Easy to take . . . mild, yet effective for constipation, digestive upsets, and other minor infant troubles. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Get a package today.

Argyll Chapter Enjoys Pot-Luck Luncheon

The Argyll Chapter IODE, held its June meeting at the summer residence of Mrs. Ronald Keel, at Rossmore.

After a pot-luck luncheon, the meeting was opened by Mrs. Everett Fairman, the regent.

Mrs. Fred Sprague read the treasurer's report. Mrs. Everett Fairman thanked the members for their efforts in the recent successful rummage sale.

Mrs. Fred Lazier asked all the members, who were able to knit or sew during the summer months to take wool or garments for the parcels to be sent overseas in the fall.

It was decided to have a tag day in September and a bridge and tea will be held in the Officers' Mess, Belleville Armouries in the fall.

Tickets on a draw for a card table and chairs are to be sold by the members during the summer months. The winning number to be drawn for at the annual mixed bridge party.

CONVENTION TRIP

Mrs. Harold Vaughan and Mrs. Lionel Blaker, gave an interesting report on their trip to the IODE convention in Hamilton. They as representatives of the Argyll Chapter IODE, tried to bring back an item of interest to each executive, convener and member of the chapter.

It was stressed at all sessions that it is the duty to welcome new Canadians and it was gratifying to the delegates to know that the Argyll Chapter IODE had sponsored a party at the Belleville Armouries for a group of these new Canadians after they had received their citizenship papers at the Court House last March.

When Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton, welcomed the IODE convention, he quoted the following Chinese proverb:

"If there is righteousness in the heart, there will be beauty in the character; if there is character in the home, there will be order in the nation; if there is order in the nation, there will be peace on earth."

Best wishes and bon voyage by the members of the chapter were given to Mrs. Fred Sprague, who is vacationing in England and on the continent during the summer.

The meeting was brought to a close by the regent.

It had been a lovely afternoon and the members enjoyed the hospitality of their hostess and the cool breeze of the Bay of Quinte.

Weddings

HOLLAND—GRANT

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the rectory of St. Michael's Catholic church at 2.30 p.m., on Saturday when Patricia Shirley Grant, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grant of Belleville, and Patrick John Holland, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holland of Belleville, exchanged marriage vows. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Peter Murphy.

The bride was attired in pink nylon over net with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

She was attended by Carol Murray wearing a charcoal grey dress, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Arthur O'Sullivan supported the groom.

The reception was held at the bridegroom's mother's home on Alexander Street, following the ceremony. The bride's mother, Mrs. William Grant wearing a green flowered dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Harry Holland, wearing a navy sheer dress with pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Following the reception the happy couple motored to Watertown and points in northern United States. They planned to take up residence in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests attending the reception were present from Mountain View, Lindsay and Trenton.

O.E.S. Chapter 55 Holds "Esther Night"

Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S., held its regular meeting Friday in the Masonic Temple.

Distinguished guests present were, Mrs. Ida Broad, DDGM, of Madoc; Mrs. Edna Dobbs, Grand Martha of Belleville; Mrs. Laura Carter, Grand Esther of Brighton; and a number of PDDG matrons of the district, presiding worthy matrons and patrons and past worthy matrons and patrons.

Following the meeting a ceremony took place honoring "Grand Esther" in which past Esthers of the chapter and presiding Esthers of the district, took part.

Mrs. Olive Jones, Esther of Belleville Chapter No. 55, gave a complete and beautiful story of "Esther" and made a presentation of gift and flowers to the honored guest.

Miss Anne Davidson is the presiding matron of this chapter.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE WI

The June meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Vernon Bush, 4th of Sidney, with good attendance, including new members. The meeting opened in the usual manner with the president, Mrs. Gerald Herrington presiding.

"Thank-you" notes from Mrs. Harry Bleecker, who had been a patient in Campbellford Hospital, and Mrs. Audrey Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, who had received baby gifts, also two "thank-you" letters from "Save the Children Fund" for clothing sent them, were read.

A donation of $10 will be sent to the Salvation Army to help them in their much needed work.

A letter was also read from P. I. Timmins concerning blind campaign which will be looked after in the near future.

Mrs. J. Morris, Mrs. Howard Richards were appointed as delegates to attend the district annual at the Baptist church.

Forty new song sheets were ordered to help with programs for the coming year.

HAND BOOK

Mrs. George Burkitt gave a sketch on the Hand Book mostly dealing with district annual and selecting of delegates.

The topic "The Miracle of Plywood", was given by Mrs. Milton Grills. She started from the life of the tree down through the process of kiln drying and shrinking, resin filling, until it became dried and used by carpenters in numerous ways and places. She also had several samples to show. Most of the important literature on this topic had been found in the Belleville Public Library.

Jean Frost gave a demonstration on a "Clown Pin Cushion" she had learned to make at Peterborough Teachers' College.

Mrs. George Bird gave a reading ,"The Cost of High Living."

Mrs. Bert Bush, a poem "Forgive Us," by Edna Jacques.

Mrs. Ross Fleming, a reading "Off the Beaten Track" also by Edna Jacques.

A "thank-you" was tendered Mrs. Bush for opening her home.

Refreshments were served by June hostesses: Mrs. G. Bird, Mrs. M. Snider, Mrs. G. Pollard, Mrs. R. Fleming, Mrs. A. Martyn, Mrs. M. Mallory.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Mallory, 4th of Sidney with Mrs. Ross Dafoe as convener and her topic the "Origin of the Pin".

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE W.M.C.

FRANKFORD — The June meeting of the W. M. C. of the Full Gospel Tabernacle was held at the home of Mrs. George Chapman on Thursday night.

Mrs. Wilbert Reid welcomed everyone and opened the meeting. Choruses were sung and Mrs. Fred Miller led in prayer.

Mrs. Gordon Pierce read the Scripture from St. John Chapter 6 and a reading, "It is time to seek the Lord".

Miss Marjorie Forbes read the Secretary's report from the previous meeting. Letters from the Rev. and Mrs. W.J. Huchinson, of Toronto, the Rev. Rene Robert of Montreal, the Rev. and Mrs. Hunter of Transvaal Africa and the Rev. and Mrs. Don Kauffman of Japan for parcels received.

Needs were mentioned and work was handed in. Mrs. W. Read read the prayer bulletin.

W. A.

The W. A. of the Frankford United Church held its last meeting until September, in Rose Lowery Hall, with Mrs. Frank Rabel presiding.

The theme of the day was "I am the true Vine." Mrs. H. Terry read the Scripture from John, 15 and Mrs. Rabel commented on the theme.

Mrs. W. Morrow gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. H. Terry reported on the flower fund. Roll call showed 15 members and a number of visitors present.

A business period followed and the members will cater to the Orange Lodge day on July 9 in Frankford. There were four birthdays and Mrs. Cecil Reid received the birthday gift.

A donation was given to Camp Quin-Mo-Lac.

Mrs W. Morrow rendered a beautiful solo "Jesus, I am resting, resting", which closed the business portion of the meeting.

Mrs. B. Bush, Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel, and Mrs. H. Terry favored with readings.. The hostesses Mrs. Terry, Mrs. R. Moran, and Mrs. C.E. Clarke, served refreshments.

W. A.

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Ellis Jones was hostess to the Women's Association of Rylstone United Church. There were 13 ladies and several children in attendance. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Ray Stewart.

The scripture reading, taken from John 4, was read by Mrs. Stewart.

A reading "Our Prayers", was read by Mrs. Will Rutherford, and a piano solo of sacred songs was given by Mrs. Clarence Thomson. A reading on Missionary Work, entitled "Isle of Happy Healing," was read by Mrs. Sanford Meikiejohn. A vocal solo, "My Task," was rendered by Mrs. Will Rutherford, with Mrs. Clarence Thomson at the piano. Mrs. Thomas McKeown gave a reading, "For Christ,"

A "Cloth Contest" was put on by Mrs. Robert Spencer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wilfred Spencer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lily Anderson.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER HUSBAND WANTS TO MAKE HER OVER

How many women are there, I wonder, who, in advance of marriage, heard these words from their husbands-to-be: "I love you just as you are, darling," and then had the experience of having their husbands start trying to make them over when the wedding day was hardly out of sight?

One very troubled wife who writes me is apparently having practically this type of experience.

Her story is a sad one, beginning with her first marriage at 14. During the period between this marriage and the divorce which ended it, she had four children, and, eventually, a hysterectomy.

Three years ago, at 23, she married again.

"Before our marriage," she writes, "I told my husband everything about myself, including the fact that I'd never be able to give him children of his own. He went into marriage with me with his eyes open, which seemed to be agreeable to him at that time. He understood that he would be stepfather to my youngest child, who is with me.

"But he yells at me practically all the time. If I make a little mistake like breaking a dish, or forgetting to give my son a handkerchief, etc., he yells at me until I get a terrific headache. If I ever cry, that makes him even madder. He says he can't stand a crying woman. He never fails to call me a dumb, stupid woman. He also tries to make me perfect in speech, as he thinks he knows how to pronounce every word correctly, yet he is forever swearing and using words unheard of by most people. At times when I feel I can't take his abuse another minute, I yell back at him.

"God knows I try very hard to be a good wife. I do my work on a daily schedule so that I can have time for him after he gets home from his own work. Now I'm getting a feeling that I try too hard, as it is plain he isn't appreciative. He is very good about supporting us, works five days a week and isn't stingy at all, but I just can't figure out why he's always acting like a brute.

"I can't talk our situation over with him because he won't listen, and he never answers me when I ask him why doesn't anything ever please him. Now I feel as though I can't stand this way of life much longer without becoming insane.

"He knows I don't want to leave him, as I feel people will think something is wrong with me that I can't make a go of marriage. My parents will think it's my fault. I'd like to add that he is the only man I've ever really loved. He is 31 years old and very handsome."

What I think this woman should do is to take the remodelling of herself into her own hands and turn herself into someone who will make her husband sit up and take notice. I'm not saying that she needs to be made over, because I don't know enough about her to be able to form any opinion. But I do say that I believe many married women who have husband trouble might go far toward solving the problem by becoming so attractive, and so interesting, that their husbands cannot help but admire them.

Since she says her husband is not stingy, perhaps that means she has a little money of her own to spend as she pleases. Then it would be worth her while to pay a visit to a beauty shop with the idea of finding out if she might get a new hairdo, or learn how to use cosmetics and groom herself so that she would look her most attractive at all times. Perhaps she could treat herself to a new dress or two which would complete the pretty picture.

She speaks of her husband constantly correcting her English. Is there any chance that it may really need correction? That, actually, she might learn to speak in a more cultured way? I suggest that she ask herself this question and give herself an honest answer. If her answer is yes, then I suggest that she find out if there are Adult Education courses in her town and, if so, that she talk with the people running them, get their advice on which course would be most useful to her and sign up for it. To get the information, she should call the Superintendent of Schools.

There might be another course or two—such as one on books, or current events or hobbies—through which she could learn things that would make her a livelier and more interesting companion to her husband.

These are only a few of the suggestions I might make to her if she thinks well of this whole idea. After she has thought it all over, will she let me know how she feels about it?

Celery Stars in Casserole

By Mary Moore

Way back when I was knee high to a grasshopper and returning home from school, I can remember a delicious aroma — a combination of baking celery and cheese—which assailed my nostrils on occasion, and which spelled Home, Sweet Home in big letters.

My Mother was a good cook. And an economical one. She had to be with a family of six to provide for on a moderate income. The tricks and short cuts to good eating she resorted to were legion. Not even the last scrap of the roast was discarded. No vegetable water escaped the soup pot. Many were the stews and left over vegetables that found their way into the oven under the flakiest, most succulent pastry, or biscuit crust you could imagine.

My Father enjoyed "Ettie's" cooking and loved to remind us that our Mother was the best cook he knew. I was completely sold on the idea and even mildly surprised when, on the rare occasions when the small fry were invited out to dinner, our hostess set before us a faultless sample of the culinary art. How did she ever manage it? My Mother was the only one who could cook like that!

But about the Celery Dish. This was her favorite way (and now mine) of using leaves of celery, along with the coarser outside stalks. Too much good vitamin and mineral content to discard them, yet flavor a bit strong for eating raw. Celery dish is a good main supper or luncheon casserole, with its cheese ingredient providing valuable protein content. Or as a dinner vegetable it cannot be beaten.

CELERY DISH

Wash and cut up outside stalks and leaves of celery (about two cups) in one inch sections and cook in 3-4 of a cup of water for ten minutes. Transfer to casserole, add one cup grated old Canadian cheese, 1-2 teaspoon salt and eight large broken-up soda biscuits. Cover with milk and cook in moderate oven for thirty minutes.

For variation, and to provide most substantial fare, this dish may be topped with strips of bacon or rows of sausages. Simply delish.

NOTE:

Readers may remember that Kae B. sent us her menu and method for serving a buffet supper to 8 people and offered to send detailed recipes for Frenched Pork Tenderloins en casserole and Jellied Cranberry Salad if I wanted them. I did. She did. I have room for:

FRENCHED PORK TENDERLOINS EN CASSEROLE

(Courtesy Kae B.)

Allow at least three patties per person. Remove bits of fat and use to fry them. First shake them in seasoned flour (add salt, pepper and celery salt to flour) in a brown paper bag. Brown each piece of meat lightly on both sides in heavy frying pan. Drain on paper towel and place in casserole. Cover with one tin of condensed Cream of Mushroom soup, 1 tin of canned mushrooms—juice and all—cutting up any large pieces, (this will do for anything up to three pounds of meat. If a larger quantity is used, a second tin of soup and 1-2 tin of water should be added). Cover casserole and bake at 375 deg. for an hour. Remove meat to a heated platter and mushroom sauce to a tureen or bowl, so that it can be spooned over the rice. (Peek at half-time and add water if necessary.) (I have refrigerated this dish before baking when I would have time to cook it the night of the dinner party. If refrigerated fully cooked—be sure that it is in the oven long enough to be thoroughly heated through at serving time.)

NOTE:

In the column of May 2nd. Kae included in her menu minute rice. Maybe you remember. Thanks again Kae.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ADVICE ON RICE THROWING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister was married several years ago, and when the rice was thrown at her and her groom at the wedding there was an unfortunate occurrence. So, at my wedding which is to be soon, my mother insists there shall be no rice throwing, and she's undoubtedly right about this. What would you suggest instead of the rice? And who provides the substitue?

— Bride-to-be

"Unfortnate occurrences" certainly can happen with rice throwing . . . and your mother is very wise to suggest the safer procedure usually used now. Today, confetti, so gay and colorful and wedding-y, is generally used sometimes rose petals, either real or of paper. The "substitute" for the rice is provided by your family, as a wedding expense.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

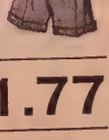
WHAT DO YOUR SHOULDERS REVEAL?

Do you know that your shoulders can express your personality, your emotions and your disposition? It is a fact. Their carriage and movements can express anger, surprise, naivete, sophistication. In defeat the slump forward. In triumph, they are carried proudly.

Rigid shoulders indicate that a woman is bossy. Lip, soft ones usually belong to the woman who still has a bit of that sheltered, clinging vine quality in her make up.

With the bare top formal so popular, shoulders must be pretty, of pleasing contour, and unblemished skin surface. They should assume an easy pose. Tense muscles keep nerves under strain. If you feel that your body is rigid, swing your arms, set your shoulders free.

Before going to sleep and when awakening in the morning, do stretching exercises. They do wonders to keep fibers resilient, lines youthful. Lie on yourback, stretch your arms, even your fingers. Extend your legs until your toes touch the footboard. Throw your head as far back as possible and stretch the muscles of your neck. Stretch as though you were trying to pull your body apart at the waitline. It's grand for toning the muscles of the mid-section where fat cells accumulate first.



For reducing over-plump shoulders, do what are called "flying" movements. Stand tall, pull in your tummy, expand your chest. Lift your hands high in front of you. Swing them down and up, again and again. Good for skinny shoulders too, as it is a normalizing exercise.

Radio and TV Discussed At Service Club

GANANOQUE (CP)—Arthur L. Davies, publisher and general-manager of the Kingston Whig-Standard said Monday Canadian radio and television stations are in the same position as English papers were when they required a government licence to print.

Speaking to a Gananoque service club, he said radio and TV have nothing to compare with the editorial page of a newspaper.

"If there were no newspapers to present news and comment, it would not take any great stretch of the imagination to believe that the government would not let anyone go on the air and express anything against the country," he said

"If a government or a board under a government licenses any business, it has some control of that business," said Mr. Davies, who is associated with CKWS-TV and CKWS-radio.

"Anyone can publish a newspaper and go ahead and print what he likes and take the consequences . . . but a radio or TV station without a government licence is out of business."

North Korean Airmen Surrender

SEOUL (AP)—Two young North Korean fliers buzzed the Seoul airport Tues. in an old Russian-built Yak fighter, then landed and gave themselves up to cheering South Korean airmen.

The two were marched to Republic of Korea Air Force headquarters for questioning. It was presumed they sought political asylum.

They were identified as Capt. Lee Un Yong and Lieut. Lee Eun Song, each 24. South Korean officers said one was trained in Russia and the other in Red China.

Italian Police Hunt New York Bank Robbers

ROME (AP) — An order was flashed to police throughout Italy Tues. to keep a close watch for four men and a pretty Canadian girl, suspected of complicity in New York's daring $35,000 record bank robbery last April.

There was no arrest order, but the word went out to find the suspects and trail them until further orders.

Interpol, the little-publicized international police organization which acts as a "united nations" against crime, gave the word.

Italian police said the leader of the group is believed to be Giuseppe di Taco, a 37-year-old New Yorker. They gave the names of those with him as John Timothy O'Connell, 35, and Daniel William MacGuire, 28, also of New York; Peter Jerome Kirdam, 34, of Manchester, England; and Jeanette Forest, 27, of Montreal.

Police emphasized that there are no charges against the group and that they have no arrest order. They simply went to locate them and keep them under surveillance as long as they stay in Italy.

The New York robbery was skillfully staged by four men on April 6. Their haul was mostly in $5, $10 and $20 bills the bank had on hand to meet a payroll that day.

The bank later figured the robbers had got away with exactly $305,243.17, the largest single cash robbery in United States banking history.

PLANES CRASH GLASS

BISHOPS WALTHAM, England (Reuters)—Leslie Green, greenhouse owner, Monday complained to the air ministry that 72 of his greenhouse windows were shattered when a jet plane crashed the sound barrier. Green claimed it was the 16th time windows had been broken by supersonic bangs over his nursery since last July.

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW.—The June meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Allan Wallbridge, Huff's Island with around 28 ladies in attendance.

After a number of business discussions, Mrs. Stanley Barber gave her president's report of the three days which she had spent in Guelph, and it was most interesting.

Mrs. E. Hall gave the "Current Events" for the past month.

This meeting was "Grandmother's Meeting" and was under the convenership of Mrs. G. Neal. There were 11 grandmothers present, each contributing to the program.

Prizes were given to the oldest grandmother, the youngest and to the one with the most grandchildren.

The grandmothers really excelled themselves and everyone enjoyed their program.

Mrs. G. Neal gave an excellent delegate's report of the annual county convention which was held in Demorestville.

Mrs. Clifford Barber thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

The meeting was closed after which the hostess assisted by several ladies, served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

The July meeting will be held on July 6, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Poste.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Canning and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lauder of Oshawa, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Minaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Miss Lillian Sprague also Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste attended Quinte Chapter at Amelasburg on Thursday evening, and also enjoyed the annual ice cream, strawberry and cake treat which was served after the meeting.

Decoration day was held at the cemetery at Mountain View directly after the church service on Sunday afternoon.

Senator Claims Ottawa Editor Slandered Senate in CBC Broadcast on Divorce Cases

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Arthur Roebuck said Tuesday night that Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's magazine, slandered the Senate and some Senate witnesses in a CBC broadcast dealing with divorce cases considered by Parliament.

The Ontario Liberal, chairman of the Senate divorce committee, said in the upper house it is a matter of "grave concern" to him "to find a government institution such as the CBC permitting the use of its facilities for such purposes."

He said Mr. Fraser referred in the CBC program "News Roundup" last Thursday night to a bill introduced in the Commons by Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) to repeal a parliamentary divorce granted last March 24 to Mrs. Muriel Claire Wilson Hart of Montreal.

(Mr. Regier said in an interview that his intention was to set right "a grave injustice" to the woman's husband, Lawrence Hart, and their two children. Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin ruled the bill out of order when it was introduced in the House Tuesday by Mr. Regier.)

BILL REFERENCE

Senator Roebuck said the editor referred to the bill as being "for the relief of Lawrence Hart, who claims he was divorced without his knowledge while away in Europe."

The senator added that Mr. Fraser said the real purpose of the bill was to draw attention to the CCF effort to replace the system of parliamentary divorce because the members of that party "think the Senate divorce committee does lamentably sloppy job."

Senator Roebuck said he has a sworn statement that Mr. Hart was served with notice that his wife intended to apply to Parliament for divorce. Also, he said, Mr. Hart had admitted since the hearing to a Senate official that he had been served with the notice.

". . . An utterly false statement that a divorce was granted by the Senate without notice to the divorcee is a charge so serious that it cannot be wholly disregarded by this House when the slander is publicized to the people of Canada by the national broadcasting system," Senator Roebuck said.

". . . This (Senate) cannot and should not tolerate the slandering of witnesses who testify under oath before it or any of its committees."

OTHER PROCEEDINGS

Senator Roebuck said Mr. Fraser in referring to other divorce proceedings of last session of Parliament, had said: "Last year they (the CCF) managed to block one divorce bill in which, it turned out, all the evidence against a crippled wife was fabricated and perjured."

The senator said that in this case there was no finding by any responsible body of either perjury or fabrication by anyone, nor was there any evidence to this effect. He added:

"If Mr. Fraser has evidence of perjury in that case, his remedy is a complaint to the crown attorney naming the persons accused, and not by way of a nation-wide smear upon the husband and all his witnesses."

After taking issue with statements he said Mr. Fraser made on yet another divorce case, Senator Roebuck said: "It is unbecoming to one who misstates evidence so flagrantly to refer to others as sloppy and incompetent."

DOUBLE TROUBLE

WHITNEY POINT, N. Y. (AP) Augie Tappan was sitting in his home Tuesday when an electrical storm broke. A lightning bolt struck his house, damaged several timbers in the attic and blacked out his TV set. Two minutes later Tappan received a phone call informing him that a concession stand he owned, about 15 miles from his home, had been smashed by another bolt.

Bill to Increase Judges' Salaries Meets Opposition

OTTAWA (CP)— A government bill to increase salaries of federally-paid judges by a flat $2,500 annually ran into CCF and Social Credit opposition in the Commons Tuesday while being welcomed by the Progressive Conservatives.

Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) demanded an investigation into judges' salaries and pensions, the amount of work they do, their extra-curricular activities on commissions and boards and their appointments and retirement ages.

He said judges' salaries compare favorably with those paid for comparable jobs in private life.

George McLeod (SC—Okanagan-Revelstoke) said his party opposes any increases at the present time because judges' salaries compare favorably with those paid other persons with equal qualifications in the public service.

OPPOSES SYSTEM

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) welcomed the salary increases but said his party strongly opposes the government's system of appointing judges on the basis of political qualification.

Mr. Fulton said judges are not held in as high regard as they should be partly because of the government's appointment system. He added that there is a disturbing trend towards appointing judges to commissions and boards whose job is tinged with political implications.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair interjected to ask whether Mr. Fulton realized the last B.C lawyer appointed a judge was "not only a Tory but treasurer of the Tory party in B.C."

Mr. Fulton maintained that the vast majority of appointees still are from the ranks of the Liberal party.

Allergy May Be Possible Cause Of Arthritis

TORONTO (CP) — A Kingston, Ont., doctor suggested Tuesday that allergy may be a possible cause of rheumatoid arthritis and rheumatic fever.

Dr. R. H. More, professor of pathology at Queen's University, said in an address to the British Canadian Medical Associations that the two diseases are among a large group for which medical science has failed to find a cause.

During recent studies, microscopic examinations of diseased tissues in these conditions and of similar allergic diseases have shown cells that are known to produce antibodies.

Dr. More suggested this offers strong evidence that the destructive tissue changes are definitely related to some allergic phenomena.

REDS PRACTISING

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists have staged military exercises in the coastal area opposite the Wuchiu islands, Nationalist Chinese outposts 16 miles off mainland China, Central news agency reported today. The Nationalists' official agency said the Wuchiu garrison commander reported that the Reds apparently have increased their ground forces in the area.

26 Doukhobor Mothers Fail To Win Return of Children

NELSON, B. C. (CP)—Twenty-six mothers of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors remained in the courtroom here Tuesday for an hour, praying tearfully and talking, after magistrate William Evans refused to let their children return to them.

The delegation of mothers sought release of their children from the welfare school at New Denver near here where some 70 Doukhobor children are retained because their parents have refused to send them to school.

The mothers claimed they were making their petition to magistrate Evans on the advice of Attorney-General Robert Bonner who, they said, had told them the children could not be released by him.

The petition blamed magistrate Evans for separation of the children from their parents. For years, the Sons of Freedom in British Columbia's Kootenay region have refused to send their children to school saying that what is taught is against their religion.

Magistrate Evans replied:

"Not one child will be released on my authority until such time as you show willingness to obey our laws.

"For 50 years the people of this country have put up with a lot of grief and trouble from you. Now the people's representatives of this province have decided that the laws of our country . . . must be obeyed by all citizens, whoever they are."

FOREIGN MINISTERS IN AGREEMENT ON ADENAUER MOSCOW TRIP

Hill Family Pulls Another Body From River

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Hill family pulled another body out of the Niagara river Tuesday. It was the 389th in a unique and grisly career dating back to 1931.

That's about 16 a year. This year the Hill family has already recovered half a dozen.

The latest body was believed to be that of an elderly man who leaped from the Goat island bridge June 12. Lloyd Hill and his brother Wesley, unable to bring it up the steep gorge in the darkness, tied it to a tree overnight.

Recovering the bodies of river victims is a task of public service for the Hill family and one that sometimes brings monetary rewards. They receive payments from morticians and families of the victims.

For a while, local undertakers bid with the Hills for the bodies. Then they agreed on a uniform rate of $25 each.

THREE DEAD

Only two Hills carry on their grim inheritance: Lloyd and Wesley. William Hill Sr. died a natural death after cheating the river dozens of times. His son, Red, died in 1951 when the falls ripped his innertube contraption to shreds. Corky was killed by falling rock in a tunnel of the Hydro project here three years ago.

William Hill Sr. launched the family on a river career at the beginning of the century. Three times—in 1910, 1930 and 1931—he rode in barrels through the wild rapids below the falls. On the last attempt he became caught in a whirlpool and was pulled out by William (Red) Jr., who swam out through the raging waters and tied a line to the barrel.

The senior Hill also assisted in dozens of dangerous river rescues.

Two U.S. Airmen Killed in North

MONTREAL (CP)—The American pilot and co-pilot of a twin-engine C-46 transport were killed last Saturday when their aircraft crashed in the Northwest Territories, World-Wide Airways said Tuesday.

The plane, engaged in work on the DEW, radar line, was operated by the airway.

In Ottawa, a transport department official said the crash occurred about 250 miles north of Coral harbor on Southampton island, at the northern end of Hudson bay.

Natural Gas Well Tamed

RENOVO, Pa. (AP)—A natural gas well, which blew its cap six days ago—was tamed Tuesday by an emergency 17-man crew braving possible fire and explosion to slip a new valve in place.

The re-capping operation involved a bulldozer, a crane and a pair of men who crouched in a well-side trench to slip the valve bolts in place at the proper split second.

At one moment, the air was filled with the scream of the escaping gas, spewing millions of cubic feet of inflammable material over the wooded countryside. The next, there was silence for the first time in nearly a week.

New Liskeard Horse Dealer Convicted on Cruelty Charge

NORTH BAY (CP) — Horse dealer, J. W. Brown, of New Liskeard, Ont., was convicted in court here Tuesday of permitting horses to be caused unnecessary pain and suffering or injury and placed on suspended sentence for one year on payment of $147.50 costs.

A railway car containing 18 horses was opened by Humane Society officials at North Bay April 11. One horse was dead and four others were down. Two of these four had to be shot the same day. The remainder were re-loaded into two cars and sent on to Toronto. The horses were consigned to a rendering firm in Toronto.

Police, Humane Society officials and a veterinarian gave evidence at the trial.

The court was told one horse had a gash on the top of its hip 14 inches long, four inches wide and two inches deep. Another had a gash in its chest. Another was unable to get up because its foot was caught under a partitioned when it fell back after each attempt it gashed its eye on the slat of the car.

Veterinarian Dr. J. H. Smylie of North Bay said in his opinion the horses were malnourished and were not in fit condition to be shipped. He said he believed the 14-inch gash was the result of a kick and not a surgical wound as stated by the defence.

The horses were suffering from hypostatic pneumonia and congestion of both lungs, a condition which took at least 12 hours to develop, Dr. Smylie said.

He said a post mortem showed a jelly like substance in the flesh of one animal, indicating emaciation.

Inspector L. Hibbitt of the Toronto Humane Society said he met the cars at Toronto. One horse walked down the 12-to-13 foot ramp from the car and collapsed over the side before it got to the bottom. A second walked 80 feet and collapsed, a third walked 100 feet to the corral and collapsed.

Brown said some of the horses were from Jacksonboro and were taken out, rested, fed and watered for 24 hours and re-loaded at New Liskeard April 10. Others had been at New Liskeard for some time.

Sale of Beer, Wine in House Cafe Considered

OTTAWA (CP)—Sale of beer and wine with meals in the parliamentary restaurant is being considered as a method of saving the taxpayers money.

Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin told a press conference Tuesday that the profits would be used to reduce the amount of money Parliament appropriates each year for operation of the restaurant and cafeteria.

The proposal, he said, will be discussed with party leaders this session and will be put into effect only if there is overwhelming agreement among members of the Commons and the Senate.

Approval of the proposal would mean the sale of intoxicating beverages in the Parliament Buildings for the first time since 1916. A bar serving all types of liquor was operated in the old Centre Block destroyed by fire that year.

Mr. Beaudoin said he and Senate Speaker Wishart Robertson will open discussions on the proposal with party leaders this session. If a favorable decision was reached during the next session the sale of beer and wine could be put into effect in 1957.

If the suggestion was approved an application would be made to the Ontario government for a license. It was a matter of opinion whether Parliament could itself introduce beer and wine in the restaurant.

If he thought a horse was "tired" he did not ship it on immediately, but rested it.

He said horses coming out of the bush were usually thin; if he had not thought them fit he would not have sent them.

Evidence was given that a jolting freight car will not infrequently shake even a strong horse off its feet and once down it is impossible for it to get back up.

Alberta Liberals Seeing Signs Of Win June 29

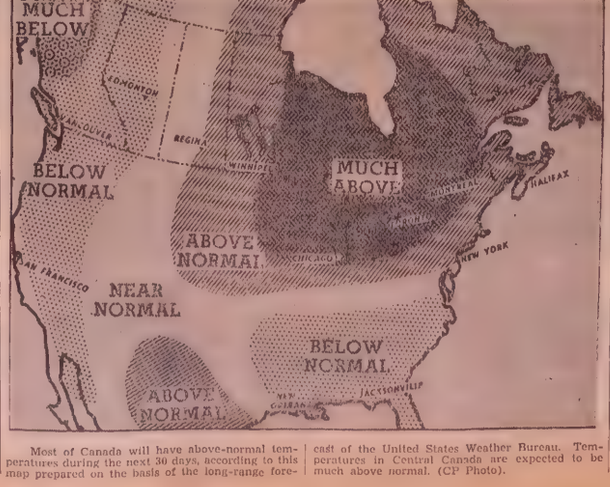
EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta Liberals are seeing signs of provincial election victory in a federal by-election defeat.

Although Social Credit retained the federal Battle River-Camrose seat in Monday's voting, the party's margin was greatly reduced. Liberals are claiming under the single-transferable-vote system to be used in the Alberta general election a week from today the Liberal candidate would have won.

Under the single transferable vote, a candidate must have an over-all majority to be elected. The final count in Battle River-Camrose was Social Credit 8,356; Liberal 8,194; CCF 3,772. In a second count the second choices on the CCF votes would have been distributed.

In the provincial campaign to date Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse has accused the Social Credit government, seeking its sixth straight win since its 1935 victory, of mishandling public funds.

Mr. Prowse has repeated a question to Premier Manning to explain why the provincial treasury holds 49 per cent of the stock in a company that controls the contracting firm which he said has received the major share of provincial road contracts.



STANDS ON RECORD

Social Credit is going to the people on its record of "sound and constructive" policies in the last 20 years. The government says these policies have placed Alberta in the "strongest financial position of any province."

Elmer Roper, CCF leader, has promised that a CCF government would divide provincial revenues with the municipalities more evenly than at present and reduce municipal taxation.

Progressive Conservatives say key items on their platform are proper use of provincial revenues, reduced municipal taxation, public works, grants to municipalities, increased school grants and adequate teacher salaries.

HIGHER TEMPERATURES

Most of Canada will have above-normal temperatures during the next 30 days, according to this map prepared on the basis of the long-range forecast of the United States Weather Bureau. Temperatures in Central Canada are expected to be much above normal. (CP Photo).

CNR Official Says Railways Need Freedom to Set Rates To Meet Truck Competition

MONTREAL (CP) — Railways are handicapped by their obligation to provide passenger service on unprofitable lines, S. F. Dingle, vice - president of Canadian National Railways, said today.

Addressing the mechanical and electrical divisions meeting of the Association of American Railroads, he said that other forms of passenger transportation are free to exploit their special advantages without such obligations.

The quest for profitable operations has been hamstrung by the inroads of new highway competitors, he stated. In 1953 Canadian motor carriers moved only one-tenth of all road rail freight but earned more than one-quarter of total freight revenues.

NEED FREEDOM

"Only if we are allowed the necessary freedom are we going to get some of this high-rated business back."

His remarks were contained in the text of an address released to the press before delivery.

"Like all other railroads in North America, the railways of Canada have had to fight a long upward trend in costs without the necessary freedom to adjust rates and services.

"It has been a particularly tough fight for the Canadian National because of the many marginal lines which are part of its legacy."

GROWING NORTHWARD

Turning to the future Mr. Dingle said that the building of new lines illustrated growth northward. The march towards new sources of wealth was a movement which was likely to continue for a long time.

"As the development of the country is accelerated by growing world demand for primary products, more and more railway lines are going to be needed. But the railways will have to adapt themselves to new developments—to shrink where they should shrink and to grow where they should grow.

"New standards of freight and passenger equipment are demanded. New devices for servicing equipment and for controlling its movement must be developed.

"The pressure of costs is heavy. The obligation to help preserve national economic strength is equally great. To all these areas the mechanical and electrical engineers will bring new ideas and new solutions."

Will Destroy Field

CHICAGO (AP)—A field of marijuana four miles long with an estimated retail value of more than $2,000,000 has been found growing in southwestern Cook county (Chicago).

Sheriff's police said they'd been watching it more than a month. Lieut. Joe Parezich "definitely is not growing wild," but reported no arrests. Marines will destroy the field with flame throwers today. It is 400 yards wide.

SUES "THE TERROR,"

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four-year-old Teddy Levy, called by his parents "The Terror," is the youngest defendant ever sued for battery in Los Angeles Superior Court. His grandmother, Mrs. Ann Rubin, complaining that she suffered two fractured vetebrae while baby-sitting with Teddy, has asked for $150,000 damages from the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Levy.

Hail, Lightning Storms Cause Heavy Damage

TORONTO (CP) — One person was killed and property damage was expected to mount into the thousands Tuesday as a wave of hail and lightning storms swept across Ontario.

Beverley Leeds, 19, of Kearney, Ont., died when a blast of lightning struck the office of the Merrit Lumber Company at Huntsville where she was working.

It was believed the lightning bolt struck the chimney and shot along the telephone line. All windows in the office were blown out. Office manager Cecil Smith was burned slightly about the head and arms.

Fires started by lightning were reported at Orillia, 90 miles north of here. An unoccupied cottage owned by Bernie Byers of Toronto was destroyed. Damage is estimated at $10,000.

At Coldwater, 15 miles west of Orillia, the home of Mrs. A. Smith was badly damaged before the local fire brigade could put out the fire.

HUGE HAIL STONES

Hail, reported as "big as golf balls," fell in Toronto's western and northwestern suburbs, shattering windows and green-house glass.

"It piled up on the lawn and when it fell it looked like a bunch when it fell it looked like a bunch of white bullfrogs jumping around," one resident said.

At Erin, 40 miles northwest of Toronto, farmers fear heavy crop damage from hail. At Burlington 2½-inch hail stones caused severe damage to windows and crops.

Downtown Toronto suffered a power blackout for 10 minutes as heavy rain caused short circuits in downtown wiring.

Given Compensation

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The appellate division of New Jersey Superior Court Tuesday affirmed a payment of workmen's compensation to a woman who became neurotic when a mouse jumped on her clothes while she was working.

Appellate Court Judge John J. Francis said Mrs. Catherine Hylander's testimony that mice were common in the plant and were attracted by a powder used there was uncontradicted. He said this exposed her to accidental contact with mice as a consequence of her work and entitled her to compensation.

MAU MAU SURRENDER

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—One of the most notorious Mau Mau leaders, self-styled "Lt.-Gen. Ngre Gara," marched into a police operations room Monday and gave himself up. Eight of his gang surrendered with him. He is the first Mau Mau leader to respond to the government's threat to withdraw its no-prosecution surrender terms on July 10.

$21,900,000 Contract Given By Hydro For Powerhouse

TORONTO (P) — The Ontario Hydro Commission Tuesday awarded a $21,900,000 contract for construction of the Ontario section of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway powerhouse near Cornwall to Iroquois Constructors Ltd., a group of Canadian companies.

Announcing the decision, Hydro Chairman Richard L. Hearn said work will start in a week's time when draining of the riverbed, in a section now isolated by cofferdams, is complete.

He said construction of the powerhouse, which will have an output almost equal to that of the Adam Beck station completed last year at Niagara Falls, will be completed in time for power to start flowing in the fall of 1958.

Mr. Hearn said the contract award had been made with full backing of Premier Leslie Frost and with consideration of need to encourage Canadian industry, find a suitably experienced organization and ensure completion of the work on schedule.

The commission's announcement said the original bid by the Iroquois group of companies, $23,337,454, was third lowest tender received and later was negotinted to $21,940,253, a figure lower than all tenders except a $18,885,769 bid by the Canadian division of Merritt, Chapman Scott Corp., of New York.

The announcement said the price submitted by the lowest bidder for mixing and placing concrete, one of the largest items in the contract, was "much below actual cost experienced by the commission on several of its recent power projects."

The announcement said B. Perini and Sons Canada Ltd., which submitted the second lowest original tender of $22,552,255, in conjunction with four other companies, already has been awarded $61,000,000 in contracts by the New York Power Authority.

Distribution of the contract among member-companies of the Iroquois Constructors Ltd., group was listed as:

Angus Robertson Ltd., 20 per cent; Foundation Company of Canada Ltd., 40 per cent; Pentagon Construction Co. Ltd., 17 per cent; Rayner-Armstrong Ltd., 13 per cent; Canadian Comstock Ltd., 10 per cent.

Private Well Needs Care In Construction

Few water supplies are free from bacteria, says Prof. E. H. Garrard, Head of the Department of Bacteriology, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Ponds, lakes, streams, and well contain micro-organisms brought down from the air by rain, snow, and hail. Great numbers are added from the soil, while man, animals, and birds contribute others. Even the clearest and most sparkling water may contain bacteria harmful to health, says Prof. Garrard.

In areas where the private well is the only source of drinking water, quite often too little attention is paid to the type of well or the purity of the water it contains, warns Prof. Garrard. Consequently, many wells contain species of bacteria that render the water unfit for human consumption, a condition which can be avoided or remedied by the application of a few simple principles.

SAFE DISTANCE

Wells should be located as far as possible from such polluting sources as cess pools, septic tanks, manure piles, chicken houses, and barns. No one safe distance can be advocated because of the difference in soil structure. For instance, if the soil is clay, a distance of at least 75 to 100 feet from any pollution source should be sufficient, whereas in sandy and gravelly soils, a distance of at least 200 feet is necessary. The well should be situated on the highest point of land possible; when the surface of the water is at a higher level than any nearby polluting source, the water is safe from surface pollution. The well should not be located in a hollow, and drainage should be away from the well.

The poorly constructed well, lined with loosely placed stones, blocks, or bricks allows the entrance of heavily contaminated surface or underground water. Most good wells, on the other hand, points out Prof. Garrard, are lined with castings of iron or steel pipe, brick, concrete, or tile. The upper 10 or 12 feet of the walls of the well should be so constructed with one of these materials that water cannot enter the well until it has filtered down through 10 or 12 feet of soil. Such filtration frees the water of bacteria.

WEATHER-PROOF TOP

Good location and proper construction are wasted if little or no attention is paid to the top of the well, warns Prof. Garrard. Many excellent wells are spoiled by the tops being made of badly fitting boards or planks through which rain water, manure, filth, dirt, and insects can enter. The top should be placed on walls that are finished above ground level and should preferably be built of some concrete with a suitable, tight manhole. It should slope toward the outside and the earth should be graded away from the curb in order to carry off waste water.

To determine if water is fit for human consumption, samples are tested for the presence of intestinal bacteria. If such organisms are detected in certain amounts of water, the water is reported to be polluted, and should be boiled or chlorinated. It must be kept in mind, however, warns the O.A.C. authority, that such treatment is only a temporary measure and steps should be taken to locate the source of pollution and prevent its recurrence.

Farm and school well waters are tested by the Department of Bacteriology, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, where sample bottles and directions for chlorination may be obtained.

Little Benny's Note Book

Saturday morning pop was yawning to himself in his dressing gown, and I said Hay pop, when I get as old as you, Will I stop having fun?

In the ferst place, when you get as old as I am, you'll still be young, pop said. In the 2nd place, I still injoy myself, in my wise experience way, 10 times more than you do in the depths of your childish ignorants, he said, and I said, Do you meen you have even more fun than I do?

Certainly, pop said, I admit it's not your fault that you have had sutch a pitifully short time to learn the diffrents between real pleasure and bolsterous excitement. When you have had the advantage of a few more years you'll realize that my mature and fillosophical outlook on life is more truly amusing than the obstreperous nonsense that you call fun, he said, and I said, Well gosh, do you meen it's no harder for you to have a good time than what it is for me?

As a matter of fact, it's even easier, pop said, and I said, Then jimminies, pop, I've got an idea.

I have said. Well what I meen is, let's go out in the yard and tern cartwheels. I just learned how, but I bet you can tern swell ones with all your experience, I said.

I wouldn't be a bit serprized, pop said. Unfortunately I'm not dressed for it, so why dont you go outside and yell and run with the rest of the little savages? he said.

Canadian-Born Engineer Killed In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—A Canadian-born Detroit industrial engineer has been identified as the first North American casualty of Argentina's revolt. It is believed he was killed by a bomb.

The body of Graham E. Tune, a native of Brantford, Ont., was identified Monday in a morgue among a group of victims of last Thursday's bombings.

Tune, 49, was chief industrial engineer with Kaiser Motors Corp. in Buenos Aires. He came to Argentina after having held a similar post with the auto company's Detroit engine division.

The Kaiser men had no idea exactly how Tune died or where his body was picked up. However, they said what appeared to be flash burns indicated a bomb had dropped near him.

Keith and Joyce opened the parcels and thanked the donors.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

3rd Hillier

3RD HILLIER.— Mr. Richard Eggleton of Pleasant Bay, was taken to Kingston General Hospital on Monday, owing to a heart condition. At present Mr. Eggleton is some better.

Mrs. Eggleton and son, Bert, spent Friday at Kingston with Mr. Eggleton.

The Hillier Institute members went by bus on Tuesday to Belleville and Marmora. At Bellevillo they were shown through the County Home, then to Oak Lake for dinner and to the Marmora mine.

Mrs. Norman Foster of Wellington, entertained the Hillier Institute on Friday evening. Several from this vicinity were in attendance.

The WI is taking a bus trip to Stratford on 11th and 12th of August to see "The Merchant of Venice" play.

Mrs. Arthur Saunders is staying with Mrs. Stanley Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. I. Flint and children of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mrs. Flint's mother, Mrs. Stanley Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker of Gardenville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benway recently.

Stirling

STIRLING. — Mr. and Mrs. Herb Stewart and children, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Webber and called on other friends.

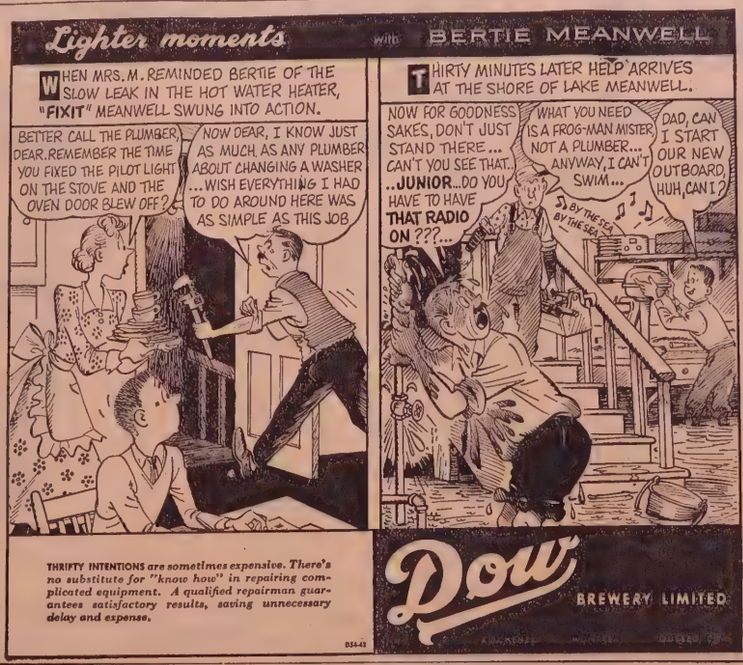
Miss Marlene Moorcroft spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moorcroft, Hazzards and they all attended Cooper United church, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkey moved to their new home, Ridge Road on Wednesday.

Mr. Roy Tucker met with an accident on Wednesday when he fell off the roof of a barn on the farm of Robert Philp, Frankford Road, and injured his foot. He was assisting with laying a new roof when the accident occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Good sponsored a dinner party for the staff of the King George high school, Stirling. During the evening, Mr. C. A. Wells was presented with a pen and pencil set by Miss Winnifred Hay and Mr. Ron Williams, a cigaret lighter on behalf of the staff. Both men have accepted other positions for the autumn term.

PRESENTATION MADE



At a special assembly meeting of the students of King George high school, Stirling, in the gymnasium a presentation was made to the retiring teachers. Principal John L. Good spoke of Mr. Wells' work as shop instructor for over 25 years and for 17 years he has been a full time instructor. Mr. Ron Williams came from England last year, and has just served one year.

Ronald Hadley spoke briefly and on behalf of the staff and students he presented Mr. Wells with a trout rod, reel and tackle box and Mr. Williams with a travelling butfit.

The recipients voiced grateful thanks for the lovely gifts and reminisced re school days.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooke, and children spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Maracle, Syracuse, New York.

Mrs. Thomas Andrews is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gould, Frankford Road.

WHERE ADVERTISING RINGS EVERY DOORBELL ON THE STREET!

Belleville Is a Good Shopping Centre!

The Ontario Intelligencer not only "rings every door bell on the street," but its advertising helps to ring the cash registers in Belleville stores. The Ontario Intelligencer is locally owned and operated. Management has a close personal interest in the general welfare of this city, and this interest is reflected in the policy under which the paper is operated. It is truly a HOMETOWN paper with HOMETOWN appeal . . . and comments received on the general excellence of the newspaper plus results from sale and regular advertising have proved the high readership which this paper enjoys. Every effort is made to work with local advertisers in helping to secure the maximum results. The policy of securing tie-ins and giving merchandising support to National advertisers assures them of the best possible co-operation.

Uranium and Iron Money Now Being Spent In Belleville!

Mining is now big business in Hastings County. Production of a million tons of iron a year is under way at the Bethlehem Steel mine at Marmora, and the extensive Uranium fields near Bancroft are adding materially to the growing economy of the county.

Ring every doorbell on the street in "Hometown Ontario" . . . and you'll start cash registers ringing a happy and profitable tune . . . in a market which is well over a billion retail dollars annually.

Schedule your advertising in the 27 daily newspapers that serve and sell this tremendous market. Each advertisement will be transformed into a powerful local sales message that rings more doorbells and more cash registers — more often. It will sell families that live in modern homes, drive good cars and buy the most saleable product in the world — local news in their own "Hometown" daily newspaper.

"Hometown" newspaper advertising alone supplies the missing link in the complete chain of profitable merchandising. It enlists dealer support on a stronger, more intimate level than any other medium.

For direct sales-results use "Hometown Ontario" newspapers—the most profitable, most effective media for your national advertising dollar. Ask you Advertising Agency.

WHERE NATIONAL ADVERTISING BECOMES LOCAL IN A BILLION DOLLAR MARKET

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Of the different kinds of defence bids you get from partner you should like best his jump overcall. It gives you real substance to bank on: something definite you can tie up with.

He shows you a rebiddable suit and eight tricks. It does not force you to bid. It asks you to bid only if you have the quantity and quality he requires as help to make a game.

As you can figure out for yourself, he does not need much help from you to make a game. In his own hand he can take eight tricks if his suit is trump. And his trump suit is strong.

So, if his suit is hearts or spades all the help for game he will need from you are two tricks. No more than two tricks. They may be tricks of almost any kind if they are two trick takers.

He guarantees a trump suit that is at least rebiddable. This means you need not have the adequate support of a suit that was bid only once. It is known to be a suit he could have bid twice.

So, you have adequate support for his suit if you have no more than queen and a small; or three small. And your imagination could conceive of the possibility of one less trump than these.

As already mentioned the tricks may be of any kind. So, with support for a rebiddable suit you have help with two short cards in any side suit; or a short and a high; or any two highs.

You may not suffer much with this east hand:

EAST
♠ 9 6 2
♥ J 8 5 4
♦ 10 8 7 2
♣ A 9

Suppose south opens with a bid of one heart and your partner in west jump overcalls with two spades. If north passes or bids you are not forced to bid; a jump overcall is not forcing.

But you have adequate support for a rebiddable spade suit and your ace and short club are two tricks. Raise partner to three in his spade suit. You have done your duty.

Liberace Meets Challenge Of Smooching In Movies

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Liberace has met the challenge of big-screen movies, kissing scenes and all.

So far in his professional career the candelabra king hasn't been allowed much more affection than kissing his mother on the forehead. But now he's making his first starring movie, "Sincerely Yours," and you know how Hollywood can change things.

Oh, he's getting the romance, all right. His amours in the film are brown-haired beauty Joanne Dru and Dorothy Malone, the shapely blonde who sizzled the screens in "Battle Cry."

Lee's first screen kiss was with Miss Malone, and it was a lulu.

"We had to hold it while the camera panned over to William Demarest and Joanne," he said. "Then the camera panned back to us, still kissing. Wow!"

KISSING'S A SNAP

"For three days, her neck had been out of joint and she had been having massages for it," he related. "When I grabbed her and kissed her, I heard a strange noise—you can even hear it on the sound track. It turned out I had put her neck back in joint."

How some of Liberace's possessive fans go for all this smooching remains to be seen. But at least they will be satisfied in seeing a lot of him in the picture.

"I even have a closeup that will probably be the biggest one in history," he announced. "It's the scene where I realize I am deaf. Nothing but my eye and ear on the screen!"

MOM, GEORGE GET LOST

Liberace plays a popular pianist, but not really Liberace. Mom is missing. George, too. The story shows him afflicted with partial deafness at the beginning of the picture. Toward the end, he faces an operation that will either restore his hearing or make him completely deaf. You can guess how it turns out.

Oh, yes, he also garners Miss Dru at the fadeout, having managed to elude Miss Malone.

All this, he admitted, was considerably different from his only other movie. That was a dilly called "South Sea Sinner," which he made five years ago. The picture starred Shelley Winters, and Lee played the piano and had a few lines. Now he's the star. Ah, television!

AT THE CAPITOL — Reckless Scout—he matches a lightning gun-hand against an army of screaming savages. John Payne co-stars with Faith Domergue and Rod Cameron in the Technicolor attraction "Santa Fe Passage," opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program Judy Canova in her latest comedy "Carolina Cannonball." Both hits are first showings.

Aging Archie Rated 2-1 Favorite To Blast Bobo In Tonight's Fight

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THIS IS IT!

Tonight in the New York Polo Grounds in the shadows of Coogan's Bluff that may become the Graveyard of the Giants before September rolls by, two men face each other with their eyes sighted on what could mean $150,000 to either in the future and a repeat in the more distant future when one or the other might fight for the heavyweight title.

Archie Moore, aging light heavyweight champion squares off with speedy Bobo Olson, middleweight king whose ambitions equal his flailing fists. Much depends on the outcome. If Moore wins, as expected, he will likely be given a chance at Rocky Marciano's crown. If Olson wins and is crowned light heavyweight champion he will likely angle for a shot at the topflight bauble. That is, if he is that reckless, and believes in miracles.

And all the ballyhoo about the fight brings up the inevitable arguments anent the merits of present and past champions. There are those who think Olson rates among the greatest. There are others who think he would not be in a class with such champions as Sugar Ray Robinson, Charley Mitchell, Billy Papke, Stanley Ketchel, Harry Greb and Mike Gibbons.

Personally we believe that the Sugar in his prime would have disposed of the hula boy from Honolulu in very short order. But the canny Ray never stepped out of his class to tangle with such a heavyweight as Joe Louis. We have never conformed to the idea that a good little man can beat a good big ombre.

If Olson does aspire to a crack at Marciano's crown and we believe he will if successful tonight, he won't be the first to tackle the big boys but, if by anything short of a miracle he does take out the Rock, he will be the second in his class to achieve such an ambition.

The 'Non-pareil" Jack Dempsey tried it several times. Charley Mitchell was whomped by John L. Sullivan. Stanley Ketchel, who was felled by an assassin's bullet tried to stop Jack Johnson. That was the fight that was supposed to be fixed until Ketchel made the mistake of crossing up the deal and tried to kayo Johnson. The big fella became fighting mad and knocked Ketchel kicking with one of the hardest blows ever struck in boxing history. Harry Greb, one of the greatest of them all, split two fights with Gene Tuney but when the ultimate millionaire grew to heavyweight stature, Greb was not around.

Bob Fitzsimmons was the only fighter of middleweight heft to win the heavy title, knocking out James J. Corbett in 14 rounds. But he lost his crown in his first defence in 11 rounds to James J. Jeffries.

The Moore-Olson fight will be screened nationally over the ABC channels (2-10) the New York area being blacked out. There will be an ABC radio network broadcast of the scrap starting 10 p.m.

DOING WELL

Leo Lucciola's Osterhout Shellettes, riding the crest of an unbeaten string of five victories in the Belleville District Ladies' Softball League, appear to be the class of the loop, up to this point at least. Coach Lucciola has a fine bevy of softball lassies under his tutelage and he has injected a lot of fighting spirit in the gals. In Linda Wagg, he has one of the best hurlers in the league and if memory is not at fault she has won four of the five victories. The Shellettes are well balanced in the field, and to this moment they have shown they have plenty of hitting power. They play again tonight at Alemite Field starting 6.30 when they meet the Belleville General Hospital lassies. Better drop around.

TRACK AND FIELD

Track and field stars of the future will converge on the Ontario School for the Deaf tomorrow when the Sidney Township Public Schools' annual field day gets under way. Some twenty schools of the district will be represented and it is expected over 1,000 boys and girls will take part. The meet starts at 9 a.m. and is expected to finish about 4.30 p.m. Dashes, relays, high jump and other track features will be run off while the final event is the schools baseball championship of the township. The winning team will be presented a cup while the school aggregating the highest team score gets a plaque.

N. A. Pete Beach of Albert College will be the director for the day. Roy Macklem will be the official starter while other schools' officials will act in varying capacities.

BIRTHDAY WISHES

Tomorrow is St. John Day. It is the 850th birthday of the Order of St. John, the parent body of St. John Ambulance. These grand people are seen everywhere in case of disaster or wherever they are needed. They attend sports events and their sacrifice of time and effort has been noteworthy. In Belleville they are doing an excellent job especially when the crippled kiddies are taken on trips. The Ambulance members always go along and their work has been greatly appreciated. So tomorrow to this usually unsung band of fine community workers and volunteers, we offer a great big salute and "Many Happy Returns of the Day."

CHANGE IN PLANS

It seems that Billy Stack won't assume a referees role at the main bout in Memorial Arena Friday night. The popular Bill has been matched to wrestle Chico Perez in the preliminary while George Scott will take on Don Lewin in the semi-final. However Bert Maxwell may or may not be back but in any event two officials will take charge of the battle royal between Prince Maiava and Lord Layton and Lou Plummer and Dick Raines.

They had better be good for after last week's match when the officials disagreed and disqualified Layton and the Prince, it left the pair in no mood to be trifled with. There will be action aplenty when the four clash on Friday, and don't be surprised to see some furious fireworks.

'Knock Him Out' Said Moore But Won't Predict The Round; Olson Camp Very Confident

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Aging Archie Moore gambles his light heavyweight crown and his hopes for a heavyweight championship shot when he faces ambitious Carl (Bobo) Olson, the middleweight ruler, in a 15-round title fight tonight at the Polo Grounds.

A loss to the 160-pound titleholder not only would cost the 38-year-old Moore his crown but would ruin forever his chances of getting a whack at heavyweight boss Rocky Marciano. Even a close victory could prove fatal to Moore's prospects of moving up.

The 175-pound king will be 39 in December and if Al Weill, Marciano's manager, has his way, Archie will be eligible for social security before Rocky is permitted to get in the den with the ancient lion.

So why is Moore, on the threshold of achieving his long-sought goal, risking all against the lighter Olson?

MONEY IS ANSWER

The answer is money and supreme confidence. Moore figures to gross around $90,000 from a probable gross gate of around $225,000 plus the $100,000 radio-television money. And the old gypsy of the ring firmly believes that he can whip any fighter around today.

"I'll knock him out," said Moore. "No, I won't name the round but I'll do it no matter how he fights. After him, it's got to be Marciano. They won't be able to duck me any longer."

There was just as much confidence in the Olson camp although the 28-year-old San Franciscan declined, as usual, to make any outright prediction.

AFTER HIM CONSTANTLY

"I'll be after him every second of every round," said Bobo. "He hasn't had the pressure put on him all the way for a long time. I'm going to outspeed and outhustle him. I know I can go 15 rounds at a top pace. I don't think he can. Sure, I know he can hit awfully hard with that sneak right hand of his but he'll have to catch me with it first."

The betting odds make Moore, undefeated over the last 3½ years, and winner of 20 straight, a 2-1 favorite. The writer picks Moore to win by a knockout within 12 rounds, although Bobo has been stopped only once in his career. That happened on March 13, 1952, when Sugar Ray Robinson stopped Olson in 12 rounds. Since then the slope-shouldered, Hawaii - born scrapper has racked up 21 consecutive wins.

A crowd of about 20,000 is likely although it could be more if the weather is good. The prediction is for a fair and dry night with a temperature of about 65. That would be almost ideal and could bring on a big last hour sale, especially for the 10,000 $3 seats.

Leafs Wallop Montreal 10-4; Stretch Lead;

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals were all set to take over first place in the International League, but they didn't reckon with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Royals opened a three game series with the first-place Leafs Tuesday night only one half game off the pace. Then the Leafs struck. They pounded five Montreal pitchers for 18 hits and an easy victory 10-4 to increase their lead to 1½ games.

In other games Columbus Jets ran their latest winning streak to three as Cari Duser and Dutch Romberger combined for a 3-1 win over Richmond Virginians. Rochester Red Wings scored two runs in the eighth to edge Buffalo Bisons 4-3. Havana 'Sugar Kings were trailing Syracuse Chiefs 2-0 after two innings when the game was postponed by rain.

BIG FIRST INNING

Leafs jumped on southpaw ace Ken Lehman for five runs on six hits in the first inning. Connie Johnson and Jack Crimian limited Royals to six hits. Johnson,who needed help from Crimian after walking the first two men in the seventh, was credited with victory, his 10th in 12 starts.

Left - fielder Archie Wilson sparked Leafs with four singles and a double in five trips to the plate and drove in five runs. Right-fielder Lou Morton went four for five.

Duser helped his own Columbus cause by smacking a two run two-out double in the second inning. The Jets added one more in the seventh when catcher Paul Burris, a newcomer to the Jets squad, hit a home run.

Bob Rand's scratch hit in the eighth scored the winning run and gave Rochester its eighth victory over Buffalo in 10 meetings this season. Buffalo outhit the Red Wings 11-8, but four Rochester hurlers were able to hold the Herd in check.

Milligan Meets Marlene In Big Game Ontario Ladies Golf Tournament

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Alberta champion Rae Milligan of Jasper Park and Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., meet in the quarter-finals today in a game that shapes up as the big one in the Ontario Ladies golf tournament.

The two pre-tournament favorites were among eight women golfers who advanced into todays match play.

They were matched against each other Tuesday after turning in convincing victories over the par-74 Burlington Golf and Country Club.

Miss Milligan, 21-year-old University of Alberta co-ed, fired a double eagle two on the par-five fourth hole and went on to eliminate the nine-time Ontario titlist, veteran Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, 4 and 2.

Marlene, Canadian Closed champion last year and former British Open champ, defeated Elva Carroll of Hamilton Chedoke 7 and 6.

The Alberta champion produced her double eagle on the 415-yard fourth. Her drive was 215 yards down the middle. She powered her second shot to the edge of the green and the ball rolled into the cup.

"Slugging Sliver" Homers Sox To 5-4 Win Over Tigers; Yanks Hold Lead

Hits 9th Foursome Of Season For Upsurging Beantowners 'Newk' Wins 12th For Dodgers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Ted Williams doesn't call it quits for good this season, the Boston Red Sox management is going to be in one heckuva pickle—how can you give a raise to a guy already making a hundred grand?

A player in that salary bracket (which means Williams, although he's getting a scaled-down check because of his late start) doesn't figure to get a bonus no matter what he does. But Williams is worth $100,000 to the Red Sox and baseball, at the gate alone, just by putting on a uniform.

Take Tuesday night. The Red Sox made it 12 out of 14 by beating the fourth-place Detroit Tigers 5-4—but it was Williams' home run with two on in the eighth that did it. That left Boston just two games shy of the Tigers after picking up six games on Detroit in the last 14.

WHAT HE'S MEANT

Here's what Williams has meant to the Red Sox: When he came back May 28, Boston was 17-24 for the season. They won seven of the next 13 with Williams, still getting into shape, appearing only infrequently.

Then, 10 games ago, Williams took over left field as a regular. Boston has won eight of the 10, pulling up to .500 at 32-32. Ted has hammered seven home runs, driving in 14 and batted .429 for the 10 games.

The homer Tuesday night was his ninth of the season—No. 375 for the Williams career—and it came on a 3-0 pitch by Ned Garver. That was it, with Ellis Kinder, another old pro like Williams, coming on in relief in the ninth to preserve Tom Hurd's victory.

MANTLE'S BIG BLAST

Williams' home run was "only" a 390-foot job, but it overshadowed the 486-foot blast Mickey Mantle leveled as the New York Yankees beat Kansas City 6-2 to stay two games up in the American League race. The second-place Chicago White Sox beat Washington 6-1 and third-place Cleveland trimmed Baltimore 3-1.

In the National, Brooklyn boosted its lead to 12 games over Chicago as Don Newcombe won his 12th by beating the Cubs 7-2 in 11 innings. Milwaukee moved to within 1½ games of the runner-up Cubs by trimming Pittsburgh 5-4 and Cincinnati gave the sliding New York Giants another shove 10-1. Philadelphia dumped St. Louis 10-8.

Mantle's homer was one of the longest ever belted in Yankee Stadium, hitting the extreme center field seats—virgin territory according to veteran press box witnesses. The ball cleared a 30-foot batter.

Alex Kellner, losing his seventh straight to the Yanks, was the victim of Mantle's blast with none on in the first. He left in a four-run Yank fourth after a 47-minute delay because of rain. Tommy Byrne won his fifth.

Washington gave the White Sox three unearned runs and Chicago took it from there. Bob Porterfield was the loser while Virgil Trucks won his eighth of the season and his sixth straight.

Bob Lemon, retiring with a leg injury after seven innings, became the first American League hurler to win 10 this season. Al Smith's two-run homer in the fifth supplied the edge against the Orioles and loser Jim Wilson.

NEWK'S 12TH

Newcombe was sent into overtime for his 12th triumph in 12 decisions after being tagged for a homer by Ernie Banks in the seventh that knotted it at 2-all. The Brooks broke out for five runs in the 11th, chasing Warren Hacker as Roy Campanella led off with his fourth hit, a double. Newk, who whiffed nine and walked one, drove in two runs in the rally with his second double of the game.

Bob Buhl tossed a six-hitter for the Braves and Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock homered to put it away. The Pirates got their first hit off the righthander in the fourth, after Buhl had retired nine in order.

Little Jackie Collum dumped the world champs to their sixth straight defeat as the Redlegs finally beat Johnny Antonelli's eight-game success against them. Willie Mays was back for the Giants, but was hitless in four trips.

Back-to-back homers by Richie Ashburn and Gran Hamner gave the Phils three runs in the ninth to beat the Cards.

DIES AT OWN WEDDING

Panthers Wallop Red Sox 15-0; Terriers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Kitchener Panther players operate the club the way they play baseball, there shouldn't be too much worry about the success of the team in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

The players took over the management of the club last week after the executive resigned because of the financial losses.

Panthers Tuesday night won their second game in three starts under the new managerial system by walloping Brantford Red Sox 15-0.

In other games Galt Terriers made it three wins in their last four games by dumping St. Thomas Elgins 8-2 and Oshawa Merchants tightened their first-place lead by shutting out London Majors 3-0.

HEAVY HITTING

Panthers pounded out ■ hits, including three circuit clouts and six doubles. They scored in every inning but the second.

Bill Allan pitched seven innings for Kitchener and gave up three singles. He struck out six batters before being relieved by Bobby Schnurr who set down the six men he faced.

The big hitter of the game was shortstop Dolph R e g e l s k y who drove in three Kitchener runs with a homer and three singles in four trips to the plate. He also walked once. Other Panthers to hit for the circuit were Harry Psutka and Pat O'Keefe.

Before the game, Kitchener announced the signing of Alex Kvasnack, former star with Waterloo and Kitchener.

Kvasnak took over third-base coaching duties to help ease the burden of playing-manager Dick Welker. He was struck on the side of the head by a pitched ball last season and the injury was so serious, he will never again play baseball.

Millarville Folks Call July 1 The Day We Have Horse Races

By TED FERGUSON

MILLARVILLE, Alta. (CP) — A census taker would have an easy time making the rounds of this southwest Alberta town — if he could find it.

Once a year it deserts its one-horse everyday garb for one that makes Calgary, the stampede city of Canada just 25 miles east, sit up and take notice.

That is July 1—known in most places as Dominion Day. In Millarville the folks call it The Day We Have the Horse Races.

Millarville could be Rip Van Winkle's western retreat. It has a couple of hundred easy-going residents, a few houses, and a general store. There's no telephone, no railway and not even a major highway.

But there's a race track, a quarter-mile oval that attracts race fans from various parts of Alberta on The Day.

The people of Millarville take their racing without a worry. There is no saliva and no photo-finish. Officials mark up odds, results and entries on a schoolroom blackboard that serves as a tote board once a year.

There's a fair amount of betting, too. In 1951 the federal government installed pari-mutuel betting. The next year, government figures show, $5,512 was wagered. In 1954 bets totalled $6,792 and last year the figure was $4,842.

Between the horse races officials stage javelin throws and sprints for children and adults. Dominion Day at the track is a family affair.

Owners come from various parts of western Canada for the meet. Race entries can be made up to post time and there is no starting gate. Anyone is eligible to enter a horse and it isn't surprising to see Farmer Brown's plow horse running against a top-rated western circuit thoroughbred.

In 1905, two French ranchers—known now only as deBernis and Durand—granted the land rent-free to a pair of migrated horse lovers from Great Britain. E. J. (Sam) Kiern was first president. A non-profit organization operated the track and the entry fees from each race were put up as the purses.

Trophies were put up for competition in 1908 and outside owners became interested in the annual affair. In 1910 the club adopted national hunt rules and the next year some buildings went up. In 1940 the land was bought outright by the Millarville Racing Association.

This year a seven-card program is offered, featuring both a jubilee year plate and a steeplechase. Individual purses have not yet been decided but the total day's purse is $1,135 plus $100 prize money in the track and field events.

Jean Borotra, 57, Flashing Old Form Gives Young Canucks Tennis Lesson

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—A 57-year-old Frenchman taught two youthful Canadians what tennis was like in the golden 20s as Jean Borotra showed the Wimbledon gallery Monday that he is still the Bounding Basque of old.

Borotra, who figured in France's tennis supremacy along with Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in the decade following the First World War, joined Robert Haillet, a young fellow-countryman, in a stirring five-set victory over Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto.

Old enough to be the father of any of the other three men on the court, he still p r o d u c e d the shrewdly angled volleys and stinging smashes that Bill Tilden and other stars had to cope with in an earlier age.

When the 3½-hour match ended —and Borotra finished it with a placemeznt—the 5,000 spectators at No. 1 court gave him a standing ovation. The scores were 6-4, 6-3, 2-6, 6-8, 6-4.

French tennis writers shouted "c'est magnifique" and swallowed hard to get the lumps out of their throats. Borotra himself grinned and mopped his brow with his handkerchief—a gesture he had carried out after almost every point, win or lose.

"Oui, oui, I'm a little tired," he said. "But it was fun. The Canadians were fine boys."

Haillet did not carry Borotra. It was an equal partnership. The younger man provided the crushing service and the hard forehand drives. Borotra supplied the subtle strokes—the volleys and the overhead smashes.

Sam Snead's Golf School

6. This is a front view of a golfer who knows how. He has swung beautifully into the ball and followed through effectively. Notice the weight of the player is forward. That means he can swing his arms against that weight and hit down and through the ball. See how his head still maintains its address position although his hands are already hip high in his follow through. And notice how that left shoulder has risen almost perpendicularly permitting his right shoulder to pass under his chin in the follow through. This rather perpendicular shoulder pivot permits an upright swing. That's the best swing there is. Of course, a short, heavily built man who bulges at the equator must use a flatter swing. But even he should swing — and be — as upright as he can.

Grey Cup Is For Football Not Liberace

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Rugby Union says that the Grey Cup should be won and lost here Nov. 26 without any distraction from Liberace's piano.

The proposal, in the form of a letter from CRU secretary Harry McBrien to Phil Webb, British Columbia Lions manager, was supported by John Dunsmuir, named Tuesday as general chairman of the 1955 Grey Cup festival committee.

McBrien's letter asked for details of reports that Liberace had been invited as an added tourist attraction during the east-west game week. The plan was abandoned some time ago.

"We hope Vancouver is not going overboard for talent and enterprises entirely foreign to football," McBrien's letter said. "Much of the success of the Grey Cup festival is due to the parade and dinner."

Dunsmuir, who said plans for the festival are second in scope only to those drawn up last year for the British Empire Games, agreed with the McBrien letter.

"It has been suggested the festival develop into a week or 10-day carnival," he said. "It is my suggestion . . . this organization should confine its efforts to a three-day program . . . the committee has a big enough job to put this thing over without carnival activities."

Italian Is Tennis Queen

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (Reuters)—Italy's 20-year-old Lea Pericoli won the customers' vote Tuesday as queen of the court cuties.

Lea bounded confidently onto No. 4 court in a short, white, pique, A-lined dress. And from under the dress peeped a stiff pink pleated petticoat. When a troughtful breeze ruffled the petticoat it exposed frilly nylon panties.

Over her dress she wore a pink sweater which matched her petticoat perfectly. She put the sweater on and took it off half a dozen times to please delighted photographers.

Lea's little dark-haired Spanish opponent Jo de Riba smiled a lot, wore nothing very fashionable, and won 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Quebec League May Fold; Aces Out

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces, one of the richest clubs in amateur hockey when big Jean Beliveau was with them, are planning to pull out of the Quebec Hockey League because they cannot make ends meet.

Mark Drouin, president of the club, said Tuesday night he is withdrawing the team because of a financial dispute with city hall over receipts at the city-owned Coliseum where home games are played.

"We won't play at all next year" he said. "The club lost $25,000 last winter and the owners don't want to lose more money next season."

Sports authorities said Drouins decision leaves the QHL in a shaky position since the Ottawa Senators dropped out in mid-season last year and the Chicoutimi Saguenens have served notice they also will withdraw.

Crash Widow Sues Driver For $100,000

PARIS (CP)—A $100,000 law suit by the widow of one driver against another driver claiming he was responsible for her husband's death added a unique twist Tuesday to one of the most tragic of all automobile racing seasons.

At Bern, Switzerland, organizers of the Swiss Grand Prix decided to cancel this year's auto and motorcycle races out of sympathy for the 82 victims in the Le Mans, France, race. The Swiss event was scheduled Aug. 20-21.

The Rheims Grand Prix, one of France's biggest auto races, will be cancelled this year because the disaster, sources close to the government said Tuesday night. It was scheduled for July 3.

RACING BAN

The Rheims track has a high safety standard, and organizers of the event had hoped it would escape a ban on racing imposed by the French cabinet last week and extended Monday night.

Also, the Italian government is considering a ban on all road racing in that country as the result of three deaths in Sunday's Milan-Toronto motorcycle race.

The lawsuit here was brought by the widow of Guy Mairesse, who was killed a year ago during a trial run, against a driver named Jean Gamot.

Mrs. Mairesse claims Gamot, driving a smaller car, refused to let Mairesse go by during the test run. In his answer Gamot said no action can be taken against a race driver because "everybody accepts risks."

ORFU Juniors May Not Play

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union junior division may not operate next season unless the rival junior Big Four League agrees to play an interlocking schedule, it was reported today.

Club representatives of both leagues will consider the proposal tonight at a meeting in Hamilton.

Chief backers of the interlocking plan are Kitchener juniors, who fear that travel expenses in the present setup grouping them with Sarnia and Windsor in the ORFU series may force them out of business.

Kitchener owner Clem Faust has suggested interlocking games with the junior Big Four teams of Hamilton, Brantford, Toronto Parkdale Lions and Toronto Balmy Beach Marines.

If the plan is turned down, Kitchener is expected to seek admission to the Big Four series, leaving the ORFU group with two teams—which the constitution says is not enough to form a league.

The Big Four group, opposed to both the extra travel and a five-team circuit, is expected to turn down both suggestions.

St. Kitts Edges Petes 11-10

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics edged Peterborough Trailermen 11-10 Tuesday night to move into a tie with Peterborough for first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A division.

St. Catharines led 5-0 in the first and was ahead 7-6 at the end of the second. The game featured good goaltending by Moon Wooten of Peterborough, who made 40 stops, and Doug Favell of St. Catharines, who stopped 42.

Bob Bailey topped the Peterborough marksmen with four goals while Harry Whipper and Jim Heffernan had two each. Ted Howe, Norm Corcoran, Doug Smith and Barney Welch scored two apiece for St. Catharines.

SPORT IN BRIEF

SENSATIONAL DEBUT

TORONTO (CP) — What may prove to be the fastest colt ever bred in Canada made a sensational debut Tuesday at Woodbine Park. Canadian Champ, bred by E. P. Taylor and owned now by Bill Beasley of Toronto, sizzled five furlongs in 58 4-5 seconds only one-fifth of a second off the Canadian record.

It had been raining heavily for more than 40 minutes and the track no longer could be listed as "fast." Veteran clocker Tom Bird offered the opinion that if the race had taken place before the rain, Canadian Champ would have set a Canadian record.

The Canadian mark of 58 3-5 was established at Woodbine two years ago by Collisteo, the Hamilton-owned colt which went on to win the 1954 Queen's Plate.

Canadian Champ won by approximately 10 lengths Tuesday with Bernmar second and Bear Ator third.

UP TO FRICK

BALTIMORE (AP) — General manager Paul Richards of Baltimore Orioles said Tuesday night it is up to baseball commissioner Ford Frick to decide the final disposition of the trade Baltimore made with Cleveland Indians last week.

Richards said he has been unable to come to an agreement with Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Indians. In New York earlier Tuesday, Frick said that unless the two clubs reach an agreement "very soon" he will throw out the deal entirely.

In the deal made last week, the Orioles gave up infielder Billy Cox and outfielder Gene Woodling for outfielders Dave Pope and Wally Westlake plus an undisclosed sum of cash.

Cox then announced his retirement from baseball. Richards said he was willing to return the money—believed to be about $20,000—figuring that would offset the retirement of Cox. But, according to Richards, Greenberg wants more money.

SEEK KNIFE KILLER

DETROIT (CP)—The body of a 25-year-old woman with 50 knife wounds in the back, chest and arms was found in an east end alley Tuesday, by three persons who were attracted by the victim's screams. The three told police they saw a tall slender man dragging the woman into the alley and he calmly walked away as they approached. The woman was identified as Mrs. Marie McFolling.

We Invite All ATHLETE'S FOOT Sufferers

No matter how long you have suffered with Athlete's Foot—no matter what you have tried to get rid of it—one bottle of Zortiol must show you the quick, easy way to clear up this trouble—or it costs you nothing.

Go to any drug store today and get a bottle of Zortiol. The first application will check the itching and burning. A few days' use will completely kill the germs causing the infection, dry up weepy blisters and help heal any raw, sore cracks between and under your toes. Money back if you are not 100% pleased. Clean, easy to use, not sticky or greasy. Clean, easy to use, not sticky or greasy. Now only Zortiol will help clear up Athlete's Foot in a hurry. All drug stores.

Multi-Player Deal May Be Called Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said today that unless Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians reach agreement "very soon" he will be forced to throw out entirely their multi-player deal of last week.

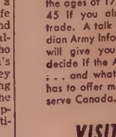
Cleveland sent outfielder Dave Pope and Wally Westlake, plus cash, to the Orioles in exchange for outfielder Gene Woodling and infielder Billy Cox. Cox has since refused to report to Cleveland and announced his retirement from the game. The three other players involved have reported to their new owners.

Today both clubs wired the commissioner about their troubles and asked him to make a decision.

"I'm going to tell them that if they can't agree and force me to make a decision, there's only one thing I can do under the rules—call the whole thing off and get the players back to their former clubs as soon as possible," he said.

Lula's Drive Was a Lulu And "Howe"

MONROE, Mich. (AP)—Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings hockey ace playing in a golf foursome Monday, fired a neat iron shot on the 165-yard No. 12 hole at the Lenawee Country Club.



When the group reached the green, Howe found his ball was only inches from the pin.

"I almost had a hole in one," he told Ben Lula, pro at the Monroe Country Club who was also in the foursome.

Then Lula checked his own ball. It had landed in the cup for a hole in one.

APPROVES SLUM CLEARANCE

MONTREAL (CP)—City council Tuesday approved in principle a $24,000,000 slum clearance plan which would change the face of an old section in the heart of Montreal. The plan represents the first major attack on slums in this biggest Canadian city.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Thursday, June 23, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This day's outlook can be improved — or otherwise. It all depends on you. There's success for those who really work hard and think well before acting. Arrange schedule to cover important affairs first.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A progressive, productive outlook for carefully arranged and well handled affairs. Executives, employees, buyers and sellers all have varied good prospects; make the most of them.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Where you may gain in one place, you may not in another, but the law of averages is with you. Initiative plus sound thinking and a diplomatic attitude will bring greatest success.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Generous planetary aspects for your day. Tackle necessary duties and problems with confidence, and try to finish essentials first. Headway can be made in business, mechanics, real estate.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Arrange your schedule to meet day's requirements and don't neglect obligations to home or occupation. Make honest use of precious hours; don't waste time on worthless matters.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — There's plenty of work ahead which could become irksome if you permit. Don't brood. Stars favor cheerful, full - time effort. Be ready to change your course quickly; you'll profit by preparedness.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — It's possible to make gains through the aid of elders or members of the opposite sex — if you are thinking intelligently and are diplomatic. If you have trusteeship, business responsibility, be worthy of them.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — There are some chances for you to make unusual grades through sincere, hard work, especially during the afternoon. Keep your eyes firmly fixed on important obligations; don't be swayed by others. Keep thinking.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — With your foresight and jovial nature you can put over your ideas and make appreciable gains. Building, mining, produce, merchandising, research can expect an upward trend.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Make reasonable concessions to others' ideas; curtail your own desires. Think of how you might come out, what your prospects are. Don't throw good money after bad prospects.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — You may have difficulty in getting over your point or ideas (maybe through lack of definiteness?) Push forward with more confidence, thoroughness; things will "click".

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Keep close tab on happenings around you. With a stout heart, and without fear or anxiety, you can reap good rewards for sound efforts.

You born today possess a retentive memory, have talent for public office, the stage, advertising, journalism, any work bringing you in direct contact with the public. You have a strong tendency toward restlessness, to change tasks before fully achieving in one. Curb this trait; keep usefully occupied always. Follow an avocation along with your regular occupation and keep improving in all you do. Read only the best material, enjoy the company of intellectual people and keep your spiritual side ever nourished. Birthdate: Edward, Duke of Windsor; Empress Josephine of France.

West's Diplomats Believe Molotov Hurt Own Cause

Raising Cold War Issues Is Seen as Tactical Error

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Western diplomats said privately today that Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov may have dealt an unintentional blow to his own peace offensive by raising anew all the major Cold War issues.

Some small countries were plainly disappointed, but one Western diplomat expressed the belief that the United Nations' anniversary meeting needed something like Molotov's speech Wednesday to jolt it back to reality.

Of the 30 delegates who have addressed the meeting, most had voiced optimism that the end of the Cold War might be in sight at last. While all agreed that tension certainly had diminished, a few Western leaders felt that some were hoping for too much.

As the session opened its fourth day, there still was little public comment on the Soviet foreign minister's speech.

PINAY NEXT

France's Foreign Minister Pinay was second on today's list of speakers, but there was no indication whether he would comment on Molotov's challenge to the west to make the next move.

Among the first to comment Wednesday night was Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, who said:

"The entire tone was concilliatory and the speech is certainly worthy of the West's attention."

Others said privately, however, that they felt Molotov would have been much more effective if he had stuck to his peace bid and omitted any reference to controversial issues, such as blaming the West for the Cold War.

Brig-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines said Molotov's speech was "the same old broken record." He thought Molotov had violated the rules of the anniversary session by raising controversial questions and criticizing other countries.

State Secretary Dulles of the United States said: "I will save my reactions to Mr. Molotov's speech for my own talk on Friday."

Jap Postmen Forbidden To Carry Radios

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—The Japanese post office today told its mail men to take those portable radios out of their sacks. The postmen apparently were tuning in on the baseball games of the Nagoya Dragons, last year's pro champions, and neglecting their routes.

Put Out 30 Fires As Planes Able To Resume Work

TORONTO (CP) — Poor flying weather lifted today and the 54 aircraft of the Ontario department of lands and forests resumed their forest fire fight after a one-day lapse.

More than 30 fires were extinguished during the 24 hours previous to noon today and the total across the province stands at about 55, the department said.

"We have reached the turning point in the battle and have the upper hand in everything," an official announced.

Only two small fires are out of control—one 40 acres, the other 20 acres—both caused by lightning 50 miles southwest of Chapleau.

The provincial fire fighting force was reduced to 1,500 men from 2,000. The number of planes remains the same however "because we now have to fly the men out," the department said.

The three largest fires in the province were under control. They were 4,500 acres at Goulais lake, 60 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie; 3,500 acres near Hornepayne, 200 miles north of the Sault; and 1,500 acres in Bonar township, 40 miles northwest of Gogama.

The 55 fires under control are in these forestry divisions: North Bay, 13; Chapleau and Cochrane, eight each; Swastika six; Sault Ste. Marie, five; Sudbury, Kapuskasing, Gogama, four each; Port Arthur, two; and Parry Sound, Pembroke and White River, one each.

The fire danger rating is considered normal across the province.

Queen's Yacht Fights Big Seas On Norway Trip

OSLO, Norway (Reuters) — The royal yacht Britannia, carrying Britain's Queen Elizabeth to Norway for a state tour, battled through heavy seas and squalls in the North sea today on the voyage here.

The sun peeped through heavy cloud this morning, but the weather later worsened and a southwest gale faced the royal yacht as she neared the Norwegian coast.

Bad weather will probably spoil the Queen's first view of Norway and she may not be able to see bonfires along the coastline to celebrate midsummer eve.

The Queen is due to step ashore in Oslo at 11:30 a. m. Friday to begin her three-day visit. She left Rosyth, Scotland, with the duke of Edinburgh Wednesday night.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cool air still covers the province today. This air is gradually drying out aloft, however, with the result that there will be less cloud over southern Ontario today.

Vehicle Struck By 80-Car Train, Driver Unhurt

TORONTO (CP)—The driver of a sand-loaded truck escaped with a shaking-up today when his vehicle was struck by an 80-car freight train at a CPR crossing at nearby Agincourt, police said.

Howard Ibbotson, 23, of Oshawa, was in the truck when it was hit. It had stalled at the crossing.

The double-engine train pushed the truck 10 feet down the track, leaving it badly twisted and turned on its side. Ibbotson crawled through a window to escape.

Wins Revolver Contest

GUELPH (CP) — Constable Edward Barkley of the Toronto police department, carried off major honors at the 26th annual revolver competitions of the Guelph Police Association Wednesday.

Const. Barkley also placed third in the master class. Const. Mike Dibbley, Essex OPP, and Const. J. Zavitz, of Ottawa RCMP placed first and second.

Cuban Delegate Shatters UN Calm By Raising Issue of Baltic States

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters)—The peaceful calm of the United Nations 10th anniversary meeting here was broken Wednesday when the Cuban delegate tried to speak about what he called "the enslavement of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia."

Emilio Nunez-Portuondo was interrupted by the assembly president, Dr. Eelco van Kleffens of The Netherlands. The chairman ruled that a delegate must not pass judgment on specific states.

Carlos Romulo of the Philippines immediately ran to the stage amid applause from some sections of the delegates and gallery. He protested the ruling and said van Kleffens should have made a similar ruling during the just - completed speech of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov.

Nunez - Portuondo then improvised remarks to cover the section

PRODUCTION LINES AT CHRYSLER AGAIN ROLLING

Key Maintenance Men Vote to Return to Work

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Several thousand morning shift workers at the Chrysler of Canada plant here returned to work today, ending a three-day wildcat strike of 50 maintenance men.

Three hundred of the striking workers voted Wednesday night at a special union meeting to return to their jobs while their grievances are settled. The show-of-hands vote was about 5 to 1 in favor of returning to work.

The sudden walkout Monday by the maintenance men, all key skilled tradesmen, threw 6,500 workers off the job and halted all production at the Chrysler plants.

The request for the men to return to work came from the international office of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL), after it had told the strikers their action was illegal, and without any backing from the union.

HAD IGNORED PLEAS

The strikers had earlier ignored two pleas from the local union office to go back to work.

Company officials made no immediate comment on the workers' decision, but repeated an earlier statement that the plants would be kept open to resume normal operations as quickly as possible.

The company is expected to meet with the union today to discuss the maintenance men's demands.

Wednesday night's meeting turned into a boisterous, name-calling two hours of argument in which accusations of "selling the other side down the river" were thrown first by the maintenance men at the production workers, and then vice versa.

Some of the strikers who took the speaker's floor charged the officials of UAW's Local 195 with ignoring their demands, so production workers could reap their benefits.

About 10 production workers, who had been put out of work by the maintenance men's strike, attended the meeting, but were not allowed to vote on the return-to-work motion.

PROTEST DELAYS

The maintenance men are seeking a new wage advancement program, and changes in seniority practices. They were not covered by the company-union agreement signed Feb. 28.

When that agreement was signed, a sub-clause stated the company and union would continue negotiations to settle their demands. The workers said Monday both parties were taking too much time in arriving at an agreement.

The strikers asked union negotiators to set a deadline for the settlement of their demands, or give them authority to go back on strike. No decision was given by the union executives.

Capital Grant Of $288,000 Given Hospital

TORONTO (CP)—Hon. Dr. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario minister of health, today announced a provincial capital grant of $288,000 to the General and Marine Hospital in Owen Sound.

The money is to be paid on the basis of 31,00 per bed for 107 active treatment beds; $8,500 per bed for 24 psychiatric beds and $333.33 1-3 for each of 33 nursery bassinets.

Defence Department Studying Possible Increase in RCAF

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department is studying closely the possibility of increasing the number of regular RCAF fighter squadrons in Canada.

Officials said Wednesday no decision has yet been reached. It may not come for several weeks.

The new policy study stems from a decision, announced in the Commons last week by Defence Minister Campney, that the air force's 15 auxiliary—or reserve — fight squadrons can't cope with new jet aircraft, especially the CF-100 long-range interceptor.

The reason for this, officials explained, is that new planes are getting more and more complicated with more and more equipment. Fliers require long hours in the air to master them and reserve airmen simply haven't the time to devote to this kind of training.

It was originally planned to equip these 10 reserve squadrons with the CF-100, but this now won't be done. The defence department is studying a new role for them.

There are several possibilities. They might take on transport work, maritime reconnaissance, tactical support for the army's airborne brigade or primary training.

With the 10 auxiliary squadrons now out of the fighter picture, the defence department is faced with the possible need of supplying more regular interceptor units for North American defence, on which increasing emphasis is being placed. There now are nine regular CF-100 squadrons and they are to be completely equipped by the end of this year.

There is no present intention of withdrawing any of the 12 RCAF Sabre jet fighter squadrons from Europe, though the possibility of bringing home at least some of them in the future is not discounted.

Officials said they recognize that nine regular interceptor squadrons —between 200 and 300 planes— could not hope to repel any air attack on Canada. However, the United States Air Force fighter command would be in the scrap from the start.

Any decision to increase the number of regular CF-100 squadrons without decreasing the number of other regular squadrons—12 fighter in Europe, four transport, three maritime reconnaissance and one photo—would raise two big problems: The expense and obtaining aircrew.

A CF-100 costs about $900,000 and three more squadrons of such planes would cost at least $72,000,000 and probably much more. Also, the air force already is experiencing some difficulty in obtaining all the aircrew it needs.

Fewer Than Half Canadians In Forces in Fighting Units

OTTAWA (CP)—A question almost certain to start an argument is: In the armed forces who are combat personnel?

Fewer than half—52,400 to be exact,—the 117,000 names on the roll-call of Canada's army, air force and navy are in actual fighting or operational units. And official said Wednesday this proportion of combat to non-combat personnel is good, all things considered But are all 52,400 combat personnel?

An army spokesman said all members of fighting units should be considered combat soldiers. A mail carrier often was more important for morale than a sniper who picked off an enemy soldier. A bomb could fall on a cook as well as a rifleman in the front line. Was a rating doing laundry in the bowels of a destroyer any safer from torpedoes than the man launching depth charges?

But some persons, especially many oldtimers would argue back that all servicemen in fighting or operational units are not combat troops. Drivers and cooks in an infantry battalion, mechanics on an air force squadron, the mess boy in a destroyer wouldn't qualify as combat personnel under their standards.

Some in this latter group recall that during the Second World War it was estimated that 10 men were required to keep one man in the trenches.

According to this view the number of bona fide combat soldiers would be far below the 52,400 members of actual fighting or operational units, made up of 28,000 in the army, 16,800 in the air force and 7,600 in the navy.

But the defence department, which also employs nearly 55,000 civilians, gave equal treatment to

Terrorists on Cyprus Toss Bombs at British Officers

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Britain's Middle East command headquarters was under heavy barbed-wire barricade today after the third night running of bombings by anti-British Cypriot guerrillas.

Terrorists Wednesday night tossed nine more bombs, all of them in attempts to kill British officers. Two soldiers were injured, one of them seriously.

The underground commando teams have exploded 30 bombs this week in carefully organized raids through Cyprus. The attacks, concentrated on British military personnel, evidently have been masterminded by a secret Cypriot organization which vows to drive the British out of this Mediterranean island colony and join it to Greece.

One of Wednesday night's bombs was hurled at a jeepload of British troops patrolling in the port city of Limassol. Terrorists riding on bicycles lobbed a grenade at the soldiers, injuring one of them.

One grenade slightly damaged the house of Sir John Sterndale Bennett, chief of Britain's Middle East office, a department which advises Middle East governments on political and other matters.

Papahronis Asks Change in Name, Basil to Bill

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Basil John Papahronis, 27, has petitioned district court to change his name because it's too confusing.

What does he want it changed to? William John Papahronis.

"Everyone has been calling me 'Bill' for years," he explained.

MALONE WILL RETIRE

TORONTO (CP) — Frederick I. Malone, 52, a colorful member of the crown attorney's staff in Toronto, will plead his last case for the crown June 29 before entering private practice. Assistant crown attorney for 28 years, Mr. Malone has handled some 500,000 cases for the crown ranging from drunks to persons charged with murder.

HOUSE APPROVES PAY INCREASES FOR ALL JUDGES

Proposes Flat Rate Of $2,500-a-Year Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's proposal for $2,500-a-year pay raises for federally-appointed judges, from county court to the Supreme Court of Canada, has won Commons approval over the criticisms of CCF and Social Credit members and a single Liberal.

J. L. MacDougall (L—Vancouver Burrard) said Wednesday he can think of several dozen British Columbia lawyers "who would practically give their right arms" to get on the province's Supreme Court or Appeal Court.

No more money is needed to attract good men to the bench, he said. Judicial posts offered security and a good pension.

Justice Minister Garson replied that the country needs a strong judiciary to deal with competent, adroit lawyers. The gap between judges' salaries and the substantial incomes of many lawyers had to be narrowed.

JUDGES RESPONSIBLE

He added that judges are responsible for protecting personal freedom and opposing government power if necessary.

As for the several dozen eager lawyers mentioned by Mr. MacDougall, he would not even consider one-half of one per cent of them for appointments to the bench.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said there should not be a price tag on the duty of judges to protect freedom and administer justice.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) said the government has no trouble obtaining competent judges at present pay rates. But he said he is amazed that apparently most of the competent jurists are found only among Liberal party supporters.

Robert W. Mitchell (PC—London), whose party supported the increases, said it is not a question of buying justice but of deciding how much of a sacrifice should be asked of lawyers to accept bench appointments.

APPROVED IN DETAIL

The salary increase bill was approved in detail and today was given final reading and sent to the Senate for consideration.

The $2,500 raise will apply to all present salaries: $25,000 now paid to the chief justice of Canada; $20,000 to associate Supreme Court justices; $16,000 to the president of the Exchequer Court and provincial chief justices; $14,400 to associate Exchequer Court justices and provincial justices, and $8,000 to county court judges.

The amount of pensions will not increase, remaining at two-thirds of the present salary scale.

British Refuse Malayan Reds' Bid For Talks

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Malayan Communist forces have offered to enter direct negotiations to halt the jungle war after seven years but British authorities have rejected the offer, it was disclosed here tonight.

The proposal came in a letter mailed June 7 in Thailand.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Geoffrey Bourne, director of the British campaign against the Communist terrorists in Malaya, said "if the Communists genuinely want to end the emergency, they can do this today. Liberal terms of surrender are already offered to them, and are known to all."

Lake Freighter Limps Safely Into Port Under Escort of Coast Guard

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP) — A Canadian lake freighter limped safely into port under Coast Guard escort in the Straits of Mackinac today after her load of pulpwood shifted, causing her to take water.

The steamer Manzutti of Yankcanuck Steamships, Ltd. radioed a distress signal at 4:30 a. m. from near Spectacle reef, about 10 miles off Cheboygan. Her captain said she was heeling dangerously.

The Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw hurried to her side and a 40-foot patrol boat also set out from the Mackinac island Coast Guard station.

The Mackinaw shielded the Manzutti from 30 to 35-m. p. h. winds and together with the patrol boat escorted the distressed freighter to Bois Blanc island in the straits, some 10 miles away.

There the Manzutti's crew straightened out the load and the boat continued on her journey to Georgian bay.

Severe Penalties Recommended For Drug Trafficking

Senate Committee Tables Lengthy Report Today

OTTAWA (CP)—Severe penalties up to possibly life imprisonment for those illegally trafficking in narcotics were recommended today by the Senate's drug committee as a main weapon in dealing with the problem of Canada's 3,200 known addicts.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia), made a lengthy investigation of the country's illegal drug traffic with hearings in Ottawa, Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. It couched its main recommendation in these words:

"The committee considers that the penalties for trafficking, regardless of purpose, motive or amount, irrespective of whether the trafficker is or is not an addict, should be made more severe, with a compulsory lengthy minimum sentence and an increased minimum for a second or subsequent offence and possibly a maximum of life imprisonment."

SIX RECOMMENDATIONS

The committee, whose report was tabled today in the Senate, recommended:

1. Establishment of a "special offence with a penalty of the utmost severity" for those illegally bringing drugs into Canada. It said present controls are good but have not stopped the illicit flow of drugs into this country.

2. Changes in the law to provide for prosecution as a contributor to juvenile delinquency of any addict who associates with a juvenile. The committee found no juvenile addict problem in Canada but said young addicts should be segregated from older ones.

3. Driving privileges be withdrawn from motorists who contravene the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act.

Scientists Now Believe Moses Parted Red Sea

TORONTO (CP)—That the Red sea parted at the command of Moses and that Christ raised the dead have become facts acceptable to scientists today, a distinguished United States physiologist said today.

Dr. John Brobeck, professor of physiology at University of Pennsylvania medical school, told Canadian and United Kingdom doctors that such Biblical miracles no longer are regarded as impossibilities by modern science, although they cannot be accounted for in terms of present knowledge.

Addressing a meeting here of the Christian Medical Fellowship of Britain, Dr. Brobeck said the factor accounting for miracles, energies he now is able to re- power of God" is considered a source of energy unknown to the scientific system.

Open Hearings

HAMILTON (CP) — The Ontario municipal board opened hearings here Wednesday to determine the value of land which will be purchased or expropriated by the Ontario department of highways for the nearby Burlington beach skyway.

The giant bridge, designed to bypass the traffic bottleneck on the Queen Elizabeth and No. 20 highways at Burlington Beach, will be constructed on the bay side of the strip. Work on deepening the harbor already is under way.

Armpit Bulge Not Revolver But Tiny Puppy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Alert guards spotted a man with a bulge under his coat entering the auditorium as foreign Minister Molotov addressed the United Nations assembly Wednesday.

Policemen rushed him out, searched and found. . . .

A tiny puppy snuggled under his arm.

The man had a ticket (they are mighty scarce) . . . could not bear to lock the puppy alone in his car . . . so brought it along.

The guards enforced the no-dogs rule.

Witness Tells Of Drunken Party And Brawling

KENORA (CP)—Evidence of a drunken party and brawling in a McIntosh, Ont. shack last December, was given in Supreme Court here Wednesday.

Witness Ed Hyacinthe described to the jury hearing the murder trial of Nora Laindon, charged with the slaying of her three-year-old daughter Vivian, how he saw the accused striking her child with a stick during the night.

Hyacinthe said Mrs. Laindon followed him home to the Indian village. In the morning he walked with her to her home.

Hyacinthe said Mrs. Laindon wondered how her child was. As they approached Mrs. Laindon's shack they noticed a police car there.

The trial is continuing.

Brantford Girl, Aged 4, Wounds Self With Rifle

BRANTFORD (CP)—Four-year-old Valerie Staats today is in critical condition in hospital from a bullet wound suffered when she accidentally shot herself at the home of friends Wednesday.

Police said her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Staats of the Six Nations Indian reserve, left her at the home of a friend, Robert Point, while visiting elsewhere.

The child picked up a loaded 22-calibre rifle despite the warning of an unidentified nine-year-old girl and shot herself in the lower part of the body.

Motorist Saw Lightning Bolt Strike Fence

When the big electric storm struck the Actinolite area yesterday many people saw lightning. Cliff A. Brown saw it too — 10 feet from the tip of his nose.

A local insurance agent, Mr. Brown was motoring home from Actinolite when rounding a bend in the road he was startled by a sudden flash of forked lightning striking a wire fence a few feet from his car. A short explosion erupted as the lightning struck.

The first flash was rapidly followed by a second, shorter streak, which also struck the fence, causing another explosion.

Neither the car nor Mr. Brown sustained injury from the incident.

Treat in Store For Nature Lovers

"I saw my first eagle flying over the Bank of Montreal in the city of Belleville, fifty-five years ago."

So said Mr. Broley, who was working in the bank at the time. His interest in eagles grew until at the age of fifty-eight he retired from the management of a bank in Winnipeg to pursue his hobby.

Mr. Broley works in Delta, Ontario, in the summer and in Florida in the winter. He has climbed many high ladders and dizzy, almost inaccessible heights in order to band thousands of young eagles.

His pictures and lectures are both interesting and humorous. People have come from as far away as 150 miles to hear him.

The Quinte Field Naturalists' club of Belleville has completed arrangements for a lecture by Mr. Broley in the Belleville Collegiate Institute in October. A rare treat is in store for the nature lovers of this district.

Obituary

KENNETH BROWN
(Pembroke-Belleville)

The body of Kenneth Brown, a well-known business man of Pembroke, who was drowned in the Ottawa river on October 2 last, was found in the river after a severe electric storm near Pembroke, Saturday, June 11th. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Brown, formerly of Belleville and Foxboro. About 20 years ago he moved to Pembroke, where he conducted a hardware and auto parts store. He was in his 46th year.

He leaves to mourn his death a widow and three children, Ray 16, Gerald 14, and Heather Ann, 11 years.

The funeral was held on Monday, June 13, at 11 a.m., at the Lutheran church at Pembroke.

Interment was in the family plot in Pembroke cemetery.

MRS. MARY DELMA RAMSAY (Madoc)

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Delma Ramsay was held on Thursday afternoon, June 23, from the residence of Mr. J. McQuigge, Queensboro, to St. Peter's Church of England, where funeral service was conducted by the Rev. W. Giovetti.

The funeral was largely attended and there were many beautiful floral tributes.

Interment took place in the family plot Greenwood cemetery.

Bearers were Leslie Laird, Morrison Laird, Harry Declaire, Murney Declaire, James Clark, and Henry Roushorn.

MRS. ADA ETHEL ALLEN

A funeral service for Mrs. Ada Ethel Allen was held at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, Everett Street, on Tuesday evening. The Rev. Everett Smith conducted the service for intimate friends and relatives, after which the body was conveyed to Toronto where on Friday the funeral and interment will take place.

WILLIAM HENRY GATES

TRENTON — (Special) — The funeral services for William Henry Gates, 85, of R.R. 3, Trenton who died at the family residence last Friday was held from the Weaver Funeral Home at 2.00 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. G. J. Minielly of King Street United Church, Trenton, officiated. Interment was in Mount Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Gates was born the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Finley Gates in the village of Westbrook. He had been living at the present address for the past 20 years. Previously he lived in Toronto. He had been in ailing health for some time.

Mr. Gates married the former Annie Gertie Riley. On November 23, 1947 they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

An employee of the C.N.R. Mr. Gates retired 18 years ago as a conductor. He was a life member of Masonic Lodge No. 38 A. F. and A. M. Trenton. He was a member of King Street United Church, Trenton.

The Masonic service for Mr. Gates was held at the funeral home Monday evening at 9.00 p.m. under the direction of Trent Lodge.

Bearers at the cemetery were: Clayton Maguire, Harry and Kenneth Crews, Clifford Baker, Orville Patrick and Grenville Riley.

Firemen Kept Busy During Past 24 Hours

Two small blazes caused by cigaret butts, boys playing with electric motor in the laundry at Belleville General Hospital kept the city fire department busy during the past 24 hours.

Firemen were called to the overhead bridge on North Front street, where a cigaret had set fire to the planking and also to a Sidney street address, where the living room rug was smouldering.

At the Sir Winston Churchill school boys upset a can of gasoline on the ground and in some manner this also got afire.

Finally at 3.20 this morning the reels were called to the laundry at Belleville hospital where an electric motor had burned out.

BIGGEST GUN

Biggest gun in the Canadian army is the 155-millimetre cannon adopted from the United States. It is capable of firing a shell about 14 miles. Classed as heavy artillery, it requires a crew of 10 men. Gunners now are being trained for it at Camp Shilo, Man. (CP from National Defence).

LIGHTNING KILLS GIRL IN OFFICE

J. F. Anderson stands in the office of a Kearney, Ont., wood products company where a lightning bolt killed Beverley Reeds, 17, as she sat at her desk. The lightning struck during a violent storm, killing Beverley instantly, injuring Anderson and office manager Cecil Smith. Efforts at artificial respiration on Beverley brought no results.—Central Press Canadian.

BEVERLEY REEDS

County Tax Rate To Be Increased By 5½ Mills

PICTON — Prince Edward County tax rate will be increased by five and one-half mills. At Wednesday's session of County Council the rate was struck at 25 mills.

Estimated revenue for 1955 is $185,182.00 The 25 mill rate will raise $300,000, for a total revenue of $485,182.00.

Two major factors contribute to the increase. In addition to a budget of $275,000 for roads and bridges, council must meet a deficit of $18,432.95 on roads for last year. This accounts for one and a half mills of the increase. Last year, $251,534.42 was spent on roads and bridges.

In public welfare, there is an increase of $5,529, over last year. Child Welfare is up $2,667., County Home expenditures up $5,783., with hospital grant the same at $10,000., and hospitalization down by $2,920.

ESTIMATES APPROVED

Estimates include $13,650. for council indemnities, salaries, maintenance of Shire Hall, printing; $33,000 for protection of persons and property including $27,200. for administration of justice, $275,-000 for roads and bridges of which $143,877. is for maintenance; $104,000 for public welfare (Children's Aid, hospitalization and County Home); $13,361, for debt charges; $17,750. for grants; $2000 for fair grounds; $4,137 for miscellaneous and $2,500 for equalized assessment.

Revenue includes $350 for licences, $800 in Dominion grants in lieu of taxes; $5000 for administration of justice; $145,978 for roads and bridges; $600 weed control; $7220 for hospitalization; $1608 miscellaneous; $22,626, County Home.

Man Charged With Car Theft After Accident

A Belleville man left his car keys in the ignition last night and as a result a second car owner had his automobile damaged and another man today is charged with car theft.

Victor Kaiser, 12 Bettes St., left his car parked behind the City Hotel, intact even to the ignition keys. Some time before nine p.m. it was driven off the parking lot. On the way out it tilted the auto owned by Joseph Masterson, 65 North Front St., damaging it slightly. The stolen car however, continued to roll on its way.

Shortly afterwards police picked up John Jose, 32, R.R. 7, at the corner of Bettes and Station streets. He was taken to headquarters, charged and held.

Elsewhere on the night watch police reported a quiet city.

Provincial police also reported all quiet.

NATO Stages Air Exercise

FONTAINEBLEAU, France (AP)—A series of mock attacks by British-based bombers today set off the north Atlantic allies' first practical air exercise in the large-scale use of simulated atomic weapons.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Basil Embry, commander of Allied air forces in central Europe who is directing the manoeuvres, said 12 targets where theoretically hit by atomic bombs in the first attack waves.

Some 3,000 planes will be involved over Germany, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and The Netherlands. Aircraft of 11 nations are taking part in the day and night manoeuvres, known as exercise "Carte Blanche," which continue through Saturday.

Directly opposed in the exercise are the Allied 2nd Tactical Air Force, which includes units from Britain, Belgium and The Netherlands, and the 4th Tactical Air Force, which has units of Canadian, French and American jets.

CALLED TO BAR

TORONTO (CP)—The Law Society of Upper Canada today called 107 young lawyers to the bar in impressive ceremony in Osgoode Hall, home of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Five women were among the graduates, as well as 33 war veterans and 13 sons of lawyers.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup of Ontario addressed the new lawyers.

Showers Help Firefighters In Northern Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Firefighters today continued to beat back most of the major forest fires in Ontario after receiving some help Wednesday from showers which were general throughout most of the province.

About 95 fires, at least 48 of them started by lightning, were reported by the lands and forests department. The forest-fire hazard, the department said Wednesday, was "minimized somewhat" except for the Sault Ste. Marie, Chapleau and Sudbury areas where most of the lightning-sparked blazes occurred.

Largest blaze was in the Goulias lake area, 60 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, where 4,500 acres were burning. Rain held the fire in check for a while and it was expected to be brought under control today.

Other large fires were near Hornopayne, 200 miles north of the Sault, where 3,500 acres were burning, and at Bonar township, 40 miles northwest of Gogama, where the fire covered 1,500 acres. Both blazes were under control.

In Fort William Wednesday night, Lands and Forests Minister Mapledoram said more access roads must be built in Ontario to cope with the fires which, he said, "are destroying our forest wealth.'

In an address to the 33rd annual convention of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, Mr. Mapledoram said fire fighters are hampered by the lack of access roads in forest areas now being ravaged by fires.

Church Parade Will Honor Patron Saint

St. John Day, June 24, is the 856th anniversary of the founding of the order of St. John. It is also the anniversary of the birthday of the patron saint of the Order of St. John. Members of Belleville Division, St. John Ambulance Brigade, will celebrate the day by a church parade, on June 26, when they will attend divine service at Christ Church at 11 a.m.

St. John's tradition of service goes back to the crusades. When Jerusalem was captured by the crusaders in 1099, many of the Christian soldiers were nursed in an ancient hospice by a group of men known as the Brothers of St. John of Jerusalem. The care and devotion with which they tended the wounded were unusual in that day and won the admiration of the crusaders. Many of the knights joined the Brothers in their work of mercy and the fame of the Order of St. John spread throughout Europe. Today the members of St. John continue the same tradition of care for the sick and wounded.

Throughout the Commonwealth St. John is active. "The sun never sets on the white cross of St. John ..." In Canada St. John has been active since 1883. First Aid and home nursing training is available in 800 communities from coast to coast. The St. John Ambulance Brigade numbers 7,000 volunteers. The sovereign head of the order is H.M. Queen Elizabeth II and the prior of the order in Canada is His Excellency the Governor General.

L.O.L. NOTICE

All members of L.O.L. No. 274 are requested to meet at the Orange Hall, Belleville, at 7 p.m., Sunday, June 26th, for the purpose of attending Divine Service at Victoria Ave. Baptist Church at 7.30 p.m.

All members of L.O.L., L.O.B.A. and J.O.L. Lodges are cordially invited to attend.

W. McLEOD, Worshipful Master.
J. McLEOD, Recording Secretary.

IN MEMORIAM

MARACLE. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Clayton Earl Maracle, who drowned June 23rd, 1947.
Gone, dear Clayton, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face;
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad, brothers and sisters.

Hog prices: grade A 30.50; sows 19.50 dressed.

There were no sheep and lambs.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1⅛ per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon EDT, today. Wednesday's noon rate 98 13-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.74 1-16 against $2.74.

Temperatures Double Cross Calendar

This is the second full day of summer but the temperature seems to be two-timing the calendar.

Cool weather continued with temperatures today showing at 63.5 maximum and 58 degrees minimum. Yesterday, the first full day of the new season, registered a mean temperature of 66 degrees.

Weather forecasts hold out little hope that the weather at present will revert back to last week's heat wave. Says the weatherman: "Cloudy with a few sunny intervals; continuing cool."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued on the upgrade in afternoon trading on the Toronto stock exchange.

Argus Corporation, however, which had advanced 3½ points dropped back to a loss of ¾. The recently-strong Algoma Steel also lost two points, and General Dynamics was down 2½ points. Alberta Distilleries lost 10 cents.

Canadian Locomotive gained a point, but most industrial advances were fractional.

The gold index touched a two-year high. Preston East Dome added 30 cents, and D'Eldona traded more than 300,000 shares for a small gain.

Eastern Metals was active in base metals for an advance, as were Maybrun, up 13 cents, and Willroy, up 25 cents. Consolidated Smelters gained ⅜ in the senior group.

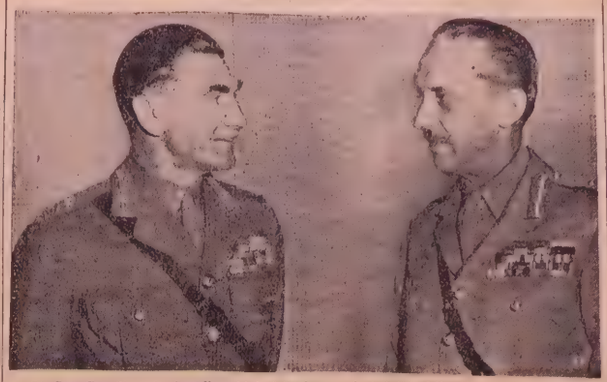
Can-Met traded heavily in uraniums, slightly down and Consolidated Northland, also active, was ahead. Lake Cinch added 20 cents.

In holding companies Howe and Hoyle were ahead and Conwest down 25 cents.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand.



Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 52; A medium 49; A small 33; B 38; C 30. Wholesale to retail: A large 57; A medium 54; A small 38; B 43; C 35.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56; western 58¼ (nominal).

STAFF PLANS WALKOUT

PARIS (AP) — France was threatened today with an unlimited strike of civil servants beginning July 1. They are asking a raise of 4,000 francs ($11.42) a month. Their basic salary now is 23,000 francs ($65.71). Any increase would have to be voted by the National Assembly.

ARMY CHIEFS MEET

Tavern Brawls Did Not Involve German Civilians

OTTAWA (CP) — No German civilians were involved in two tavern brawls among Canadian soldiers in Germany, Defence Minister Campney told the Commons today.

He said he is glad to say that the facts of the two incidents do not bear out the "lurid statements" about them in the German press.

Mr. Campney said that on June 16 three Canadian soldiers were arrested after a brawl with British soldiers in a tavern near Sennelager where the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade has been undergoing field training. Some windows in the tavern were broken.

On June 19, members of the Canadian Provost Corps and German police were investigating theft of a motorcycle and entered a tavern "in the normal course of their duties."

Three Canadian soldiers refused to leave the premises when ordered and a roughhouse started. A lance-corporal in the provost corps suffered a minor head cut. German police fired their revolvers into the air. Six Canadians were arrested and now are awaiting trial.

G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) had asked about a report in the Duesseldorf newspaper Der Mittag that Canadian soldiers were terrorizing German civilians.

MURDERER ESCAPES

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — James Ecker, a 19-year-old murderer, described as desperate and dangerous, escaped from the Ionia state reformatory Tuesday, apparently by sealing himself in a carton from the prison's furniture factory. The carton was found at an Ionia truck terminal with a hole cut in the side.

Charges Textile Firms Treated As 'Expendable'

OTTAWA (CP) — Davie Fulton, Progressive Conservative from Kamloops, suggested in the Commons today the federal government regards the textile industry as expendable.

He asked whether the government is aware of the permanent closing of a textile mill at St. Catharines, "on the ground that the government policy makes it obvious that the domestic textile industry is expendable."

Finance Minister Harris said he was not aware of the plant closing but would make inquiries and comment later.

PEEPING BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

A report from Moscow that that city "and other parts of the USSR" are "virtually crawling" with visitors from the East and West makes interesting reading.

We may be sure that none of the "other parts" being visited include the uranium mine, where Austrians, recently released after a decade or more of imprisonment, said they tore Russian guards to pieces with their bare hands in rage at their inhuman treatment.

Still, the more visitors who get inside the Iron Curtain, the less opportunity there will be for the Russians to limit their sight seeing to show places.

The visits of trade union and cultural groups and of non-Communist news correspondents, including a dozen or so Canadian newspaper and radio women due shortly, may well be of significance. Perhaps the Iron Curtain is going up.

That does not mean that those behind it are going to be able to stand at the window and carefully inspect the outside world, and certainly provides no ground for hope that those Russians who desire to do so will be permitted to venture out into this world for a closer look. Still, this is another straw which may indicate which way the wind is blowing. Coupled with President Eisenhower's declaration at the anniversary meeting of the UN in San Francisco that this is "a season of high hope for peace," it lends support to what is apparently a growing belief amongst the leaders of the western world that the Kremlin's strategy, for what reason is not yet clear, is undergoing a revision.

Still, that wise old statesman, Sir Winston Churchill, will have caused many heads to nod in agreement when he warned against expecting too much of the coming Big Four parley "at the summit."

Watchful waiting is still the policy. But that does not mean that we need disregard the possibility that all these signs of a change in Russian tactics, if not in Russian aims, is without meaning and without hope for the future of the world.

RABBIT FEVER

That story out of Grand Forks, North Dakota, about a jackrabbit bagging a plane may raise some skeptical eyebrows around airports, where the false notion has arisen that jet propulsion provides the speediest mode of transportation known on this earth, but will occasion no surprise to ground-bound hunters.

The only wonder is that the jackrabbit has endured man's bragging for so long before staging a practical demonstration of the comparative manoeuverability of a clumsy affair with wings and a pair of stout hind legs.

Leo Mondry, the pilot of the downed plane, admitted he was out-manoeuvred but apparently did not realize with what ease. The jackrabbit, he said, "must have jumped eight feet into the air, right in my path."

Shucks, mister, that's not a jump for a jackrabbit, that's merely a hop.

Now that the birdmen have finally discovered the jackrabbit, there is a possibility that the potential value of this secret weapon will at last be realized.

A couple of dozen jackrabbits, properly sorted as to habits, could be dropped on a Russian airfield and, within a very short time, would be able to create quite a traffic jam.

As far as we are able to discover, there is no truth in the rumor that one Belleville hunter, seeing a jackrabbit disappear over the horizon with his hound in pursuit, was routed half an hour later by the same rabbit heading a brigade of his grandsons.

At the same time a platoon of parachuted jackrabbits taking up prepared positions on an airfield is not the sort of invasion that is easily contained.

NAPPING IN THE NAPKIN INDUSTRY

It is reported that export of Canadian paper products this year might increase 12 per cent over exports in 1954. We suspect that the increase is being made up by reduction in the size of restaurant serviettes.

The pulp and paper industry charts new records in millions of tons of logs cut and millions of tons of newsprint and millions of tons of other paper products made each year and each year the restaurant serviette gets smaller.

Old-fashioned linen serviettes, sacrificed for reasons of economy, were slightly smaller than a bath towel and barely large enough to keep a trencherman from being nervous. When paper napkins were first introduced to restaurant service they resembled bleached newspapers in size and thickness. Ever since they have become smaller and smaller and thinner and thinner until now three average restaurant serviettes are needed to blot spilled coffee from a saucer.

The growing army of white collar workers, afflicted by what is familiarly called "office squat", has discovered that a minimum of three paper serviettes is necessary for adequate coverage—one for each half of the lap and one for shirt or blouse. Wiping gravy from one's lips requires two serviettes; the second one to wipe one's hands free of gravy that leaks through the first one.

About the only thing consistent with the diminishing size of restaurant serviettes is the decreasing size of food portions.

It is time the paper industry cut another log or two and doubled the size of paper serviettes.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

We sing "Happy Birthday!" We gather about
To smile as we watch all the candles blown out.
A rush for the table the youngest ones make
As they eagerly wait for a piece of the cake.

There's nothing just like it, so tender, so dear
As this party which happens just once in a year.

A party enriched with devotion and care
And a feast which love only would plan and prepare.

"Happy Birthday" we sing and "may many more be,"
We say as the gifts being passed round we see.
Of all gay occasions, the gayest these make;
A birthday, a party, a song and a cake.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 23, 1935

Mr. Thomas Blaind, Everett Street, spent yesterday in Napanee.

Mr. Frank Johnstone of the local Canadian Department Store, has left to spend a vacation of three months in the Old Country. He sailed this morning from Montreal on the steamship Duchess of York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Clare are spending a few weeks at Presqu'ile.

Mrs. T. R. Dolan and Miss Diamond were the tea hostesses at the Belleville Golf Club this afternoon.

Adjutant and Mrs. Martin, who have been in command of the local corps of the Salvation Army, are leaving to take command of the North Toronto corps; they have been promoted to the rank of major. There was a large attendance at the farewell gathering in the citadel at which Sergt.-Major W. Hart presided.

Traffic Officer L. B. (Bud.) Byles of the Belleville police department has been promoted to a responsible position in police work at Thornhill, Toronto district, which is one of the most thickly populated motor highways in Ontario. At a gathering in the police station at which Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan presided, a handsome wrist watch was presented to officer Byles. Short speeches were made by Crown Attorney Donnan, Sheriff John D. O'Flynn, Chief Kidd and Ontario Provincial Police Inspector F. Gardner. Many friends regret the departure of officer Byles from the city.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONNIE MACK WISDOM

One of the very greatest figures in baseball has been that of Connie Mack. Many have been the players whom he encouraged and inspired. He was the father of one of the most outstanding baseball clubs ever organized—the Philadelphia Athletics.

Mack once said that he had known many a player go into a slump, but come out of it greater than ever. He said that more players licked themselves than did the members of an opposing team. He always said that one of the first things for a player to do was to master himself. "Training counts," he said, "you can't win any game unless you are ready to win."

Only recently I witnessed an inspiring game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs. It was tight from the first ball until the 9th inning, with the Giants then 1 to 0. With two out, the inning was about over for the Cubs, though they had two men on bases. Two balls were called on the next Cub batter. The Giant pitcher, Hearp, who had pitched a magnificent game, apparently weakened and was removed. The first ball pitched by the new man resulted in the Cub hitting a home run out of the park. Score: Cubs 3, Giants 1. The balance of the inning made no change for the Giants, and what looked like an almost sure victory for them was changed by the lighting spirit of one player who refused to see his team beaten!

There is a lot of character developed on the baseball diamond. I like to see youngsters interested in the game. Many a one of them has grown from the sand lot to genuine baseball fame. You can't do too much to encourage a love for baseball and all who are associated with it. It calls for great skill, strategy, genuine courage, alertness, decision and clean living.

It is a wonderful thing to have created a Hall of Fame for the great baseball. Every boy interested in baseball should visit that National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum at Cooperstown, New York. Baseball has brought pleasure, recreation and many a healthful thrill to millions of spectators. Long Live Baseball!

Fabled Venus Will Return

(St. Catharines Standard)

Unless present theories go awry, the American of the 21st century will be taller, healthier and by today's standards, quite handsome. The male will have broad shoulders, and narrow hips, a slightly protruding chin, and a more prominent and narrower nose.

The female will have longer legs, narrower hips, larger chest and arms and in every way will compare quite favorably with the fabled but smaller Venus. We would sure like to hang around to see if the prediction comes true.

Famous Fakes

(Walter Monfried in the Milwaukee Journal)

The recent death of a 95 year old Milwaukeean, Luke S. Kearney, reminds Wisconsin residents again of the most widely known hoax ever perpetrated in their state. Kearney happened to be one of the merry wags who constructed the ferocious "hodag" — not out of whole cloth, to be sure, but out of bear claws, steel rods, bull horns, ox hides and solid northern timber.

The hodag has become a likable durable institution of northern Wisconsin. A park has been named for it; its likeness has become the seal of the Rhinelander district, and sportsmen banded under that name have won wide attention for their efforts in conservation.

The hodag, indeed, measures up to the highest standards of genuine hoaxing. It didn't embarrass anyone seriously, and it gave a lot of pleasure.

Gene Shepard, a Rhinelander lumberman, was the discoverer of this "fearsome prehistoric" creature, seven feet long, with numerous horns, claws and a 10-inch spike on its tail. And what an appetite — it could down a bulldog at a gulp! Shepard vowed to capture the critter, and he did, allegedly by saturating its cave with chloroform. Jack Cory, a Rhinelander editor, gave it the publicity that sped it on a round of exhibits in northern counties early in 1900. Even the Smithsonian Institution was impressed by the reports, and not until its scientists reached the scene did Shepard formally acknowledge his highjinks. He continued to laugh about his exploit until his death in 1923.

Of all the numerous deceptions, and frauds practiced by seekers of publicity and cash, his was as harmless as any. The notoriety of its rival creation, the Cardiff giant has always been tinctured by a lust for lucre and a Barnumesque brashness.

The Cardiff giant was the creation of George Hull, a Binghamton (NY.) cigar manufacturer, nearly a century ago. While visiting in Iowa, he heard an evangelist describe the extinct "giants in the earth." With such inspiration, he hired laborers to dig a five ton slab of gypsum and had it hauled to Chicago, where he hid it in a barn. He instructed sculptors to carve an unclothed giant, and eventually they presented him with a statue weighing 3,000 pounds. It was 10 feet tall and was sprayed with chemicals to make it look countless centuries old.

Crated as machinery, the giant was freighted to Cardiff, near Syracuse, N. Y., and was buried in the farm of Hull's cousin, Bill Newell. While Newell's men were diggking a well, the giant was "exhumed" — and what a sensation it created! Displayed in a tent, the giant soon attracted hundreds, then thousands, of visitors a day at $1 a head.

Even the scientists were fooled for awhile, and couldn't decide whether it was a statue or a fossil. At last a noted sculptor, Erastus Palmer, pronounced it an unquestioned fraud. But Phineas T. Barnum, running a New York museum of freaks, had a replica of the Cardiff one made, and showed it in competition. The lawsuits and exchange of insults kept the whole mater boiling for months, and the Cardiff giant was taken on long, profitable tours.

Newspapermen at last wearied of the Cardiff hoopla and did some real investigating. They traced Hull's journeying to Iowa to the gypsum quarry and to the Chicago barn. Chicago reporters tracked down the sculptors, who quickly confessed. Hull then laughed and related that his invention had made $100,000. Even thus exposed the giant continued as a money making attraction on tours for decades. A few years ago the New York state educational department made it a permanent exhibit at the Farmers museum in Cooperstown, N. Y.

If Shepard merely sought the laughs, and Hull's object was money, what was the motive of the late Charles Dawson, a reputable English lawyer and amateur antiquary, who "discovered" Piltdown man 44 years ago in a gravel pit on Piltdown village, Sussex? The Piltdowner was not nearly so much of a man, to be sure, as the Cardiff giant, which was carved so realistically that many women fainted upon seeing it. The Piltdown man consists only of the thick skull bones of a man with the jaw bone of an ape.

Many scientists and students were taken in by the strange skull, which was presumed to be one of the "missing links" so avidly sought. It was estimated to be 100-000 years old. There were always a few skeptics, however, who could not reconcile the human and simian factors. Nevertheless, almost all of them had such faith in Dawson that they could not believe him a party to trickery. A statue of him stands near the site of his chief labor.

But a few diehard cynics kept hammering away at the Piltdown interloper, and two years ago their findings were published to shock the entire world of prehistoric scholarship. The good old Piltdowner really does have an orangutan's jaw, the original owner of which had expired at the age of 10. One of its teeth disclosed a modern brown paint, and another molar appears to have once been the property of a Maltese hippopotamus.

The entire chore was done with immense cleverness, and the detectives who solved the mystery do not blame the gullibles. "The hoax appears to have been so unscrupulous and inexplicable as to find no parallel in the history of paleontology (fossil study), the investigating committee concludes. Dr. J. S. Weiner, one of the exposers, has just published a book which indicates that the once revered Dawson was probably the culprit. But why? . . .

The motive of the New York Sun in perpetrating its unforgetable moon hoax of 1834 was all too apparent — circulation gains. And the plan succeeded, too. Richard Adams Locke, an imaginative reporter with a flair for what is now called science fiction, wrote a series of articles that created a furor. Locke attributed his facts to an Edinburgh scientific journal, which was alleged to have received its data from a notable British astronomer, Sir John Herschel.

According to Locke, Herschel had taken a new, powerful telescope to South Africa and was able to observe the moon with incredible vividness. It appeared to be only 18 feet away. It had mountains of jewels, and manlike inhabitants, who comported themselves in a manner 'not within the bounds of strict propriety." Locke's series made its way around the world in several translations, and although Herschel vehemently denied the whole business, people for years, continued to ask the Sun for copies of the articles.

Forty years later another leading New York newspaper, the Herald, engineered the most needless and repulsive of all hoaxes. The entire front page was devoted to an extravagant account of wild animals escaping from Central park zoo. Among the alleged details: Forty-nine persons killed and 200 injured; ferocious beasts roaming through the busiest streets; children being mutilated by leopards; houses wrecked by rhinoceroses; pedestrians trampled by elephants; lion; a tiger being shot by Gov. 18 persons clawed to death by a Dix after the animal had dispatched 20 victims, and crowded churches and ferryboats invaded by blood thirsty roamers.

Some brave citizens, after glancing over the city, seized their firearms and dashed out in search of the beasts. Most of the city succumbed to hysteria. The Herald owner, James Gordon Bennett, collapsed at his home. Rival editors furiously rushed to police headquarters to learn why they had been scooped. Hardly anybody read the story to its final paragraph, which said:

"The entire story above is a pure fabrication. It is simply a fancy picture which crowded upon the mind of the writer while he was gazing through the cages of Central park. How is New York prepared to meet such a catastrophe?"

The Herald managing editor, Thomas Connery, had executed the hoax after looking at the zoo cages, which seemed frail to him. He was not punished for it.

Orson Welles' lurid broadcast of a purported invasion by creatures from Mars, which caused panic in the nation, is radio's equivalent to the Herald prank. Welles is less culpable, however, for he had prefaced his program with the explanation that it was fiction adapted from an H. G. Wells novel. Welles didn't anticipate that many radio listeners might tune in late and believed only what they heard.

Only 25,000 Inventions

(Madrid, Spain, Informaciones)

The saying "Scratch a Frenchman and you will find an inventor," has long been recognized as a paraphrase of the famous remark about Russians being, under the skin, Tartars. It was well justified by the number of inventions annually registered in France — many tons of thousands.

Now, however, France is no longer a "republic of inventors," according to M. Finnis, director of the French patent office, who reveals that last year "only" 25,-000 new inventions were registered by his service.

"It's insufficient," Monsieur Finnis says, "Their inventive genius has been lost. Frenchmen have ceased to have ideas."

Status of a Teacher

(Hillside, N.J. Times)

A teacher in Hillside, N.J., supplements his salary by operating a bulldozer during vacations. Not long ago he made an application for credit to purchase a home, stating that he was a teacher.

It was turned down.

The teacher resubmitted the application, this time putting down his occupation as a bulldozer operator.

The application was promptly approved.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

What'll You Drink on Vacation?

It would date me if I were to talk about the possibility of getting typhoid fever by drinking polluted well water or spring water on vacation in the country. Indeed there is little after-vacation typhoid fever nowadays to buy feed for the doctor's horse or fuel for his furnace. Practice must be dull in the autumn. Not only are municipal water supplies kept chlorinated so that tap water is perfectly safe to drink everywhere, but a considerable portion of the population is immunized against typhoid, para-typhoid alpha and para-typhoid beta.

When it comes to the question of slaking thirst with a drink of water from an isolated spring, well, brook, pond, lake or attractive pool, play it safe: Shake up a quart of the water with four or five drops of mild tincture of iodine—the same iodine universally employed as first aid disinfectant of minor wounds—and let stand for half an hour, when it will be safe to drink.

Of course water, milk or any other liquid may be disinfected by boiling for one minute.

Although tap water everywhere is safe to drink, a person travelling, touring, visiting or spending vacation in the country should regard all milk with suspicion. Especially milk kept or served in open container such as pitcher, jar, bottle with broken seal or in drinking glass. One should remember that even though the cow or herd from which the milk comes may be free from disease, the milk may be contaminated by milker, dairy worker, cook, waiter or other handler who happens to be coming down with or be a carrier of a communicable disease.

Ordinarily milk in an unopened bottle is safe to drink if it is labelled Pasteurized. That means the milk has been parbolled, let us say, heated up to 145 degrees F. and kept at that temperature for 30 minutes. That's pretty hot, but short of scalding. It is hot enough to kill any disease germs that might be in the milk.

Simplest way to make milk of unknown purity safe to drink is scalding—that is, heating to boiling point for a few seconds and then allowing it to cool enough to drink.

From the standpoint of health and nutrition I denounce every kind of pop—colored, flavored, carbonated sugar water—as beverage for grown up children. But I must record here the creditable fact that pop is always safe to drink, wherever you find it, and you find it wherever you go in the five continents— you just don't go behind the Iron curtain, do you?

If heat and humidity get you down or if you seek refreshment after unaccustomed physical activity and excessive sweating, it is well to remember that in such circumstances not only water but also salt must be restored to the tissues, and therefore every drink of water, fruit juice drink, tea, or whatever beverage you take should be accompanied by a good pinch, say five grains, of salt. This will refresh you more than any amount of water or other beverage without salt.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A HIDDEN FACE

Dr. Henry Van Dyke used to tell an interesting story about a portrait of the famous medieval Italian poet Dante. Tradition had it that Dante's portrait was painted on a wall in an old palace in Florence. But no one knew exactly where it had been painted; no one alive had ever seen it; the general opinion was that the picture had long since been destroyed.

Finally an artist who was determined to behold this famous portrait if it was humanly possible studied the stories about it, examined the palace carefully, and decidedupon the room where it must have been. It was now a store room., filled with lumber and rubbish. the walls covered with whitewash. First he had the room cleared; then he began slowly and gently to clean the walls. At length he found a trace of color under the whitewash, and little by little the face of Dante reappeared on the wall

Great art treasures sometimes survive considerable hazards, but human nature is even more persistent. No man is without traces of the rudiments of love, courage, strength, and generosity, if only he himself or his friends will search for them painstakingly enough. Christian love, like the artist, assumes the best in man and patiently and gently seeks to make it appear.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The chief constable of a small town I visit throughout the fishing season (indeed, besides being the chief constable, he is the only constable) tells me that he never met a bald-headed hobo.

"In former days, when hoboes were far commoner than they are today, hardly a night in the year passed that I didn't have a couple of them in the lockup for a requested night's lodgings. Especially rainy nights, or cold winter nights. Sometimes, even in a little town like this, I would have as many as eight or ten. I was impressed then by the fact that I never saw a bald-headed one. At first, I had the idea that the more hair a man had, the less social instinct he possessed. I noticed that artists, musicians and other eccentric people had large bushy hair, and this seemed to bear out my theory. But we had an honest barber here in town some years ago, and put me on the right track. It was because the hoboes were full of fleas and other vermin that they had bair. They were scratching their heads all the time. And nothing, this barber told me, promotes health in the scalp like good scratching. Not brushing, mind you. Scratching, with the fingers nature gave us for that purpose as much as for anything else.

"He told me that the follicles in the scalp naturally itch when the hair is healthy and growing. An itchy head is a healthy sign. But somewhere about the time of Queen Victoria's early years on the throne, it became generally accepted that scratching the head was vulgar or impolite. Throughout the Victorian era, men grew balder and balder. Why? They couldn't scratch."

I asked the chief constable how his noboes supported that theory.

"They clinch it," he said. "In addition to the normal instinct to scratch, they had to pursue various creatures all day and even in their sleep. Result: they had luxurious hair. I never saw a bald-headed hobo."

I was going to ask about violin players, but at that moment my boat whistled.

Many Attend Graduation Day At Ontario School For the Deaf

It was graduation day on Tuesday at the Ontario School for the Deaf. The bright sunshine without was not more lovely than the bright and happy faces of the seventeen young graduates, ten white-clad young ladies, with red rose shoulder corsages, and seven dapper young men with white boutonnieres as they received their diplomas—tangible evidences of faithful work and years of accomplishment at the feet of their "Alma Mater." Yet beneath the smiling exterior, and the lovely surroundings of pink peonies and purple iris, which adorned the stage, and the long table with its adornment of gold and blue, emblematic colors of the school, its bevy of trophies, awards and silver cups, there lurked in each graduate's heart a sense of sadness which always accompanies a farewell and the breaking of ties long-forged with comrades of the classroom, and hesitancy in facing the unknown future, however stout of heart one may be.

THREE PROCESSIONAL LINES

Slowly the three processionals, the 49 teachers of the staff, and the graduating class wended their way down the three aisles, the teachers, headed by the former superintendent, Mr. W. J. Morrison, and Mr. G. J. Demeza, taking their respective places, the teachers on the platform, and the graduating class along the front of the capacity-filled auditorium, while the audience remained standing.

Following the processional, Mr. Demeza extended a warm welcome to the parents, some of whom had travelled long distances to be present at this momentous occasion, and to the friends, as well as to the unexpected guests, the members of the Elizabethdill Institute, near Cobourg, Ontario.

VALEDICTORIAN

Miss Jeannette Masci, sweet girl graduate, was valedictorian, and in a most expressive manner voiced her regret at leaving the school where so many happy years had been spent, and where she had received so much assistance from the kindly teachers fitting her to take her place in the world of today; that she would never forget them, and that there would always be a happy spot in her heart for the O.S.D.

The first item on the program was the presentation of the superintendent's awards to the students of the graduating class, for academic, vocational and out-of-school achievements during the entire school life of the student at the O.S.D. These awards, given to the girl and boy student showing the greatest achievement were won by Vivian Curtis, and William Hemphill. Mr. Demeza made the presentation.

Mrs. H. B. Fetterly presented the Fetterly award to Doreen Brown and Donald Dennie. This award is given for progress and proficiency in speech and speech reading in the senior school, and donated annually by Mrs. Fetterly and her daughters, Mrs. Muriel Cuykendall and Miss Jean Fetterly, in memory of the late H. B. Fetterly, M.A., former superintendent of the school from 1930-1936.

The Intermediated awards for progress and proficiency in speech and speech reading, were presented by Mr. W. J. Morrison, former superintendent, to Geraldine O'Dell, and Steven Reeve.

CATHERINE FORD SCHOLARSHIP

Miss H. Hegle presented the Catherine Ford scholarship, which was awarded to pupils of the senior grades of the junior school for the greatest effort in speech and speech reading, and have shown satisfactory progress. Miss Ford, deceased last February, was a teacher for 42 years, and it was through her outstanding contribution to the school that it enjoys its high standard of teaching today. The students winning this award were Donna Mosher, and James Learmonth.

The graduation certificates were awarded to Joanne Brontmier, Doreen Brown, Vivian Curtis, Peggy De La Franier, (who at the time of graduation was a pneumonia patient in the school's hospital); William Hemphill; Margaret Kirkness, Jeannette Masci, Isabel Nugent and Mary O'Neill. Mr. J. G. Demeza, assisted by Mr. W. J. Morrison, made the presentations, who also presented the certificates of merit to those students completing a course of study emphasizing vocational work; Leslie Brown, Jean Cullen, Allan Dale, Donald Dennie, Shirley Girdler, Jean Hopkins, Russell Koshowski, George Metigwab and William Wilks.

PROFICIENCY IN SENIOR SCHOOLS

The proficiency prizes for academic work in senior school were presented by Miss C. Maloney, to Joy Saunderson and Keith Dorschner.

Miss L. Burnside presented the award for senior school proficiency in arithmetic to Donna Bell; for readings and literature by Miss W. Huffman, to Joy Saunderson; for social studies, by Mr. J. Boyd, to Keith Dorschner, but as Keith had already received a prize, the award was given to the next highest, Norman Ruttan.

The awards for intermediate school proficiency in academic subjects were presented by Mrs. A. Wannamaker, to Evelyn Caldwell and Norman Roggie.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL AWARDS

Awards were presented by the following for proficiency in intermediate school subjects: arithmetic by Mr. R. Taylor, to Eugene LeBlanc; art and natural science by Miss R. Van Allen, to Lynn Jarvis; geography, by Mrs. B. Ryan, to Diane Lew; history, by Mr. K. Graham, to Curtis Merryless; language and composition, by Mrs. A. Wannamaker, to Byron Parliament; reading and literature by Mrs. G. Simpson, to Patsy Bishop.

The vocational proficiency prizes were won by Shirley Girdler, for beauty culture, presented by Mr. A. Clare; Margaret Kirkness, home economics, by Miss K. Daly; laundry work to Maryanne Kwandibens, by Mr. A. Clare; sewing, Isabel Nugent, by Miss N. Ketcheson; typing and business, to Vivian Curtis, by Mr. J. Chard; agriculture and mechanics, to Robert Stewart, by Mr. J. Hodgson; carpentry, to Billy Wilks, by Mr. L. Hall; printing, to Keith Dorschner by Mr. L. Morrison; woodworking, to William Hemphill, by Mr. H. Vaughan; intermediate sewing, to Sharon Kilbreath, by Mrs. E. Jackman, and industrial arts and crafts, to Bruce Williams, by Mr. C. Stratton.

COMMERCIAL CERTIFICATES

Those winning the commercial certificates, which were presented by Mr. J. Chard, were Joanne Brontmier, Doreen Brown, Vivian Curtis, Peggy DeLaFranier (ill); Margaret Kirkness, Jeannette Masci, Isabel Nugent, Mary O'Neill, and Joyce Rath.

The Butterick dressmaking book went to the girls of the full time vocational class and the graduating class who took sewing, presented by Miss N. Ketcheson, which included Joanne Brontmier, Doreen Brown, Joan Cullen, Vivian Curtis, Peggy DeLaFranier, (ill); Shirley Girdler, Jean Hopkins, Margaret Kirkness, Maryanne Kwandibens, Jeannette Masci, Isabel Nugent, and Mary O'Neill.

ATHLETIC AWARDS

Athletics are an important item in the school and are encouraged. The girls' awards for the senior girls' champion, Doreen Brown; runner-up, Peggy DeLaFranier, (ill); intermediate girls' champion, Marlene Caldwell; runner-up, Mary Gwalter, junior girls' champion, Patsy Bishop; runner-up, Beth Wright. These were presented by Miss Beth Wilbur, who also presented pins to the senior girls: Colleen Williams, Sarah Brant, Peggy DeLaFranier (ill); Doreen Brown, Christina Bennett, and Shellagh Kerr. The intermediate girls, Marlene Caldwell, Lila Garnett, Barbara Beaumont, Mary Gwalter, Donna Roult, Marilyn Bishop and Betty Williams were also awarded pins.

Athletic awards, boys, presented by Mr. W. Williams were won by: Senior boys' champion, William Hemphill; runner-up, Donald Dennie; intermediate boys' champion, Robert Hillman; runner-up, Bryan Meany; junior boys' champion, Norman Roggie; runner-up, James Labadie; juvenile boys' champion, John Wright, and runner-up, Donald Earle. Mr. Williams also awarded pins to the intermediate and senior boys as follows: intermediate: Robert Hillman, Bryan Meany, Andre Bourget and John Fossum. Senior boys, William Hemphill, Donald Sattler, Donald Dennie, William Wilks, Glen Skinkle, and Grant Drury.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Sports within the school during the year received individual crests, presented to the following girls by Miss Beth Wilbur: senior volleyball, captain, Sheliagh Kerr, with class standing; intermediate volleyball, captain, Betty Williams, class standing; junior volleyball, captain Beth Wright, class standing; senior basketball, captain, Marlene Caldwell; class standing; intermediate basketball, captain, Patsy Bishop; senior softball, captain, Mary O'Neill; junior soccer, captain, Margaret Munsie; class standing; junior relay, captain, Geraldine O'Dell.

Individual crests were also awarded to the following: senior badminton champions, Diane Moon and Sarah Brant; seniors runners-up, Jeannette Masci and Doreen Brown; intermediate badminton champions, Donna Roult and Evelyn Caldwell; intermediate runners-up, Barbara Beaumont and Nancy Moon; senior table tennis champions, Mary O'Neill and Peggy DeLaFranier, (ill); runners-ups, Diane Moon and Sarah Brant; intermediate table tennis champions, Donna Roult and Evelyn Caldwell, runners-up, Marilyn Bishop and Betty Williams.

BOYS' CRESTS

Mr. "Bill" Williams presented the crests to the boys for intramural sports, with the captains taking the crests, and their teams standing: senior basketball, captain, Harold Bradley; intermediate basketball, captain, Andrew Dube; senior volleyball, captain, William Hemphill; intermediate volleyball, captain, Herbert Alton; intermediate ice hockey, captain, Arnold Enman; senior hockey (ice) captain, Kenneth Searson; intermediate floor hockey, captain Normal Thompson; senior softball, captain, Donald Dennie, intermediate softball, Eugene Fowler; soccer, captain, Alan Dale.

Individual crests were presented by Mr. Williams to the following: senior badminton champions, (doubles) William Hemphill and Glen Skinkle; runners-up, Donald Sattler and Grant Drury: senior badminton (singles) champion, Billie Hemphill; runners-up, (singles) Alan Ogawa; senior table tennis champion, William Hemphill; runner-up, Kenneth Searson; intermediate table tennis champion, Lynn Jarvis; runner-up, James Hawkins.

COSSA SPORTS

Other sports were held outside the school, with Belleville Collegiate; Trenton H.S. and Albert College, as well as St. Michael's. Those of the junior boys' champions were Bryan Meany and Alan Ogawa, of the Central Ontario Secondary School Association of the Quinte Badminton. The volley boys' champion of the COSSA Bay of Quinte, were William Hemphill, captain; Robert Hillman; Keith Dorschner, Andre Bourget, Alan Ogawa, William Wilks, Jarvis Carey, Donald Sattler, Glen Skinkle, and Bryan Meany, who were presented with crests by Mr. W. Williams.

The Red Cross senior swimming badges went to the following girls: Diane Moon, Donna Bell, Marlene Caldwell, Vivian Curtis, Marlene Coulson, Barbara Beaumont, and Marilyn Bishop. These were presented by Miss Wilbur, and concluded the presentation of crests and awards.

SONG TO GRADUATES

The "Song to the Graduates", was rendered by the school with Mrs. J. G. Demeza at the piano, and led by Mr. Alec Gordon (who arranged the song), with the whole graduating class on the platform.

Following the recessional, in which the two lines of teachers, and one of graduates slowly wended their way out, picture taking became the order of the afternoon, recording on film, faces of comrades who had endeared themselves to one another through the long years. Thus ended another "Graduation Day", which must bring much satisfaction to the teachers of the Ontario School for the Deaf when they see such rich fruit from their labors of love.

Weddings

BAKER—MURRAY

On Saturday, June 4, a pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Francis Assisi church, Frankford, at 10 a.m., when Marjory Rose, daughter of Mrs. John Murray of Belleville, and the late Mr. John Murray, was united in marriage to Owen Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baker of Frankford. The Rev. J. L. Lamarche officiated. The church was adorned with peonies, spirea and iris in red, mauve and yellow.

Sister Mary Carmel Teresa rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. William Long.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, John Murray of Belleville, looked lovely in a floor length bridal gown of white lace over satin with a frilled panelled front of nylon tulle. The jacket was of white lace with long sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. The fingertip veil was caught with a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a white prayer book crested with yellow roses and yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Louis Reid, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, was attired in a floor length gown of panelled mauve, green and yellow over mauve taffeta with mauve jacket. She wore matching gloves, headdress and carried a nosegay of white daisies.

Misses Dorothy Jordon and Dora Lloyd of Belleville, were bridesmaids, attired in dresses similar to that of the matron of honor, except for yellow jackets, gloves and headdresses. Little Sandra Spears of Toronto, niece of the bride, was flower girl, in a floor length frock of mauve and yellow similar to that of the bridesmaids. All carried nosegays of white daisies.

Mr. Louis Reid of Frankford, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, attended as groomsman, while Mr. Harold Baker, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Clarence Finnegan of Toronto, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Trinity Anglican church hall in Frankford, where the bride's mother received, wearing a crushed rose crepe and lace gown with black accessories, assisted by the groom's mother wearing a light blue crepe gown. Each wore a corsage of white daisies.

For the wedding trip to Sarnia, Woodstock and Chicago, U.S., the bride chose a light blue suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside in Frankford, Ontario.

Guests were present from St. Paul's, Minnesota; Niagara Falls, Sarnia, Point Edward, Toronto, Belleville, Cannifton, Picton, Bloomfield, Batawa and Frankford.

WILLIAMS—MONAHAN

Metcalfe United church, Ottawa, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 11, when Beverley Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Monahan of Carlsbad Springs, was united in marriage to Cpl. Edward Blake Williams, of the RCAF, Rockcliffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams of Frankford, Ontario.

Carnations and peonies decorated the church for the double ring ceremony which was performed by the Rev. J. Davies.

Miss Susan Tompkins was the soloist and Mrs. W. Scharfe was the organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a full length dress of lace over satin. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a crown of sequins and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses.

Miss Phyllis Monahan, attended her cousin as bridesmaid.

Reginald Williams, was best man for his brother, and the ushers were R. B. Monahan, a brother of the bride, and E. Foster of Frankford, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the "Green Valley", Ottawa. The bride's mother received in a gown of pink crepe and matching accessories, wearing a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in navy blue sheer, with white accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and points west, the bride wore a turquoise blue dress with white accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of red roses.

Cpl. and Mrs. Williams will take up residence in Ottawa.

Out-of-town guests were from Buffalo, N.Y., Frankford, Moira, Quebec City, Trenton, Aylmer, Quebec, and Chatham, N.B.

Women's S.G. Discusses "Philosophy"

At the annual meeting of the Women's Study Guild the first part of the new book by Walter Lippman, "The Public Philosophy" a series of essays in public philosophy was discussed by Mrs. R. Gibson.

The meeting was in the form of a delightful pot-luck supper which was held in the beautiful garden of Mrs. Mills, Trent Road, on Monday. The past president, Mrs. Archibald, conducted the meeting.

Motions were passed: to send a donation to the Agnes Macphail Scholarship Fund established by the Elizabeth Fry Society to further the study of Social Service in connection with the rehabilitation of women prisoners; to send a donation to the WCTU Camp Fund to assist in sending a deserving girl to their camp.

It was with great pleasure that Mrs. Varcoe, the president, was welcomed back after an illness of several weeks.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The election of officers was held and the following positions were filled:

Past president Mrs. Varcoe; president Mrs. W. A. Campbell; vice-president Mrs. Arnold Orr; secretary Mrs. George Meades; treasurer Mrs. A. A. Fewtrell.

In the worship service Mrs. Maybee quoted several passages from the Bible and from the poets to demonstrate the glory and wonder of God in nature, which was much in keeping with the beautiful surroundings.

In discussing the first part of Mr. Lippman's book, Mrs. Gibson mentioned that the writer implies that the liberal democracies of the west failed in the fact that they were unable to make a peace out of their victories, and he hopes that liberty and democracy may both be preserved before one destroys the other. Also it is our trust that the representatives elected will be statesmanlike enough to preserve the democracy.

The members of the Guild realized that this was such a profound and intense book, and Mrs. Gibson, in presenting her talk in such an efficient and comprehensive manner, had so aroused their keen interest, it was decided that they would read it during the summer months and discuss the whole book at the September meeting.

Contact Club Enjoys Pot-Luck Supper

An enjoyable evening was held recently by Christ Church Contact club, when members gathered at the parish hall for a pot-luck supper and social evening.

The tables were lovely in gleaming white and silver, and each adorned with a beautiful bouquet of red peonies.

The many tempting dishes left nothing to be desired.

After supper, members and their guests, Archdeacon and Mrs. J. B. Creeggan, the Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Smith, enjoyed a social evening with games and chitchat.

During the evening president Marguerite Cooke read a note from Freda Patterson and all were happy to hear she was feeling better.

This being the closing event of the season, club will re-convene in September.

Thanks for the lovely evening went to Alice Wonnacott and helpers, who planned the supper and Margaret Wiggins and Isabel Murray, who arranged the evening's entertainment.

V.O.N. Gives Monthly Report

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held Monday evening in the YMCA with the president, Mrs. M. E. Bulger in the chair. Reports were read and discussed.

The nurse in charge reported a total of 80 patients had received care in May. The case load consisted of 27 chronically ill; 15 medical cases, and 38 mothers and babies. The nurses made 392 home visits of which 321 were for nursing care, and 71 were health supervision visits to mothers and babies.

During May one-half day was spent at Cannifton school; five half days at Holy Rosary school, and four half days assisting the local Department of Health at the Child Health Clinic.

Highest honor which a Girl Guide can achieve, the gold cord, was received this week by Lorna Donaldson, 16, of the 1st Belleville Company. She received her gold cord from Commissioner Mrs. R. D. Arnott during a mother and daughter banquet at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill. Shown in the picture are Mrs. N. Gerow, captain, Lorna, and Mrs. Arnott, Commissioner. Only five other Girl Guides have received gold cords in Belleville in the past 30 years.

Girl Guides Co. 1 Entertains At Mother-Daughter Banquet

On Monday evening the Guides of Company No. 1 held a most enjoyable "Mother and Daughter" banquet at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill.

The Guides and their mothers were received by Capt. Gerow and Lt. Govier.

Capt. Gerow proposed the toast to the Queen after which the Guide Prayer and Grace were said.

Mrs. N. C. Cathers proposed the toast to the Guides to which Marilyn Elliott replied.

Lorna Donaldson proposed the toast to the head table, at which were seated Commissioner Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Mrs. G. A. Bradford, President of the local Guide Association, Capt. Gerow, Lt. Govier, Mrs. L. Donaldson, Acting Lt. Lorna Donaldson, Marilyn Elliott, Noreen Breach, Mrs. Breach and Mrs. Elliott.

LOCAL ASSOC. PURPOSE

Capt. Gerow introduced Mrs. G. A. Bradford who spoke briefly on the local association, its purpose and the need of more support. She also stressed the importance of Auxiliaries being formed and the lack of leaders for the coming year.

Commissioner Arnott congratulated Capt. Gerow on the progress her company had made during the year due to the fact that this is the largest company in Belleville.

The Commissioner also spoke on the qualifications necessary for a Guide to become a Gold Cord Guide, after which she was happy to award the Gold Cord to Lorna Donaldson. This is the highest award a Guide can win and in 30 years there have only been five awarded in Belleville.

Capt. Gerow presented the service stars and Badges to the Guides:

Perfect attendance: Gweth Cathers, Donna English, Judy Yanover, Patricia Colden, June McFaul, Patricia Olsen, Kerrie Lee Meagher, Judy Linton, Barbara Eachus, Margaret Alyea, Winning Patrol and Phyllis Phillips.

Those winning Service Stars were:—

1st year: Margaret Alyea, Kathy Brook, Kiltie Burr, Patricia Colden, Miaranne Corke, Catherine Jantisch, Beverley Richards, Nancy Vantassel, and Judy Yanover.

2nd year; Frances Dickens, Barbara Eachus, Donna English, Carola Fisher, Mildred Gray, Linda Kells, Karrie Lee Meagher, Pat Millar, Gayle Stephenson, Jean Targon, Beverley Brown.

3rd year: Gweth Cathers, Doris Norridge, June McFaul, Judy Linton, Pat Olsen, Phylis Philips, Joy Smith, Diane Smith.

4th year: Coral Knott.

6th year: Lorna Donaldson.

7th year: Doreen Breach, Marilyn Elliot.

BADGES PRESENTED

Home Nursing: Karrie Lee Meagher, Gayle Stephenson and Donna English.

Cooks: Jean Targon, Pat Olsen and June McFaul.

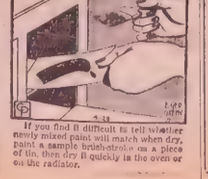
Woodman's: Lorna Donaldson.



Tracker's: Lorna Donaldson.

World Knowledge: Lorna Donaldson.

Woodcraft, Emblem: Lorna Donaldson.

Doris Norridge presented Commissioner Arnott with a dozen red roses from the Guides of Company No. 1.

A pleasant evening was brought to a close by Evensong and Taps.

If you find it difficult to tell whether newly mixed paint will match when dry, paint a sample brushstroke on a piece of tin, then dry it quickly in the oven or on the radiator.

Holloway W.A. Holds Season's Last Meeting

The Evening Group of Holloway St. Church W.A. was held in the church parlors on Thursday evening for its closing meeting, Ethel Knight, the convener, presided.

After a short business period, Elizabeth Deline read the scripture and Muriel Gillan gave the meditation.

Audrey Taylor and Ethel Knight each gave a reading on the work and building of the United Church training school, and some pictures of the school and its staff and students were shown.

Two contests were enjoyed.

Refreshments were served.

The program was in charge of Muriel Gillan, Elizabeth Deline and Audrey Taylor.

Quinte Ladies Golf Winners At Cobourg

Ten lady golfers from the Bay of Quinte Country Club took part in the Ladies' Field Day of the Cobourg Golf Club recently. Three of them came home with major honors.

Miss Helen Lee won the prize for the 1st low gross in the second flight with a 104. Mrs. P. Acton won the low putts for the field prize with a 31 while Mrs. D. A. Bradford won the second low net prize for the field with a 72.

Players from Belleville, Port Hope, Peterborough, Napanee and the home club took part. There were 52 in all, a surprising low number since last year over 100 ladies played.

After play the ladies enjoyed dinner in the clubhouse.

W.H. Auxiliary "Belle-Gen" Plans Picnic

If "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," some of the members of the staff of the Belleville General Hospital are anything but dull, for into their busy days and nights, they have fitted time for the activities of the "Belle-Gen" club. This recreational club is, not only planning a picnic in the near future, but has formed a girls' baseball team in which the nurses take part and Mr. Kenneth Box is the coach.

Mrs. J. L. Smith and Miss M. Peart of the members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary about ball games that have been played at the Alemite Park and at Madoc, and Mrs. W. C. Mikel added that Mr. Box is doing splendid work in creating goodwill among the staff.

A letter of thanks was read from Miss Peart for the auxiliary's help in participating in the graduation ceremonies, and expressing appreciation of the interest shown in the nurses' activities by the members. A note had also been received from Miss Barbara Smail containing thanks for the wallets given to each graduating nurse by the auxiliary.

GRATITUDE EXPRESSED

Mrs. Smith expressed her gratitude for the assistance of Mrs. E. L. Scott and her committee for their work on the collection of pledges toward the Building Fund.

Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon explained the plans for the summer for the "coffee-snack", and said jars of jam or pickles, as the members make their new supplies, would be welcome.

Regret was expressed about the illness of Miss Ivy Dickens.

Letters of appreciation for the services rendered at the "coffee-snack" keep coming in showing it is taking an important place in the hospital events.

The total net proceeds from last September to June from the Opportunity Shop were $2,050. Mrs. L. B. Fonger announced as she thanked all her workers for their assistance in making this possible.

The auxiliary's pledge to the Building Fund is being met rapidly by the successful efforts of the members.

LADIES!

The weather is hot, you say our stairs are a crime,
And you are definitely not in the mood for a climb,
You're at your wits' end when it comes to a dress,
And you don't know what to wear so that you can feel your best.
Well we know the stairs aren't a blessing and that is for sure,
We climb them every day till we're feeling mighty poor,
But won't you come up and give us a test,
Because at a very low price we can assure you of the best.
We've sundresses in cool cottons to help you through the heat,
And you'll be able to give us a smile even though you feel half beat,
Now if you need a party dress we've just the perfect style,
And it's so much lower priced, even though it seems you'll have to walk for miles.
So please give us a thought if you're in the market for a dress,
We've said it before, but at a low price you're sure to get the best,
And by all means don't let hot weather get you down,
You'll always feel much better if you buy a smart, cool dress, or gown.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE YOU DON'T REALLY KNOW YOUR OWN MIND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past year and a half, I have been going with a young man of 26 and recently we became engaged. I am 21.

For some reason I have been unable to figure out, my sister has taken a dislike to my fiance and appears to be trying her best to make me break the engagement. She keeps telling me that he is too old for me, that he hasn't a good enough job and that if I would be smart enough to wait, I could do much better.

Do you think I should listen to her and break up with this young man whom I love very much indeed, or just ignore what she says? — Sally H.

Dear Sally:

If you are so uncertain of your own feelings that you can be influenced by what anybody else says about your young man, even to thinking about breaking up with him, then you had better take a good long time about making up your mind whether to marry him or not. You tell me you love him very much, but this seems rather hard to believe when you can be swayed so easily by your sister's remarks about him. Maybe you're not so sure yourself as you think you are.

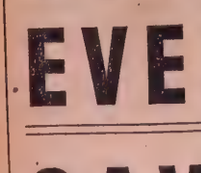
After going with a man for a year and a half, you certainly ought to know what sort of person he is. If you've found him congenenial all that time, and honest, dependable and kind—and sincerely in love with you, into the bargain—what more do you want? If he suits you, isn't that enough? If it's not, then you're certainly not ready to be engaged to him, much less marry him.

BETTER REVAMP YOUR IDEAS ABOUT BOY FRIENDS, JACKIE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I like a boy who is very jealous of me. We are going to have a dance at school and I'm afraid if we go together, and another boy should ask me to dance, he might get mad. Just the other day, when we were at a party, he got mad when another boy kissed me, and said that no girl friend of his was supposed to kiss other boys.

Do you think he should get mad just because I kissed another boy? After all, we're not going steady. And do you think I should go with him when he is younger than I am? I am 15, and he is either 13 13 or 14, I don't know which. — Jackie



Dear Jackie:

What I think is that it would be better if you got along without kissing boys at all. In that way, you'd not only avoid problems of the kind you mention, but you'd show yourself to be a girl who respects herself and her kisses enough to save her expressions of affection for the young man who will really mean something to her at the right time.

As for the matter of this particular boy being only 13 or 14 to your 15, you must be pretty young for your age to choose him for a special friend. Most girls of 15 prefer boys at least as old as they are themselves; better still, a year or two older.

I suggest you think all this over and see if wouldn't be wise for you to revamp your ideas about boy friends and how to behave with them.

A Porch or Picnic Meal With Jellied Veal

By Mary Moore

There are so many wonderful foods in Canada to test our cooking skill and knowledge that we could keep right on cooking for 365 days and never really have to repeat ourselves.

A big holiday week-end is coming soon and you won't mind one bit if I suggest a way to keep your meat bill down and still have top level flavor and quality.

This is a repetition of the jellied veal I gave you last year about this time and that our readers like so much. Of course I cannot tell you the price veal shanks will be when you read this and do not know where you will buy yours, but the price will be much lower than the old familiar ham or chicken or a roast of beef—and praise be, this dish will be ready and waiting for you to take out of the refrigerator, turn out, garnish and serve.

I would suggest serving

Jellied Veal Mustard Pickles
De Luxe Potato Salad
Cucumbers with Sour Cream Dressing
Hot Rolls (if at home)
Bought Rolls (if on a picnic
Strawberry Shortcake (see note)
Iced Coffee

JELLIED VEAL

These amounts make enough jellied veal for three meals for an average family. Veal should be stored in the refrigerator.

Buy 6 lbs. shank veal including the bones of course. Wash and put on to boil in cold water to nearly cover with 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 small onion sliced, 1 bay leaf and simmer, covered, 4 hours, turning shanks over once. Cool in boiling liquid. When cold transfer meat and bones to a big tray, strain and measure liquid. You will have about 6 cups. To 1 cup of this cold liquid add 4 tablespoons plain gelatin and let it soak five minutes. Stand the dish in hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add this dissolved gelatin to the remaining 5 cups of strained broth.

Separate the chunky lean pieces of veal from the bones. Any rough ends and soft cartilage put through medium knife of food chopper. Add this ground meat to the liquid and add 1 1-2 teaspoons salt (salt flavor subsides when veal is jellied). Add 1-2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate if you have it on hand, and 1 teaspoon paprika and 1 tablespoon green pickle relish or chopped sweet pickle. Moisten 3 small loaf pans or porcelain bowls with water and apportion the pieces of veal into each of them. Then with a cup dip the liquid and ground meat over until pans are brimming full. Chill until firm.

NOTE RE GELATIN:

The one-half pound boxes of plain gelatin that we can now purchase are catching on and more and more are being bought according to the manager of the store at which I deal. Bought in 1-2 lb boxes plain gelatin is considerably less costly than the small boxes of gelatin commonly for sale, and brings gelatin dishes out of the luxury class.

NOTE 2:

When we are in Devon (as you read this) I just may be eating Devonshire cream! If so I'll be hoping to have a piece of fresh raspberry pie under it. The very thought makes my mouth water.

NOTE 3:

If you do take this meal on a picnic carry the sliced sweetened berries and whipped cream for the strawberry shortcake in separate jars and assemble the shortcake at the picnic site while Dad and the youngsters "set the table."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

HERE COMES THE BRIDE!

In the wedding scene, the bride is the star. It is the one day in her life that she must look her loveliest. And she will, because happiness imparts radiance and charm.

Considering the social activities that usually precede a wedding it is surprising that she has the strength to march up the aisle. Choosing the dress! Getting things ready for the honeymoon journey! Receiving gifts! Parties and parties!

So that one will not be a flurried bride, plans must be made carefully. The permanent wave should be at least a week old so that the hair will not appear too "set." Peeping from beneath the veil, tresses must be soft, wave lines wide and fluid, ringlets large and fluffy.

If you are to be a bride soon, we would suggest that, when you have your manicure the day before the wedding, you use a faint rose polish. Gaudy red nails conflict with the white gown.

Be subtle with make-up. Apply a creamy powder base and work it in well with your finger tips until it has disappeared. You'll need a bit of rouge, likely as not, because excitement and nervous tension reduce the natural coloring of the complexion. Select a delicate pinky-pink and edge it off ever so mistily with a little more powder and careful blending. Choose a natural tint of lipstick and blot it carefully with tissues.

Take your time when getting into lovely trappings. Don't be a hurried, breathless bride. If possible, sneak in a period of relaxation during the day.

Have your packing completed well before the ceremony, with last minute items laid out neatly near your luggage. This is one time of your life when everything must be well organized.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN BRIDE WEARS A FACE VEIL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My wedding veil has an attached face veil. When is the proper time to have it lifted back from my face? Also please tell me if my maid of honor is supposed to help me with it.

2. I am to have a maid of honor and two bridesmaids. If is to be a double-ring ceremony. Which one of the attendants holds the bridegroom's ring?

3. My wedding dress has a train. Is it proper for the flower girl to lift it as we go in to sign the register? And also when we are leaving the vestry and church? — F.W.

When the marriage ceremony is completed, you turn to your maid of honor who hands you your bridal bouquet, which she has held during the ceremony; and then she lifts your face veil. (You should, of course, beforehand give her definite instructions about how you want her to do this, for the procedure depends on the type of your face veil.)

2. Usually the maid of honor takes charge and care of the bridegroom's ring . . . just as the best man takes charge of the bride's ring. (Sometimes, however, the best man takes charge of both rings.)

3. The most practical and convenient procedure, I believe, is for you yourself to take care of your train. Otherwise, you may have to take care of the flower girl taking care of your train!

CORRECT NAME FOR WIDOW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know you have answered this question before, but to settle a big dispute we are having in our family, I do wish you would please answer it again in your column. Since my father's death a few years ago, my mother has been using her first name in her signature: for example, Mrs. Anna Brown. Some say she is wrong about this, and that she should still sign Mrs. John Brown. Please publish in your column the correct answer. — M.A.

The form of name your mother has been using, as a widow, is not correct. She should have continued to use exactly the same form of name she used when her husband was living . . . Mrs. John Brown. The correct form for her signature is: Anna Smith Brown or Anna S. Brown. When she is signing a letter to someone who must be informed of her formal name, she signs like this:

Sincerely yours
Anna Smith Brown
(Mrs. John Brown)

In all her social contacts your mother should use Mrs. John Brown. She should always avoid using "Mrs. Anna Brown."

POLITE TRIO OF WORDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it true that when I asked for directions or similar information, I should always say "Excuse me" before I ask the question?—Reader

Yes. Since you are asking for the courtesy of the other person, you should always say "Excuse me" before you ask your question. You should either begin or end your question with "Please." And you should acknowledge the answer with a gracious "Thank you." Remember, there are three parts to your courtesy: (1) "Excuse me." (2) "Please." (3) "Thank you." The polite Trio!

What Did You Say?

(Eds. note: The International Show of Racing Pigeons in London, England, is interested in having Canadian entries. The family journal, interested in whether any native pigeon was interested, sent George Carver and Harry Mulhall, its outdoors reporters (they're allowed indoor on Sundays and statutory holidays) to interview an interested pigeon as a matter of interest. The journal publishes the results in its readers' best interests):

"Here," said Mulhall, five-foot-five featherweight reporter and as such beloved of birds the world over, "is our pigeon."

"You," replied Carver, who first founded his present vast store of birdlore when diving for crusts thrown by swans during the depression, "are right."

Mulhall reached for his pad, moistened the end of his pencil and liked the taste. Carver waited till he finished eating, then said:

"I'll be interpreter. I have an M.A. in pidgin English."

Mulhall picked the splinters out of his teeth, and faced the object of their search. The bird preened itself on its bough and faced right back at him.

"Sir, no doubt you have read of the requests for Canadian pigeons in London's International Show. As one of the species what do you think?"

The bird pecked meditatively around its feet for an instant, cocked its head sideways and mumbled something in its own tongue.

Carver, without hesitation straightaway slipped in a brief interpretation:

"Due to a multitude of reasons, which should be immediately obvious, but apparently have not achieved this happy state of affairs, this intelligent and proud member of the species Columbidae, having searched its cerebrum and exercised its mental capacity apropos your query, discovers itself as presently registered in a comprised position."

Mulhall's gasp sent another shower of splinters out between his teeth:

"What did you say?"

"He's up a tree!"

Quickly recovering Mulhall thoughtfully fingered his ear, put it back on and launched into the fray again:

"May I ask what you mean by that remark, sir?"

The bird rolled its eyes to the front of its head and mumbled some more.

Unhesitatingly, the ubiquitous Carver started to deal out his terse commentary:

"Unfortunately, my feather-brained friend, your earnest intentions of interviewing a member of the Columbidae species, have been tried and found wanting. In fact, to put it simply, are out of juxtaposition with your present efforts. If, as this intelligent creature has informed you, with a rare turn of wit I might add, you will closely examine his plumaged exterior and bird-like characteristics, then, your inspection will reveal to you that your previous observations are of dubious merit and have cast both you and I into grave error."

"What did you say?"

"That's no dang pigeon," barked Carver testily. His next words were cut short as a sheep dog in the next field barked hopefully in reply.

Mulhall struggled to hide his embarrassment with a sickly grin.

"Then what is it?" he queried weakly.

"That, my boy," said Carver in a warm, fatherly, voice, "that, you stupid wearer of a Rabelaisan rag-picker's cast-offs, is a fully accredited, superlatively pedigreed specimen of the falco spaverius group, which through the grace of maternal Nature, whose all-seeing eye reaches out beyond, before and be-after, enjoys the climate of that wonderful territory termed idly the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave, inhabiting it from hinterland to seacoast.

"What did you say?"

"It's a sparrow."

Allocation Of St. Lawrence R. Power Made

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — The State Power Authority Wednesday announced a tentative allocation of St. Lawrence river power. It included 183,000 firm kilowatts for industrial use besides the 177,000 assigned to the Aluminum Company of America.

Members of the authority inspected construction work on the huge project with Governor Harriman, who made a day-long tour through northern New York.

The governor cut a ribbon opening a temporary bridge at the power project site. The authority's tentative allocations were for "firm" power, which is available at all times. Another classification is interruptable power, available only during time of high water.

The authority also allocated 143,000 kilowatts to private utilities 33,000 to the city of Plattsburgh and 11,000 to the new Plattsburgh U.S. Air Force base. Harriman expressed hope that the allocation of St. Lawrence power would foster industrial development.

NEWSPAPER MEN ARRIVE

MONTREAL (CP)—A party of 43 French editors, newspaper men and publicity managers arrived by plane from Paris Tuesday. They are members of the National Syndicate of the French Provincial Press. They will tour Quebec and the eastern United States, visiting pulp mills, manufactures of printing equipment, and newspapers.

VANDALS DAMAGE LIGHT

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP)—Unknown persons smashed their way into the Bob-Lo island lighthouse early Tuesday and broke the batteries operating the light, police said. The group broke open locked steel doors, and then threw the batteries 65 feet from the top of the lighthouse. Emergency repairs were made.

Mayor Clough Of Galveston In Spotlight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Galveston's controversial Mayor George Roy Clough said Wednesday that prostitution—"decent prostitution"—is in his city to stay.

Talking to a reporter while waiting to testify in the tax evasion trial of former Galveston police chief Fred M. Ford, Clough said he has "the greatest admiration" for "the lowest prostitute" when "compared to my contempt for city officials who accept her money for permission to operate."

"Nobody's paid me a dime—they can't bluff me out or pay me off. They gotta, and they will, learn to live with me," he declared.

The mayor took office last month amid a storm of charges that his administration was bringing filth and corruption.

The 65-year-old owner of one of Galveston's two radio stations said that as long as gambling, prostitution and liquor houses operate "in an orderly measure," he is going to "let them stay."

'Tornado Alert' Sounded In Central Vermont

BOSTON (AP) — Central Vermont, playing host to President Eisenhower, was under a 4½-hour "tornado alert" Wednesday night, but the twister did not materialize.

The United States weather bureau issued the first alert bulletin at 5 p.m. EDT, warning of "an isolated tornado in an area about 50 miles each side of a line from west central Vermont to west central Maine."

Eisenhower spoke Wednesday night at two affairs in Crittenden, Vt., about 10 miles north of Rutland and well within the 100-mile band which faced the tornado threat.

The weather bureau issued an "all clear" bulletin at 9:30 p.m.

DEFEAT JOE'S MOVE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Wednesday crushed a resolution by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) aimed at forcing the Big Four conference to discuss the status of Soviet satellite states. The roll call vote was 77 to 4.

Clown Emmett Kelly Proves a Flop As an Expert Elephant Trainer

Emmett Kelly doesn't look a bit happy in the predicament he finds himself in above, but for that matter, looking happy is something completely foreign to this famous sad sack regardless of the situation. He's most happy being unhappy.

Clown Emmett Kelly gets himself into the craziest places.

Consider his situation here. The woebegone tramp who has made thousands laugh with his pantomime finds himself in a position a prudent man would shy away from.

Big Ruth the elephant, surveys the prostrate man placidly. It's all old stuff to her because she performs the trick regularly with her master elephant trainer, Hugo Schmitt.

Despite Kelly's very apparent qualms, the five-ton elephant was considerate and kept her tree trunk leg to herself. They'll both be seen (but not necessarily in this position) when Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus comes to Belleville, June 27.

Kelly and Big Ruth are only two of the hundreds of performers, human and animal, that make up the all-new 1955 edition of The Greatest Show on Earth.

Many new foreign acts, never before seen in America, have been imported by John Ringling North, president of the circus.

There are four beautiful spectacles this year. "Holidays," a musical extravaganza, cost more than $300,000 to produce.

The huge menagerie of rare wild animals has been increased by the addition of an okapi, a curious creature combining the features of a zebra, a giraffe and an antelope, and by 20 baby elephants, newly arrived from their native India.

Performances begin at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. with doors to the new, air-ventilated Big Top opening at 1 and 7 p.m.

'Name's The Same' Quiz Show Proves Pleasantly Diverting

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television may have too many panel quiz shows, but some of them can be pleasantly diverting. ABC-TV's "Name's the Same" comes under that heading.

The gimmick is simple. each guest has the same name as some famous person, event or object. It's up to the panel to discover, by asking guests questions that can be answered yes or no, what the famous name is. Viewers are in on the secret from the start.

The questioning can take some humorous turns. On this week's show, for example, one of the guests was Mrs. Willie Mays of Rison, Ark. The panelists quickly developed that her name was that of someone in sports, a baseball player in the National League, and a member of the New York Giants team. After guesses ranging all the way to Sal Maglie, they struck out and never came up with the name of Willie Mays, most valuable player in the National League last year.

The show is getting a new moderator, the erudite Clifton Fadiman, who presided for many years over "Information Please." Panelists are Joan Alexander, TV and stage actress, Audrey Meadows of the Jackie Gleason show, Walter Slezak, star of the stage hit "Fanny," and Roger Price, humorist and author. They manage to be personable and smart without having their ego show.

James C. Petrillo, chief of the American Federation of Musicians, will make a rare TV appearance Saturday for the inaugural of "America's Greatest Bands" on CBS summer replacement for Jackie Gleason. It's by way of tribute to Gleason for providing more TV opportunities for musicians. . . . Rudy Vallee has retired from the air again and Mitch Miller, bearded director of the popular music division of Columbia Records, will take over as emcee of "Music Hall" on CBS Radio Sunday night.

Nearly All Discharged

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (AP) Edward John Noble Hospital Wednesday reported it had discharged all but two of 14 persons taken ill Tuesday at the Thousand Island Club.

The two, a Canadian man and an American woman, were listed in good condition. The hospital said they would be discharged today. Their names were not given.

The victims, most of them Canadians, had been attending a convention of Canadian finance and loan companies.

Dr. Robert B. Burtch said the cause of the illness was not known. Laboratory tests to determine the cause would take two or three days.

Two-Ton Galento Makes Debut In Summer Theatre

By TOM BRADSHAW

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—The girls-consuming square - cut man with the face like a benevolent gorilla stamped onto the stage, and the audience rippled appreciatively.

"There he is," said a portly blonde. "That's Two-Ton Tony."

The identification was unneeded. Scarcely a man in the oversized tent pitched on a muddy hillside near this Pennsylvania town was unaware of the thespian's name.

This was the serious theatrical debut of Tony Galento, wrestler of octopuses and bears, heavyweight boxing challenger, barkeeper and butcher of the King's English.

IT'S TOUGHER

"Gees," said Two-Ton in his dressing room before the opening act. "This is tougher than meeting Joe Louis."

Then, by way of self- and semi-public assurance, Tony recalled that he had "a memory like an elephant." He had seen the show in question—"Guys and Dolls"—several times in New York and elsewhere.

But Tony had the usual misgivings before the curtain went up at the Valley Forge Music Fair.

To all intents and purposes, Tony Galento—"star" of the summer stock show under canvas—was suffering stage fright.

HE WAS READY

But when the orchestra struck up the opening number and the house lights were dimmed, Two-Ton Tony was John Barrymore with a black forest of hair on his chest and mammoth arms, a king-sized Edwin Booth with a slightly-used cigar in the corner of his more than slightly-used mouth.

A story of Broadway characters against a backdrop of floating crap games, the musical was well received. And Galento, as Big Jule, the guiding light of Broadway's best-known dice manoeuvres, was given his share of applause.

APPROVES FOREIGN AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House foreign affairs committee Wednesday approved a $3,285,800,000 foreign aid budget for next year after slicing $139,200,000 from the amount authorized by the Senate.

Overturned Boat, Plane Explosion Claim Four Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two persons were believed drowned Wednesday night at Toronto when a small outboard motor boat overturned on Lake Ontario.

It would be the third double fatality of the day in eastern Canada. Two men were fatally injured when a CF-10 jet fighter crash-landed at La Tuque, Que., 120 miles northeast of Montreal and two small boys were drowned at St. John's, Nfld.

At Brantford, John Stahl, 49, was killed when his tractor overturned on him. At Dryden in northwest Ontario, Pat Dube, 19 year-old electrician, died after coming in contact with a high tension line.

Missing at Toronto are Mrs. Alice Fulton, 22, and Les Collie, about 45, both of Toronto.

FOLLOWED CRUISER

The two were in a 23-foot plywood boat following a cabin cruiser. In the cruiser were Mr. and Mrs David Newell, and Joseph Fulton, husband of the missing woman.

The Newells had been making minor repairs to their cruiser and had decided to give it a trial run.

Mr Fulton said he looked back and saw the small boat was missing. He took off his clothes and plunged in, but his search revealed only his wife's shoe.

Killed at La Tuque were FO J. M. Arsenault 27, of Richmond, P. E. I., navigator of the plane and Sqdn. Ldr. G. J. Zaleschuk, who lived in the married quarters at St. Hubert.

The plane, on a routine flight, reported one engine on fire before attempting to land at the emergency field. The plane exploded on touching the ground.

CATHOLICS DEMONSTRATE

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—About 4,000 Roman Catholics demonstrated in downtown Santiago Wednesday night, marching and shouting, "Christ, yes—Peron, no."

Cause of Obesity Boils Down To Greediness

TORONTO (CP)—The cause of obesity boils down to greediness, a British physician, Dr. E. R. Cullinan, told a joint session of the British and Canadian Medical Associations here Wednesday.

About 95 per cent of all problems of overweight arise from simple obesity, he said. There is no evidence that overweight is caused through glandular trouble.

"Fat comes from food," Dr. Cullinan said. "Simple obesity is always caused by taking more food than a particular individual requires."

VARIOUS DISORDERS

He stressed that an excessive intake of food and reduced activity is to blame for all but a few problems of overweight and said obesity could be responsible for lethargy, accident liability, flat feet, backache, varicose veins, skin disorders, and such ailments as hernias, bronchitis and pregnancy disorders.

"But the real danger is to longevity," Dr. Cullinan said.

He said a recent survey of 25,000 men and 25,000 women showed that, among those 20-per-cent overweight the mortality rate was one-third higher than average. The mortality rate, he said, increases with the percentage of overweight. Persons 50-per-cent overweight had almost double the normal death rate.

WINS PLOWING TITLE

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP) — Twenty-one-year-old Jim Bonnar of Rowland, Man., captured the Manitoba and western Canada plowing championships Wednesday over 32 contestants. About 10,000 persons witnessed the match.

Stream Pollution Greatly Reduced Says Spokesman

GUELPH (CP) — A spokesman for the Canadian pulp and paper industry said here Wednesday that stream pollution caused by manufacture of pulp and paper has been greatly reduced, in many cases entirely eliminated through the efforts of mill-owners.

Douglas Jones of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, Montreal, said the industry has done all in its power during recent years to convert polluting material into valuable products, either for sale or for use in the mills. He spoke at the second Industrial Waste Conference, sponsored by the Ontario pollution control board.

Mills have almost completely eliminated pollution in the manufacture of ground wood pulp, Mr. Jones said. In the manufacture of sulphate and soda pulps, most of the chemical and other elements that could pollute streams were recovered and re-used in the pulping processes.

The last big problem is presented by the manufacture of sulphite pulp, he said.

He urged the Dominion government to co-operate with industry in making an early survey of waterways to determine their capacity to supply fresh water and to handle industrial, municipal and other wastes.

CHOOSE FARMERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven farmers or agricultural experts have been chosen to represent the United States on a tour of farm districts in Russia. They will be part of an exchange program under which a Russian group also will visit the U.S. to observe farm methods.

YOU CAN WIN $3,000 THIS WEEK in the exciting DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT!

Consolation prizes of $100 each went to: Mrs. Ida McEvoy, 429 Cougal Avenue, Windsor; Mrs. Madeleine Fournier, 438 Kenmark Street, Timmins; Mrs. Irene Kress, 2220 Church Street, Windsor; who all missed out on the grand prize of $2000 in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT last Saturday night. They all knew the answer, but did not qualify because they simply answered the telephone "hello" instead of saying Dominion Stores and naming the Phantom Famous Brand.

Don't you be disappointed. Don't miss out this week, be ready with the right answer. It's possible that you may be called. More than 33 telephone calls were placed to Oshawa, Petrolia, Peterborough, Carlton Place, Chatham, Galt, London, Kitchener, Hull, Sudbury, Timmins, Milton, Niagara Falls, St. Thomas, Aldershot, Hamilton, Brantford, Guelph, Kingston, Ottawa, with numerous calls to Toronto and surrounding suburbs.

You can win $3,000 this week in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT. First, find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on this page but not illustrated. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving Time next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $3,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand." If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calling, you will win the Grand Prize of $2,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a DOMINION cash register slip dated this week and totalling $5.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand," you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Find the "PHANTOM FAMOUS BRAND!"

Below are listed a number of Canada's most famous brands of food and household products. ALL BUT ONE of these products are illustrated on this page. Check the list of products against the illustrations and find the one that is NOT ILLUSTRATED. That is the "Phantom Famous Brand" in this week's contest.

DOMINION "FORTUNE-HUNT" PHONE CALLS ARE MADE SATURDAY FROM 8 TO 9 P.M. EASTERN DAYLIGHT TIME

Molotov's Life Threatened In Anonymous Call

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters)—United Nations officials were reported Wednesday to have received an anonymous phone call threatening to shoot Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

United Nations security chiefs passed on the threat to the San Francisco police who sent reinforcements with rifles onto rooftops to watch approaches to the San Francisco Opera House where the 10th anniversary meetings are being held.

The rooftop guard was maintained as delegates filed in for the afternoon session but when Soviet delegation officials said Molotov would not "in any case" be attending it the rooftop guard was told to come down.

Farm Income Takes Big Drop

OTTAWA (CP)—The amount of cash farmers received from the sale of their products dropped by an estimated $34,200,000 to $472,000,000 in the first three months of 1955.

This was the third consecutive annual drop from the peak $555,700,000 in 1952, the bureau of statistics said today.

Total farmers' cash income showed increases in Ontario and the Maritimes, remained virtually unchanged in British Columbia, but declined sharply in the Prairie provinces and Quebec.

Cash income for the quarter in Ontario, with 1954 figures in brackets: $190,369,000 ($182,576,000).

Shannonville

W. I.

SHANNONVILLE— Mrs. Chas. Wood, Mrs. W. D. Robertson, and Mrs. Elmer Vivian attended the Women's Institute meeting on Tuesday last at the home of Mrs. D. Atkins. Dr. Roluf gave an interesting address. Harriett Stevens, Women's commentator, gave a talk and also contributed a solo. The fine program and refreshments were much enjoyed by the large gathering.

Mr. Mastin has been a recent guest of his son, Clarence, Mrs. Mastin and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Don Watson, of Aurora, Ontario, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Asa Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cook. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cook and family were Sunday visitors.

Mrs. G. Rowe, Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Ross Shetler.

Dr. D. H. Houston, of Seattle, Washington, was a recent guest of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Houston.

Mrs. Ralph of Regina, Sask., is a guest of her cousin, Mrs. Harry Sine, and Mr. Sine.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joy on the birth of their daughter, Elizabeth Dawn, at Belleville General Hospital, Monday, June 13.

Mr. Charles Keirl and Mr. Frank Doxtator attended the funeral of the late L. Adams which was held from Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Heisler and Judy are vacationiig in Nova Scotia.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Armstrong (nee Ardeth Brant), who were married in All Saints Church, Tyendinaga Reserve on Saturday, June 18. A large number of guests were in attendance at the wedding and reception which followed at the Council house.

After their return from their wedding trip in the U. S. A. the young couple will reside in Oshawa.

Mrs. Robert McFarlane and Mrs. Eliza McFarlane spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doxtator.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. John Dowdell on the death of his brother, N. Dowdell, at Perth, following a lengthy illness.

Miss Lorraine Brant, Reg. N., of Guelph, is holidaying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Brant.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Reid and George were recent tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Houston.

Calgary whoops it up

Into Calgary pour cowboys from as far south as the Rio Grande, Indians in beaded buckskins and eagle feathers, wild broncs and Brahma bulls — all to be part of the world-famous Stampede.

But what happened the year Indians weren't admitted free? What violent argument started this rip-roaring rodeo 43 years ago? July Reader's Digest tells you how (and why) modern Calgary becomes a town of the Old West once a year. 48th Highlanders Old Boys Assoc. Guests of ANAF

On Saturday last the 48th Highlanders Old Boys' Association were honored guests of Unit 201. Some forty or fifty members and ladies of this proud unit from Toronto blazonly invaded this fair city occasioning the semi-annual cribbage and darts tournament between these enthused groups.

Bill Ross of the 48th in presenting the Jimmy Doig Memorial Trophy made special note of our beloved and departed Comrade Jimmy, the originator and co-ordinator of this semi-yearly event, and in accepting the trophy for this year's dual winner, Mr. Doig, our late Comrade's father was at a loss for words owing to so recent a bereavement, but in ably assisting him, Dick Burns, sports chairman, spoke a few chosen words of sincere appreciation.

During the contesting for the trophies the visiting ladies were suitably entertained under the leadership of Mrs. W. J. Cleary.

President Charles Queire of the 48th can be justly proud of his entourage with Piper Dickie Boyle, vocalist Joe McPhail and accordianist Walter Cunningham, a seasoned entertainer; they left a fine impression of gaiety and good will.

A special hand of welcome was extended to President and Mrs. Mac Reilly of the Owl's Club, A.N.A.F. Unit 306 of Toronto.

The Belleville president, W. J. "Dad" Ford celebrated his birthday on this eventful day, receiving plaudits of good wishes.

To round out a very successful event the Ladies' Auxiliary served a very tasty and enjoyable luncheon.

City Councillors' Expense Accounts Being Questioned

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto city councillors aren't seeing eye-to-eye on the use of expense accounts, automobiles and travelling accommodation.

As a result, city property department officials will file a full report with the city clerk's office today on use of board of control cars.

The questions arose Wednesday when Ald. William Dennison said controllers are using city cars for private business, that he is disturbed over expense accounts of city council members, and that he questions travelling accommodation of city councillors.

Acting Mayor Ford Brand said Mr. Dennison is trying to dig up a lot of muck. Controller David Balfour said he is ashamed of Mr. Dennison.

"I use a city car for everything," Mr. Balfour said. "And I have no apology to make to anyone."

Spuds Grow Early And Big Out Foxboro Way

Spuds grow early and big out Foxboro way!

Proof of the fact was seen on the local market this morning when the early "Jumbo" spuds were offered by Percy DeMille, 6th concession of Sidney.

These were not the first potatoes on the market this year but so far they were the biggest. Grown by Mr. DeMille in light soil west of Chatterton, there were only eight potatoes in a heaped quart basket. They are said to be a record both for earliness and size.

New Peas Hold Steady on Mart At 80 cts. Qt.

Peas continued at 80 cents a quart box on the local market this morning. In the pod they sold at 25 cents a box.

Strawberries were 40-45 cents a box.

Potatoes were $3.75 a bag and 60 cents a six-quart basket. New Irish cobblers, in short supply, fetched 40 cents a berry box. Green pencil-pod bean were 25 cents a quart while spring onions and rhubarb continued at 10 cents a bunch. A light offering of beets brought 5 cents a bunch.

Vegetable and ower plants sold from 30 cents to 75 cents according to quantity. Bunches of peonies were 35 cents a bunch and Sweet Williams 25 cents.

CARDINAL RETURNS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Antonio Cardinal Caggiano returned Monday to his diocese in Rosario, Argentina's second largest city. He was in Las Victorias parish house here when it was set on fire Thursday night by crowds roaming the streets after an unsuccessful revolt. He suffered minor scratches on the face.

CUBAN DELEGATE

he had been forbidden to reach from his prepared text. His remarks were made to the accompaniment of applause, shouts, cheers and laughter from the galleries.

In the prepared text previously distributed to the press, he drew a contrast between the conduct of the Western powers and that of the Soviet Union since the end of the Second World War.

Whereas the Western powers had given freedom and independence to conquered enemies and many colonial territories, he said in the text, the Soviet Union had conquered, in Europe alone, nearly lands and "enslaved" 8,000,000 hu-50,000 square miles of foreign

When Nunez-Portuondo finished his speech, he was given the biggest ovation yet seen and heard at the meeting.

In a statement to the press after his intervention during the Cuban delegate's address, General Romulo said:

"My sense of fairness was outraged. That is why I intervened."

He said van Kleffens had not stopped Molotov, who had "got away" with several controversial issues and was obviously referring to the United States in some of his remarks.

"Why should there be one rule for Cuba and the small countries and another for the Soviet Union?" General Romulo asked.

Tribute Paid U.F.O. Premier

BARRIE (CP)—Ontario's Progressive Conservative premier had high words of praise Wednesday for one of his predecessors.

Speaking at a warden's picnic and banquet at nearby Midhurst Park, Premier Frost paid tribute to Hon. Ernest C. Drury, United Farmers of Ontario premier from 1919 to 1923, as the founder of conservation and reforestation development now accepted throughout Ontario and the rest of the world.

Mr. Drury, now Simcoe county sheriff, was a head-table guest at the banquet, which Mr. Frost attended after opening the new Barrie court house.

"Reforestation and conservation have created a wonderful change," Premier Frost said. ". . . Towns which once were abandoned when the timber was cut now have become perpetuated and grow on a permanent basis."

Gold-Bearing Rock Stolen

TORONTO (CP) —A chunk of gold-bearing rock valued at $1,000 was stolen Wednesday from the Ontario Museum, police said.

The rock came from the Teck-Hughes gold mine at Kirkland Lake.

It was last seen i nthe exhibit in the museum's mineralogy department at 4 p.m. Tuesday. It was first noticed missing shortly after noon Wednesday. Police said the rock was taken by someone who removed two screws on the sliding glass door and took off the door.

Queen Requests Explanation From Her Husband

GLASGOW (AP)—"What in the world happened to you?"

This was the greeting Queen Elizabeth gave her husband when the Duke of Edinburgh finally caught up with her Wednesday. He missed a date with her when his helicopter was forced down by bad weather on a flight from Edinburgh.

The Queen smiled as the duke explained apologetically "unavoidably detained, my dear."

Obviously relieved that her air-minded husband was all right, the Queen quipped right back:

"I'm very glad you didn't land at Uddingston where we expected you. The field there didn't seem to be very large."

EXTRA!

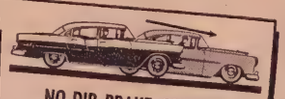
Only Chevrolet of the low-priced three gives all these added features at no extra cost!

54-PLATE BATTERY
The increased number of power-operated features in today's cars demands a bigger battery reserve than ever before. And Chevrolet supplies it with this jumbo-sized 54-plate battery.

12-VOLT IGNITION
Modern high-compression engines need a really powerful electrical system to operate at their top efficiency. No car is up to date without a 12-volt system like Chevrolet's, to give hotter, fatter sparks and faster, surer, all-weather starting.

EXTRA GLASS AREA
The greater the glass area, the smaller the blind spots, and a measuring tape will prove to you that Chevrolet has the greatest glass area of the low-priced three.

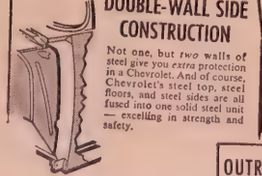
CENTRE ROOF BOW
Chevrolet's rugged, sturdy roof bow of ribbed steel, four inches wide, provides extra reinforcement for the solid steel Turret Top. And this is just one part of the extra protection given by Chevrolet's Body by Fisher.



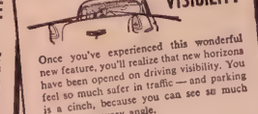
HI-LEVEL MODERN AIR INTAKE
Chevrolet's new high-level air intake ventilation system features a cleaner, cooler air supply—in every season and under all weather conditions. It keeps out the rain, avoids road heat and fumes.

ROOMIER INTERIOR
There's more room for hips, hats and legs on the inside of a Chevrolet — even though Chevrolet is more compact on the outside. Trunk space is ample for all the family's needs—and there's no awkward ledge to make loading and unloading difficult.

HYDRAULIC VALVE LIFTERS
This truly advanced feature, normally found on higher priced cars only, needs far less servicing to maintain smoother, quieter, more dependable valve operation.



NO-DIP BRAKE CONTROL
Chevrolet stops with its front end level, without dipping or diving—allowing much easier control of the car even during emergency stops. Gone is the feeling of being pitched up and out of the seat during sudden stops.



BALL-RACE STEERING
Steering is easier with a Chevrolet, because the steering gear now turns on scores of easy-acting ball-bearings. There's a new, improved steering ratio, too. Thanks to Ball-Race Steering, Chevrolet steers like a dream.

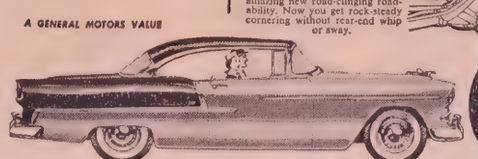
RIVETLESS 11" BRAKES
Fully bonded 11" brake linings on all four wheels is another advantage Chevrolet has over all the low-priced three.

DOUBLE-WALL SIDE CONSTRUCTION
Not one, but two walls of steel give you extra protection in a Chevrolet. And of course, Chevrolet's steel top, steel floors, and steel sides are all fused into one solid steel unit — excelling in strength and safety.

4-FENDER VISIBILITY
Once you've experienced this wonderful new feature, you'll realize that new horizons have been opened on driving visibility. You feel so much safer in traffic — and parking is a cinch, because you can see so much more from every angle.

8 TO 1 COMPRESSION RATIO
Chevrolet's all-new V8 gives you an extra-high compression ratio of 8 to 1 that squeezes every last bit of energy from every drop of gasoline.

CRANK-OPERATED FRONT VENTIPANES
Ventipanes wind smoothly in or out to the exact position you want. And because they are crank-operated, they stay in position until you want to move them again.



SHORTEST PISTON STROKE IN THE INDUSTRY
Chevrolet's short stroke pistons actually save you one mile of engine wear in every mile you travel. They also generate far less friction heat, requiring far less cooling and less lubricating oil.

OUTRIGGER REAR SUSPENSION
Chevrolet's rear springs are mounted outside the frame, which is one reason for Chevrolet's amazing new road-clinging road-ability. Now you get rock-steady cornering without rear-end whip or sway.

When looking at the price of any car, ask yourself if it includes all the extra features you get with a Chevrolet — at no extra cost.

Pleads Guilty To Break-In, Charge of Theft

TRENTON — (Special)—Maurice O'Brien, 27, of Carrying Place appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter and pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft, in Brighton police court yesterday.

The charge was laid by Provincial Police of Brighton after Mrs. C. Rogerson of Toronto complained that her cottage at Presqu'ile Point had been entered and a number of valuables were missing. Police said they recovered all the stolen goods including a refrigerator, pressure pump, drapes, bed-clothing, dishes and two lawn mowers.

O'Brien, police said, had sold some of the loot before he was arrested.

O'Brien, remanded in custody for one week, awaits sentence.

HEARING ADJOURNED

The hearing of James McClintock, R.R. 4, Trenton, was postponed to Wednesday July 13.

LOSES DIAMOND RING

Patsy Hutchinson of R.R. 4, Trenton lost a $100 diamond ring while swimming in the Murray Canal Monday near the No. 33 highway bridge. Her suitor endeavored to recover the ring believed to be in 16 feet of water. His efforts however were to no avail. At one time the young woman's fiance considered employing a diver with an aqua-lung to try and bring the ring to the surface. The diver, Constable H. Miller of the Trenton police department, decided the current was too swift in the canal, the bottom would be mucky and conditions would be too difficult to attempt the job.

SEVERE

4. That the provinces take advantage of their jurisdiction to set up treatment centres. Any province could legislate for committal of addicts to treatment centres on a compulsory or voluntary basis, as is done now for mental patients.

NO FREE DRUGS

5. That no provision be made for free drugs for addicts. The committee said this would simply support addiction.

6. Federal consideration of bursaries or scholarships for training medical, probation and rehabilitation personnel to deal with addicts.

The committee said recognition by the provinces of addiction as a treatment responsibility is long overdue. Effective treatment depended on acceptance of this responsibility by provincial authorities, particularly in B. C.

It strongly recommended suitable treatment methods and facilities. Evidence had indicated this should include "humane, supported withdrawal (of drugs from addicts, medical treatment, post-discharge control, including long-term probation, coupled with the right of immediate return to the institution in the event of relapse."

Legislation to achieve this would need to include compulsory treatment, legal supervision and control over the individual during treatment and the right of control following treatment to prevent the patient from returning to use of drugs. These, the committee said, are matters beyond federal jurisdiction.

In federal penitentiaries, treatment of addicts should consist of segregation, specialized training and rehabilitation.

STOP THE PROFITS

In recommending stiffer penalties for traffickers, the committee noted the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act now provides terms of up to 14 years' imprisonment for trafficking and for possession of drugs for the purpose of trafficking.

". . . The most effective way of taking the profit out of the drug traffic is by making all trafficking, in terms of penalties, a most hazardous and costly undertaking to the trafficker," it said.

"The non-addict trafficker, who is sometimes referred to as the 'higher up', must depend upon a large number of agents or distributors to peddle the drugs which he imports but with whom he seldom comes into contact. The imposition of heavy compulsory minimum sentences for trafficking is suggested as a deterrent to these hireling peddlers or pushers of the 'higher up.'

"If the 'higher up' is not able to find a ready supply of assistants to distribute drugs to the addict population the availability of drugs to addicts may be reduced to a possible minimum."

Woman Rescued

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Florence Derushe, 76, rescued Wednesday night from the smoke filled attic of her burning city home, died in hospital early today.

Firemen blame careless smoking for the blaze which caused an estimate $6,000 damage.

Plane Circles For Four Hours As Bomb Jams

RIVERS, Man. (CP)—A Mustang fighter plane with a napalm bomb jammed in its release mechanism veered away from a crowd of 2,000 Wednesday to circle over an isolated area for more than two hours before attempting a landing.

The plane, flown by FO Leo Hoolehan of Bell's Corners, Ont., was taking part in an armed forces day program at this military base.

The jellied gasoline cartridge jammed during the first electrical release. Hoolehan flew the plane over a safe area until the main show was over and precautions could be taken to allow the pilot to jettison the bomb and land.

Authorities on Polio Research Sharply Divided on Vaccine

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading American authorities on polio research are divided sharply on the question of suspending mass inoculations until possible new safeguards are built into the Salk vaccine.

The research scientists are testifying before a House of Representatives commerce subcommittee in public, technical discussions which the committee hopes will create "renewed confidence" in the immunization program.

Views voiced Wednesday ranged from Dr. Albert Sabin's suggestion that vaccine manufacture be halted immediately until a new and "less virulent" virus can be used, to Dr. Thomas Rivers' comment that "it would be tragic if we stopped now."

SALK VIEWS

Dr Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine, was a member of the panel but he declined to express an opinion on that issue at the hearing. Later, he told reporters his vaccine might eventually be developed along the lines Dr. Sabin suggested, but he saw no reason for halting the present program.

In New York, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis declined to comment. The foundation financed last year's major test of the Salk vaccine and its use this year in country-wide program among first- and second-grade school children in the United States.

There appeared to be no dispute among the experts that Dr. Salk's vaccine is effective.

Dr Sabin, a long-time critic of the Salk vaccine, is a researcher at the Children's Hospital Research Foundation, Cincinnati. He has been working toward a vaccine using a live virus, rather than the killed-virus type perfected by Dr. Salk

In addition to recommending a halt in manufacture, Dr. Sabin said, "it would be better" if inoculations were postponed "until this fall, when it does not have the potential danger it does now." Polio is more prevalent in the summer

That approach was disputed by Dr. Rivers, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, and Dr. Joseph E. Smadel of the army's Walter Reed Medical Centre, Washington.

Dr. Rivers said "no vaccine has ever had the testing this one had last summer" in the mass inoculation given selected school children.

Dr. Smadel said no one could predict when iron-clad improvements could be put into effect, with "new difficulties" arising each time. It was better to use what was available and not wait "indefinitely."

Meat Trade Warned About Red Stripes

OTTAWA (CP)—The health department warned the meat trade today that the use of red stripes on bacon wrappers becomes illegal after June 3.

In a statement it said its food and drug inspectors will keep a careful eye on Canadian retail shops in the first week in July to make sure the wrappers are no longer in use.

Officials said any red-striped bacon wrappers found used in stores after June 3 will be confiscated, and those persons found to be contravening the regulations may be taken to court.

Peron Moves Against Those Who Predict Upset Coming, Arrests Spreaders of Rumor

By JIMMIE FAYNE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Backed by new pledges of military and political support, President Juan Peron today pushed a dual campaign against those who tried to overthrow him in last week's bloody revolt and persons spreading rumors of upset still to come.

To counter one persistent rumor that Army Minister Franklin Lucero has supplanted Peron as Argentina's strong man, a government spokesman predicted Wednesday night that the president soon would end Lucero's special post-revolt powers as temporary chieftain of all armed services.

Lucero himself, in a broadcast Wednesday night, saluted Peron as "the president of the nation and commander-in-chief of all the armed forces." The general called on the troops to "obey loyally and permanently the mandate of the sovereign people."

PLEDGING LOYALTY

Statements pledging loyalty to Peron were issued Wednesday by the 6,000,000-member General Labor Confederation, the president's chief political bulwark, and by both the men's and women's Peronista parties.

The roundup of "rumor-mongers" followed repeated statements by Lucero that numerous false reports were circulating and should be ignored. Federal police said 14 persons were arrested for spreading untruths in Buenos Aires province, which surrounds the capital city but does not include it.

The pro-government newspaper La Epoca reports at least six arrests in the capital—one of them turned over to police by a taxi driver and another by a barber.

The supreme war council, meanwhile, today continued daily sessions in judgment of those arrested for complicity in the revolt.

There has been no announcement so far of how many persons have been found guilty of participating in the plot, or what punishments will be allotted.

Police Wednesday arrested four American correspondents who were taking pictures of a church burned after last week's revolt, but released them after two hours. The Americans said they were treated courteously but that the police seized three rolls of film.

Physicists Find Great Eddy Of Cold Water

TORONTO (CP) — Physicists studying Lake Huron have discovered a great eddy of cold water 60 miles in diameter.

This was one of several discoveries made last summer by the group, Dr. David Anderson of the Ontario lands department said Wednesday in a report to the American Physical Society.

The survey is part of a program of research into the Great Lakes system by physicists and biologists from Canada and the United States.

It is being conducted under a treaty for control of the lamprey eel and various other pests which kill large numbers of fish.

Dr. Anderson said the project also is designed to help revive the commercial fishing industry and to present fishermen with accurate data on the expected movements of shoals.

Quick Wind-Up Of Business In Senate Seen

OTTAWA (CP) —The Senate is preparing itself for a quick wind-up of sessional business, if necessary.

Solicitor-General W. Ross Macdonald, government leader, Wednesday gave notice of suspension of a standing rule to give the Senate power to put legislation through all stages in a single day. Ordinarily, unanimous consent of the Senate would be required for this.

A Senate spokesman said this is a customary precautionary move so the Senate will be in a position to handle any last-minute flood of legislation from the Commons.

But no one is too hopeful of the session being prorogued by the end of June. Senate corridor gossip favors July 9.

Sarnia Foundry Strike Settled

TORONTO (CP)—Settlement between Holmes Foundry, Sarnia, strike-bound for the last three months, and the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) was reached here Wednesday night.

The agreement, still to be approved by a membership meeting, provides a shorter work week, a major demand of the union.

Details of the settlement were not announced but it was understood a general wage increase was granted.

It was reported the union failed in its bid for the same take-home pay as received for the longer work-week.

The settlement provides for a five- instead of six-day work week. Previously the plant operated on an incentive plan which required employees to report for work six days a week. However, they could go home as soon as their work quota was filled, often in six hours.

Woman Remanded For Besetting

TORONTO (CP)—A red-haired Toronto woman Wednesday was remanded to June 30 on charges of watching and besetting and malicious damage, after a taxi driver said in court she followed him all over the city during the last year and put syrup in his gasoline tank.

Mrs. Vivien Hutton, 25, also was remanded for a mental examination by magistrate T. S. Elmore.

Stanley Kovey, a married man, said she waited in his cab for him and phoned his office 50 or 100 times a day. Kovey said he met her about a year ago and went out with her several times until she "started bothering me and demanding things."

Argentina Revolt May Delay CPR Air Service Extension

By BRUCE LEVETT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The application of Canadian Pacific Airlines to extend its services to Argentina may be delayed as much as four months due to the revolt in Buenos Aires.

Peter Baronas, CPA's sales manager for South America, said in an airport interview here Wednesday night the application nearly cost the life of Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Canadian ambassador, who was discussing it with dictator Juan Peron minutes before the revolution began.

"He was presenting our file to Peron," Mr. Baronas said. "I was at the palace with him. I left about five minutes past 12 and Gen. LaFleche left about 20 minutes later."

Within minutes of Gen. LaFleche's departure, rebel naval bombers came over in four waves and destroyed the structure. Peron had about 10 minutes warning, Mr. Baronas said.

He said the CPA application, which the ambassador was presenting on behalf of the airline and the Canadian government, was destroyed in the bombing.

"This may set our application back about four months."

The 40-year-old, husky Baronas said Gen. LaFleche told him after the raid that Peron had promised to give the file "his direct attention."

Mr. Baronas was only "four or five blocks" from Peron's palace when the first raid began.

He ran to his hotel overlooking the main plaza and watched from the 10th-floor roof garden. He said he saw three churches burned—all of them after the raids were over. He blamed the burning on Communists.

From his vantage point he saw "about 200 people" caught in the cross-fire in the main square and cut down.

Peron, he said, "is a tough man," reports of a military junta were rumors born in neighboring Uruguay.

"I don't believe it. Peron is the strongest man still. He is above everyone else."

Highway Truckers Should Not Have Fears Says Marler

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Marler said Wednesday there is no basis for fears of highway truckers that they will be destroyed by legislation granting the railways greater freedom to set agreed charge freight rates.

He told the Commons the legislation is designed only to enable the railways to compete for long-haul traffic on nearly equal terms with other forms of transportation.

He defended the agreed charge method of setting freight rates shortly before the House gave second reading—approval in principle—to a bill to amend the Transport Act. It implements a series of recommendations made by a royal commission which studied agreed charges last winter.

Spokesmen for opposition parties reserved judgment on the bill until it has been studied by the Commons railways committee. All interested parties, including representatives of the trucking industry, will be given an opportunity to appear before the committee.

Major proposal in the legislation is that the railways be allowed more latitude in making special contract rates with shippers in return for a guaranteed proportion of their freight traffic.

TOSSED BY LIGHTNING

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP)—Hilton Cormey, 23, was hurled 30 feet by a bolt of lightning Wednesday but suffered no injuries. Cormey, a telephone company workman, had just emerged from a street manhole when lightning struck him and somersaulted him down the street. He was merely shaken up.

Nehru and Bulganin Unite In Plea to Ban Atom Bombs

MOSCOW (AP)—The premiers of Russia and India came out jointly today for a ban on nuclear weapons, a United Nations seat for Communist China and the surrender of Formosa to the Chinese Reds.

The declaration, signed by India's Prime Minister Nehru and Soviet Premier Bulganin, was published this morning at the end of Nehru's 17-day visit to the Soviet Union.

Nehru and Bulganin called also for a "simultaneous and substantial reduction of conventional armaments" with "effective international control." They cited the recent Soviet disarmament proposals as a "substantial contribution to peace."

The document was published less than three hours before Nehru boarded a plane for Warsaw to spend three days before pushing on to Belgrade, Vienna, Rome and London.

OTHER DECLARATIONS

In addition to championing Red China's cause and echoing Russia's disarmament ideas, the declaration:

1. Reaffirmed the five principles of international coexistence that Nehru drew up with Red China's Premier Chou En-lai at their conference last year and which President Tito of Yugoslavia later espoused.

2. Urged full implementation of the Indochina armistice provisions calling for elections to unify North and South Viet Nam in July, 1956.

3. Called for admission to the UN of "all states which are qualified for membership in terms of the charter."

4. Noted "signs of improvement in the general international situation" and "lessening of tension in the Far East" but warned that the causes of friction still remain in the Far East. Red China's failure to get Formosa and a UN seat were the only causes cited.

5. Agreed to promote and strengthen economic, cultural and scientific relations between India and Russia.

6,000,000 People In 1960 Says Premier Frost

BARRIE (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario predicted Wednesday the province's population will pass 6,000,000 by 1960.

Speaking at the opening of the $134,000 wing to the Simcoe county court house, Mr. Frost said there is evidence of fantastic development in Canada.

"This has placed a great challenge and opportunity before us and will require the enthusiasm, vision and energy of all Canadians."

Sunken Sub Now Surfaced, Take Off Dead

PORTLAND, Eng. (AP) — The sunken submarine Sidon, with the bodies of 13 of its crew, including one Canadian, was brought to the surface today and made fast to the mother ship Maidstone.

The Canadian victim was Petty Officer Laverne D. McLeod of Dartmouth, N. S., and Stratford, Ont., a Canadian sailor serving as a volunteer-trainee aboard the submarine.

Floodlights from half-a-dozen Royal Navy salvage ships glared on the oily harbor waters as the Sidon's periscope and then its bridge structure broke the surface under the pull of four "camels"—giant buoyancy cylinders. By dawn the whole ship was visible.

The Sidon sank seven days ago after a practice torpedo exploded.

Navy men said they plan to beach her at Weymouth roughly a mile away and take off the dead.

Sen. Beaubien Chosen

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Arthur Beaubien, 76-year-old Manitoba Liberal, Wednesday was chosen by his colleagues to act as Senate Speaker for the remainder of the session.

He replaces Senator Wishart Robertson who has left to attend meetings of the conference of NATO parliamentarians in London and Paris next month. He will be away for the remainder of the session.

Trustees Heatedly Debate Compulsory Arbitration Plan In Teacher-Board Disputes

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—Compulsory arbitration of teacher-school board disputes stirred up a heated debate at the annual meeting of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association Wednesday, but no decision was reached.

Delegates argued for and against a resolution recommending compulsory arbitration during closing sessions of the meeting, then referred it to zone associations for study.

The motion came on the heels of a speech Monday by retiring president Gavin Young, who urged legislation to curb the power of teachers' federations.

DISPUTES MOVE

Under it, unsettled disputes between a board and a teacher's organization would be considered by Ontario School Trustees Council and the teachers' federation with compulsory arbitration if no agreement could be reached.

The resolution urged that Education Minister Dunlop be asked for legislation to this effect.

Compulsory arbitration has always been a bone of contention in organized labor. H. L. Cartwright of Kingston said. It would be the same in the teaching profession.

HAS SUPPORTER

The move drew support from Harold Wagner of Waterloo who said the boards need somebody to stand beside them when an impasse has been reached.

"If it should be passed it's going to start off a cold war with 25,000 teachers in Ontario," Dr. H. Palkin of Hamilton said.

W. A. Hill of North Bay said he felt threats of mass resignation disturbed schools and their students.

In other business Wednesday, the association approved a resolution to request the education department to provide professional training for prospective secondary school teachers at Kingston and London.

STUDENTS DETERRED

Delegates said the cost of moving to Ontario College of Education in Toronto deterred some students in eastern and western Ontario from taking teacher training.

Another motion, to establish a course leading to a bachelor of education degree in all Ontario universities, was considered, then referred to a committee for further study.

The association elected Dr. Wilson Bedell of Owen Sound president to succeed Mr. Young.

NEW PLANE CRASHES

TOKYO (AP)—The United States Far East air force today lost one of its three new F-100 Super-Sabres—exactly a week after its arrival. The jet crashed after a takeoff from Yokota air base west of Tokyo. The pilot bailed out and received only minor injuries.

Romulo Proposes 'San Francisco Declaration'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gen. Carlos P. Romulo proposed to the United Nations Wednesday it adopt a "San Francisco Declaration" re - dedicating member governments to peace, justice and freedom for all mankind.

Romulo, chairman of the Philippine delegation and former president of the UN General Assembly, said in a prepared address:

"I hope that the sense of history and opportunity we all now feel may be expressed here in some sort of rededication for the United Nations, before we adjourn.

ALL FOR PEACE

"In talking to many delegates, I have been impressed with the growing feeling that this anniversary meeting should, in some way, produce the words that would enable people everywhere to be convinced that we are not only all for peace, that we speak for peoples who yearn for peace, but that we pledge our governments to the achievement of peace with security, justice and freedom for all mankind.

"We are not here to propose or approve resolutions. But certainly we can somehow give expression in what may later be known as the San Francisco Declaration to a rededication of ourselves to our main purpose, which is nothing less than a planet made fit and safe for all members of the human community."

Going Over 100, Man Jailed As Drunk Driver

NEWMARKET (CP) — It took two patrol cars to do it, but police told in court Tuesday how they caught a motorist who led them on a four-mile chase at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour.

Police said the motorist failed to halt when flagged on Highway 48. The officer radioed for assistance and took off after the speeder.

The patrol car came abreast of the fleeing auto but was forced onto the shoulder when the other car swerved.

The motorist, later confronted by another patrol car, spun his car around and headed back down the road—and found the way blocked by the first car.

James Taylor, 21, of Pefferlaw, was sentenced to 14 days in jail and had his driving licence suspended for one year for drunken driving.

Queen Elizabeth Sails as Strikers Fail in Appeal

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters)—The liner Queen Elizabeth sailed from Soutnampton for New York today in defiance of a wildcat strike.

The Cunard liner's crew rejected last-minute appeals from seamen of other trans Atlantic liners to join their stoppage which has tied up Cunard's other huge liner, the Queen Mary.

Shipping quarters expected the departure of the 83,000-ton Cunarder, the world's largest passenger liner, to bring collapse of the stoppage of 1,000 seamen in Southampton and Liverpool.

Britain's other big maritime dispute, a dock strike which since May 23 has involved nearly 20,000 stevedores in six ports, became more confused as internal dissensions shook the striking union.

Mass meetings of strikers in the four northern ports of Hull, Manchester, Birkenhead and Liverpool decided to continue the strike, rebuffing London dockers who earlier had called for a return to work Monday.

Highway Program Said Well Ahead Of Schedule

ENNISMORE, Ont. (CP) — The largest highway construction and maintenance program in Ontario's history is well ahead of schedule, Highways Minister Allan said Wednesday.

The minister spoke at the opening at this town seven miles northwest of Peterborough of the new Kawartha lakes Gannon narrow's causeway which replaces the last floating bridge in Canada. It links Pigeon and Buckhorn lakes and includes a high-level bridge.

Mr. Allan said that up to June 15 a total of 96 new construction contracts and 122 maintenance contracts had been awarded. This represented an expenditure of more than $46,000,000.

Canada Cement Builds New Plant At Beechville

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada Cement Company Wednesday announced it will proceed at once with construction of a new plant at Beechville, Ont., and that the plant is scheduled for completion in 1956.

Preliminary plans have been completed and the machinery, all of Canadian manufacture, has been ordered.

The new plant will have a capacity of 18,000 bags daily, or 6,000,000 bags annually. It will be a wet-process plant of modern design, equipped with an efficient dust-collection system, said the company.

It will be located just east of Beechville, a town not far from Woodstock.

The company's announcement did not give the specific cost, but it is understood the plant will cost about $10,000,000 and will require between 150 and 200 employees.

Woman Found Drowned in Tub

TORONTO (CP)—Police are investigating the drowning of a 25-year-old woman found in the half-filled bath tub at her home in suburban Scarborough Wednesday. Her husband, John Watts, told police he went home to investigate when there was no answer to his telephone call.

Train Derailed

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—An engine and 12 freight cars were derailed near here Wednesday night, blocking the main Canadian National Railways line between Toronto and London.

Railway officials said an eastbound freight train struck the rear of a second freight which was preparing to move empty cars into Superior Gravel Pits, a half mile east of this town, 40 miles northeast of London.

No one was injured.

Hamilton Man Dies in Cave-In Of Sewer Trench

HAMILTON (CP)—One man was killed and a second crawled to safety at a sewer cave-in here today.

Dead is Alex Tarnoczi, 59. The construction worker was buried alive when a ton of blc ryacke loose and pinned him 15 feet below the surface.

A co-worker, Bruce Walker, 33, was also pinned by the first drop of earth, but managed to claw his way to safety.

The cave-in occurred at about 1:25 a. m. today. Job foreman Ronald Berg said Tarnoczi was buried by earth over his head for about seven minutes. A fire department inhalator crew applied a resuscitator while other firemen dug frantically to free the stricken man.

By 10 o'clock the firemen had cleared away the earth down to his knees. They encountered difficulty in releasing his feet from the thick clay, and it was a half-hour before the team finally pulled him to the surface.

Dr. W. E. Lamont arrived soon after the firemen and immediately without considering risk, descended the narrow ladder into the deep trnech to give the injured men medical aid.

Dr. Lamont said the man probably died from "great pressure" on his respiratory system. The amount of earth that enveloped the man's body was enough "to kill anyone."

The two men were drilling holes for dynamite in the trench, being dug to lay sewers.

Walker said he was standing close to Tarnoczi when the first collapse of earth occurred. He said while he was digging with his hands to free himself a second slab of clay crashed down on Tarnoczi.

Walker said that for five minutes after the cave-in, the buried man talked to him and said: "Im all right, I'm all right."

While police roped off the area, teams of firemen took turns to dig in the dank trench and all the time cracks in the side were threatening another collapse.

Fellow workers first began to dig immediately after the collapse of earth in an effort to free the buried man. A man yelled to a passer-by to phone for help

'All a Mistake' Say Rome Police Probing Robbery

ROME (AP)—Four Americans planned today to continue their tour of Europe after having been held seven hours by Rome police Wednesday in connection with a New York bank robbery. It was all a mistake, the police said later.

Only one of the four, 28-year-old Joseph Michael Vitacco of New York, was questioned about the holdup of the Chase Manhattan Bank branch in Queens last April 6. The $305,243 in cash taken is a record for a bank holdup in the United States.

Vitacco said the police ransacked their hotel room but found nothing suspicious.

Junior Farmers' Field Day Plans Now Lined Up

Plans for their forthcoming Hastings county junior farmers' field day to be held July 1st, have been lined up by the executive at a meeting in Stirling this week.

Three boys' softball teams and two girls' teams have been entered. Boys' teams from Sidney, Thurlow and Madoc will compete and girls' teams from Sidney and Thurlow will compete, the winners to represent the county at the junior farmers' Quinte District field day.

In addition to the ball games the field day program will consist of track events, high jump, tug of war and softball throw. An added feature will be a shoe kicking contest for the girls and a pillow fight.

A silver cup and crests will go to the winnig ball team, while there will also be cupe for the outstanding boy and girl athletes. "Miss Hastings" will be chosen, the county queen to be chosen on activities in junior institute work during the year. A dance in the evening will conclude the field day.

This Sunday the annual Hastings county Junior Farmers' church service will be held at Foxboro United church at 8 p.m.

Everything Free For Municipal Meet Delegates

NORTH BAY (CP) — Tourist-conscious officials of North Bay are out to show the wives of Ontario municipal politicians they can have as much fun at conventions as their husbands.

The three-day annual conference of Ontario's mayors and reeves opened Wednesday with an official welcome, specially designed to woo the goodwill of the women.

Mayor Merle Dickerson said: "Welcome. We are a friendly city — give us your parking tickets and if you want to go anywhere, call up the police station for a cruiser to be sent round."

Everything is free for the convention delegates and wives, including a guided tour of the district, a boat trip on Lake Nipissing, dances and several lunches and dinners.

"Take a taxi," said Mayor Dickerson, "it won't cost you anything. Just show your convention badge."

Town of Preston Allowed Land To Widen Road

TORONTO (CP)—A widow who owns an historic old Preston home was unsuccessful Wednesday in an attempt to halt the town of Preston from widening a provincial road fronting her property.

Mrs. Bertena Drummond, who said she was elderly and not in the best of health, claimed through counsel heavy traffic passing within 1 feet of the house would keep her awake.

Mr Justice H. A. Aylen refused to grant her motion for an order restraining the town of Preston from entering the property until trial.

"If they (Preston) trespass and do any damage you can collect," Mr. Justice Aylen said.

TOWN'S CASE

Andrew Brewin, counsel for Preston, said the road-widening property is owned by the crown and that the town is acting as agent. A prima facie case had to be made out before an injunction could be granted, he said.

The house was built in '95 by Jacob Beck, father of Sir Adam Beck, and was later owned by Lord Ashley. It is considered one of the best Canadian examples of Greek revival architecture.

The town of Preston plans to remove a stone wall and trees in order to widen the roadway at this point, considered dangerous to motorists. Mrs. Drummond was paid $00 compensation for the expropriation.

Dolan Case Is Adjourned Until September

Due to the inability of defence counsel to be in court, the case of James Richard Dolan of Belleville, charged with fraud in connection with sale of mining stock, has been laid over until September.

The Dolan case was one of four criminal cases listed for hearing at the General Sessions of Peace and Jury Sittings for the county of Hastings now in session at the court house before His Honor Judge Gerald F. Smith.

At the opening of court June 6, dates of June 23 and 24 were set for the Dolan case. However, due to other committments, Defence Counsel R. E. Nourse of Picton was unable to be present in court on the dates set and the trial will be held September 27 and 28. The jury originally chosen will sit on the case.

SELL DENT FARM

WOODSTOCK (CP) — The internationally known Holstein dairy farm, Springbank, owned by T. R. Dent, former Progressive Conservative MLA for Oxford, has been sold, it was reported Wednesday. The farm was the former home of Springbank Snow Countess, holder of the world lifetime butter fat producing record.

CAMPBELLFORD

Don Meyers Gives Talk 'Classification'

CAMPBELLFORD. — Rotarian Don Meyers gave his classification talk on Monday at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Rotary club, with "Transportation" as his subject.

He made special reference to the shipment of goods by truck, tracing the growth of the trucking industry and the increasing importance of the public commercial vehicles through the last decade. Today it is possible to ship any goods entirely by truck to any part of the North American continent. This is done through an integrated system of trucking lines, which cover many points not on any rail line. In Canada, 4,700 communities are served by transport whereas of these 2,700 have no rail line. The growth of shipment by truck may best be illustrated by the fact that in 1915 truck registration in Ontario was about 500; in 1922, 24,000; in 1942, 96,000; and in 1954, 277,000. Of these only four per cent are public vehicles, 77 per cent independently owned trucks, and 19 percent owned by farmers. The service offered by commercial vehicles to the public has likewise increased making available the transportation of everything from mail to livestock.

PAYS FOR ITSELF

The question "do trucks pay their way on our highways?" may readily be answered when one considers that a small truck going 50,000 miles a year pays $500 in gas and license tax, while a large one may bring as much as $2,000. The truck brings in 55 per cent of all license money to the Ontario government though it represents only 17 per cent of the registration.

A campaign on the part of regular trucks to reduce accidents has been quite a success in the past two years, despite an increase in the number on the road. Safety education program have not only had their effects on the trucking industry, but 1954 saw a decline in the accident rate of passenger cars too.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Bud Davidson and thanked by president Bill McComb.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. William McCracken and three sons, of Peterborough, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sopha.

Departing Pastor, Wife Honored By Church S.S.

SHANNONVILLE.— On Friday evening, the members and adherents of Shannonville United church and Sunday school, gathered in the Sunday school hall to honor the Rev. L. W. Scott and Mrs. Scott, before their departure to their new charge at Eganville.

Mr. Clarence Mastin, who was master of ceremonies, called the meeting to order and all joined in singing a hymn with Mrs. Harry Sine, presiding at the piano.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Mr. Scott and Mrs. Scott were asked to take seats of honor, after which an address was read by Mr. Mastin, expressing the appreciation of the willing and faithful service rendered in six years they had been on Shannonville circuit. They were then presented with an electric floor polisher by Mr. J. F. Melbourne on behalf of the congregation.

Miss Marina Mastin, secretary of the Sunday school, also read a brief address and Beverly Mastin and Beryl Serubie, made a presentation of a lovely table lamp and bon-bon dish to Mrs. Scott, who has been such a faithful Sunday school worker and has left many good impressions on her class of girls.

With a few fitting remarks on behalf of the officers and members of the Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Frank Doxtator, presented Mrs. Scott with two bone china cups and saucers. Mrs. Scott filled the office of W.M.S. president for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott each expressed their appreciation for the lovely and useful gifts which they received.

Everyone joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds".

Refreshments were served and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

Previous to this, they were presented with a lovely wool blanket by the congregation at Lonsdale.

Read

READ.—Many lovely gifts were received by the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nash, at the shower for them in the hall on Friday evening.

This section is badly in need of rain. The peas and berries would benefit greatly by a shower.

First holy communion was received by 13 children on Sunday morning at St. Charles' church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Corrigan and Mr. Lorne McKenny of Oshawa, were week-end guests at the home of their parents here.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — The school section No. 12 (9th Line school), is holding a garden party at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn, Thursday evening. There will be a ball game, a tug-of-war, fish-pond, musical program and other attractions. There will also be an ice cream parlor on the grounds and refreshments will be served. Everybody welcome.

On Friday evening, Mrs. Thos. McKeown entertained the following at a birthday party in honor of her daughter, Agnes' 11th birthday anniversary: Bonnie and Bobbie Bothwell, and Patsy and Sherry Spencer. After supper Mr. and Mrs. McKeown took the young folks to Crowe River bridge for a swim.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spencer, Lynn and Suzanne, attended a joint birthday and father's day celebration for Mrs. Spencer's father, Robert Lisle, Sr., of Stanwood. The celebration was held at the home of another of his daughter's, Mrs. Roy Young. Friends extend to Mr. Lisle many happy returns on his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomson, Brian, Tommie and Cathie, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Fleming, Oshawa. They also visited Mrs. Lizzie Thomson who is staying there for awhile.

Jack and Margaret Spencer, Marilyn Bateman of Springbrook, and Doug Dooher of Campbellford, enjoyed a trip to the 1000 Islands on Sunday.

Residents enjoyed the shower on Sunday as well as the good rain in Tuesday, even though it was accompanied by hailstones as large as cherries. The rain was badly needed.

Miss Blanche Gibson of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital staff, spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Solmes of Springbrook, called on her cousin Mrs. Ellis Jones and her husband on Monday night.

Queen Launches New Canadian Pacific Liner

GLASGOW (CP) — The Queen Wednesday launched a Canadian Pacific liner, the 24,-ton Empress of Britain, before thousands of cheering shipyard workers.

Standing on a flower-decked stand in the Fairfield shipyards, the Queen smashed the traditional bottle of champagne across the Empress' bows and sent her sliding into the Clyde.

The Empress, a sleek turbine steamship carrying 1,050 passengers, will sail between Liverpool and Montreal. Her maiden voyage is scheduled for the spring of 1956.

Vice-Admiral E. W. Longley-Cook, managing director of the Fairfield company, said the $15,-00,000 liner is the first ship ever christened by a reigning sovereign.

The latest Empress is one of two new sister ships being built for Canadian Pacific's north Atlantic service The second, as yet unnamed, will be launched next year and completed early in 1957.

TO VISIT NORWAY

The new liner is designed to carry 150 first-class and 900 tourist passengers. It will have one funnel and will be equipped with underwater stabilizers to reduce roll in rough weather. It will average 21 knots.

After the launching ceremony, the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh travelled by train to Rosyth to board the royal yacht Britannia. They sail tonight for a three-day state visit to Norway.

STIRLING

Earl Fox Heads Grand Encampment

STIRLING.— Mr. Earl Fox, Stirling, was elected Grand Senior Warden of the Grand Encampment IOOF last week at the annual sessions of Grand Lodge IOOF, held in Toronto.

On Tuesday, Glen Bush and Roy Tucker, members of Stirling IOOF, No. 429, received the Patriarchal degree conferred by Preston Encampment at Toronto.

On Thursday, Ray Sine and Bert Anderson were candidates for three degrees conferred by the Brockville Lodge.

Other members of Stirling IOOF who attended some of the Grand lodge sessions were: Noble Grand Ray Rose, Earl Wallace, Jack Sager, Ernest Ward, Clarke Rodgers and George Carlisle.

Mr. Ronald Brown of Springbrook IOOF, also attended.

Municipal Tax Structure Under Fire at Meeting

NORTH BAY (CP)—A complete review of the municipal tax structure was called for by Toronto's Mayor Nathan Phillips in the opening session Wednesday of the conference of Ontario Mayors and reeves.

Mayor Phillips asked that municipalities be invited to take part in the federal-provincial conference in order to devise methods of relieving the tax burden on property owners.

"The argument has been put forth and put forth firmly, that the day is fast approaching when we will no longer be able to supply the bulk of funds for our operations from our property owners," Mayor Phillips said.

"The property owner who pays the taxes we levy also pays those levied by the Dominion and provincial governments," he said. "The taxes we pay come as a distinct added burden to one particular group of our citizens, and often they are levied for the good of the whole, not just the property owners.

"The time has come for a kind of conference we have never known in this land—a Dominion-provincial-municipal conference, a conference of three equal partners willing to work out a new Magna Charta in the fiscal field. I admit, of course, that there is no constitutional authority for such an event, but I contend that earnest men need no precedent if they are determined to find a solution to a problem they know exists."

ARGUES, IS SLAIN

DETROIT (CP) — An argument which police said started over an open screen door led Monday night to the death of a 68-year-old minister. Rev. R. B. Brooks, a roomer at a westend home, was fatally slashed with a razor when he claimed a screen door which had been left open was letting flies into the house, police said. They charged Nurous Tyrone, 60, with murder.

Little Benny's Note Book

The werkmen have started to put up the new house around in the next street, and me and Puds Simkins were watching them laying the foundation where the basement is going to be, and I said, On the trale, Operater 2, I bet trey're secret uranium scouts from a enemy country.

Puds being Operater 2 of the Forrin Intriggers, and me being Operater One, and he said, Let's find out for sure before we tern in the evidence. Let's lay a trap for them and foil them, he said.

Sure, let's find the uranium before they do, and then we'll have the ferst claim, I said.

Which just then I saw a buntch of nales partly berried in a buntch of loose dert, giving me an idea, and I said, Oh boy, wait till I get my Geiger counter.

Meaning my big magnet, and I hurry up ran home and got it and ran back again, and I waved the magnet over the nales while Puds brushed the dert off them, and they started to jump on the magnet like magic, and I said, Oh boy, look at this Geiger counter counting.

On your guard, Operater One, here comes the chief uranium scout, Puds said.

Meening the foreman, and he said, Beet it, you kids, before you get hert.

If there's any loose uranium around here, we've got the ferst claim, I said, and the foreman said There's a loose kick in the pants floating around, and believe me you've got ferst claim to that.

And he kept on coming as if he was going to prove it, and we quick ran, and some uranium bars were still sticking to the magnet, and we're keeping them to send to the labbatory to be tested.

Federal Civil Service Under Fire in Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator T. A. Crerar, chairman of the Senate finance committee, suggested Wednesday a continuing inquiry should be carried on into the growth of the federal civil service, now at a record 174,000 with an annual payroll of $554,000,000.

The 79-year-old Winnipeg senator, a former Liberal cabinet minister, said the fact some government departments keep growing while others remain stable or even cut staff leads him to believe some are more efficient than others.

"I think this would be an interesting inquiry to carry on," Senator Crerar said in moving adoption of a report by his committee.

The report advised all levels of government in Canada to slow down on spending or face the possibility of "ruinous inflation."

The Senate adopted the report unanimously.

Metro Chairman Says Population Will Be 2,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto chairman, Fred Gardiner, said Wednesday that by 1975 greater Toronto will have a population of 2,000,000 and will be the 10th largest city in North America. It now has a population of about 1,200,000.

Speaking at a service club luncheon he said to accomplish this feat Metro will have to spend between $450,000,000 and $500,000,000 within the next 10 years.

In spite of "prophets of gloom" Toronto's Metro scheme was a success, he said. Every city in North America with a population over 500,000 was facing the same problems Toronto and its 13 suburban districts faced before unification.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines on his way to the sports page, and ma said, I always thought so, William, and now I know it.

Oh, really? pop said, and ma said, Maybe your intrist will grow more luke warm when I tell you that you are the subject under discussion.

That's diffrent, sutch a sparkling subject would wake anybody pop said, and ma said, I've always said you look exactly like Cornwell Lord in all his pictures, and today Maud Hews said precisely the same thing.

She did, eh? pop said. Cornwell Lord's not bad looking, he said, and ma said, Well I should say he's not. He's the toast of the town all over the country, as far as women are concerned, she said.

That practically makes him toast with butter and jam, pop said. Well, good for me, he said, and ma said, Maud agreed with me before I even brought up the subject. She insisted that you and Cornwell Lord are just as alike as 2 handsome peas in a pod, except of course when you have no hat on, she said.

Why, doesn't Cornwell Lord ever wear a hat? pop said, and ma said, Of course, silly, but what I meen is, he's famous of having sutch a wealth luxurious wavy hair.

Meening pop is famous for not having hardly any kind, and pop said, You've only told half the story.

How do you meen? ma said, and pop said, The other half is, Cornwell Lord is always being told by his women friends that he would look exactly like me if he kept his hat on.

Well, when it comes to conceit, you cant beet men, ma said, and pop said, Are you referring to Cornwell Lord?

And he laffed like anything to prove it was a good joke.

Which it was.

Minor Baseball

The bantam section of the Belleville minor baseball association opened last night with Vaughan's edging the Vics 8-7 in one game and the Y's Men running wild over Point Anne 30-13 in the second feature.

Gordie Vaughan hurled his team to their victory, allowing seven hits for seven runs in as many innings. He ended the game by striking out the side. Dainard was the Vics mound choice, giving up 12 hits in going the distance.

Belanger paced the winners at bat with three hits including a two-run homer in the first inning. D. Smith and Locke were best for the losers with two hits each. Moxam caught for the losers while Brennan was the Vaughan receiver.

Line Score				R.H.E.
Vics	301	300	0—7	7 2
Vaughan's	201	410	x—8	12 3

In the other game, played at King George school, the Y's Men came up with a 16-run fifth inning to salt their game away. Point Anne used a horde of pitchers, L. Maracle starting and taking the loss in three innings. R. Hull caught.

Ralph Plane threw 5 1-3 innings to gain the win, giving up seven hits for 11 runs. Wayne Waite took over to complete the game while Ted Phillips caught.

The victors crashed a pair of homers. Plane and Red Keller connecting in the initial frame while Larry Maracle hit a grand-slammer for the Pointers in the sixth. Keller was top batter with three hits while Plane had two as did Phillips. Maracle's two hits were best for the losers.

Two games were played last night with Read downing Foxboro 8-5 while Shannonville whipped Cannifton 7-2. The third game scheduled, Latta at Melrose, was called in the fifth because of rain.

Pitching for the losers, Mofind gave up three walks in the fourth inning to force Walsh in for the seventh run; then striking out two and giving four 2 base hits.

Foxboro, doing their best in an attempt to raise their league standing, managed one run in the second inning and four in the fifth, with Bradden giving up three walks — one in the first and two in the fifth, with four hits for four runs, struck out two in the second inning and one in the fifth. Dafoe was the only batsman to smash two-base hits for his losing team, he slammed a two-base hit in the first and another in the fifth.

Line-up:

Read—Bradden, G. Brennan, K. Brennan, R. Walsh, C. Brennan, B. Brennan, Hanley, J. Walsh, P. Roach.

Foxboro—Mofind, Moore, Ross, Dafoe, Buskard, Stewart, Watson, Glass, Ketcheson.

Quinte Golfers Draw For First Round

The Hogans, Sneads and Nelsons of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club went into an enjoyable "smoker" huddle at the club last night and came up with a fine organizational effort besides the social amenities.

They produced an unique idea in that they "raffled" off players in the draw for the season's club championship. A goodly sum was realized which will be utilized for prize purposes.

It was announced that sixteen players had qualified for the championship flight play.

These include T. A. Carruthers, Art Bridge, who shot a neat 72 in the qualifying round; Peter Jones, Harry Ridley, Mike Aquafredda, Doug. Green, Val Smith, R. Pryke, Joey Pidutti, Murray Hunter, Howie Walsh, Gord. Graham, Don Ridley, George Noble, Mario Fabbri and George Durno.

The draw for the first puts Pidutti against Harry Ridley; Fabbri and Noble; Pryke and Jones; Hunter and Carruthers, Smith and Bridge, Don Ridley and Graham, Walsh and Aquafredda, and Green and Durno.

It was announced that the first round must be completed by Wednesday, June 29.

Over 75 members and friends attended the smoker.

Shellettes Win Over Hospital

Osterhout's Shellettes continued their unbeaten ways at the Alemite Field last night, winning their sixth straight victory by defeating the Belleville General Hospital girls 9-5 in a Belleville District Ladies Softball League game.

They grabbed a commanding 4-run lead in the first innings, nailed three in the second and singles in the fourth and sixth. The BGH lassies scored a pair in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Iva Thompson started on the mound for the Shellettes and lasted until the fifth. She gave up the two lone hits garnered by the hospital gals whiffing two and walking eight. Linda Wagg, Shellettes ace, relieved her when the Hospital threatened in the fifth and held the opposition hitless over the route. She struck out four.

Smith pitched for the Hospital giving up ten hits.

Inch tripled and Fraser singled for the Hospital's two hits. Helen Reeve and Sandra Slade doubled and singled for the Shellettes. Linda Wagg doubled and Caroline Baker had two singles.

The Shellettes meet Madoc Monday on the latter's diamond.

MURDERER ESCAPES

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — James Ecker, a 19-year-old murderer, described as desperate and dangerous, escaped from the Ionia state reformatory Tuesday, apparently by sealing himself in a carton from the prison's furniture factory. The carton was found at an Ionia truck terminal with a hole cut in the side.

STAFF PLANS WALKOUT

PARIS (AP) — France was threatened today with an unlimited strike of civil servants beginning July 1. They are asking a raise of 4,000 francs ($11.42) a month. Their basic salary now is 23,000 francs ($65.71). Any increase would have to be voted by the National Assembly.

RETURN NAVAL CRAFT

BONN (AP) — Fourteen small naval craft being returned to the United States by Russia are expected to arrive in Kiel on July 1. Under an agreement signed in Washington May 26 the Soviet Union is returning a total of six lend-lease subchasers and 36 torpedo boats during July and August.

If Money Can Buy Grey Cup Toronto Argos Are Shoo-In

By WILF GKUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Sonshine, who has been spending Toronto Argonaut money—and his own—like mad the past few months, doesn't go along with the idea that a club can buy the Grey Cup. That, probably, is the understatement of the year and Harry is stuck with it.

He has spent about $250,000 lining up name Americans and Canadians for Argonauts, whose so-sad showing in the Big Four Union last year prompted a wholesale off-season house-cleaning of imports. If his newly-acquired high-priced Americans don't go to Vancouver for the Grey Cup classic next November the club probably will be known as "Sonshine's Follies."

But the 40-year-old 260-pound Toronto business man reasons this way:

"A team can get the best 10 or 12 imports and it still won't be certain of winning the Grey Cup unless it has good Canadian players. The Canadian boys count for 50 per cent of any team's ability and that's why I've gone out and got three good coaches (at a cost of $45,000) for next season. They'll develop our young Canadian players and make us Grey Cup contenders."

LONG EXPERIENCE

That's how Sopshine thinks but many fans ask, who is this fellow? How come he suddenly appears on the football scene as one of the most controversial figures in the game in years?

Well, he has been around football for nearly 25 years as a player and spectator. He's an old Queen's University and Toronto Argonaut flying wing and centre secondary—and a good one—and now is independently wealthy as part owner of a Toronto furniture manufacturing company.

Many old-time fans around the senior Intercollegiate and Big Four circuits remember the big bruising Sonshine when he was on the playing field in the 1930s. He was one of Canada's great flying wings and didn't even bother to wear a helmet.

He retired in 1947 and his name became a memory until he stepped back into the limelight last winter as the man Argonauts called in to make them a Grey Cup contender. One of his first, and most startling, acts was to give Argonauts' 1954 imports their walking papers.

HUNT FOR TALENT

He then put the snatch on National Football League teams for talent. It was the first time that Argonauts raided the NFL and Sonshine, who spent an estimated $5,000-$6,000 of his own money on player - hunting jaunts covering about 100,000 miles, put Argonauts in business—on paper at least—as the club to watch this season.

Argonauts wanted a man who could devote plenty of time and energy to the job of rebuilding the club and its one-time football power and Sonshine was a natural. He agreed to take on the job of team manager without pay and after six months he finds it is a "hobby."

He spends more time at football than at his business. He sat in the stands as a paying customer last fall and listened to disgruntled Argonaut fans roast the Double Blues who missed the Big Four playoffs for the second straight year.

Also during the season, with Argonauts' future plans in mind, he visited an NFL city each weekend to watch the pro teams and talk to players about joining the Argos.

"This job is a hobby with me," he says. "The big thing is to be successful in what I'm trying to do. If I succeed in making Argos a winner, I'll feel I've been compensated for my time and effort.

"It hasn't been easy but I'm stuck with it now and I'm going to see it through. I'm convinced we're on the way to the Grey Cup. I don't know what club is going to stop us. We're the team the others have to worry about."

MONEY SCARCE THEN

Sonshine is one of those great Canadian players who was born 15 years too soon. He didn't receive a nickel for playing with Argonauts in 1937-38-39 or with Queen's in the preceding four years but he was instrumental, with Annis Stukus,

ARGO MANAGER

Harry Sonshine, team manager of the Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league, has spent about $250,000 lining up name United States and Canadian players for the Toronto team. Sonshine is grooming his high-priced players in the hope they will go to Vancouver for the Grey Cup classic next November. (CP Photo).

now coach of British Columbia Lions, and Jake Gaudaur, president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, in making football a paying business for the players.

Sonshine, Stukus and Gaudaur were the leading lights in organizing the share-the-wealth Toronto Indians of the Ontario Rugby Football Union in 1946. Except for two or three players, Sonshine says, no one on the club previously had been paid for playing football.

At the end of the 1946 season the players split the profits.

LOT OF GOOD

Sonshine, who ended his playing career with the Indians the following year, said that club did football a lot of good. It started the general idea among Canadian players that they should receive more than a banquet, a crest, ring or windbreaker after a season of bumps.

And Sonshine, in his playing days a rugged 220-pounder who didn't back up from anybody, vividly recalls his lumps. He remembers, for instance, a game in 1937 when Bunny Wadsworth of Ottawa Rough Riders put him out for the season with one tackle.

Sonshine came out of it with a broken jaw.

SENTENCED IN KILLING

PONTIAC, Mich. (CP) — Floyd Diamond, 16-year-old youth who had confessed to the brutal killing Feb. 8 of little Kathy McLaughlin, Tuesday was sentenced to life imprisonment. The girl, nine, was found after she had been stabbed repeatedly and beaten over the head with a large rock.

Moore Still Light Heavy Champion; Puts Bobo Bye-Bye In Third Round

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

IT GOES TO SHOW . . .

Well, that should teach some of you younger fry not to take a round out of the old man until he passes 40. And as good as you may think you are, remember, it was proven again last night that a good little man cannot take the measure of a good big one.

Youth was served last night—and served quickly. The old boy with the scythe and whiskers as represented in aging Archie Moore doused the glow under flaming youth with lightning-like rapidity and devastating effect.

The end came with startling suddenness in the early seconds of the second minute of the third round, when Bobo Olson ran into a pair of battering-ram fists that sent him dazed and bewildered to the canvas. Two rights to the body started him on the way out and a flashing left hook hurled him out the door.

It was tough on the suds and scents companies. Likewise on the television hosts. Most of 'em were in the kitchen mixing the second round, preparatory to settling down to what appeared to be the start of an interesting fight, when the finish came like a bolt out of the blue.

From our ringside seat alongside the C.G.E. (advt.) the brief fisticuffs affair was a pleasant interlude between Bill the Bartender who lauds the "Waddle y'have" foam and a pleasant looking salesman who sold you the stuff to take the aroma of the suds off your breath.

The hair-oil sponsors missed on this fight. Either that or the foam-producers should have placed a couple of beakers in the hands of Archie Moore. For the happy light heavy champ, glowing in victory glory, produced a comb when interviewed over the air, and gently but firmly straightened his dusky locks while telling millions about his victory.

What tickled our sense of humor was the short stocky chappie, it could have been Moore's manager, who insisted on walking Archie around the ring holding his hand high in the air in the victory sign. Finally he got tired, probably because the champion was tiring and starting to lean on him. Finally both Moore's hands went up like a Heinie playing "Kamerad" at the Somme.

Moore weighed in at 175 pounds—and from what we saw of his efforts the weight reduction did him a world of good. Mebbe, and it looks like it, the pre-fight ballyhoo about him suffering from weight reduction was a lot of hogwash.

Olson mayhap hoped to wind Moore by using the bicycle. He did not use his usual forcing slashing style but kept going away. Then he decided to come in and have a chat and he walked straight into the haymakers.

It was the end of a long road of frustration for Moore, who was one of the most evaded fighters in the business until of late. He netted a neat pot of gold last night—and is on the way to a bigger one. A Moore-Marciano battle is now almost a certainty and after Moore's display last night it should be a strenuous fray.

It filled the dusky champion with confidence that expanded to cockiness and boasting. "I can knock out any man in the world and that includes Marciano" he chanted to reporters.

How now, Homer T . . . ?

SICH FUN!

The big battle will be joined at the CNRAA Recreation Park Saturday evening with the opening barrage being laid down at six o'clock. There Boswell's Buccaneers of the Kingston Whig Standard face Alexander's Bag-Climb Band of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Both generals will lead their forces in action. Brigadier Boswell will operate from the mound while General Garry will master-mind from a pair of stilts around second-base. Harry (Sure the Blarney is missin' since I swallowed the pebble) Mulhall will be the tank commander. The lone tank under his command will be a wash-tub filled with ice and cokes, etc. And don't be fooled by that, etc.

Charlie Hardwick, grand maestro of the composing room, who played in the Crimean League with the Balaclava Bloomer Gals is the mascot and will be chief in charge of bottle-openers.

Coach Alexander stretched himself to his full four-feet two inches, swept his brush-cut and addressed himself to the troops. "Boys" he said, his deep basso-profundo quivering with emotion (he had just lost a bet to the city editor) "win this one for dear old Carver. For the past years he has been at the mercy of one Michael J. Rodden, sports editor of the Whig Standard, 'east o' here. Now is the chance to get even. So go—boys—go, get 'em for Ole Baldy.

The ink hounds of the Intelligencer team will include such softball luminaries as, Don (Out of The) Woods; Bob (Tomato in the) McCann; Coach (I'll bet yeh) Alexander; Fred (Half) Soule; Don (Wants vacation for three) Weeks; Boyd (Lower and) Upper; Howard (Anybody here seen) Skelly; Lyle (Machine Gun) Thompson; Art (Streamer set) Culloden; Bill (Three-up) O'Brien; Dick (Excruciating) Payne; Paul (Hot Cross) Munns; Tom (Jack-rabbit) Hair; Pop (Goes the Weasel) Robinson.

Remember, shooting time 6 p.m. Free ambulance service. Bring your Blue Cross card.

TOUGHIES ALL

The team of Prince Malava and Lord Athol Layton demanded successfully to get a return bout with those Texas tornadoes, Dick Raines and Lou Plummer. That tag team event will feature Friday night's wrestling program at the Memorial Arena. The Layton-Malava combination is sizzling at the reversed decision which awarded the match to the Raines-Plummer outfit last week and are determined to straighten that matter out to their satisfaction come Friday night.

George Scott, of Hamilton, will oppose Don Lewin, of Buffalo, in the semi-final Bill Stack, of Oshawa, will wrestle Chico Perez, of Mexico City, in the first event.

Jarring Rights, Hook to Jaw Sent Olson Crashing to Mat; Moore, Marciano Bout Assured

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore's explosive punches have accomplished what all his oratory couldn't—earned him a shot at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown.

The 38-year-old light heavyweight champion wrote "success" to his long campaign for a crack at the undefeated Brockton Blaster with three punches. The right, right and left to the jaw demolished middleweight king Bobo Olson in 1:19 of the third round at the steaming Polo Grounds Wednesday night and set aging Archie on the path to a September title scrap.

"I guess that's it, the end of my long campaign," said the teeth-flashing Moore. "They can't duck me now. Marciano is a great fighter. But any man I can hit. I can lick—and there's not a man I can't hit. That goes for Marciano. I think I can beat him and knock him out."

SOME DICKERING

There's still a little dickering to do before a Marciano-Moore fight is signed and sealed but promoter Jim Norris left no doubt as to what's coming next:

"It's got to be those two," said the president of the International Boxing Club. "It will draw three-quarters of a million dollars. I'll sit down and talk to 'Al Weill (Marciano's manager) and Charley Johnston (Moore's manager) in the next few days."

Marciano, who watched the fight on television at his Brockton home, said "There's no question that arrangements will be made for me to defend my crown against Moore in September."

"I thought Moore landed a good body punch which weakened Olson before landing the left hook that kayoed him," Rocky said.

While Moore was looking ahead to the "climax fight of my career" crestfallen Bobo, beaten for the first time in over three years, moved back into his own division.

FIRST HARD BLOW

The first real hard blow of the fight started the blown-up middleweight king on the way out. It was a jarring right to the jaw. That shook Bobo from head to heels. Another swift right thudded against Bobo's jaw and then a left hook dropped the jiggling Hawaiian on his back.

He turned sideways and tried desperately to get to his feet. But his brain was numbed and his legs wouldn't respond as referee Ruby Goldstein tolled the full count.

Nothing much had happened in the first two rounds except that Olson, heaviest of his career at 170¼ pounds, backed and side-stepped away instead of piling on the pressure as he normally does. Archie went after him, but he didn't catch him real good until the fatal third.

It appeared an easy win for the 175-pound Moore, but he said "No, it wasn't. It was experience that did it. I trapped him. It was the fruit of my 20 years of experience."

Moore had started the third with a series of left jabs as he went after Olson.

TRAPPED WITH LEFTS

"I trapped him with the lefts," said Moore. "He moves his head away from lefts. When he did the last time, I let go with my double rights. The first one did the job, the second nailed it, and the left hook put him away.

"Yes, his running tactics surprised me. I knew he was a smart man. I expected him to come out and fight me. Instead he started running. I knew I would have to get him and get him quick or he might surprise me. I didn't want him to get warmed up."

Looking pale and a little unsteady, Olson was whisked out of his dressing room surrounded by policemen.

Manager Sid Flaherty did a little talking before leaving with the loser.

"Bobo can't fight a man who can punch like this and who outweighs him, too," said Flaherty. "If he could have stayed with him, I think maybe he might have outboxed him. I don't know what's next for Bobo—I really haven't had time to think."

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, who examined Olson in the ring, said "he didn't know where he was." Olson had recovered by the time he made the long walk to his dressing room and Dr. Alexander Schiff said he was ok.

Elgins Edge Oshawa 9-8

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Thomas Elgins, defending league champions, are knocking on the door of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League leadership. Elgins have been in third place for most of the season but are beginning to turn the pennant race into a three-team battle.

Wednesday night Elgins moved to within a game of first place by squeezing out Oshawa Merchants, League-leaders, 9-8.

St. Thomas is third but only one-half game behind second-place London Majors.

In another game Brantford Red Sox handed Galt Terriers, who have lately shown signs of coming to life, a 7-2 setback.

In the Niagara District Senior League, Stamford Kerrios halted the first-place Fort Erie Hortons' winning streak at seven games with a 5-2 victory.

Junior Grid Brass to Meet

HAMILTON (CP)—Executives of teams in the junior Big Four Football League and junior Ontario Rugby Football Union will meet June 27 in Kitchener to determine whether their teams will operate under an interlocking schedule this year, it was decided here Wednesday night.

The meeting was called because the Kitchener juniors, members of the junior ORFU with Sarnia and Windsor, appeared likely to fold unless additional financial help is received.

Kitchener officials believe that an interlocking schedule will draw larger crowds and reduce travelling costs. Last year, the club played twice in Windsor and Sarnia. If Kitchener decides to withdraw from the league, the junior ORFU would fold since at least three teams are required to constitute a unit or league.

Delegates from Hamilton, Brantford and both Toronto teams seemed receptive to the idea of an interlocking schedule but it was decided to hold a later executive meeting with Windsor and Sarnia officials present.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancover sports writer said Wednesday Sam Snead will definitely come here for the $15,000 B.C. open golf tourney June 29-July 2. Pat Slattery of the Vancouver Sun said he first talked to Snead about coming to Vancouver over a breakfast at San Francisco during the U.S. Open.

The Sun has guaranteed Snead $500 if he fails to catch a tyee salmon or a mess of trout in B.C.

Roberts Clobbered For 3 Homers In First, Goes On To Win

Starts Phil's Victory Rally With Third Clout of Game; AL Leaders Win; Brooks Gain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Robin Roberts may be the only pitcher in baseball who figures to be around for the second inning after getting clobbered for three home runs and blowing a 3-0 lead in the first.

That's Robin's way. He gets hit the hardest, yet wins the most.

Even so, the ace of the Philadelphia Phils staff must give manager Mayo Smith fits.

Wednesday night at St. Louis, Roberts trailed 4-3 after the Cards whacked him for three homers, two in succession, in the first frame. Yet he stayed around and wound up with his 13th complete game and 10th victory of the season, 9-6.

BACK IN FIFTH

That put the Phils back in fifth place, a percentage point ahead of Cincinnati in the National League. The Redlegs lost 4-3 to New York Giants, who ended a six-game losing streak. First-place Brooklyn edged Chicago 3-2, leaving the Cubs just half a game ahead of the third-place Milwaukee Braves, who whipped Pittsburgh 6-0.

In the American, New York Yankees held their two-game lead by beating Kansas City 6-1. Runner-up Chicago trimmed Washington 3-0 and third-place Cleveland rapped Baltimore 5-0. Fast-climbing Boston defeated Detroit 12-7, leaving the Red Sox just a game short of the fourth-place Tigers.

Roberts got a three-run rally going in the seventh that decided the game, leading off with a double. In all, the Phils had 14 hits—three by Roberts—off six St. Louis pitchers.

The Cards got 10 from Robin, including another homer—second of the night for Stan Musial, who also tripled. That was the 20th circuit job off Roberts in 17 games, well ahead of the pace that made him the league's gopher-ball king last season with 35.

MAINTAINS PACE

Yet Roberts, who has lost six, is even with his winning pace of 1952—the season he won 28, tops in the National League since Diz Dean won the same number for the Cards in 1935. Roberts also won his 10th that year in his 17th game.

The 28-year-old ace is working on his sixth straight season of 20 or more victories. He's led or tied for the lead the last three. Roberts is second only to Brooklyn's Don Newcombe. Newk has won 12.

The Dodgers did it without Newcombe Wednesday, winning behind Ed Roebuck's relief work after scoring an unearned run in the eighth on an error by Hal Jeffcoat, who lost in relief. The Brooks now lead by 13.

Home runs by Hank Thompson and Bobby Hofman broke a 2-2 tie for the Giants in the ninth as Sal Maglie beat Gerry Staley for his eighth straight victory. The Giants haven't had such a slump since they lost eight straight in late 1953.

ALSO HOMERED

Warren Spahn kept the Braves rolling, blanking the Bucs on six hits while contributing a one-on homer to his own cause.

The White Sox breezed behind Dick Donovan's four-hitter as the righthander nailed his ninth victory and fourth shutout. Loser Dean Stone and Bob Ramos stopped Nellie Fox's hitting streak at 17 games.

Detroit rookie Frank Lary was rocked by the first of Ted Williams' three doubles and Norb Zauchin's three-run homer and left the game as the Red Sox went on to score six runs in the first inning.

Mickey Mantle hit his 18th homer with a man on and Yogi Berra lined a bases-loaded single as both drove home two Yankee runs in support of Ed Ford, who scattered nine Kansas City hits.

Sam Snead's Golf School

The last muscular force to flow into a golf swing is the whiplash hand-action. You pour this power in during the last third of the down-swing. And this hand-lash, wrist-action takes place in the area pictured here. It is difficult to realize how important a force for distance and accuracy this wrist action is when applied correctly in the last third of the downswing. It produces the whip-cracker effect that is so important. And while a golfer is apt to think, that after all his wrists are about the weakest part of his golfing muscles, he forgets that the speed added to the clubhead by the wrist action is multiplied by the length of the club shaft. That's the source of wrist power. Hold that wrist-throw back. Pour it in during the last third of the downswing before clubhead meets ball.

Game Called In Fourth, Score 61-0

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Darkness finally took mercy Tuesday night on the hapless baseball team sponsored by the Urbandale Kiwanis Club.

When the umpire called the game at the end of the fourth inning, the Eaton Manufacturing Company nine was leading the Kiwanians 61-0.

Eaton pitcher Alan Gibbs had pitched a no-hit game to that point.

LEAVE FOR MOSOCW

NEW YORK (AP)—Four United States chess players left by air Wednesday for another go at the Russian world champions in Moscow.

Last year, the Russians came here and won easily. This year's going to be different, promised one of the 24-man American team, the remainder of which leaves today.

Canadian Crew Off Color At Henley

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (CP)—Coach Frank Read is pessimistic about chances of the University of British Columbia eights crew gaining Canada's first triumph in the main event of the Henley royal regatta.

The British Columbians, seeking the Grand Challenge Cup which has always eluded Canada, have the odds stacked against them.

"The crew seems to have fallen back from its form last May—and certainly since last summer when it won the Empire Games title," said Read, a big tanned man with a perfectionist approach.

He had just finished presiding over one of the twice-a-day training grinds in which he follows his charges by launch up and down a stretch of placid Thames above this picture-book town.

STARTS NEX WEEK

The four-day Henley royal regatta, regarded as the most select rowing meet in the world, starts here next Wednesday amid a water carnival setting.

Read professes to be a worried man.

"The boys seem to be scrambling. It's something they've picked up in the last couple of weeks. How can we get more run out of that shell?"

"We had to use a borrowed boat, built entirely different to our own, until last Saturday. That didn't help."

The UBC boys, entered at Henley as the Vancouver Rowing Club, had expected their shell to be here when they arrived June 10. But the British dock strike delayed its arrival.

They got it Saturday, patched up a couple of cracks that had developed and tore to work.

Rumor Says "Lip" To Be Cards' Manager

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rumors that he would leave New York Giants to manage St. Louis Cardinals followed Leo Durocher to Minneapolis today where his team meets the Millers in an exhibition game.

"It just has to be no comment," Durocher said when asked whether he had heard reports circulating in New York that he was going to leave the Giants.

"I've had 30 or 40 calls from all over the country, and that's what I've told all of 'em. What's the use of trying to say anything else? One story would just start another one, so I'm just saying nothing."

The report was that Bill Rigney, a Giant infielder for eight years and manager of the Minneapolis club—a Giant farm—would move into Durocher's post at the Polo Grounds.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants said Wednesday night: "There is absolutely nothing to the story. I have never mentioned Leo's name to any of the officials of the Cardinals except in the usual course of baseball chitchat."

Seixas Pulls Shoulder Muscle

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (AP)—Lawn tennis fans at Wimbledon speculated today on whether Vic Seixas has played his last Davis Cup match for the United States.

The 31-year-old Philadelphian pulled a shoulder muscle in the French championships and the injury has had him in trouble ever since.

Seixas withdrew from a Brussels tournament because of the injury and later showed sub-standard form in a Wimbledon tuneup tournament at London's Queens Club. Wednesday he came up with more shoulder trouble and lost his men's singles match to Gil Shea of Los Angeles.

Reduced to Putty

NEW YORK (AP)—An American ace flier says Chinese Red grilling reduced him mentally to putty and that he falsely confessed to waging germ warfare.

Capt. Harold E. Fischer, Jr., of Swea City, Iowa, said he also made a phony admission that he had been ordered to fly across the Yalu river and over Manchuria.

"Never doubt for a moment that the Communists can put a man in that condition, given the time and right circumstances," Fischer said in Life magazine. "They have had years of experience with a multitude of human guinea pigs."

'Can Knock Out Any Man Alive That Means Marciano'--Moore

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore, a ring warrior of 38 whose racy moustache and goatee give him the appearance of a Mississippi river gambler, propped himself on the edge of a dressing room table and proudly examined the tools of his trade.

"With either of these fists," he said matter-of-factly with no ring of boastfulness, "I can knock out any man alive. That includes Rocky Marciano."

Bright lights and sweat Wednesday night made the muscles of the light heavyweight champion of the world gleam like newly-shined copper. He breathed easily and smiled through an unmarked face. He was sitting pretty on top of the fistic world—and he knew it.

He had just smashed middleweight king Carl (Bobo) Olson into a glassy-eyed stupor in 1:19 of the third round at the Polo Grounds and sent the pride of San Francisco winging homeward—dazed, disillusioned and speechless.

Now Old Man Moore, with his controversial ticker and uncontroversial punch, was banging again—only louder—at the door of Marciano's heavyweight championship.

"Marciano's got to meet me some day," Archie continued coldly. "It might as well be now. He's running out of opponents. And when he does meet me, well——"

Moore cast a sidelong glance at his taped right hand—the one that started Olson down to his first defeat in 22 bouts—and then looked at his left—the one that finished the partly bald swarmer.

"What'd you hit him with?" a reporter asked.

"I set him up with a double right," Archie replied, as casually as an auto mechanic might explain a change of piston rings. "That's the punch I'm famous for, you know. Then when he was looking for a third right I nailed him with a left hook.

"Right here," Moore gestured to his mouth.

"Did you think you'd get him as quickly as you did?" someone asked.

"Naw, I thought it might go eight or nine rounds," the champ answered. "But I knew Bobo was a smart guy. I thought he'd try to press me. Instead he started to run. I knew I'd have to catch him early."

Was Bobo a tough fighter?

"He's a tough little guy, sure, tougher even than I thought. But he's just a good middleweight. He was out of his class."

Some of the boys sought to bring Moore out with a flat prediction on the Marciano fight, now expected to take place Sept. 22 at some New York ball park.

"I won't say what round," Archie said. "I never make predictions like that. I think I can beat him and can knock him out."

Somebody wanted to know why, and the light heavy champ quickly obliged.

"I can hit with either hand," he said. "It makes no difference—right or left. But that's not all. I can box, too. I think I can whip any man there is."

The light heavy king was greeted in the dressing room by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, who is dreaming of a near million dollar heavyweight gate in the fall.

"The Marciano-Moore fight is a natural," Norris said. "We want it."

Across the way, scores of reporters waited 35 minutes outside Olson's dressing room for the usual post-mortems.

Then they were advised that Olson had been whisked secretly out of the ball park by manager Sid Flaherty and sent homeward by air.

After all, what could Bobo say?

Milligan Scores Upset Over Marlene In Ontario Ladies' Golf Tourney

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A young University of Alberta co-ed today headed into the semi-finals of the Ontario Ladies' golf championship as favorite, the "big one" successfully passed.

Rae Milligan, 21-year-old miss from Jasper, held in the background by the outstanding performance of another 21-year-old for the last three years, moved into the limelight Wednesday with an upset 1 up victory over Marlene Stewart, Canadian women's Open champion from Fonthill, Ont.

Her opponent today in the semi-finals was little-known Roma Neundorf of Toronto Ladies Club, who moved through the second round Wednesday with a 4 and 3 victory over Mary Gay, a former Ontario champion, from Kitchener Westmount.

In the other half of the semi-finals, defending champion Anne Sharp of Fonthill was paired against Noreen Laing, 19-year-old Toronto and district champion from Toronto Mississauga.

Miss Sharp defeated Kay Helleur of Rosedale 4 and 3 Wednesday while Miss Laing came through with a sparkling performance to trim Shirley Woodley of Toronto Ladies 6 and 5. Miss Woodley and Miss Milligan were low qualifiers Monday with 75s.

Miss Milligan, Alberta champion for the last four years, has been overshadowed nationally during that time by the spectacular success of Miss Stewart, twice Canadian Open winner and former British Open champion.

Last summer Marlene knocked the Alberta player out in the fourth round of the Canadian Open at Dartmouth, N.S., then went on to take the title.

Wednesday, the Ontario golfer didn't show the same steadiness under pressure that has marked her previous competitions. Miss Milligan consistently out-drove Marlene off the tee and showed uncanny accuracy in hitting the greens. Rae birdied four holes and went over par three times. Miss Stewart was under par only once.

The Alberta champion went up on the first nine holes but lost the margin at the 14th when her tee shot was stymied by a tree and her score went to five, one over par. Miss Stewart parred the hole to draw even.

Miss Milligan's accuracy returned on the 16th where she dropped a 10-foot putt for a birdie two and a one-hole margin. At the 17th, Miss Stewart's second shot went behind the green and she missed a five-foot putt to go one over par Miss Milligan wrapped it up, playing a steady par four by two-putting after firing her second shot on the green.

Patterson Meets Durelle Tonight

NEWCASTLE, N.B. (CP)—Interest in tonight's light-heavyweight bout between Brooklyn's Floyd Patterson and Yvon Durelle has increased with Archie Moore's knockout win over Bobo Olson.

The 20-year-old Patterson is ranked No. 2 contender for Moore's title and, with Archie moving out of the division in pursuit of Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown, a decisive win over the Canadian light heavy champion could aid Patterson's title ambitions.

The indoor non-title fight is scheduled for 10 rounds. When the same pair met in Brooklyn more than a year ago, Patterson won a unanimous eight-round decision. Durelle, now 25, was only the third man to have lasted the route with the Brooklyn battler.

Bobcats Drop 9-2 Decision To Point Anne

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Scoring four runs on wild pitches and two more on errors, the Point Anne Cementmen downed the Belleville Bobcats 9-2 at the Point last night to tighten their grip on second place in the Belleville and District softball league.

The power - hitting Pointers were held to seven hits, the same number as the Bobcats picked up, but they included a triple and 3 doubles while the losers had all singles. The Bobcats committed only two errors, both costing a run, while the victors bobbled the ball on four occasions, one leading to the visitor's runs.

Buck Burshaw toiled on the mound for Phil Loft's nine and of the seven singles he allowed, three were infield hits. He claimed three via the strike out method while issuing free passes to only one. Skip Dracup hurled the route for the city squad and but for the six wild pitches, threw a good game. Three Ox-pointers went down on strikes while Dracup walked six.

Point Anne went down in order for the first two innings but scored one in the third and were never headed. A walk to Lally and a passed ball squeezed between a pair of wild pitches registered the marker. Gilmour led off the third frame with a base on balls and Roger Mallory slashed a double down the right field line for his team's first hit. Dracup wild pitched both runners home, walked Green and Goyer and surrendered another tally on a long fly by Wade for a 4-0 score. Meanwhile the Bobcats placed runners on base each inning but could not score until the top of the sixth.

Bone started their lone rally by reaching first when Goyer momentarily bobbled his infield grounder and Bob Temple punched a single, taking second on the play at third. Gord Donovan's hoist to right field scored one and Skip Dracup's sharp single to left plated the other tally.

The winners came back with three on a walk, Goyer's double, Wade's second run — scoring fly, an error and Burshaw's long fly pole to centre field. They added insurance tallies in the eighth, Goyer again slamming a double and coming home on a wild pitch while Wade singled and scored on a throwing error. Logue and pinch hitter Bert Whalen also singled but died on base.

Gerry Goyer, leading the league with a .536 batting average, sparked the winner's with a brace of doubles while Burshaw tripled and Mallory had a double. Wade, Logue and Whalen also hit safely. Bob Temple was tops in defeat with a trio of singles while the others were divided among Harry Wardhaugh, Ted Hurst, Doug Bone and Skip Dracup.

Line ups—

Bobcats: Duesbury, Wardhaugh, Creeggan, Lockyer, Hurst, Bone, Temple, Donovan, Woods, Empy, Dracup.

Point Anne: Elliott, Gilmour, Mallory, Green, Goyer, Wade, Lally, Logue, Whalen, Burshaw.

Line score	R	H	E
Bobcats	000 002 000	2	7 2
Point Anne	001 303 02x	9	7 4

Three Pacers Do Mile Under 2.01

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —In more than a century, only 13 pacers and two trotters have ever beaten 2:01 over a half-mile track.

But the feat was accomplished last weekend by three pacers racing at three different tracks, the U.S. Trotting Association reported Wednesday. Such a weekend is unprecedented on the twice-arounds, the USTA said.

Philip Scott, seven - year - old owned by Percy and Jere Gray and George Reed of E. Providence, R.I., got the fast parade off to a 2:00 4-5 start last Friday in winning the $15,000 Laurel invitational at Laurel, Md.

The next night, Adios Harry, owned by J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, Del., went in 1:59 2-5 at Roosevelt raceway, and Roadmaster, property of L. A. Hawkins of Forestville, N.Y., carved out a 2:00 4-5 mile at Buffalo raceway. Adios Harry's 1:59 2-5 was a world record for four-year-olds, and the second fastest time ever registered over a half-mile oval. Hi-Lo's Forbes set the world mark of 1:58 3-5 at Roosevelt in 1953.

Leafs Whip Royals 7-1 For Second Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russ Sullivan clouted three successive home runs for the Columbus Jets in the International League Wednesday night in one of the most impressive slugging performances in the circuit this season.

Sullivan's trio of round-trippers helped the Jets rout the Richmond Virginians 17-8. In other games the Buffalo Bisons edged Rochester Red Wings 5-4 and the first-place Toronto Maple Leafs again repulsed the challenge of the Montreal Royals 7-1.

The loss dropped Montreal to third place, 2 games off the pace and ½ game behind the Havana Sugar Kings, whose game with the Syracuse Chiefs was postponed by wet grounds.

FIVE IN FIRST

For the second night in a row the Leafs pounded a Montreal southpaw for five runs in the first inning. The victim Wednesday night was Tom Lasorda. Hector Rodriguez opened the attack with a single. He went to third on two wild pitches and scored on Archie Wilsen s single. Lou Morton's single and Billy Demars' double brought home Wilson with the second run.

Then Eddie Stevens cleared the bases with his seventh homer of the season. Ken Johnson lost his shutout when Charlie Neal hit a bases empty home run in the eighth.

Dietrich's Daughter Ready To Succumb to Film Offers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maria Riva, television's most noted holdout against the movies, is ready to succumb to the studio offers.

The beautiful daughter of Marlene Dietrich is here for an appearance on CBS-TV's "Climax" tonight. If she had her way, she'd stay.

This is a complete reversal for her. In the early days of TV she became famous as one of the medium's most accomplished actresses. The movie offers naturally poured in. She turned them down.

HAD HER REASONS

"I had several reasons," she says now. "I needed the experience that television could give me. My husband's work required him to be in New York, and I didn't believe in nurses bringing up our two sons.

"Also, having been raised in Hollywood, I knew what a woman's life can be here. You're off to the studio at six in the morning and home at seven. You can't devote much attention to your family. I'm the kind who cooks all the meals. When I go away I have to spend days cooking dishes for the freezer. My husband doesn't like anyone else's meals."

The actress said she now could switch to Hollywood because her husband, William Riva, has changed his business, and she is anxious to bring up her children here. She believed that she could find way to combat the rigorous life of movie actresses.

TV CHANGING

One of the big reasons for her switch is a change in the acting setup in TV.

"I saw this coming two years ago," she observed. "I said that the time would come when the TV stars—those actors who have made their names in TV alone—would be shoved into the background by the movie names.

"You see, we don't have a TV audience. We have a movie audience that is now watching television. People recognize movie names more readily. So if a producer has the choice between a movie actor and a TV performer, he will naturally choose the plus value of the movie name."

Closeup, the gal looks amazingly like her famed mother. She has the same high forehead and prominent cheekbones, the same shade of honey-blonde hair. But where Marlene is sultry, Marie is expressive and voluble.

Paramount's 'Conquest of Space' Proves Awesome Tehhnicolor Thriller

Man's greatest yet most awesome adventure is brought vividly to the screen in Paramount's "Conquest of Space", showing on the Belle Theatre Wide - Vision screen. Produced by George Pal, who is universally recognized as the greatest of science fiction - film makers, the Technicolor drama is the thrilling product of two years of intensive work and research.

Unlike George Pal's previous successes, such as the enormously popular "War of the Worlds", "Conquest of Space" cannot be classed as science-fiction. It is Science - fact -- startling, astonishing, for us earth-bound people, but above all an authentic preview of what science says you may expect in the near future.

From every point of view, 'Conquest of Space', is a remarkable new experience. It will take you literally . . . out of this world.

The enjoyment of the program is enhanced with the exhibition of an entertaining array of short treats, including the popular news events.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, June 24, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Sound and practical matters, science, manufacturing, building, railroading, dealing in leather goods, materials for personal and household use should move forward now. Finances also favored if you are conservative.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A good time to advance in your occupation, to seek and grant favors, to cooperate with superiors, deal with lawyers, judges, for sound investments, making needed improvements.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A fine day in which to promote and advertise sound business and financial projects and products for better living; also to better the quality of your output.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Forget doubts and worry, and go forth to gain some of the benefits to be had today in all worthwhile work, good investments, opportunities to enhance your income. New and old matters favored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Your Sun and Jupiter well aspected, augur for a productive, constructive period — if you cooperate. Be sensibly ambitious but heed good advice, too.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — This day may not be too stimulating for mental work, but advancement can be made in familiar activities or in new undertakings, if well-planned.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't concentrate on wholly personal desires and you will better enjoy the fruits of your well-intentioned and cleverly directed endeavors. This can be a prosperous day. Get things done and enjoy the week-end.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Really difficult work, planning, unravelling legal problems and laborious trades and industry in general are favored. Be acquisitive but don't overdo in anything.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Tops for you, with Jupiter and the Sun beneficently aspected. An auspicious period for new undertakings or completing unfinished matters. Finances in good spot.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — With your innate practicality and sound sense working together, you should heartily enjoy the results of earnest efforts. Rest, recreate over the week end.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Make plans for a big tomorrow but don't miss today's opportunities to promote and advance in your occupation or in personal pursuits. The day may require some quick action, after due thought.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Favorable rays linger from yesterday's Neptune aspect and, with good Sun and Jupiter vibrations, you can, and should, have fresh benefits. Look for advantages, gain where you can.

You born today are likeable, magnetic, trusted by old and young; make generous parents, lifemates; will be loyal, good sons or daughters if properly brought up. You are talented, especially in domestic matters, and where art and skills are required, or in positions calling for the care of the ill, unfortunate, children. You make splendid salesmen (or women), actors, politicians, lawyers. You have the "gift of gab" in an entertaining and remunerative way. Avoid aggravating arguments and overcome hyper sensitiveness. Birthdate: Horatio H. (Earl) Kitchener, famed British field marshal.

Start Laying Telephone Cable Across Atlantic

CLARENVILLE, Nfld. (CP) — This little terminal town on Newfoundland's northeastern shore drifted back into its humdrum daily pattern today after cable-laying ceremonies Wednesday placed its name into history.

Representatives of three countries sent the cableship Monarch on her way, trailing the first trans Atlantic telephone cable out into the open Atlantic.

When her first 200-mile cable length is spent she returns to Scotland for a fresh supply. By the end of the summer she is scheduled to have laid one cable from Clarenville to Scotland.

A twin cable will be laid next year. By late 1956 the two cables with their 36 voice circuits will link North America with Europe.

"Bad Nerves A Terrible Thing," Says This Man

Felt Exhausted, Tired-Out, Stomach Upset, Couldn't Sleep. Tells how Syntona Helped Him.

MR. JOHN WILD

Many people who suffer from nervous stomach, tired, rundown condition, headaches, sleeplessness and rheumatic pain tell of grand relief after taking Syntona. Mr. John Wild, 776 Quebec Street, London, Ontario, said in a recent report:

"My nerves were all on edge. I had no appetite and what little food I did eat caused stomach upset, gas, indigestion and heartburn. At night I couldn't get my proper rest and I felt exhausted and tired out.

Tried Many Things

"I had taken so many things without benefit that I finally asked my druggist and he suggested that I take Syntona. Now, I am convinced that this medicine has done more for me than anything I've taken before. The gas, indigestion and heartburn are cleared up, headaches are relieved, and my appetite is greatly improved. I also sleep more restfully and feel better when I awaken in the mornings. I cannot tell you how pleased I am because I certainly felt miserable and bad nerves are a terrible thing."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

In Drizzling Rain, 50,000 Welcome Queen To Norway

Grand-Uncle Greets Her Amidst Viking Shields

OSLO, Norway (Reuters)—Britain's Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh stepped ashore today from the Norwegian royal barge to the cheers of 50,000 persons at the start of a three-day state visit to Norway.

Crown Prince Olav, son of King Haakon VII, had gone out to the British royal yacht Britannia, anchored in the harbour, to escort the royal couple ashore in drizzly weather for their first official visit to a foreign land since the Coronation.

One Norwegian sailor, over-excited by the occasion, fell off the royal barge into the water on the outward voyage to the Britannia. He was fished out unharmed.

King Haakon himself greeted his guests in a gay white and scarlet pavilion set up in the beflagged town hall square opposite the jetty. Queen Elizabeth is a great-niece of the 82-year-old king, the world's oldest reigning monarch.

Thousands of Norwegians, who had taken the day off, crowded the vast plaza between the city hall and the adjacent harbor area. They cheered wildly as the Queen and her husband stepped ashore.

VIKING DECORATIONS

The royal couple greeted King Haakon with broad smiles as he stood alone on a 60-yard red carpet leading from the jetty to the pavilion decorated with Viking shields.

Guns boomed in salute, the crowd roared with excitement, and an army band played the national anthems of both countries.

Out in the harbor Norwegian escort destroyers and three British frigates which accompanied the Britannia "corked the channel"—took up stations facing out to sea in a traditional Viking defence against pirates.

Patrolman Will Be Walking Beat After Suspension

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Traffic patrolman Maurice Quinlan lost his temper Thursday as a motorist made a turn in downtown Pittsburgh. He ordered the motorist to get moving because he was tying up traffic.

The motorist, who said Quinlan used a few choice cuss words, replied: "Take a good look."

Quinlan did. The motorist was police superintendent James Slusser.

Quinlan drew a three-day suspension. And when he reports back he'll be walking a beat, Slusser declared. The superintendent said he wasn't violating any law anyway—just like any motorist, he was caught in a jam.

Toronto Boy, 14, Late for School, Is Found Hanged

TORONTO (CP)—The body of a 14-year-old boy, with a note in his pockets for armhis teacher asking for an explanation why he was late for school, was found today hanging from the rafters of a coal shed.

Police said they believe the boy worried so much he took his own life, but his father said he thought he was strangled accidentally while playing or was the victim of a gang.

Dr. Smirle Lawson, supervising coroner for Ontario, said "the father has expressed doubt, so we will cl ea rtiup by an autopsy."

North's Highways To Get 'New Look'

NORTH BAY (CP)—New highways soon will give a "new look" to Ontario's northland, Mines Minister Kelly said Thursday night in announcing a new road construction program for the north.

Speaking at a dinner given for the Ontario mayors and reeves convention he said 100 miles of road will be built this year with another 300 miles to be constructed in the near future.

This year's construction will provide outside highway access to Folyet, Hornepayne and Alcona. Folyet will be linked to Timmins, Hornepayne to Highway 11 west of Hearst, while Alcona will be joined to Sioux Lookout.

The minister said the decision to go ahead with the project was made at a cabinet meeting Thursday.

BLAMES LATE BUS

STRATFORD (CP) — A woman motorist whose car was in collision with the rear of a bus promptly said it was the bus driver's fault that the accident happened at all. He was late, she said. If he had been on time, there would have been no accident, she contended.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Dull cloudy weather with a few showers still persists over most of Ontario today, and appears likely to continue Saturday. Fog patches, which formed overnight in some localities, will dissipate this morning, but are likely to reappear tonight.

Two Arrested On Theft Charge

HAMILTON (CP)—Police Thursday arrested two men wanted for theft in St. Catharines.

R. A. Handright of St. Catharines said two men who came to his door looking for a handout fled with a suit of clothes containing $1,300 of which $900 was in travellers' cheques.

A police check showed two men answering the description of the pair had hired a taxi to take them to Niagara - On - The - Lake. Later checks showed they had engaged another taxi to take them from there to Toronto.

Two men were later arrested here. St. Catharines police said Gordon Hems, 42, of Toronto, and Norman Anderson, 35, of no fixed address, were charged with theft.

BUILDINGS DESTROYED

FORT ERIE (CP)—Fire swept through farm buildings near Ridgeway, 10 miles west of here, Wednesday and destroyed property valued at nearly $15,000. A newly-built milk-house and a large barn, containing two calves and a quantity of farm machinery, were destroyed. Volunteer firemen prevented the flames reaching a nearby garage, a poultry house and the farm home.

Sun Rises in West for RAF Trio, In Alaska Before Leaving Norway

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Three RAF officers flew across the North Pole in a jet bomber from Norway to Alaska Thursday, landing 4½ hours by the local clock before they left Europe.

The twin-engined Canberra jet plane landed at Ladd air force base at 4:27 p. m. Alaska time, six hours and 28 minutes after leaving Bardufoss, Norway. The British plane had left the European airport at 9:04 p. m. Norway time.

The 3,200-mile jaunt was completed at an average speed of 500 miles an hour, gaining all the way on the sun, which had been setting when they left Bardufoss. Thus, to the crew, the sun appeared to be rising in the west.

At this latitude, the apparent speed of the sun across the sky is much slower than at the equator, where it approximates 1,000 miles an hour.

Pilot of the plane was Wing Cmdr. M. D. Lyne of Winchester, England.

With him were Sqdn. Ldr. D. Bower of Huddersfield, and Sqdn. Ldr. R. A. Seymour, Croydon, both navigators.

STEELWORKERS REJECT OFFER BY 'BIG STEEL'

10-Cent Raise Called Completely Inadequate

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United States Steel Corp., its offer to boost wages by about 10 cents an hour flatly rejected by the United Steelworkers (CIO), is studying its next move to head off a threatened strike at midnight next Thursday.

David McDonald, president of the USW, turned down the offer of "big steel" Thursday night less than an hour after it was made. It was "completely inadequate," McDonald said.

McDonald, declaring that his members "refuse to be treated as second class citizens," said:

"We can see no justification whatsoever to accept a settlement this year—the most profitable in the industry's history—which is approximately one-half of the cost of the settlements already made in the automobile industry. We will not accept such discriminatory treatment."

Steel workers in the U. S. now average $2.33 an hour.

The USW's two-year contract, which provides for wage talks only this year, permits it to call its members out on strike at midnight June 3 unless an agreement has been reached. U. S. Steel employs about 15,000 of the union's 600,000 basic-steel members.

McDonald never has said how much of a wages boost he wants. He just says "sizeable." However, Bill Hatton, president of a USW local, says the union is asking a 25-cent-an-hour across-the-board increase.

Meanwhile, negotiations with other major producers continue in recess. In the past, the industry has followed the contract pattern of U. S. Steel.

Two Injured In Dynamite Blast

MONTREAL (CP)—A shower of rocks bombarded suburban Ville Jacques Cartier Thursday as a result of a dynamite blast on the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Homes and parked cars were damaged and at least two persons were injured.

A large rock crashed through the home of Mrs. Marie Jeanne Bourassa. It ripped a hole through the roof of a second-storey flat and demolished a table at which Mrs. Bourassa and her daughter, Mrs. Henri Dalaire, were eating. Mrs. Bourassa was taken to hospital suffering from a fractured leg while her daughter was treated for shock.

Another rock smashed through the roof of a second home, but the house was empty at the time.

97 Cars Refused "OK" Sticker

STRATFORD (CP) — Violations revealed in a one-day voluntary safety check of motor vehicles Wednesday were fewer than one-tenth of the total number of vehicles entering the check zone, Chief Constable A. T. Day announced Thursday.

Approximately 1,200 vehicles, mostly cars, were inspected by Stratford and Ontari oprovincial police officers. Only 97 were refused "OK" safety stickers.

AEC Says It Has No Evidence Of Red's A-Test in Past Year

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Atomic Energy Commission indicated today that it has had no evidence of a major nuclear test by Russia in almost a year.

But Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a nuclear scientist formerly connected with the government's atomic bomb development program, says "it now can be revealed that the Soviets conducted at least two super-bomb tests this spring."

Writing in the current issue of Life magazine, Lapp says the first of the two tests occurred in April, and that Japanese scientists found evidence in fall-out samples. The second shot was in May when "non-governmental scientists in the United States picked up strong radioactive indications of it."

In response to a question based on Lapp's assertion, the AEC said: "The commission has consistently followed a policy of informing the American people of its tests of nuclear weapons and of tests in Soviet territory.

The last AEC announcements on Sovict tests were made Oct. 26, 1954. Before that, in August, 1953 the commission confirmed the claim of Russia to have conducted a thermo-nuclear hydrogen explosion.

Before that, Russia had conducted at least three fission explosions.

In its comment today, the commission offered no suggestions about why Russia may not have tested more nuclear bombs or why, if they were tested, there appeared to have been no evidence picked up outside Russia.

Some experts, in speculating about what seemed to be an absence of Soviet tests, consider it possible that Russia has standardized on weapons developed in the tests two years ago, gone into full production and feels no need for further modification.

This thinking appears to be based, in part, on a practice followed by Russia for years in the development and then standardizing of production of conventional weapons, such as artillery. However, in aviation Russia has displayed a tendency toward constant improvement of design, even when requiring frequent revision of production programs.

Bows to 'Great Sense of Duty' Peron to Hold Presidency

By JIMMIE PAYNE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Juan Peron worked on a new cabinet lineup today after telling the Argentine people that he is staying in office only because they need him.

"If I were not strengthened by the importance to me of the people," Peron said in a broadcast Thursday night, "I would abandon the government this very day. If I have not done it, it was because I really fear the consequences my selfishness would bring down on the nation."

Peron's broadcast reviewing the bloody revolt last week came only a few hours after his 16-man cabinet resigned. The presidential press secretariat said the ministers wanted to let the president reshuffle the government as he wished.

The broadcast and the mass resignation appeared new evidence that Peron has retained his grip on Argentina, despite speculation and rumors that the revolt had weakened his power. The radio speech was the president's first public utterance since Saturday.

(Diplomatic sources in Montevideo, Uruguay, predicted today that the new Argentine cabinet will be composed mainly of military men. These sources said at least four members, including Interior Minister Angel Borlenghi, would not be reappointed. Controlling the all-powerful police, Borlenghi was a key member of the previous government.)

In his speech, Peron again charged that marine and naval aviation officers were the prime instigators of the revolt. But he broadened the accused to include "some opposition political groups belonging to the democratic union" with "afterwards some clerical groups joining."

This was Peron's only reference to the Roman Catholic Church, which excommunicated him just before the revolt broke out. The pro-government press has refrained since the revolt from the constant criticism of the church it began when Peron launched his campaign against the Catholic hierarchy last November.

Civic Workers At Kitchener Return to Jobs

KITCHENER (CP)—A strike of 165 Kitchener civic workers was temporarily called off today after 13 employees voted at an early morning meeting to return to work.

Soon after 7 a. m. the city's garbage trucks were out on the streets picking up garbage, uncollected since the workers went on strike Wednesday.

The employees, members of Local 68 of the Civic Workers Union (AFL TLC) met at 6 a. m. to consider an order by their executive that they return to work pending negotiations to settle the strike.

The agreement to return to work pending negotiation of the wage dispute was announced after a meeting attended by Mayor Donald Weber, representative George Downing of the Trades and Labor Congress, and William Dunn, a conciliation officer with the Ontario labor department.

ONE CENT APART

The agreement set 4:30 p. m. today as the deadline for negotiations. If no settlement was reached, a strike vote was to be supervised by Mr. Dunn.

The 165 city employees went on strike Wednesday after 15 months of unsuccessful negotiations on demands for a 10-cent increase in the basic hourly rate of $1.20.

Council's latest offer, made after a meeting Thursday night, was nine cents, retroactive to March 1.

CRABS GET REPRIEVE

WHITBY, England (Reuters)—Thousands of live crabs, benefitting from a local price war, were taken out to sea again Thursday and tossed back into the water by angry fishermen refusing to accept merchants' buying offers.

Big Forest Fire In Goulais Area Being Beaten

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The biggest forest fire battle in northern Ontario was being won today while mopping-up operations continued in other parts of the fire belt.

Firefighters, working with the aid of aircraft in roadless timber country, finally encircled 4,500 acres of flame in the Goulais district, 60 miles north of here.

Another big blaze of 3,500 acres at Hornepayne, 200 miles north of here, and a 1,500-acre fire near Gogama also appeared to be well in hand.

For the first day this week there were no new outbreaks Thursday as, damp weather reduced the fire hazard.

MORE THAN NORMAL

Meanwhile, the lands and forests department gave this breakdown of the fire situation so far this year:

About 600 fires reported, 200 more than the usual number for this time of year; almost 100,000 acres of timberland destroyed; damage not clearly established but running into the millions.

The department said campers and smokers were responsible for more fires than any other single source.

NEW TECHNIQUE

DUNDALK (CP)—A crowd of 1,500 watched Agriculture Minister Thomas accomplish 330 feet of ditching Thursday by the flick of a switch Mr. Thomas, taking part in Grey county's drainage day, blasted the ditch out with dynamite in a demonstration of a new technique. Later various other ditching tile-laying techniques and equipment were demonstrated.

CLAIMS CONTROL OF SEAS SHOULD EXTEND 12 MILES

Territorial Waters Issue Vexing One

OTTAWA (CP) — A Maritime lawyer says Canadian control over this country's surrounding seas should extend 12 miles offshore instead of the present three miles.

George Nowlan (PC — Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said in the Commons Thursday there is talk among Nova Scotia inshore fishermen of using rifles to defend their fishing grounds against deep-sea trawlers from the United States.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair said the issue of territorial waters is a vexing one which divides countries like Canada possessing rich fisheries and countries poor in sea resources.

Conservationists agree, he said, that a fish conservation policy limited to three miles is impossible if other nations can come up to that boundary and exploit without any rules and regulations.

APPROVE INCREASE

Elsewhere in its day, the Commons gave final approval to $2,500-a-year salary increases for federally-appointed judges and the government proposal annual increases ranging from $1,500 to $2,500 for members of the transport, tariff and income tax appeal boards.

In the fisheries debate, Mr. Nowlan, whose constituency borders the Bay of Fundy, said U.S. trawlers come past the three-mile limit, damaging nets and lobster pots of Canada's inshore fishermen.

He urged prompt negotiations with the U.S. on the question.

Mr. Sinclair said the matter has been studied by a United Nations committee. Canada had prepared a report and the whole problem would be discussed at the UN next year.

Earlier in the day the Commons gave final reading to a bill to give all federally-appointed judges a pay increase of $2,500 a year and then approved introduction of another measure to raise salaries of the three federal boards.

The second bill met a cool reception from opposition members.

ASK COMPENSATION

CORNWALL (CP) — Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry county councils are asking grade separations —overpasses and underpasses—for all county roads crossing the re-located CNR line and proposed highway No. 401. Council approved the request in adopting the report of its roads and bridges committee as the June session closed Thursday. The advisory roads committee was also authorized to negotiate with Ontario Hydro for compensation for damage to country roads as a result of the St. Lawrence seaway power project.

Brandon Plans Three Big Barbecues To Turn Defence Test Into Picnic

BRANDON (CP) — Proof that mass evacuation can be a picnic will come out of this western Manitoba city Sunday.

G. R. Rowe, civil defence director, said he expects about 5,000 of Brandon's 24,000 citizens will take part in the two-hour civil defence exercise.

Three evacuation routes have been selected. And, to encourage participation, organizers are throwing a giant barbecue at each reception area.

The barbecue will provide a tasty demonstration of the civil defence emergency feeding course taught by the sub-area committee.

While Brandon isn't considered a likely target area, its civil defence group figures it would be called on to handle a large portion of Winnipeg's population should that larger city be attacked with nuclear weapons.

Trunk highways north, south and west of the city have been selected as evacuation routes. East has been shunned because of the prevailing wind which would subject the area to fall-out in the event of an attack against Brandon itself.

Evacuation will be carried out largely in private cars, but buses will be used from assembly points in the city for others.

The 300-member Brandon Red Cross block-canvassing organization has swung behind the scheme, carrying out a city-wide survey to determine the number of people who will take part, and encouraging persons with cars to take their neighbors.

City police will conduct extra patrols during the exercise. RCMP will have charge of highway traffic. Parking in reception areas, smallest of which is 18 acres and the largest 40, will be handled by members of the 28th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery.

A Raider aircraft from the Canadian joint air training centre at Rivers, 25 miles northwest of Brandon, will stage a simulated bombing attack on the city shortly after the red alert signals the evacuation hour.

A medical doctor has been assigned to each reception area and first aid stations will be set up by the St. John Ambulance Brigade. City restaurant staffs will serve the barbecues.

End Of Cold War Simple If Reds Renounce Force

UN Hears U.S. Spokesman Deliver Stinging Attack

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State Secretary Dulles told Russia today in blunt language that the way to end the cold war is to stop using force against other countries and to stop supporting subversion.

In a stinging attack on communism, the American secretary declared:

"To bring the cold war to an end, seven points are not needed; this one is sufficient."

He spoke at the United Nations' 10th anniversary meeting, which Wednesday heard Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov propose a seven-point program to liquidate the cold war.

Dulles spoke with President Eisenhower's "full confidence and concurrence." The president himself said so Monday when he addressed the opening session, telling the delegates the secretary would speak today "on appropriate elements in the foreign policy of this nation."

PULLS NO PUNCHES

Dulles pulled no punches as he reviewed the role of communism in recent history. He agreed with Molotov that some problems had been settled recently, but said they would have been settled years earlier except for the Communists.

"We do not forget, we dare not forget, that some of those who now hail the recent developments are precisely those who for years sought to stop them."

Dulles strongly defended the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other regional organizations which Molotov blamed for much of the trouble today. These organizations were based on the spirit of the UN Charter, Dulles said, and it was Western strength, backed by these organizations, which had led to the solution of major problems.

Then, in sarcastic language, he took up the problems which Molotov had listed in his speech as having been solved. The Korean War, he said, was ended only after UN forces had repelled Communist aggression.

"It is indeed strange to hear this triumph of collective security now hailed as proof of the peace-loving character of the aggressor and its supporters. If they had had their way, we would today be commemorating the fifth anniversary of the demise of the United Nations."

WARNING WAS NEEDED

Dulles said further:

The Indochina fighting was ended by agreement in Geneva, but only after the United States and other free countries had made it clear that continued fighting might call for collective action within the framework of the UN Charter.

Burning Auto Blows Own Horn, Starts Itself

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa. (AP)—An auto on a used-car lot here burst into flames Thursday but sounded its own horn to warn a nearby resident, then slipped into gear and obliggingly moved under its own power away from other cars on the lot.

Fire chief Claude Sausser said the blaze apparently caused a short circuit, which not only caused the horn to blow but somehow started the engine with the car in gear. The vehicle moved 25 feet before stopping.

Despite Broken Shoulder, Guard Stays on Job

MARKHAM (CP)—A 54-year-old school crossing guard who refused to leave his young charges alone despite the pain of a broken shoulder, was back on the job Thursday just four hours after he was hit by a truck that sped from the scene.

With his broken right shoulder in a cast and his arm in a sling, Albert Wilson was still able to hold the small yellow stop sign in his left hand.

Wilson pushed a small group of children out of the way this morning when he saw the truck bearing down, but couldn't escape himself.

He was treated and sent home. But there was no one to take his place in this town 20 miles northeast of Toronto, so back to the crossing he went for the noon recess.

Albert Croxall, 61, of Uxbridge, was later arrested and charged with careless driving and failure to remain at the scene of an accident.

RIOT FOLLOWS EXAMS

PARIS (Reuters) — About 5,000 Paris students, celebrating the end of the summer examinations, paraded through the streets of the Latin quarter Thursday, tore up traffic signs, bombarded cars and houses with shoes and pieces of wood, and threw paper "bombs" containing talcum powder at police. Police drove the singing youngsters into side streets to break up the demonstration.

OFFICIAL COUNT FOR HASTINGS EAST

Official returns from Hastings East in the recent provincial election were: Cole (CCF) 403; McVicker (L) 3,518 and Robson (PC) 3,999.

The service vote gave Cole 0, McVicker 3 and Robson 5.

The official count was completed yesterday by chief returning officer Graham Mouck, of Tweed.

Large Frame Barn In Ameliasburg Township Burns

Fire of undetermined origin Thursday night completely destroyed a large frame barn on the farm of Robt. Pennell, 4th concession of Ameliasburg township.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 11 o'clock but nothing could be done to save the structure. Sparks from the burning barn drifted across the road landing on the roof of the Pennell house but the building did not catch fire.

Belleville firemen were called to the scene and although the barn could not be saved the fire truck remained to protect the farm home. Firemen said the barn was empty.

Firemen answered three other alarms, one of them early this morning when they were called to the city barns where a tar pot had caught fire. The other calls Thursday night were to the Prince Charles school grounds where a tree stump was burning and to 24 Fifth street, where a smoking furnace had alarmed the family.

Masons Prepare For Grand Lodge Sessions in July

Masons and their families from all parts of Ontario and Canada as well as visiting delegations of brethren from other countries will converge on Toronto on Sunday, July 17, for a monster religious service at the CNE grandstand.

This service will mark the opening of the Centennial Observance of the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons in the province of Ontario. Sessions of the Grand Lodge, itself, which will continue for two days, will commence the following morning in the coliseum at the exhibition grounds.

While thousands of visitors will come by car, many will take advantage of the special trains and buses which are being planned to take care of the influx. It is expected that the attendance at the service will be one of the largest in the history of the grandstand.

J. P. Maher, chairman of the Centennial committee, announced that the service would be conducted by The Most Rev. W. L. Wright, Archbishop of Algoma, while the Rev. W. Harold Young of Toronto, will preach the sermon and the Rev. H. G. Cleghorn will read the lessons.

In attendance at the service will be a choir of over 300 voices under the direction of Dr. Charles Peaker of St. Paul's Anglican church, Toronto.

The importance of this event in the annals of Masonry is reflected by the fact that the visiting delegations will include widely-known dignitaries from the three Grand Lodges of the British Isles and from Grand Lodges of other Commonwealth countries, including Australia, while Grand Lodges of most of the States in the United States will be represented.

When discussing this historic observance, Mr. Maher said that a hundred years ago—in October, 1855—representatives of some forty lodges gathered in a Hamilton building which still stands at the northeast corner of Main and John Streets. At that meeting the Grand Lodge of Canada was formed with William Mercer Wilson, Norfolk County judge, being named the first Grand Master. The lodges represented on that occasion had a total membership in good standing of 1,779. At last session of the same Grand Lodge, reports showed that there were 582 lodges with a membership of over 130,000.

While Grand Lodges were formed in other provinces as membership in the Masonic Order increased, the first Grand Lodge, organized in Ontario in 1855, still retains the name of "Grand Lodge A.F. & A.M. of Canada" for sentimental reasons. However, the words "in the Province of Ontario" were added to the official name out of respect for brethren who are outside the jurisdiction of the Ontario lodge.

Hastings West Official Count Is Completed

A total of 18,084 votes were cast last June 9th in the riding of West Hastings and by armed services personnel from this riding, according to M. C. Burgess, riding returning officer. This was the figure released this morning following the official count of ballots.

Official returns show that Irving A. McGaughey, Liberal, received 5,798 votes; William Mundrey, C.C.F., 1,268 votes, and W. E. Sandercolk 11,018.

The armed services gave McGaughey 133 votes, William Mundrey 8 votes, and Sandercock 68 votes.

Mr. Sandercock's official majority over Mr. McGaughey, Liberal candidate, was 5,220.

Orchards, Crops, Gardens Ruined By Hail Storm

Apple orchards, crops and gardens in the Rawdon township district north of Stirling were badly damaged as result of the sudden hail storm which swept through the area.

Orchards of Fred Beckett, Charles Morton and Son, Carl Clancy and A. Hadley suffered the heaviest, but Gordon Bailey's orchard at Harold was also damaged.

Percy Ray, residing on the 8th line reported that the hailstones were bigger than marbles and lay to a depth of five inches in his back yard. His garden was completely destroyed.

Comfort Stations Are Available For Circus Patrons

Hailed as the "Greatest Show on Earth", the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus will be in the city on Monday for two performances.

Famous over the years for its outstanding entertainment and easily one of the biggest and best in its field, the circus leaves nothing undone for the comfort and pleasure of its patrons.

The world's greatest artists perform under the "big top". The world's greatest array of wild animals are housed in its menagerie. Others are stars in their own right in the famous sawdust rings.

But while the management caters to the entertainment and pleasure taste of the public, it has not forgotten the angle of public comfort.

The circus coming here Monday carries comfort stations with maid and attendant for men and women. They are modern flush toilets carried on huge automotive vans and placed in the connection between the menagerie and the main tent.

This is a boon to parents with children. There are six toilets in each van. There is a sanitation department with the circus, that cares for this convenient feature.

Pleads Guilty To Car Theft

John Jose, 32, Prince Edward county farm worker, pleaded guilty to car theft and also to driving without a driver's licence, when he appeared in magistrate's court today before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. He was remanded until next Thursday for sentence.

Wednesday evening Victor Kaiser called police and reported that his car had been stolen from where it was parked behind a local hotel. Later P.C. Kent spotted the car outside Docter's Hotel and followed as it was driven away to a Bettes Street address. There Jose was apprehended and brought to the police station.

Pea Cutting Has Commenced In Some Areas

Hastings county farmers have had encouraging results in spraying for the control of mustard in pea fields, according to the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The report indicates that some damage to peas has resulted where improper amounts of 2-4-D have been used but on the whole results have been satisfactory.

Northumberland county farmers reported that seldom has farm work been so far advanced for the season. A great deal of hay has been cut and some silos have been filled with grass ensilage. Cutting of peas has commenced with the crop somewhat prematurely ripened on sandy land. The main crop of peas, however, is still very promising.

In Prince Edward the hay crop is average and the strawberry crop is yielding well. Irrigation of both strawberries and peas is being done by some farmers in an effort to boost yields during the dry spell.

Airman Suggests Car Be Sold To Pay Fines

The suggestion that his 1930 "convertible" might be sold to assist in paying fines and costs amounting to $42 was the advice received in court this morning by a young RCAF recruit charged with driving while his licence was suspended.

Remanded for sentence following court appearance yesterday, the young airman was fined $10 and $3.50 costs for driving without a licence and $25 plus $3.50 costs for driving while his licence was under suspension.

When apprehended by provincial police the airman produced a driver's licence, which later turned out to belong to his brother. When stopped by police the airman was on his way back to Clinton after a holiday in Montreal.

THOMAS LOUIS DesCOTE

Thomas Louis DesCote, 56 John St. S., died Friday, June 24th, at the home of his son, Thomas A. DesCote, after having been in ill health for two weeks. He was in his 87th year.

The deceased was born at Gatineau Point, Quebec, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis DesCote, and lived in Kingston prior to coming to Belleville 37 years ago. He had been employed for many years by Howe and Hagerman as a plumber and by Foley Foundry.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. John (Margaret) Vinkle, of Belleville; Mrs. Samuel (Elizabeth) Ellis, of Trenton; Mrs. Harry (Dorothy) Luftman, of Toronto; Miss Carmel DesCote, of Toronto; one son, Thomas A. DesCote, of Belleville; two sisters, Margaret and Emma, of Hull, Quebec, and a brother, George DesCote of Iroquois Falls. He was predeceased by his wife, the former Elizabeth Sloan.

The deceased was a member of St. Michael's Church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

DONALD E. JONES
(Trenton)

Funeral of Donald E. Jones, R.R. 2, Trenton, who died June 21 in an accident on Highway 62 near Millbridge, was held from Weaver's Funeral Home, Trenton, to White's cemetery, June 23.

Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, Bayside, officiated.

Bearers: Bruce Hunt, Ronald Jones, Robert Hosking, Joseph and Francis Hawkins and Percy Grykes.

A resident of Trenton all his life, Mr. Jones was born in Sidney Township, son of Albert Jones and the late Grace Westfall. A farmer, he was a member of White's United Church.

He leaves his wife, the former Lillian D. Bellis; one daughter, Donna Grace Jones and one son, Robert Eugene Jones.

Also surviving are: one sister, Mrs. Don (Shirley) Barr and one brother, Garnet Jones, both of Bayside; his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Westfall, also of Bayside.

IN MEMORIAM

SWENOR. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Ida Swenor, who passed away June 24th, 1954.
—Always remembered by her daughter Libbie.

SWENOR. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Ida Swenor, who passed away June 24th, 1954.
I little knew when I woke that morning
The sorrow the day would bring.
For the call was sudden, the shock severe.
To part with one I loved so dear.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom, God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
God gave me strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it cost to lose, you
No one will ever know.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by your daughter Mary and son-in-law Basil.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Philip McAvoy and family wish to express their sincere appreciation to Dr. Carleton and Dr. Bruce Cronk, the nurses of the Belleville General Hospital, to those who sent flowers and cards of sympathy and for the kind relatives, neighbors and friends who were so helpful and understanding during the loss of their dear daughter and sister Jean. To all we say "thank you."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices softened in afternoon trading on the Toronto stock exchange but there was little feature except for bursts of activity in some low-priced issues.

Two issues alone accounted for more than 1,000,000 shares—Matt-Arrow in base metals, up 4½ cents to 20 cents on a 700,000-share turnover and Beveourt in golds, down one cent at 10 cents on 400,000 shares traded.

In industrials MacLaren Power and Paper traded at $84, up $12.75, on a 150-share turnover. General Motors and Algoma Steel were each down a point. Chateau-Gai gained ½ to a new high for the year of $17.

In base metals, Maybrun traded more than 300,000 shares for a four-cent gain to 88 cents. Losers included Mackeno, Nama, Quebec Nickel and Opemiska.

In uraniums Can-Met traded over 20,000 shares for a gain of 25 cents to $3.35 after touching 3.45. Algcm, Gunnar and Nesbitt Labine were ahead.

In golds New Athona, New Alger, Bralorne, Negus and Macassa were up.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to $1 a hundredweight lower this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were slow at steady prices. Hogs were 50 to 75 cents a hundredweight higher while sheep and lambs were unchanged.

The run of cattle was some 1,800 head less than last week and nearly 600 head less than the same week in 1954. Receipts from western Canada were only 473 compared to 909 head last week. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were only half that of last week at seven carloads. There were no exports to the United States.

Hot, humid weather over last weekend sharply curtailed the movement of dressed beef. Despite the comparatively light run, buyers entered lower bids resulting in dull trade throughout the week.

Choice steers upwards of 1,150 pounds sold at $19-19.50 with some sales to $20. This is 50 cents to $1 under prices paid for comparable quality up to 1,150 pounds. The latter weight of choice steers and also heifers up to 1,000 pounds sold steady to 50 cents a hundredweight lower.

Medium grades of slaughter steers and heifers held fairly steady throughout the week. Fed yearlings also held steady.

Hardest hit of the slaughter cattle were cows. Good cows registered losses up to $1 a hundredweight while in between grades equalled this loss and more.

Bulls were slow all week and sold at prices 5 cents a hundredweight lower. Estimated carryover at the close was 600 cattle, mostly stockers.

Prices—Choice steers, up to 1,150 lb., $20-20.50; with one load of 961-lb. steers selling at $21; good steers $19-20; with mediums $17-19; commons $14-17; choice heifers $18.50-19; good heifers $17-18; mediums $14-17; commons $12-14; choice fed yearlings $20-21; good fed yearlings $19-20; with mediums at $17-19; good cows $13-13.50; with odd tops to $14; canner and cutter cows down to $8; good heavy bologna bulls $14-14.50; with good light butcher bulls to $15; commons and medium light bulls down to $10.

Replacement Cattle: This class was in narrow demand in spite of stockers being offered and sold at $1 a hundredweight under last week's level. The general quality was not as good as in the last few weeks. Good stockers and short-keep feeders sold $19-20; medium stockers $18-19; commons $17-18.

Calf receipts were about 250 head less than last week. All grades continued to sell slowly at steady prices. Good and choice vealers $20-22; mediums $15-20; commons $10-15; grass calves $10-11.

Hog receipts were slightly higher than last week. Grade A hogs closed 50 cents a hundredweight higher at $30.50 with three loads out at $30.75. Sows were 50 cents a hundredweight higher at $19.50 dressed while stags remained unchanged at $14.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were some 250 head more than last week. Good lambs continued to sell at $26 a hundredweight. Common and medium lambs ranged from $14-24. Good light sheep were generally $8 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 53; A medium 50; A small 34; B 38; C 30. Wholesale to retail: A medium 55; A small 39; B 43; C 35.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56, ungraded, off truck 55¾; western 58¼ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1⅝ per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon EDT, today. Thursday's noon rate was 98⅜ cents. Pound sterling was $2.74⅛ against $1.74 1-16.

CBC Will Present Molotov Interview

TORONTO. — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will appear on Canadian radio and television on Sunday, when he will face a panel of newsmen on a press conference broadcast from San Francisco.

Originating on TV at 4.30 p.m. E.D.T., on the Columbia Broadcasting System's Face the Nation program the broadcast will be carried in Canada on a delayed basis at 10.30 p.m. E.D.T. on the CBC's Trans-Canada and television networks.

It will be Mr. Molotov's first press conference on radio and TV in North America.

Five Break-Ins Admitted By Accused in Court

Pleading guilty to five breakins, three at the Hollywood -Maxwell company plant on Water Street, and two at Riggs Service Station on Pinnacle Street, George William Dainard, 33, of West Moira Street, was remanded until Tuesday for sentence when he appeared in magistrate's court today.

Dainard was apprehended in Toronto as he attempted to pass a cheque drawn on the local Hollywood-Maxwell factory.

Police detective Sgt. Harold Reid said that the Hollywood-Maxwell factory had been entered twice during May and again early in June, with cash being taken on the first two occasions. The third break-in saw an attempt to open the office safe and when this proved unsuccessful eight blank company pay cheques were taken.

The cheques were made out by the accused on the office cheque protector. Later one had been cashed in Kingston, one in Belleville and another in Trenton. Four of the cheques had been destroyed by Dainard after being made out incorrectly on the cheque protector.

The court was told that Dainard had previously been employed at both Hollywood-Maxwell Station on Pinnacle Street,

Papers May Not Use Police Calls Proposal Made

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal under which it may be illegal for newspapers to make use of police calls was approved Thursday by the Senate transport committee.

The proposal, described by transport department witnesses as intended to ensure the privacy of radio communications, is contained in radio act amendments. It would make it illegal for unauthorized persons to use or pass on any overheard private radio communication.

Officials said the types of radio communication the bill would apply to are police calls, radio-telephone messages, taxi-radio calls or radio reports by mining company prospecting crews.

The proposed change would not apply to messages transmitted by commercial broadcasting stations, distress signals or ship warnings of hazards to navigation.

Tourist's Son Drowns in Trent

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP)—The three-year-old son of a U.S. tourist was drowned in the Trent river near here Thursday.

Stephen Tood Rhoads, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rhoads of Kent, Ohio, is believed to have fallen in the water while playing on the river banks.

Bowling News

A busy week-end is in store for the bowlers of this district. On Saturday afternoon a mixed doubles tournament will be played in Brighton and many pairs from the Belleville club are entered in this popular tourney. There will be a double draw with the first draw to start as close to one o'clock as possible in order to finish before the midnight hour. Valuable prizes are being offered and everyone is looking forward to this tourney.

Thanks Bob Carter. This is the general feeling of the club members as they surveyed the beautiful clean white fence that now surrounds the bowling greens. The members attempted to hold a bee and paint the fence and on Wednesday evening, Bob Carter, painter and decorator in the city, arrived on the scene with a helper and all the latest gadgets for painting. With the help of the members, Bob and his helper practically finished the job in one night. It was a fine gesture on the part of Mr. Carter, a loyal member of the club. The work is the result of co-operation, which surely abounds in the local club.

On Tuesday afternoon the women's section of the club held a trebles tournament with seventeen rinks in attendance. The tourney was interrupted on several occasions by the heavy storm that passed over the city, but the women were able to complete the games. Between the second and third games a delightful supper was served in the clubhouse and everyone enjoyed the day's outing. Mrs. Charles Hyde with a rink of Mrs. Myrtle Smith and Mrs. Elsie Humphreys won the three-game high score with Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. W. Duncan and Mrs. Mary Edney of Kingston being second. Mrs. George Watkin with Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Orlo Smith of the local club, won the two-game high score, while a Kingston rink skipped by Mrs. Hall won the one-game high. The prizes were distributed at the end of play and the thanks of the club were extended to those attending.

On Thursday afternoon the women held forth at the greens with Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Rita Lloyd as winners and Mrs. Helen Buchanan, Mrs. H. Boyle and Mrs. Charles Hyde in second place. The third winners were Mrs. Easton, Mrs. Elsie Humphreys and Mrs. J. Scott. The bridge winners were Mrs. McDougall, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. W. Colby, Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Countryman.

Hostesses for the delightful tea which followed were Mrs. C. L. Hyde, Mrs. G. Watkin, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. W. Gilbert. These afternoon bowling sessions are eagerly looked forward to by the women members of the club. The greens were excellent and some close scores were recorded.

On Saturday afternoon one of the looked for contests takes place at the Trenton Bowling Club. This is the occasion of the inter-provincial bowling match between 24 players from the Province of Quebec and the same number from Ontario. This is a rink competition and the trophy for which they are playing was donated by Cliff Argue, past president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association. The trophy becomes the property of the winning team for a year but a perpetual reminder is a shield also donated by Mr. Argue.

A. A. McLeish, president of the LPBA, will be on hand to welcome the visitors from the neighboring province on behalf of the Ontario bowlers, and the Trenton club is making preparations for an entertaining afternoon.

Only one game of 21 ends will be played and at the end of the 11th end, the bowlers will break off for tea and then the game will be concluded. In the evening a banquet will be held at the Country Club.

END OF COLD

The Austrian treaty should have been signed years ago, but it was delayed while one of its occupying powers exploited its economy for a decade.

Yugoslav-Soviet relations have been improved but they were bad in the first place only because Yugoslavia had broken away from "an alien yoke."

Recent Soviet overtures to West Germany and Japan came only after years of abuse and hostility from Russia.

Then Dulles listed five major problems, which he hinted he would like to see tackled by the "summit" meeting of the Big Four in Geneva next month. He did not list them specifically as agenda items, but he enumerated them as he led into his discussion of the Geneva talks.

They are: unification of Germany; the problem of the eastern European satellites of Russia; Communist China's use of force and threats of force in Korea, Indochina and Formosa; efforts of "international communism" to overthrow governments by conspiracy; disarmament.

It was here that Dulles asserted the cold war can be ended by halting the use of force and subversion.

"It is in that spirit that we go to Geneva," he said, "and we hope to find that spirit shared.

"If so, we can find there new procedures, or at least develop a new impetus, which will help to solve some of these vast and stubborn problems that still confront us."

Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay of France Thursday rejected two major points made by Molotov Wednesday.

Pinay said his government ruled out the "senselessness" of a neutralized Germany. He also said France refuses to acknowledge that there are foreign military bases in a NATO country.

Today's crowded speaking program winds up the round of policy declarations by the 60 UN members, and leaves only the closing ceremonies Sunday to conclude the week-long session.

A number of delegations are working behind the scenes on a peace declaration to be read by the president, Dr. Eelco N. van Kleffens, at the Sunday meeting. It is hoped that a draft can be worked out that would meet the approval of all and could be adopted without a formal vote, pledging all UN members to do their best to promote peace.

A DIFFICULT POLITICAL PROBLEM

One of the most vocal of British newspapers in the support of the Conservative cause in the recent election was "The Recorder," London weekly.

Now The Recorder raises a crucial point.

"The Socialist tide has receded," it says. "The country is assured of Conservative rule for the next four or five years. Now is the time to begin thinking about the line-up of forces at the next general election. The country still lives under a shadow—the shadow that the only alternate government to the Conservatives remains a Socialist government."

This problem is not new—but for that very reason it is becoming increasingly essential that it be faced and that, if possible, some solution be discovered.

Past events have proven that the problem is not quite so serious as some political students once imagined.

A few years ago the point at issue was whether a country's economy could survive alternating control by parties guided by opposing economic principles.

Events seem to indicate that it can. The experiences of Britain and New Zealand are both cases in point. In both lands Labor parties have held power and have relinquished it at the behest of the electors. There was none of those moves to abolish democracy which some of the Socialists' opponents had freely predicted if the Labor parties ever gained power.

But while it appears possible for a country to switch from a free enterprise economy to a Socialist-guided economy and back again, there will be few people who will contend that it is desirable. A severe strain is placed on the economy during the periods of transition.

Moreover, even if this strain did not develop, it is defeating the purpose of democracy to force the electors to switch economic horses merely to change governments. In any democratic country there will inevitably arrive a time when the government needs to be changed and the people know that it needs to be changed. That does not mean, however, that there will exist at the same time any necessity to change the whole basis of the country's economy, or that every voter who wants the government changed will also desire a change in the nation's economic policies.

At present, in Britain, the only political parties capable of ruling are the Conservatives and the Laborites. If a Conservative government is in power, voters must accept a Socialist regime if they desire to oust it. Similarly, if the Labor party is in power, the electors cannot change the government without changing to a free enterprise economy.

It is unquestionably true, as The Recorder says, that "what the country needs is a new party, firmly opposed to Socialism but with a policy and program lively, exciting and logical enough to appeal to millions" as an alternative to the Conservative government.

But the rise of any such party, by splitting the anti-Labor vote, under the present system of voting would almost certainly result in the Labor party regaining power.

It is true that this might be avoided by the formation of a second Socialist party, just as badly needed by Socialist voters as an alternative to the Labor party as an alternative to the Conservatives is needed by anti-Socialist voters.

It is unlikely, however, that the development of these two needed alternative parties could ever proceed at such a well-timed pace that one would off-set the other in the matter of vote splitting.

It follows that the only alternative is some system of proportional representation, or of transferring votes.

Proportional representation, tried in many countries, has the failing of promoting the existence of small splinter groups, thus endangering the stability of governments by forcing them to depend on coalitions.

The same objection does not apply with such force to the transferable vote, although it, too, under certain circumstances may provide a closer balance between the contending parties. Where this results in a stronger Opposition, this is all to the good. But sometimes it may result in the necessity of governing through a coalition.

At the same time, transferred votes occasion some surprises to many observers, because when it comes to politics people have different ideas of what is logical.

For instance, after the Ontario election there was some talk by those opposed to the Frost Government about the fact that, despite the few Opposition members elected, there were more votes cast for Opposition candidates than for Government candidates.

A shrewd reader of a Toronto newspaper was able to cite statistics to show that not all CCF voters consider the Liberals preferable to the Progressive Conservatives and not all Liberals dislike the Progressive Conservatives more than they do the CCF. Had the transferrable vote been in effect in Ontario, the government's majority might have been reduced, but it is extremely unlikely that it would have been eliminated.

The problem faced by Britain exists, in principle, in Canada also, but it is nowhere nearly as acute here. Canadians will thus be able to await the results of whatever moves the British make in an effort to solve it.

The secret ballot reveals one of man's queerest quirks. He will go to war and die for it but won't go to the polls and use it.

JUST FOLKS

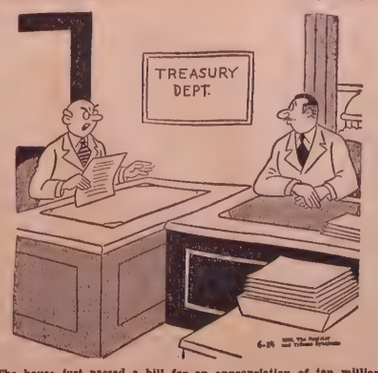
THE UMPIRE'S FRIEND



I've never shouted, "Robber!" at an umpire in my life;
Never said he made decisions just to satisfy his wife.
I may have thought the runner safe when "out" he raised his hand,
But he was standing near the base and I was in the stand.

I've often watched the home team lose, since that is bound to be,
And with the umpires now and then I couldn't quite agree.
I may have thought they made mistakes, but they were in command,
And they were on the field of play and I was in the stand.

I've never shrieked at them in rage. I've never called them blind.
I know to criticism harsh they all must be resigned.
I know they can be wrong at times, and that they all admit,
But they can better see than I, while in the stand I sit.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 24, 1935

Members of the Masonic Order from this city and district to the number of 250 observed the anniversary of St. John the Baptist by attending John Street United Church Sunday morning. Welcome was extended to the members of the Order by the pastor, the Rev. Robert Hall, and the sermon was delivered by the District Chaplain of the Order, Bishop Marshall of Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD PROVIDES

Every day of my life I wonder at all that goes on in nature and how miraculous is the life there. J.G. Holland, one of our earliest poets, and I believe the very first biographer of Abraham Lincoln, said this: "God gives every bird its food but he does not throw it into the nest."

Birds and animals, and even the tiniest insects, have to provide their own living. I have watched various birds build their nests, hatch their young and feed them all day long—and exactly the food they should have.

I have been watching a pair of starlings who built a nest under the eaves of the roof of my home, near where I shave every morning, and I have been intrigued at their selection of such a difficult place to enter. But now I hear the chirps of the young and watch the mother bird keep appearing with food, but I am puzzled as to how the little family will get from that high place to mother earth. I'll wait and see.

I am sure it was God who first arranged the way of life for all living things in nature—and this applies universally. I would like to know who taught the spider to weave such a delicate, silken thing as its web, sparkling in the morning sunlight? If not God, then who? Birds must enjoy supporting themselves or they wouldn't sing so happily day in and out. I wouldn't be surprised but what they suspect that there is a God who tells them how to feed themselves and their broods!

Politicians Too Reticent

(Ottawa Journal)

Always there are politicians aching ot be Cabinet ministers but sometimes we wonder why.

Mr. Pearson, after long and important meetings of the NATO council in Paris, went to London for consultations and speeches and, without pause, took plane and was dropped at Rockcliffe 13 hours later.

There at 8 a.m. reporters were waiting, and a television camera. Now reporters don't care very much how a minister looks at eight in the morning after a fatiguing trip and if he doesn't smile (Mr. Pearson always smiles) they understand and sympathize.

But the television camera has no sympathy. It demands smiles and intelligence and good looks at any hour of the day or night. For Mr. Pearson, amiable by nature, it was easier than for others but we look forward eagerly to the tired statesman who kicks the lens out of an airport television camera and goes on his unshaven, bad-tempered way, a human creature being normal.

The Arena Question

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Quoting from page 3, column 6 of Tuesday's paper "And if there were no senior hockey, the Arena could not be operated at a profit."

There are many in the city who are of the impression that your paper earlier in the year reported a council meeting when it was stated that the senior hockey club lost money this past season.

Among those interested in the apparently opposite statements are some who have indicated good faith by attending many of the games. Our interest and support is not stimulated by the apparent confusion.

Possibly your paper can do a public service by clarifying this situation.

"A Hockey Fan".

The contradiction between the fact that the senior hockey club lost money last year and the claim that the arena could not be operated at a profit without senior hockey is more apparent than real.

This arena is unlikely to meet expenses without revenue from senior hockey. A comparable situation exists with respect to most arenas, with hockey revenue almost always playing a major role in their financing. If hockey loses money the arena loses money, if the arena sponsors the hockey team.

Last year there was no person willing to sponsor the senior hockey club. The arena commission decided to sponsor the club itself. If the club had made money, the commission's share of the gate receipts would have avoided the small loss which would almost certainly have resulted had there been no senior hockey team here. But the hockey club lost money. The commission not only had to turn back all its normal share of the gate receipts to operate the hockey club, but had to provide additional funds to operate the club. As a result, the arena's loss as the result of operating the hockey club was larger than the probable loss on arena operations if no hockey club had been sponsored. In other words, the arena commission gambled on a successful financial season for the senior hockey club and lost. So the almost certain small loss became a bigger one.

The Belleville Memos Senior "B" hockey club lost $4,288.93 on 1954-55 operations.

The club, which was sponsored by the arena commission, had total receipts of $29,996.75.

Separate accounts kept by the arena commission and by the hockey team will show a loss to the city in excess of $16,000. Reason for the loss is that total receipts were spent by the hockey team plus $4,288.93.

Receipts were divided on a 60-40 basis with the hockey team getting 60 per cent and the arena commission 40 per cent for rental. Had a private sponsor supported the hockey team arena commission rentals would have been 40 per cent of $29,996.75 or approximately $12,000.

Until three years ago the hockey team and the arena split receipts on a 50-50 basis. In the 1952-53 season a new 60-40 arrangement was made with the arena commission agreeing to take a maximum of $500 per game. The arena commission agreed to pay advertising costs from its 40 per cent.

Cost of referees was taken off the top of the gate before receipts were divided.

In the 1953-54 season, on the same 60-40 arrangement, the city netted approximately $1,000 total on hockey operations. It has been pointed out that in the 1953-54 season 40 per cent of receipts would have been approximately $6,000.

In 1954 the arena showed a loss on total operations for the first time in nearly a decade. Book loss for 1954 financial year was $10,379.90. The arena made a profit of $190.63 on all operations in 1953 after showing a profit of several thousand dollars in each of the preceding six years.

Reason for the sudden decline in profit in 1953 was the payment of $7,275 debenture charges from operating revenues. In 1954 a debenture payment of approximately $7,000, an increase in insurance payments of $2,000 on the arena building and payment of amusement taxes of $2,200 for wrestling accounted for increased expenditures at a time when gate receipts for hockey and wrestling were declining.

Payment of the amusement tax on wrestling was brought about by reclassification of the arena by the provincial government.

Profits from the arena since 1947 have been: 1947, $9,421.79; 1948, $10,827.06; 1949, $15,025.27; 1950, $9,715.36; 1951, $6,664.11; 1952, $8,204.86; 1953, $190.63. Total profit was $60,048.88.

In 1946 the city purchased the arena and the property on which it is located for $40,000.

Today the arena and its equipment has a book value of $125,-634.59. This estimate of the arena's worth includes an evaluation of $2,000 for the arena site, $41,325.77 for the building and approximately $82,000 for equipment.

The original purchase price of $40,000, plus the $60,000 profit which the arena put back into capital investment, plus a $30,000 debenture issue to meet capital expenses, accounts for the estimated value of $125,634.59 which the arena represents on the city's ledger.

Declining revenues in the past three years have reflected decreasing attendance at senior hockey games, wrestling, and Trent Valley Hockey League play-offs.

Watch Chain Of Other Days

(Windsor Star)

In the days of our youth the "man of distinction" wasn't the one who could afford the best brand of booze and hold it well. He was the fellow who sported a heavy gold watch chain, replete with fancy fob.

This was no delicately fabricated chain. It was a miniature logging chain, though of high carat gold. It was made to link securely a large watch in one vest pocket with the fob or other gadget in the other pocket.

It was made to be seen and admired. It was seen to best advantage when stretched across a capacious, well-fed stomach. It designated the wearer (in his opinion at least) as a man of substance and of character. Even though characters such as card sharps and confidence men also wore one.

Those were the days of gold-filled teeth. A man with plenty of gold in his teeth and a fine gold watch chain could smile benevolently on his fellow men. Or he snobbishly could look down his nose at them.

Those also were the days when gold was dug to be used, even in gold coins. It was before the great economic discovery that it is sound practice to mine gold from one hole, refine it and then put it in another hole in the ground. To the economically illiterate the old idea of mining gold for use, instead of disuse, still makes some sense. A gold watch chain added more to the dignity of man than gold buried in a well-guarded hide-away.

Selective Cutting

(Port Arthur News Chronicle)

Selective cutting is reported to doube the productivity of most woodlots over a 50-year span. The poor and defective trees can be cut for firewood, leaving the more valuable ones to produce sawlogs. Trees should be left spaced closely enough to become tall, straight stems for timber, yet not so crowded that they will slow each other down.

When Seas Were Busier

(St. John's News)

Forty years ago a thousand vessels sailed from Newfoundland to take part in the Labrador and Bank fisheries. Of these 900 went north and the rest to the various dory-fishing grounds. But both these ventures have declined to the point where at last they seem to constitute a vanished tradition.

Time was in the memory of many now living in St. John's when the harbor at this time of the year was filled with Labrador vessels, discharging birch junks and lumber and taking on salt and supplies. In the harbor mouth small schooners could be daily seen tacking as they manoeuvred to catch the wind.

In the port itself the cordage and sailmaking industries flourished, blacksmiths were busy forging ship's ironworks and Water Street was thronged by cheerful men in blue guernseys and moleskin trousers.

The first great change came between the wars. Power began rapidly to replace sail. Shrinking demand for early shipments of wet-salted fish straight from the Labrador coast and ultimate decline in the demand for all qualities of Labrador fish reduced the number of vessels to a quarter of their former total.

The final change came about in the past ten years with draggers replacing the dorymen on the Banks and low prices and uneconomic costs virtually extinguishing the annual summer tranfishery along the coast of Labrador. A prosperous island today may not even have a sight to spare for the disappearance of another of Newfoundland's ancient and colorful traditions.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Vitamin A and Neuralgic Headache

A lady, age 55, (she says) writes:

"Thank you, Dr. Brady! I have suffered with headaches for twenty-five years."

"No doctor has been able to help me. Empirin" (mixture of phenacetin, aspirin and caffeine) "with codein" (alkaloid of opium, the methyl ester of morphine) "would take the edge off the headache temporarily, but the pain often persisted for a week at a time, and even in between times I would have a slight headache which would respond to milder pain relievers.

"Here are some of the treatments that failed: Estrogen shots; home administered traction, that is, neck stretching; osteopathic treatments; allergy tests and $280 worth of antigen injections; antihistamines.

"Finally I tried your suggestion or vitamin A.".

"I haven't taken codeine since January, when I started the vitamin A treatment, nor have I had a bad headache since then.

"My husband is so delighted with my improvement that he has been urging me to write to you. Again—I thank you!"

The vitamin A (natural vitamin A, not pro-vitamin or just carotene) treatment was the suggestion of Edward Mellanby, F. R. C.P., F.R.S., M.D., the British nutrition authority.

Who called vitamin A a remedy? Certainly not I. Nor did Mellanby. Aykroyd did, to be sure, when he described the effect of the vitamin on night blindness:

"The writer" (Aykroyd, Vitamins and Other Dietary Essentials) "has sometimes given Newfoundland fishermen, victims of 'night-blindness,' a single tablespoonful of cod liver oil, with the gratifying result that they were able to see on the subsequent night. There are, one fears, few other remedies in medicine so rapid and reliable."

Remember, then, you can't "try" the vitamin A treatment in less than three months; if the treatment does no good, at any rate it can do no harm; a hundred thousand units of vitamin A a day isn't an enormous amount if you compare it with the three hundred million red corpuscles in a single drop of blood; only part of the carotene (pro-vitamin) one gets from green leaves, red and yellow fruits and vegetables, can be converted into real vitamin A in the healthy body; the easiest pure vitamin A to take is crystalline vitamin A acetate in tasteless tablets called Nio-A-Lets; and the richest food sources of vitamin A are milk (fat, cream, butter), egg (yolk), liver, kidney, halibut, herring, sardines and fish-liver oil.

Mellanby recommended, for multiple sclerosis, this high vitamin A diet:

1 to 2 pints of milk daily
2 eggs daily
Liver, green vegetables and carrots, plus two drams of cod-liver oil (half a tablespoonful) twice daily.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GREAT PEACETIME HERO

Almost a hundred years ago Dr. Edward L. Trudeau was graduated from medical school with every prospect that he would die of tuberculosis within a few months. When shortly after graduation he did break down, he went to the Adirondacks and there, fighting this dread disease for more than forty years, he taught his generation the only technique known at that time to be effective against tuberculosis. From a little hunting lodge he expanded his equipment into a sanitarium, respected by the medical profession and beloved by thousands who had been rescued from death by its treatment.

Trudeau not only had to fight tuberculosis himself, but he saw several of his loved ones die of the dread disease.

He went to the mountains to die and there found the beginning of a new life. According to all calculations, he should have passed away while still very young; he lived to a mature age and stood out in his generation as one of humanity's great benefactors. Even more significant than victory over tuberculosis were the victories he declared he had beheld of spirit over body among those whom he had learned to love. He called it "the victory of the Nazarene; which ever speaks its great message to the ages."

Medicine has advanced far beyond Dr. Trudeau's treatment, but the courage and dedication of this servant of mankind can never be surpassed.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The public relations director of one of Canada's biggest public utilities says that his chief problem is to prevent the employes of the corporation from acting as if they were doing a favor to the customers.

"Railroads, airlines, telephone systems and other utilities that are more or less monopolies in their fields, all have this same problem. The newer employees naturally discover, before they have been working long, that the customer is in the position of having to take it or leave it. And there is a natural instinct in almost all human beings to take a good deal of pleasure in giving. These two factors lead almost inevitably to a little touch of the grand manner. The next thing you know, you have a whole counterful of clerks behaving as if they were doing the customers a favor when they make a reservation or render any of the other services for which the company exists.

"And if there is anything worse for business, especially monopolistic business, than to have the public irritated by this air of condescension, I don't know what it is. During the war, when the hotel accommodation of this country was woefully short, the hotel industry got into the habit of doing everybody a favor by letting them have a room. This built up a quiet resentment in the minds of thousands of people who, soon after the war, when the motel and motor court idea got started, became prompt customers of the new service and provided the early support for it that was essential to its present growth and prosperity. I have the notion that the great expansion of the supermarket idea after the war was in some measure due to the decline of friendly feeling between customers and small merchants during the war, when some if not many of the merchants adopted the air of doing people a favor in selling them groceries and meat. For the friendly feeling between customer and businessman in any line of commerce is vastly more important than is generally supposed.

"And nothing irks a customer more than being served as though being done a favor by some insignificant squirt."

MARSH HILL

Bride-to-Be Showered With Gifts

MARSH HILL. — Mrs. Allyn Finkle was hostess at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Verna Sherry, bride of the month with 18 ladies present.

The following program was enjoyed by all.

Contest "Bridal of Flowers" and reading "Sharing Husband", by Mrs. Allyn Finkle; reading, "Advice to Her", by Mrs. Alan Baxter; reading "About Husbands," by Mrs. Cecil Arthurs; contest, "Lover's Vocabulary" by Mrs. Finkle and reading, "On the Deafness of Husbands", by Mrs. Reg. Scott.

The oral contest was conducted by Mrs. Roy Bartlett.

SHOWERED WITH CONFETTI

The bride-to-be was then showered with confetti from broken balloons. The gifts were presented to Verna by Mrs. Stan Dier and Mrs. Allyn Finkle.

After opening the gifts, she thanked everyone for them.

After singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow", refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Roy Bartlett and Mrs. Stan Dier.

Mrs. Stan Sherry, mother of the bride-to-be, thanked the hostess and everyone for making the evening an enjoyable one.

IVANHOE

Pastor, Wife Honored With Gifts

IVANHOE.— Beulah United W.M.S. held at the spacious home of Mrs. S. Twiddy on Tuesday afternoon was well attended.

The president, Mrs. Percy Cooney, presided. The meeting opened with the singing of "We Give Thee but Thine Own". The Rev. T. Hagerwaard led in prayer.

A short business session was held. Plans were made for the bazaar to be held in the fall. Bale secretary requested all articles be brought in as soon as possible.

A committee was named to purchase a church carpet. Members of the committee are: Mrs. S. Twiddy, Mrs. Goldie McInroy, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. Don Reid and P. M. Wood. Mrs. S. Twiddy led in prayer.

GIFTS PRESENTED

The Rev. and Mrs. T. Hagerwaard were given seats of honor and Mrs. Keith Bray read an address in appreciation of their fine qualities of leadership and missionary zeal. A table lamp and guest book were presented by Mrs. S. Twiddy.

Mr. Hagerwaard, in expressing thanks for the gifts, said "One thing strikes me in Canada, more than in any other country I have visited, and that is the prominent place the women occupy in the life of the church. May God's blessing rest upon your society and may the good work go on and on."

The program was conducted by Mrs. Donald Reid, who read a poem "Love". "God is Love" was sung and prayer offered for the missionaries. Readings were given by Mrs. Earl Benson "The Little Boy Who Didn't Pass" and by Mrs. J. Wickens, "Loving My Neighbor". Scripture lesson, John 16 was read by Mrs. Harold Reid.

A helpful study on "Love" was given by Mrs. A. Wood. A piano solo, "La Violetta" was given by Mrs. Keith Bray.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Love Divine All Love Excelling" and prayer.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL.— Mr. and Mrs. William Slater, John and Sheila, were guests on Sunday of Mr. Keeble, Mountain View.

Mr. Orval Harvey and his mother of Brighton, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Breeze.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Shaw of Ivanhoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finkle and girls, attended the Masonic service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Sunday morning and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Boulter Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston of Harold.

QUEENSBORO

Many Guests Attend 25th Anniversary

QUEENSBORO — On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmes celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at the home of Mrs. R. A. Sager.

The rooms were decorated with baskets of red and white peonies and white daisies.

Mrs. Geo. Glover welcomed the guests at the door. They were then received by Mr. and Mrs. Holmes.

Mrs. Holmes was dressed in pink and white nylon and her corsage was of pink roses.

At five o'clock 28 guests sat down to a bountiful dinner served by Mrs. Ken Broad, Misses Barbara Sager and Karen Ash, nieces of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by white tapers.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS PRESENT

Except for the groomsman, Mr. Ed. Holmes, the bridal attendants of 25 years ago were all present. They were: maid of honor, Mrs. Arthur Baker, Oshawa, (nee Sadie Bird); bridesmaid, Mrs. Harry Hass, Cooper, (nee Vera Canniff); flower girl, Mrs. Ken Cassidy, Queensboro, (nee Bernice Sager) and pianist, Mrs. Ed. Holmes, Lake Simcoe, (nee Vera Masters). Two of those who helped serve 25 years ago were also present. These were: Mrs. Ken Gordon, (nee Irene Tennyson), and Mrs. Durland Adams, Madoc, (nee Mabel Tennyson).

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were "at home" to their friends in the evening when Mrs. Will Holmes, Mrs. Goldie Holmes, Mrs. Will Lynn, Mrs. Allen Sager and Mrs. G. Glover poured tea and served.

Mrs. R. A. Sager and Claire Holmes welcomed the guests in the evening.

The kitchen was in charge of members of Queensboro W.A. during the afternoon and evening.

Guests were from Toronto, Roches Point, Oshawa, Belleville, Halloway, Madoc, Cooper and Queensboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were recipients of many good wishes and gifts.

Marysville

MARYSVILLE. — A life long resident of the community, Mr. Thomas Currie, passed away suddenly at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston, on Friday. His funeral was held Monday morning from St. Mary's church, Marysville, where all his family was present.

Miss Margaret McAlpine, Belleville, spent the week-end in Marysville, with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leo McAlpine.

Mr. and Mrs. William McAuley entertained company from Toronto, over the week-end.

Sorry to report Mr. James McCambridge is a patient in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

Miss Joan Walsh enjoyed the week-end at her home in Marysville.

Miss Kay McAuley, St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McAuley over the week-end.

A large number of the young people from the community attended the shower in Read parish hall on Friday evening for the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nash. The young couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

MARSH HILL

Pine Grove W.I. Hears Interesting Talk

MARSH HILL — The June meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John Brown with an attendance of 12 members and one visitor.

Mrs. Grace Bartindale, president, presided, and opened the meeting with the Opening Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect in unison.

The roll call was "Name a Cabinet Minister and His Portfolio."

Current events were given by Mrs. Harold Detlor.

The report of the District Annual was given by Mrs. Farley Lindenfield.

Mrs. W. Slater, citizenship convener, presided over the program.

CITIZENSHIP PAPER READ

Mrs. Harry Coulter read a short paper on "Citizenship." Citizenship is actually being a member of Canada. This membership is either inherited by birth or is acquired by seeking and being received as a Canadian. It grants many privileges — freedom of religion and of speech, and free government.

"What is a Canadian?" was read by Mrs. Alex Tanner.

"A Creed for Canadians" was read by Mrs. W. Slater.

Mrs. G. Bartindale then gave her report on "Family Living," which she had attended during the winter.

Security, according to the report, is very necessary to a child's well-being. If he doesn't have it, he is frightened, shy or very aggressive as his personality develops.

Stealing seems natural for some children who have never had what they wanted at home and don't realize when they are stealing. We should find out why they act that way and fill the need.

People are never hopeless. There is always something that can be done to help, but they must feel the need for a change and speak of it.

NEED COMMON STANDARD

If parents have a common standard and try to live up to it, children will do the same.

During the group age there is the gang and everything is gauged by the gang approval. If the gang are Boy Scouts or Girl Guides, or belong to church groups, their leisure time is taken up, leaving no time for badness.

Youth and adolescence do not set standards too high. It is easier to raise sights if the youth has conquered.

Children change and will have several heroes in the course of time. No one hero lasts long. It used to be a child was influenced by church and school, but now we have radio, television and reading.

It is a good idea to talk over our troubles since they aren't so bad if shared. We should point out to children that there are all kinds of people in the world but we don't have to act as the bad ones do.

A good home is one that everyone in the home has helped build up, and will feel it is theirs. The same applies to the community. All who are proud of home and community will hesitate to do anything to lower the standards.

Each one should feel responsible for consequences of his actions. If we all felt this responsibility we would have a better world.

After the singing of the National Anthem and the Institute Grace, refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

COOL WATER—Ensuring that their club's swimming pool will be continuously supplied with fresh water during the summer is this quintet of Kinsmen checking the pool's filtration plant. Left to right are Murray Hunter, Art Bridge, Alfie Smith, Don Bacon and John Fisher.

The pool opened recently for another busy season in providing a handy cooling ground for Bellevillians. Last year some 16,000 children used the pool and received free swimming lessons while some 25,000 paid admissions were received at the turnstiles. This year will probably be busier than ever. The free swimming lessons to kids, given every week from Monday through Friday will be continued under supervision of the pool's lifeguards.

The filtration plant pictured above pumps an estimated 12,500 gallons of water an hour into the 150,000-gallon pool.

3 Italian-Born Youths May Be Deported

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow said Thursday he will apply to the department of immigration for deportation of three Italian-born youths who appeared in his court.

The three young men, Giacinto Simone, 22, Frank Suppa, 22, and Pasquale Ranucci, 20, were convicted on charges of causing a disturbance and malicious damage following a fight last week in a restaurant here. Simone was sentenced to six months, Suppa to five and Ranucci to four.

Following the magistrate's announcement that he would seek a deportation order against him, Suppa leaped to his feet and sobbed as he implored for permission to stay in Canada. The magistrate made no comment.

FAVOR REBUILDING

KITCHENER (CP) — Tentative approval for the rebuilding and enlarging of the Kitchener-Waterloo Granite Club was given Thursday night at a meeting of the K-W Athletic Association. The association is the controlling body of the curling and badminton clubs, damaged by fire this year. The approval of the shareholders rests on the ability of directors to arrange a plan for raising the money.

HOSPITAL CROWDED

SUDBURY (CP)—The board of directors of the Sudbury-Algoma Sanatorium Thursday night issued an appeal to doctors to refrain from sending patients to the overcrowded hospital. Decrease in TB cases has resulted in empty beds in some sans, particularly in southern Ontario, the directors said. The Sudbury-Algoma san is one of the few suffering from overcrowding, they said.

JUST MINUTES APART

TORONTO (CP) — Two sisters gave birth to children minutes apart Thursday. Mrs. Stanley Bowman, 19, and her 23-year-old sister, Mrs. Gordon Willson became mothers of a girl and a boy, respectively in the space of 17 minutes.

Weddings

NASH—KEHOE

Pink peonies and yellow roses adorned the altar of St. Charles' Catholic church, Read, Ontario, on Saturday, June 11, at 9 a.m., when the Rev. I. Donahue, united in marriage Anne Madeline Kehoe of Read, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kehoe, to Francis Leo Nash of Lonsdale, son of Mrs. Thomas Nash and the late Mr. Nash.

Mr. William Hanley presided at the organ and rendered the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white, street length gown of nylon, with matching headdress and veil of tulle illusion. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Miss Mary Kehoe of Read, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, attired in light blue nylon in street length, with matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of pastel-tinted sweetpeas.

Little Colleen Kehoe, niece of the bride, was sweet in her yellow nylon frock and white headdress. She carried a nosegay of tinted sweetpeas.

Mr. Roy Plews of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Gerald Brennan of Read, and Mr. Leon McGuinness of Marysville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at the bride's home, where Mrs. Kehoe, wearing navy blue sheer, with corsage of red roses, received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Nash who was gowned in grey flowered sheer with corsage of red roses.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and Rochester, N.Y., the bride chose a pink nylon dress with white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Nash are residing in Lonsdale, Ontario.

Guests were present from Belleville, Sarnia, Tweed, Marysville, Trenton and Petrolia.

Trousseau Tea Honors Future Bride-To-Be

FRANKFORD. — Mrs. Fred Charlesworth entertained at her home at a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Helen Charlesworth, whose marriage to Douglas Montgomery will take place on Saturday in Frankford United church.

Mrs. Charlesworth received with the bride-to-be and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. G. Montgomery.

Mrs. G. Gilmour and Mrs. E. Anderson were in charge of the trousseau.

The dining room was beautifully decorated in pink and white with pink flowers and the table, lovely with its white linen cloth, centred with a basket of roses, and silver candelabra with pink candles at each end.

Pouring tea were Mrs. H. Terry and Mrs. W. McLaren from 3 to 4 and Mrs. C. Frost and Mrs. J. F. Lane from 4 to 5. Those serving were Mrs. W. W. Lawrence, Mrs. J. Kelderman, Mrs. H. Rowe, Miss Helene Lane, Mrs. Albert Caskey, Mrs. Bruce Jandrew, and Mrs. T. Burkitt.

Anna Massey Hits Theatre, Social Headlines At Same Time

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Anna Massey, at 17 a star in her first stage appearance, looked happily at the 180 telegrams pinned on her dressing-room walls and sighed:

"Oh, it's the most gay, exciting and wonderful life."

And it must be. For the pert and pretty daughter of Toronto-born actor Raymond Massey has hit the theatre and social headlines in the same season.

In March she was presented to the Queen; in April she was accidentally spotted for a lead role in "The Reluctant Debutante," and in May she won rave reviews when the comedy opened in London's Cambridge theatre.

NEW TO STAGE

It's all the more amazing since she had not previously appeared on the stage in either amateur or professional productions.

Now the young lady appears headed for a brilliant future.

"And I want to do everything," she laughed, "musicals, television, Shakespeare."

At the moment, she's busy with eight theatre performances, about eight hours' dramatic, singing and dancing study and one or two debutante parties and balls each week.

"But I can't tax myself too much. I try to get to bed as early as possible and I'm learning to sleep late."

FILLS LONG AMBITION

Sudden success in the theatre has not startled Miss Massey as much as it might most 'teen-age girls.

"I've always wanted to go on the stage. I can remember acting to my dolls when I was about three or four and we've always had little family plays at Christmas."

Director of these home-grown dramas was her mother, the popular British actress Adrienne Allen, now married to international lawyer William Dwight Whitney.

Miss Massey's chance for stardom came unexpectedly this spring. She was attending a students' performance at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art when approached by playwright William Douglas Home and asked to audition for a part in "The Reluctant Debutante." A month's rehearsals and a try-out week in Brighton followed and then opening night in the west end.

WARMLY PRAISED

Telegrams arrived from so many well-wishers, including Sir Laurence Olivier, John Gielgud and Emlyn Williams, that the staff of the telegraphic office sent along their own congratulatory wire. Her father flew from the United States for the occasion.

London critics warmly received the play—now slated for a long and profitable run—and particularly praised her "delightful" and "enchanting" performance.

Debutantes Take 'Pep' Pills To See Them Through Season

By FERN RICH

LONDON (Reuters) — London's debutantes, fagged out from a nightly ordeal of balls and parties, are taking "pep" pills to see them through the last lap of the season.

Since March, the pretty teen-age daughters of the well-to-do or titled have been riding the social merry-go-round—an endurance test which ends next month with a visit to Buckingham Palace and a curtsey to the Queen.

To be considered in the swim, these 17 and 18-year-olds must show their faces — and newest gowns—at about five coming-out dances a week.

With only a few hours of the 24 allotted to sleep and a monotonous diet of champagne, chicken and caviar for nourishment, the girls are beginning to feel the strain of popularity. Sugar pills and benzedrine will keep most of them going until the season is over.

LONG WALKS

One survivor of this annual marathon, Anne Kahn, who came out in 1953, advises the younger generation: "Go for long walks from now on and you'll survive this last stretch."

She had no advice for worried but indulgent parents who spend spare moments totting up bills from the dressmaker, hairdresser, band leader and wine merchant.

To launch a deb these days a doting dad will spend an average of £500. For all the time, energy and money spent, the prize is the coveted unofficial title of "Deb of the year," captured this season by the Duchess of Argyll's daughter, Frances Sweeney.

Club Activities

EGGLETON MISSION BAND

The June meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school on Thursday afternoon with 27 children and three adults present.

The president Norma Woodcox presided over the program which she and Joyce Madill had prepared. The meeting opened with the hymn "I Can Hear My Saviour Calling" and all repeating The Lord's Prayer.

The Scripture lesson, Psalm 1, was read by Gary Phillips.

The singing by Shirley Prest, Joyce Madill and Norma Woodcox was much appreciated.

GAVE READING

Harold Prest gave an interesting reading "Billy's Picnic in the Woods."

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Annamae Clarke.

It was decided to hold the July meeting at the church.

Shirley Prest and Sharon Relde were appointed to prepare the program for the July meeting and Mrs. Maurice Clancy offered to bring the refreshments.

The chapter from the study book "Holes in the Road", was presented by the teacher, Miss Marlene Armstrong.

The meeting closed with the hymn "Father Bless Our School Today."

Cake and homemade candy provided by the refreshment committee, Sheila Clarke and Paul Bridges, were served.

Catholic Women's League Boosts Membership to 80

The regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's C.W.L. was held in St. Michael's High School on John St., on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. B. E. Burley presided. The treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Boyd, gave a detailed financial report.

Miss Alice Doyle, 1st vice-president, reported 80 paid-up memberships, and that the councillors are busy collecting fees in their respective wards.

Mrs. C. Casey, 2nd vice-president reported on the success of the Membership Tea and thanked all who helped in any way.

Mrs. J. Farrell, the spiritual convener reminded the ladies of the retreat to be held at Notre Dame Convent, Kingston July 1-3. Anyone wishing information may contact Mrs. Farrell.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. K. Blaind, sent two get-well cards, two letters of condolence and a letter of appreciation to Sister Mary Theresa for her assistance in obtaining taggers.

Mrs. B. E. Burley reported on the success of the Diocesan Convention held in Kingston on June 12 and 13 which was attended by Mrs. B. E. Burley, Mrs. E. Logan and Mrs. J. E. Boyd. Congratulations to Mrs. J. E. Boyd, who was elected 1st vice-president of the Diocesan Council.

ALL MEMBERS INVITED

The ladies of CWL under the convenership of Mrs. E. Logan, assisted by Mrs. F. Domenico and Mrs. B. E. Burley, are completing arrangements for reception for the Reverend Thomas Callaghan to be held at Tobe's County Gardens Sunday, June 26, 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., to which all members are invited.

Mrs. J. Lynch reported VON cared for 87 patients, and made 492 home visits. A total of 114 pupils from Grade 1 and 2 of Holy Rosary and Cannifton schools received their first shots of polio vaccine.

It was decided to hold a Harvest Supper on September 19. Mrs. C. Young kindly offered to convene this supper.

Tickets on draw for St. Michael's bazaar will shortly be in the hands of the councillors for distribution to the members.

GUIDING-SCOUTING GIFTS

On behalf of CWL Mrs. C. Casey presented Arlene Cox and Dale Burley, pupils of St. Michael's High School with gifts in recognition of their achievements in guiding and scouting. Arlene has obtained the religion and life award while Dale is St. Michael's first Queen Scout. Both pupils thanked the ladies for their gift and outlined the necessary requirements to obtain these awards.

Dale Burley gave an interesting talk on the life of Eugenio Pacelli, the present Pope.

After a short address by the Rev. Peter Murphy, the meeting adjourned.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of Bleecker ward.

I Shall Not Pass This Way Again

I shall not pass this way again,
This day again I ne'er shall see.
Its gleam and glow, its green and gold
Are sights that ne'er shall come to me;
So, while the day is mine, I'll try
To joy in the delights of June—
The birds and bees, the sunny sky,
For ah! they leave us all too soon.

I shall not pass this way again—
The friends I have a chance to cheer,
The weaker ones with loads to lift—
I may not meet again so near;
So, while I'm passing on my way
I'll gladly greet my lonely friend,
And guide the wandering feet that stray
Since life's brief day so soon shall end.

I shall not pass this way again,
Oh! may I cheer the faint and weak
Who stumble when the road is rough—
Oh! may I lend the aid they seek;
And when I've passed beyond the bend
And lost at last to human sight,
Perhaps there'll be a lingering ray
A token of life's sunset bright.

—Helen B. Anderson.

The Experts Say — Nylon Industry in Kingston Celebrates 15th Birthday

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Nylon, a source of satisfaction—and sometimes irritation—for fashion-wise women, has just celebrated its 15th birthday here.

To mark the occasion the nylon industry in Kingston gave 40 women's page and business editors a look at progress in a big plant here.

Nylon stockings—one of the biggest boons to women's fashion since the short skirt—crept uncertainly on the market in 1940.

Since then the industry boomed and nylon has been utilized for everything from parachutes and tents to fluffy lingerie and tightly woven police safety vests which can stop a .45 bullet.

EARLY DIFFICULTIES

The synthetic fibre which weight-for-weight has the strength of structural steel, has become almost a way of life.

But the picture was not always rosy.

In the early 40's experimental nylon stockings probably caused more domestic spats than any other consumer product. The chant "oh darn—there's a run" became a national by-word.

The product also had its ups and downs with the climate. Like the shattering windshield incidents which drew attention last year, the nylon industry was horrified when stockings began to run for no good reason.

Some of the worst cases were found in Toronto where a woman might be walking down the street and—zip would go her stockings. The blame was finally laid to atmospheric conditions but the phenomenon, which stopped as suddenly as it started, still has not been completely explained.

Nylons, like cigarets, became a trade medium—especially in wartime Europe. A pair of stockings was a sure road to success for servicemen courting girls in Europe when rationing and clothing restrictions were tight.

WIDE USES

The fibre, which was first commercially produced in Canada at Kingston in 1942, has been channeled into many fields. It first appeared as brush bristle, later as hosiery, and now has a thousand and one uses in home, office and industry.

Now practically every item of clothing for men, women and children is available with varying proportions of nylon in either its filament or staple fibre form.

For housewives it appears in rugs, carpets, upholstery and draperies. Gossamer-like but strong, a nylon rope can pull an 8,000-pound truck, and can stand up to the effects of heat, moisture and bruise damage.

Nylon shirts which are easily washed and require no ironing have lightened the load in many a household, and made life easier for bachelors.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHY AND SELF-CONSCIOUS?—YOU NEEDN'T BE!

So you're lonely, shy and self-conscious, and you sit home, night after night, thinking about all the fun other people are having out on dates.

Or when you get an invitation to a party, you have a feeling of always being on the sidelines, instead of right in there with the rest of the group. You can't think of anything to say and you feel like a dummy. If you do think of something to say, you're to tongue-tied to get it out. So you just sit there, thinking that everybody but you is gay and interesting and knows just what to do and say, and you wonder if there's any miracle that could change you into another kind of person.

This is the sort of things I'm told in letter after letter.

Well, I can't say there's any miracle that will change a retiring person into a lively, outgoing one. But there are some things you can do to help you change yourself enough so that you'll find yourself coming closer and closer to getting those dates for which you long, and gradually becoming comfortable, instead of uncomfortable, when you're out with people.

So let me say, first, that lonely, shy and self-conscious people usually waste a lot of time trying to be like someone they know who is very popular. That only makes them more self-conscious than ever, because they are constantly checking on what they say and do to see how they are getting along in imitating somebody else.

Instead of trying to imitate others, there are three far more practical things that the shy ones can do which, if faithfully followed, cannot help but make fiends for them.

One of these things is to be the person who does the suggesting and the inviting occasionally, instead of waiting for somebody else to suggest and invite, and feeling lonely and left out because nobody does.

There's always someone to whom you can say: "Let's go to the movies tomorrow night"; if you work in an office, "Let's have lunch together on such and such a "day"; or, "How about getting up a crowd and going roller skating Saturday afternoon?" Or even, "I'm having some people at the house Saturday night, and I want you to come."

If you want to win friends, don't always wait for the other fellow to make the first move. Start something yourself.

The second principle to follow in widening your circle of acquaintances is to get a hobby that offers you the opportunity to join a club or a class whose members all have the same interest. There are endless numbers of such clubs and classes these days. Almost every town has at least two or three, and if the place where you live is so small that you don't know of even one such club, get busy and start one. There is nothing that takes you out of yourself more quickly than to share an interest with others. That gives you something you can really talk about easily.

The third important thing that will help you be a person others find interesting is to inform yourself about things people discuss when in a group. You don't have to be an expert on politics or science or sports or any other subject to qualify. But you do need to keep up enough with what's going on so that you won't feel "out of it" when those around you are discussing the world in which we live today. All you need do is to give the daily paper a good look, or you're too lazy to do even that, then go through one of the weekly magazines that give brief resumes of what's happened in different fields.

So, if you're one of those many people who feel lonely and left out and neglected, get busy right away putting these three things into practice. You can get yourself out of your rut into an active and interesting life if you really want to enough to try. But you've got to make the effort yourself. You can't expect to be attractive and companionable without taking the trouble to make yourself so.

Mother's Helper

DECORATIONS they can eat are the most fun for children's parties. How about place cards made of cookies? Roll your dough very thin, cut it in rectangles. When the cookies have cooled, use a pastry tube to write each guest's name in icing.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

BLEACHING AND DYEING THE HAIR

Not every head of dyed tresses reveals its secret. Even the keenest eyes can be deceived by a counterfeit color. There are specialists who know how to turn the trick cleverly.

In Hollywood, hair-dyeing is taken as a matter of course. A pretty star can be a blonde today, a brownette tomorrow. And next year she can flaunt a flaming thatch if a new role calls for it.

Only experts of wide experience, with professional knowledge of chemicals and their manner of application, can do this work safely, however. A single change of color is not hazardous, but a series of them must be planned carefully.

The woman who flirts with the idea of restoring the pristine color to grey hair would do well to seek a reliable operator. If there are only a few white locks, home treatment is possible.

If the entire growth is to be treated a woman should know precisely what she is letting herself in for. The first dyeing does not finish the project. The new growth keeps pushing forth from the scalp, sometimes to the extent of five inches a year. That means that there must be frequent touch-ups, and the applications must not overlap.

You can guess how delicately the work must be done and why it is not a home job. No matter how smart a woman may be, she cannot see the back of her head.

The times comes to many women when they face the question: "To dye or not dye?" If snowy tresses make them unhappy they are justified in seeking help.

We always hear that white hair is beautiful, that it forms a soft frame for the aging face. But that does not convince the woman who hates it. Temporary color rinses may be an answer to this beauty problem.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WEDDING WITHOUT PARENTS' BLESSINGS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm heart-broken by my family's attitude. I recently became engaged to the man I dearly love, and we plan to be married quite soon. He is of a different faith, and my parents insist that if I marry him they will not come to our wedding and that they will never recognize our marriage. Like all other girls, I've always dreamed of being a "real bride," wearing a white wedding dress and bridal veil, having attendants, and so forth. My fiance says we could be married in his church and could have a fairly large wedding, inviting our relatives (hoping that some of mine will accept), and all our friends, and that I could be dressed like a "real bride." Do you think this would be at all correct. Mrs. Beeckman, or under the difficult circumstances, should we settle for a very small, informal wedding? Please help me with your kind advice.

— A perplexed Bride-to-be

My first suggestion is that before you make any definite plans, you make one more big effort to try to persuade your parents . . . by any way and with the cooperation of anyone . . . to come to your wedding and to recognize your marriage to the man you love. Plead with them. . . don't quarrel or otherwise lose control of your feelings. If this effort fails, it would be entirely proper for you to plan to have a simple wedding in your fiance's church, not a very large wedding and certainly not an elaborate one. I urge you to dress like a "real bride," a simple white bridal dress (no train), and wear a bridal veil, perhaps a short white tulle veil now so much in fashion. Have a maid (or matron) of honor, and two, perhaps even four, bridesmaids: your bridegroom to have a best man and the appropriate number of ushers. Invite all your friends to the ceremony and to whatever type of reception you are to have afterward. Best wishes to you!

WHEN TO GIVE MONEY WEDDING GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our son is to be married soon. My husband and I are going to give him and his bride a wedding present of money, enclosed in a wedding card. We would be so grateful if you will please tell us when and where we present this gift to them. Would you suggest before he leaves home for the church, or after the wedding when the couple are standing in the receiving-line and we congratulate them, or at the hall where the wedding reception takes place? Also, when should my husband's sister (who lives/with us) give her wedding present?

2' My husband's sister is not only our son's aunt, but also his sponsor. Where would you suggest she sit in the church? I have six sisters, who, of course, are also his aunts, and we don't want any ill feelings concerning the seating arrangements. — M.S.

1. Wedding presents should be given before the wedding . . . two or three weeks before the wedding date, if possible. I suggest that when you and your husband know of some time when you are going to be with your son and his fiancee, you both present the envelope containing the money to them, preferably to the bride-to-be, to whom wedding presents are supposed to be given. As you present it, you would explain, naturally, that you thought it wiser to give them money with which they could buy something they have dreamed of having for this new home of theirs. Your husband's sister too should give or send her present to the bride-to-be as soon as possible before the wedding.

2. Since your husband's sister is so close to the bridegroom not only in relationship but also in important sponsorship, and since she lives with you, I should think she should be given the honor of sitting with you and your husband in the front-right pew. I am sure your sisters would understand about your gesture to the sponsorship significance. Second choice would be to have her seated in the pew behind you and your husband, with two or more of your sisters.

MUST MEN WAIT ON WOMEN AT BUFFET MEAL?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a buffet meal of any kind—dinner, luncheon, supper, either in a home or club or any other place—must a woman guest always accept a man's offer to bring her food from the buffet table? Or, is it impolite for her to suggest that she would like to go to the buffet table to choose her own food? — Dorothy D.

This is an ever-present question today when there is so much buffet-service entertaining. It is polite for a man to suggest he bring a woman's food from the buffet table. But if the woman prefers to choose her own, it is entirely proper for her to say, for example, "Thank you so much for your offer, but if you don't mind I'd like to give a look-see at the buffet table, and choose my own." Let's face it: a man's choice of buffet foods (usually beginning with several kinds of meats) and a woman's choice of buffet foods are likely to be vastly different.

HOT WEATHER TREASURE

By VERA WINSTON

A dress that is cool to look at, comfortable for town wear, and has a place in the resort wardrobe as well, is a pretty useful thing to own. This one fills the assignment nicely, a pleasant cotton charmer in white cotton voile with a spotty print of uneven oval dots in black. The square neckline is bordered in black silk and has a bow at one side with a rhinestone pin. Cap sleeves and pleated skirt complete the design.

MOIRA W.A.

Mrs. Fred Regensburg was hostess to Moira W.A. on Thursday. The president, Mrs. Donald McInroy, called the meeting to order at 2.00 p.m., with a call to worship.

Prayer was rendered by Mrs. John Farrel. Roll call was given and minutes of the last meeting read. A report of the W.A. convention was given by Mrs. Charlotte Vandewater.

Business was discussed and convener, Mrs. Clayton Vandewater, took charge of the program. A hymn was sung and prayer said by Mrs. Milton Vandewater. A reading by Mrs. Blake Ketcheson "Careless Words" and one by Mrs. Wesley Farrel, "Christian Salvation", followed. A duet by Mrs. Angus Mumby and Mrs. David Mumby "Saviour Lead Us", was sung. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. John Farrel, 1st Corinthians 6, was chosen. Another reading by Mrs. George Poste "Religion and Life", followed. A hymn and prayer closed the meeting. The hostess and helpers served refreshments.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — The June meeting of the Frankford United Church W.M.S. was held in the church hall on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. Bleeker and the ladies of the 4th Concession Sidney were in charge.

Mrs. J. M. Dafoe presided and opened the meeting with a poem and a prayer followed a hymn and a few thoughts on "The Indestructibility of the Bible." The minutes of the previous meeting and roll call were given by the secretary, Mrs. C. B. Reid. A short period of business followed. Mrs. George Spencer described the bale which had been packed and sent away. An offering was taken to defray expenses in connection with this and Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel gave a reading on the need of overseas relief.

Mrs. W. Morrow then presented the theme "Anniversary In Angola" and followed with the devotional program, reading a portion of the Scripture after which several ladies offered brief prayers. Mrs. Ada Bush then gave an interesting reading, "Religion and Life."

Mrs. Milton Grills rendered a beautiful vocal solo. A reading on Christian Stewardship was given by Mrs. C. D. Powell.

Mrs. Cecil Reid, in an interesting talk, brought to a conclusion the Study Book on India. The meeting was brought to a close by singing a hymn and prayer. Mrs. Dafoe brought thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Bleeker and her helpers for their part in this meeting.

Refreshments were then served by Mrs. Bleeker and Mrs. Bush, and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . have been meaning to write you to thank you for the many hints you have been giving me and your many readers. . . . my husband has been raving about a certain dessert an aunt of his made for him when he was a small boy. It was called "Oeufs a la Neige". Everyone I have asked has heard of it and says it was very delicious but no one remembers how it was made . . . it might have gone under another name. . . if you could help me find that recipe I'm sure I'd be the most popular woman in my family and on the block.

I am enclosing a recipe for a meat stretcher—a way of using up that Sunday roast. There is no name for it but I suppose it could be called

SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT AND TOMATO SAUCE

(Courtesy Anne E.)

One-half lb. ground hamburg or ground leftovr roast, 1 small onion chopped fine, salt and pepper to taste, 1-4 teaspoon ground cloves, a few shakes of monosodium glutamate (optional). Brown meat and onions in bottom of pressure cooker or whatever pot you will be using. Stir constantly with fork to break up meat. Remove from heat and add 1 large tin of condensed tomato soup. Slice 2 or 3 carrots and add to meat and soup. Break half a package of spaghetti into three to four-inch lengths and mix well with soup. Cover and cook half an hour. I have always made this spaghetti in my pressure cocker so I do not know how long you would have to cook it if made in some other kind of utensil. It might require more liquid. . . my husband kids me. He accuses me of cleaning out the refrigerator because I add any leftover vegetables to this, green peas, or corn or celery . . . but I have never noticed him leaving any on his plate.

Have you ever tried that recipe for Salmon and Rice oven dish on the dainty rice package? I have made it with cream of celery soup when I was out of cream of mushroom and boy was it good. —Anne E.

ANSWER:

Thanks Ann for some sound cooking hints

None of my books has a recipe for anything called Oeufs a la Neige. I am going to give you some white egg desserts which I am afraid will not be what you are after, but readers will come to our rescue I am sure.

CUSTARD SOUFFLE

Three tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup each flour and sugar, 1 cup scalded milk, 4 eggs 1-2 teaspoon salt. Stir flour into melted butter and over heat stir in the milk until thick. Beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored and add sugar and salt. Pour hot mixture over slowly stirring. Cool. Fold in very stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into buttered pudding dish and bake 30 to 35 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Serve at once or it will fall.

ZABAGLIONE (Froth)

Four eggs beaten, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 cup orange juice or sherry. Beat eggs hard for 5 minutes then add sugar and beat until it is dissolved. Slowly beat in orange juice or sherry. Turn at once into double boiler over boiling water and stir constantly until it begins to thicken but still remains frothy. Watch closely—for it will begin to cling to the sides. Remove pan from bottom, scrape down sides with rubber scraper and beat. Return to bottom and cook 1 minute longer, stirring. Turn at once into warmed tall slim glasses and serve at once or chill and serve ice cold.

I have mailed you a recipe for Spanish cream.

Elephant Herd Backbone of Circus

A few of the great herds of elephants which The Greatest Show on Earth is featuring this year march from the circus train to a show lot. This is a common sight in cities visited annually by Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

The largest herd of performing elephants in the world is featured by the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which comes to Belleville, June 27.

The Big Show is carrying more than 50 of the huge animals this season, and 20 of them are little "cuties"—baby elephants that are making their first public appearance anywhere.

They have just been brought to this country from their native India.

The smallest of the infants is Tiny, only 40 inches tall and weighing less than 500 pounds as compared to her ponderous cousins in the Big Show who tip the scales at upwards of six tons.

Elephants are worth their weight in gold to a circus because not only do they appear in the performance but they also play a vital part in helping to set up and tear down The Greatest Show on Earth.

There is something about the huge beasts that never fails to attract the circus crowds. Always so mighty and at the same time so meek—especially when they stretch out their long trunks in quest of their favorite delicacy: peanuts and more peanuts.

A multitude of sensational new acts, features and innovations together with more than 300 internationally - renowned circus stars appear on the gigantic program of the great new Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey circus of 1955, plus four new superspectacles festively costumed and produced.

Performances in the world's largest tent will commence at 2.15 and 8.15 p.m., with the doors to the all-new and greatly enlarged wild animal menagerie opening at 1 and 7 p.m.

Moira

MOIRA — Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clark and family, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Gwelym Poste and baby, Belleville, spent Father's Day with their father, Mr. George Poste and Mrs. Poste. Mrs. Elsie Soule, Belleville, called on her mother, Mrs. Poste, on the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Foster, Pamela, and baby son, Paul, Frankford, were tea-hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McAdams and family, Trenton; Mrs. Olive Williams, Gary and Bobby, were Sunday evening callers at the same home.

First Jewish, Second-Youngest Mayor of Halifax Is L.A. Kitz

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Leonard Arthur Kitz, 37, lawyer, fisherman and self-styled authority on pirate Capt. Kidd, has become Halifax's first Jewish and second-youngest mayor.

Mayor Kitz has straight-from-the-shoulder opinions on civic matters and an easy personality. The father of three who doesn't think his "youth is a virtue" plans to continue right on with his law practice while in office.

As an alderman he first appeared on the civic scene in 1946 when he championed beer parlors in face of a storm of opposition.

Today, almost 10 years since the first taverns were opened, he still thinks "they are good for the city."

POPULAR CHOICE

He likes every kind of sport but favors fishing and golf where he can put his ability as a walking champion to good use.

He didn't win this city's highest office on a reform platform but rather on his popularity. He set out six months before the election to meet the people and his door-to-door campaign paid off at the polls.

He received 1,000 more votes than the nearest of four rivals, who included two former mayors.

Mayor Kitz feels housing calls for the most attention.

"We have spread about as far as we can—now we will have to build up."

He says "We can't do enough to keep up friendly relations with the services. I feel that the major part of our income has come from them."

PIRATE LORE

The mayor's interest in Capt. Kidd springs from his love of reading picked up during Dalhousie University law school days.

He doesn't hold to the popular theory that the famous pirate buried his treasure on the Nova Scotia coast. Rather, he pictures Capt. Kidd as "the first of the big-time spenders, who liked nothing better than throwing a party."

Mayor Kitz has looked over the "diggin's" at Oak island in Mahone bay on Nova Scotia's south shore but he thinks if any treasure is buried it's likely in Massachusetts.

After graduating from Dalhousie he worked his way acroes the Atlantic on a Norwegian freighter and toured Europe in 1939 as a correspondent for the old Halifax Chronicle.

PREDICTED WAR

He visited almost every country in Europe and returned home when the war he predicted in his columns began. Back to England he went in 1941 as a machine-gun officer with the Cape Breton Highlanders.

He fought through the Italian campaign and then was transferred to headquarters staff as a reinforcement officer.

While in England he met and married Alice Finlay, a graduate of Aberdeen, Scotland, medical school. At the time she was on the staff of the Royal Military Corps, with which she served during the London blitz. Later in the war Mrs. Kitz was transferred to military hospitals in India.

Today Mrs. Kitz confines her medical work to lecturing at the Maritime School of Social Work and "occasionally" at the Dalhousie Medical School.

TOO BUSY

Mrs. Kitz says her husband and her children, Hilary, 8, John, 7, and Alan, 4, keep her much too busy for private practice.

"There's never a dull moment." Mrs. Kitz feels at home in Nova Scotia. "The province is quite well named," she says.

From their nine-room, two-level house (the bedrooms are downstairs) on the shores of the north west arm, Mrs. Kitz has a perfect view of rising tree-covered hills across the water that "are very much like our Scottish Highlands."

ROBS BANK AT 71

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A 71-year-old man Thursday robbed a bank of $2,660. He was captured moments later hiding between two parked cars two blocks away. He identified himself as Paul Johanna Schewe, and said he had a long criminal record.

FIRE BALL OVER MASS.

BOSTON (AP)—A "ball of fire" was reported seen streaking northward through the sky Thursday night by many Massachusetts residents. Most callers to newspapers reported the streak was greenish-blue and pear-shaped. Many said it was visible for about two seconds. Officials at Harvard Observatory did not sight any object.

CRASH KILLS SIX

ROCKVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Six bodies were found in a burning auto and semi-trailer truck Thursday night after they crashed together north of Rockville. Investigation said two or three of the dead were children. Troopers were unable to identify any of the victims immediately.

CURB STRATEGIC EXPORTS

LONDON (AP) — Britain has tightened controls on shipment of strategic goods to Communist North Viet Nam. The board of trade said such goods in transit through Britain will require an authorization certificate. The control already applies to the Soviet bloc, Red China, Tibet and North Korea.

POET DIES

OTTAWA (CP)—Emily Charlotte Hazel Walsh, an Ottawa poet, died here Wednesday. A native of Quebec City, she had published four books of poetry and was preparing a fifth at the time of her death. Surviving are three sisters. The funeral will be held here Saturday.

SIMPLE DISGUISE WORKS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police have announced the arrest of two bathing-suited burglars who stole $16,000 worth of jewels from tourists in the resort city of Acapulco in two weeks. The two gained entry to the best hotels by appearing in bathing trunks and carrying towels, officers said. They would enter rooms by using masterkeys, pick up their loot, wrap it in the towels and depart.

Humane Assoc. Awards 11th Silver Medal Since Inception

HAMILTON (CP) — A German immigrant, the hero of a mountain rescue in British Columbia, has been awarded the 11th silver medal for bravery given by the Royal Canadian Humane Association since its inception 61 years ago.

The association announced today its annual awards to Canadians for heroism. The 11th silver medal goes to Ulf Bitterlich of Beaver Creek Rd., Alberni, B.C., for his rescue of an injured mountain climber last November.

Seven bronze medals and 20 parchment certificates also were awarded. Eighteen of the 28 awards went to residents of British Columbia.

CLIMBED 6,000 FEET

Bitterlich, an expert climber, was asked by the RCMP to try to rescue Charles Faulkner of Victoria, who had suffered a leg injury in a fall from one of the peaks of Mount Arrowsmith.

With a companion, Leo Lynn, Bitterlich climbed to nearly 6,000 feet in half the normal time. Faulkner lay on a treacherous ledge, his legs dangling over a sheer 200-foot drop.

It was night when the rescuers got there. Seventy - mile - an - hour winds whipped at them and rocks fell constantly from overhead. One hit Lynn on the head, injuring him slightly.

They treated the inkjured Faulkner but had to wait until daylight before attempting to move him. Their walkie-talkie set wouldn't work until Bitterlich climbed 30 feet down the steep slope and improvised repairs to it. Then he called for help to move Faulkner.

Bitterlich worked strenuously for 45 hours on the rescue, the third to his credit in the last two years.

AWARDED BRONZE MEDALS

Four bronze medals were awarded to residents of British Columbia, and one each to residents of Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario.

Arthur Pearson and Jack Pollard, Sr., of Skidegate Mission, B.C., were awarded a bronze medal for their rescue of two children from a burning home at Skidegate, Nov. 23, 1954.

Cpl. Donald H. Pye of Cape Horn, B.C., was awarded a medal for saving the life of R. L. McGilvray and trying to save the life of Jack Molyneux after their boat overturned off Cape Horn, Aug. 14, 1954.

Michael Meeker of Mission, B.C., was awarded a medal for his action July 6, 1954, at Cultus Lake, B.C., when he swam 125 yards and then dived 12 feet under water to drag to shore Peter Lambers, who had gone under.

Ralph MacLean of Sydney, N.S., won recognition for jumping into the icy water of Wentworth creek, April 1, 1954, and bringing to shore Frederick Monk, 9, and William Reid 10, who had fallen through the ice. The Monk boy was dead but William Reid was revived.

William J. Peart of (249 Parc Cartier) Montreal was awarded a medal for saving Mrs. D. Delude from drowning in the Lachine canal July 15, 1954. The citation said Peart was perilously near being run down by a ship in affecting the rescue.

Ian Cook, 7, of Dundas, Ont., won a medal for running out on the ice of the Desjardines canal, Feb 10, 1955, to help Douglas Stoakly, 7, who had fallen through. The ice gave way but Ian swam to his companion and pulled him back to shore. Then both boys emptied the water from their rubber boots and walked home.

PARCHMENT CERTIFICATES

Twenty parchment certificates were awarded to Canadians for other acts of heroism. Thirteen went to residents of British Columbia, three to residents of Ontario, two to residents of Nova Scotia, and one each to residents of Saskatchewan and Newfoundland.

The awards:

Mrs. Winnifred F. Whitlam, Vancouver, for completing the rescue by artificial respiration, of Peter Lamers at Cultus Lake, B.C., July 6, 1954.

CIL Negotiates For Construction Job at Milhaven

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Industries (1954) Limited is negotiating with a private contractor for construction of the process area in an ammonia plant at Milhaven, Ont., it was announced Thursday.

Portions of the plant dealing with synthesis of ammonia are expected to be built by Girdler Corporation of Canada while CIL engineers and private contractors will handle other construction.

An estimated 500 construction workers will be required to build the plant.

Mighty Moose Quickly Ousted By Two Horses

SUDBURY (CP) — The lordly moose may be king of the North American forests, but apparently a couple of suburban McKim Township horses never heard about his royal status. When he invaded their territory, they went after him and when last seen, the mighty moose was heading for the hills—fast.

Mrs. Jack Dewar said the moose turned up at 7 a. m. in the back yard of a neighbor.

It paused there while a car went by on the road, then it trotted across the street, down a driveway and into an open field on the Ed Lafleur farm.

Then the two horses took over. They left their grazing and chased the visitor out of the field.

"And it looked to me like a big moose, too," added Mrs. Dewar.

Investigate Death

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario police are working with New York state police investigating the death of a man found Saturday on the south shore of Lake Ontario. Police said the man may have been the victim of a gangland slaying in Ontario.

Efforts are being made to identify the man, about 30 to 40 years of age, whose fingerprints had been burned off, police said.

Salary Boosts Proposed For Board Members

OTTAWA (CP)—Salary increases for all members of the board of transport commissioners, the income tax appeal board and the tariff board were proposed Thurs. by the government.

The proposal immediately drew strong criticism from CCF spokesmen and words of caution from Progressive Conservatives.

The proposal, in the form of a resolution, later was approved by the House on division—without a recorded vote—and a bill was introduced and given first reading.

Proposed increases:

Chief commissioner of the board of transport commissioners, to $18,500 a year from $16,000; assistant chief to $15,000 from $14,000 deputy chief, to $14,500 from $13,000; other three members, to $13,500 from $12,300.

Chairman of the income tax appeal board, to $16,900 from $14,400; his assistant, to $14,500 from $13,000; other two members, to $13,500 from $11,000.

Chairman of the tariff board, to $16,900 from $15,000; vice-chairman to $14,500 from $12,000; third member, to $13,500 from $11,000.

Drop Around This Weekend And Have A Look At This Moderate Priced Home

This is it—the love affair of the CENTURY—the SPECIAL—the ROADMASTER—and the SUPER. For in a few short months, Buick has courted and won the Canadian public in a manner entirely delightful.

It all began last Fall, when '55 Buick made its bow to society. One look at the "years ahead" styling and stunning colors—and eyes met—hearts soared—thousands of Canadians said "Yes!"

This was followed by an invitation to step inside—and relax in the midst of luxury. Then came a whispered promise of great things from Buick's truly magnificent 188 hp or 236 hp V8 Engines.

Finally—out on a quiet highway—the moment came for the thrill of them all—the whip-quick go and gas savings of Variable Pitch Dynaflow* automatic transmission.

In a situation like this, who could resist? (To judge by sales, hardly anybody can.) So why not follow your head—lose your heart—and gain a whole new world of driving thrills. Please—for your own sake—see your Buick dealer—very soon.

Experts Expect Trans-Canada Road Completed in 4½ Years Nine Years After Work Started

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is pushing a 4,600-mile, hard-surfaced highway through forests, across broad prairie and rugged mountains from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Construction crews have been at it 4½ years.

Experts say it will be at least that long again before Canadians can drive on pavement through their own country from coast to coast. By the end of next year they may be able to go "all-Canada" by using back roads to connect with various completed sections of the highway in different provinces. But admittedly it would be a spring-breaking proposition.

1949 AGREEMENT

The trans-Canada highway was conceived in a six-year, share-cost agreement between the federal government and the provinces late in 1949.

Work on the two-lane highway began the following year with the provinces doing the construction at their own speed along a prescribed route within their boundaries. The federal treasury is matching their costs dollar for dollar up to a maximum of $150,000,000 by December, 1956.

But laying the road across the country proved a different thing than laying it down on paper. There were unavoidable delays. Weather interfered in some provinces. Others found themselves pinched for highway funds.

In the mountains of British Columbia, for instance, the highway costs $1,000,000 a mile or more to blast through sheer rock.

In the more than four years of construction effort little more than 1,000 miles has been paved to the agreement standard of 22-to-24-foot width with 10-foot graded shoulders on each side. Another 1,400 miles has been graded.

EXPIRES IN 1956

Federal officials agree the highway won't even be half completed before the agreement expires at the end of next year. The subject may come up at the federal-provincial fiscal conference next October but officials say a full-scale highway meeting probably will be called with the provinces next year to renew the agreement.

Quebec is the only province which didn't sign. Premier Duplessis claimed the agreement didn't provide sufficient safeguards of provincial rights. But indications are the federal government will try to get Quebec to participate.

Quebec already has some of the finest highways in the country, exceeding standards laid down for the trans-Canada. Federal authorities are expected to argue that Quebec would have little actual work to do if the province came in because existing roads which meet agreement standards could be incorporated into the highway system.

To the end of May, the federal government had matched $65,462,051 spent by the provinces on trans-Canada highways construction. Total cost of the road is expected to top $300,000,000.

GRADING APPROVED

To the same date, 1,755 miles of grading construction had been federally-approved and 1,481 miles completed. A total of 1,228 miles of paving had been approved and 1,074 miles of it done.

Ontario with an allotment of 1,412 miles has more of the highway running through its territory than any other province. Ontario now has paved 314 miles and graded 403 miles and received federal payments totalling $20,637,935. The federal payments were held up for a time last year during investigation of highway contract irregularities but now are being made again.

British Columbia has received the next biggest chunk of federal highway cash. B.C. has paved 140 miles of the 692 miles of highway within its boundaries and has graded 163 miles more. Because of the high per-mile costs this construction ate up $29,018,988, half of which was paid by the federal treasury.

Newfoundland has graded 177 of an allotted 289 miles of highway but is the only province that has done no paving so far. This year it hopes to complete a 40-mile section between Codroy and St. Georges on the west coast, making it possible to drive from Port aux Basques to Gander through use of some back roads.

IN OTHER PROVINCES

Of the other provinces, Prince Edward Island has paved 46 of its 74 miles; Nova Scotia—which didn't come into the agreement until 1952—four of 310 miles; New Brunswick 52 of 388 miles; Manitoba 130 of 305 miles; Saskatchewan 203 of 414 miles and Alberta 150 of 292 miles. In Banff and Yoho national parks, where the federal government is doing the work, five of 83 miles have been paved.

On the grading side, Prince Edward Island has graded 64 miles; Nova Scotia 9; New Brunswick 58; Manitoba 117; Saskatchewan 317; Alberta 196. A total of 13 miles of grading has been done in Banff and Yoho parks.

Of the 141 bridges so far approved for the highway, 113 have been completed, including 33 of 39 in B.C. alone.

During the year New Brunswick plans to complete 22 miles, including three bridges; Manitoba, completion of 16 miles of concrete and 26 miles of bituminous road; Alberta, completion of 114 miles; and B.C., 31 miles in the 1955-56 season.

Spring flooding put a kink in construction in Saskatchewan and damaged sections of the highway already down.

No Canadians Contract Polio From Inoculation

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Martin said Thursday no cases have been reported so far of Canadian children contracting poliomyelitis as a result of inoculation with Salk vaccine.

Speaking at a press conference at the joint meeting of the British and Canadian medical associations, he said a total of about 880,000 first and second shots of the vaccine have been given.

Only two known cases of polio had occurred among children receiving the inoculations, he said, and in both cases medical investigation disclosed the infection was present before the vaccine was administered.

Mr. Martin said Canadian newspapers had done a good job in keeping the public informed, not only on developments but in what to expect and what to do to help the vaccination program.

He stressed that some cases may develop even where a child has been vaccinated as tests had not iv. It worked about 90 per cent of the time in paralytic polio and between 60 and 90 per cent in the two other types.

India Will Nationalize Biggest Bank Next Week

NEW DELHI (AP)—India will nationalize her biggest bank next week. The move puts the squeeze on thousands of village money lenders, one of this country's oldest and most decadent institutions.

State operation of the bank will bring modern commercial banking for the first time to most of India's 300,000,000 country dwellers.

Rural India has more than half a million villages, and each is said to have at least one money lender. Farmers go to them for money to buy equipment and seeds, or money to pay for the traditionally lavish weddings and ceremonial funerals even the poorest Hindu families believe necessary.

Rates of interest range from 10 to [illegible] per cent a year and usually are about 35 per cent.

The system has left millions of peasants in debt for life. Most of them can hardly keep up the interest payments, let alone the principal.

The state bank comes into existence July 1 with the nationalization of the old Imperial Bank of India. As India's largest bank with about 400 branches, the Imperial has the framework for country-wide banking. Under legislation it must maintain all these branches and within five years open 400 more.

Can these 800 branches take the place of half a million money lenders? Indian officials say they can. Moreover, they add, the bank will provide rural India facilities it never had before: general commercial banking, savings accounts to allow peasants to set aside cash for future investment, and monetary controls for expansions and contractions of the money supply as needed.

Some financial observers say it would take thousands of branches, not just 800, to cut into the money lenders' trade. And peasants will continue to want money for wedlings and funerals; the state bank ly law is limited to making loans for "productive purposes."

TWO DROWN FEW FEET FROM SHORE AS BOAT CAPSIZES

The 12-foot motorboat in which two persons drowned in the Humber river at Toronto is pulled up on the shore, foreground, while Joseph Fulton, right, in another boat, looks in vain for signs of his wife. Mrs. Fulton and Arnold Colley were following the larger boat when their craft suddenly capsized 30 feet from the shore. Their screams were heard, but before help arrived both had sunk beneath the surface of the water. — Central Press Canadian.

Aneurin Bevan Is Elected To Labor's 'Shadow Cabinet'

LONDON (AP) — Left-winger Aneurin Bevan has been elected to the Labor party's new "shadow cabinet" just 14 months after he quit the old group in protest against party chief Clement Attlee's stand on international affairs.

The fiery Welsh rebel was among 12 leading Socialists elected Thursday night to the body, which decides the opposition party's stand on legislation before Parliament. It would take over as the regular cabinet should the ruling Conservatives be turned out of office and Labor succeed in forming a government.

Along with Bevan, the party members in Parliament also named his chief lieutenant, Harold Wilson. Wilson, a former trade minister, took over Bevan's seat on the old shadow cabinet when his leader walked out in April, 1954.

Although the election of both men gave their left-wing faction one more seat than it had held in the old group, Attlee's moderates claimed the voting was a triumph for their views. Seven Bevan supporters had sought election.

Bevan has long been at odds with the party's moderates. He stormed out of the old shadow cabinet in 1954 after it turned down his demand that the party end its support of what he called British appeasement of United States foreign policy. He insisted that the labor party should advocate an independent British path—anti-Communist but not necessarily pro-American.

Whitton Changes Her Mind, Will Not Resign as Mayor

OTTAWA (CP)—A woman's rule is to continue in the capital's civic government.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton has decided not to resign July 31 after all.

In a prepared statement sent to board of control Thursday, the 59-year-old chief magistrate said she has become so involved in planning and carrying out Ottawa's $25,000,000 works program that she would not feel right quitting next month, as previously announced.

It was last May, when city finance commissioner A. H. Ritchie announced he was resigning effective July 31, that the mayor decided she'd have to go, too. At the time she said she didn't see how she could carry on the works program without him.

Miss Whitton, mayor since 1951 and victorious in two successive elections, said in her statement that she discussed the whole works program with Premier Frost, who led the Ontario delegation to the June 20 federal-provincial conference here on unemployment.

He indicated, she said, that Ottawa's program will be closely integrated with other works and employment projects in the whole capital area and all of this would require a lot of consultations and exploration.

So, said the mayor, she was left no course but to see out the rest of her present term, which ends at the close of next year.

And after that? Rumor had it she may try her hand at provincial politics. Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar is 77 and Miss Whitton, the grapevine whispered, could take over for the Progressive Conservatives the Ottawa South seat he won in the June 9 Ontario election—with the voters' approval, of

Work Is Well Advanced On All Stages

CORNWALL (CP)—Officials in charge of the Ontario hydro commission's St. Lawrence power project toured installations here Thursday and decided everything is going along according to plan.

"Work is well advanced on all stages," said Hydro chairman Richard L. Hearn.

Mr Hearn, accompanied by Hydro engineers and construction company officials, spent the morning at the site and in the afternoon held a press conference to report what they saw.

Dewatering of the powerhouse site will be completed this week, Mr. Hearn said, and removal of 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth from the site will start immediately.

By early October a start should be made on drilling and blasting the 125,000 cubic yards of subsurface rock that must be removed. This operation will clear the way for pouring the first concrete for the power house itself, Mr. Hearn said. This is scheduled to start after the new year.

Doctor Opposes Application For Liquor Licence

BROCKVILLE (CP) — A doctor from the Ongwanada sanatorium in Kingston Thursday opposed a liquor licence application by the Kingston hotel on the ground that the hotel is too close to the sanatorium.

"It would be difficult to maintain discipline and continue the fight against tuberculosis," said Dr. Bruce Hopkins, medical director at the sanatorium.

He said he is strongly opposed to a licence for the Princess Hotel. He spoke at a hearing here by the Ontario liquor licence board.

The hotel is less than a block from the hospital, which houses 160 patients and has a staff of 80.

Dr. Hopkins said he fears the patients might spread infection while drinking at the hotel.

Decision on the Princess application and others from the Edgewater Inn and the Seymour Hotel at Summerstown, and from the Parkway Hotel in Cornwall township was reserved.

St. Laurent's World Tour Expenses $1,739

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent turned in an expense account for $1,739 after his six-week world tour last year.

The figure was given Thursday in a return tabled in the Commons for William Hamilton (PC—Montreal-Notre-Dame-de-Grace).

Mr. St. Laurent made the tour in a RCAF aircraft, but no figures were given on the cost of operating the plane. His expenses for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London earlier this year were reported as $135.

The return showed External Affairs Minister Pearson was the most travelled cabinet minister in the period Jan. 1, 1954-Jan. 31, 1955.

His transportation bill for 25 flights in commercial aircraft was about $2,880 and his personal expenses amounted to $3,236 for a total of 47 trips. Twenty-two of those trips, mostly on NATO and UN business, were by RCAF or transport department aircraft.

New Machine Ready

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department's first automatic letter sorting machine will be in operation in the new Peterborough postal building which Works Minister Winters will open Monday.

Operated by five men, the machine, which sorts 15,000 letters an hour into 300 receptables, is believed to be the first of its kind in North America.

Each operator, seated at a keyboard, reads the address on letters placed automatically before him. He punches keys to send each letter to the designated receptacle.

AS POSTERITY WILL SEE CHURCHILL

This bronze statute of Sir Winston Churchill, the work of Yugoslav sculptor Oscar Nemon, has been placed in the Guildhall in London in honor of the former prime minister. At the dedication, Churchill noted that it is unusual to erect statutes of living statesmen and hoped the city officials "would not find it a duty in my lifetime to make any agonizing reappraisal."—Central Press Canadian.

Reconstructed Broadcast Ban Is Being Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's private broadcasters today described sport events as news and attacked a proposal that would prohibit reconstructed broadcasts of such events without the promoters' permission.

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters said such regulations, sought by the Big Four Football League, would be illegal. They would "create by regulation a new right to which the commercial organizations are not and cannot be entitled by law and a right which may well be a circumvention of the law."

A brief submitted to the CBC board of governors said the league's request "is based on the theory that the private interests of those connected with certain types of newsworthy events surpass the public's interest and on the view that technological progress must be allowed to curtail the public's right to know."

PLEAD PRIOR RIGHT

It added:

"No matter what the private interest of any individual or organization may be, the public is morally and legally entitled to any and all proper reporting on news that can be secured."

The Big Four has asked the board to prohibit reconstructed broadcasts of its games, except with league permission. It was supported by the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the National Hockey League.

Reconstructed broadcasts purport to give running accounts of events and are based on information transmitted to the radio station, usually by telegraph or telephone.

COULD PREVENT CONFLICT

At present, CBC regulations forbid reconstructed broadcasts in areas served by on-the-spot broadcasts until after the sports event is ended. However, they do not prohibit a simulated broadcast of a sports event in areas where no live broadcast of the event is available.

The Big Four's request, if adopted, would make it possible for the league to bar a reconstructed broadcast of a game in Hamilton from conflicting with one being played in Ottawa, or vice-versa.

Military Attache To Turkey Named

OTTAWA (CP)—Col. Arthur G. Chubb, DSO, 41, of Calgary, director of the Royal Canadian Armored Corps, has been appointed military attache to Turkey, army headquarters announced Thursday.

The new director of the corps will be Lt.-Col. Bruce F. Macdonald, DSO, 37, of Edmonton, who will be promoted to the acting rank of colonel. He now is serving as general staff officer, grade one, at Central Command Headquarters, Oakville.

Lt.-Col. Gordon Potts, MC, 39, of Kingston, now serving on the Indo-china truce supervisory commission, will take over as GSO 1 at Oakville when he returns to Canada.

Convention of Canadian, British Doctors Gets Advice, 'Look at Patient's Tongue'

TORONTO (CP) — Doctors from two countries went into the last day of their joint convention today with a new president and a word of old-fashioned advice.

The new head is Dr. T. Clarence Routley of Toronto, who presided Thursday night over the traditional white-tie-and-tails banquet of the British Medical Association.

Dr. Routley, president of the Canadian Medical Association, was elected this year to the BMA presidency as well.

The old-style advice came from a Glasgow general practitioner who advised his fellow medical men to look at the patient's tongue.

The tongue, said Dr. Alistair MacCrone, is an excellent barometer of many conditions.

MAY SHOW ANAEMIA

He said during a panel discussion on general practice methods that vitamin deficiencies and anaemia, which do not reveal themselves by visual examinations, can be revealed by various unnatural tongue conditions.

Federal Health Minister Martin toasted the president at Thursday night's banquet and Dr. Routley rose to say that the BMA "represents the best, not only in medicine, but in human kind."

Earlier, Mr. Martin told more than 1,000 of the 3,000 medical delegates that some system "must be devised in Canada to insure that the poorest family" is not without medical attention.

A Briton, however, put in the final word on the question of state medicine. Dr. William Pickles, president of the College of General Practice on the United Kingdom, said Canada will "get state medicine eventually but isn't ready for it yet."

He explained that Britain in its pre-health plan days had a national insurance program which had a third of the population under organized medicine. Canada has no such program as yet.

At a symposium on cancer, British gynaecologist Dr. Malcolm Donaldson lauded the attitude of Canadian doctors toward cancer education. He said British doctors consider public education in regard to the disease would "result in hysteria."

"In Britain," he said, "surveys have shown the public wants this information, but it is being kept from them by a small band of doctors."

Govt. Accused Of Chiselling On Municipal Grants

NORTH BAY (CP)—The Ontario government was accused Thursday of "continually chiselling" on grants to municipalities.

Reeve Oliver Crockford of the Toronto suburb of Scarborough made the statement to the annual convention here of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, citing a recent $6,000,000 increase in educational grants as an example.

Mr. Crockford said the increase was inadequate. His own municipality had hired more than 170 new teachers this year and paid out $10,000,000 for new schools.

"The department used to approve $30,000 a room for secondary schools and since 1954 they only give $20,000 a room. We want to stop this continual chiselling."

The conference approved a resolution from London that called for additional grants each year for educational purposes—including the construction of new schools and auxiliary space such as auditoriums, gymnasiums and other rooms which the resolution said should be eligible for construction grants on the same basis as classrooms.

MANY RESOLUTIONS

Other resolutions passed during the day, with their sponsors:

Brantford and Windsor—That the municipal act be amended to permit municipalities to regulate the use of and ban the sale of fireworks if they desired.

Brantford—That the meeting support a national health plan and request its implementation.

Chatham—that a fund be established by federal and provincial governments to pay hospital costs of needy pensioners.

Windsor—that the province give immediate consideration to increased grants to municipalities equivalent to at least 5 per cent of the cost of education.

Waterloo—That commercial cemeteries be liable to realty tax under the Assessment act.

Fort William—That the practice of microfilming municipal records be recognized and the Canada Evidence Act amended to permit such records to be accepted in court.

The conference today takes up in detail the questions of education, a new tax structure and unemployment relief.

Brantford Man Claims to Be Doctor, Fined

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A 50-year-old Brantford man who claimed to be a European doctor and who said he was importing a cure for gall bladder ailments from Russia was fined $10 and costs Thursday on a charge of unlawfully practising medicine.

John Oswald was fined for violating the Medical Act after evidence was given by an investigator for the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons and a London man and wife.

Evidence was Oswald had told the housewife he imported a Russian medicine and administered it on a year-long basis. One variety cost $950 and another $1,250.

More Trained Personnel Needed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Future advancements in the scientific and engineering fields will be seriously hampered unless more trained personnel are produced, William Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, said Thursday night.

Technological progress has been so rapid during the last decade that the supply of young scientists and engineers has fallen far short of the demand, he said.

Mr. Wecker was here to welcome the 33-vehicle General Motors parade of progress as it came to Canada to start a tour of 10 Canadian cities.

More than 4,800,000 have seen the parade in 95 cities in the United States in the last two years.

Senate Criticism of Police Stirs Vancouver to Action

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two hush-hush police-commission meetings were held Thursday to discuss administration of Vancouver's Senate-censured police department.

The closed discussions—one with Attorney-General Robert Bonner in attendance—were called by Mayor Fred Hume, commission chairman, following two developments:

1. The Senate narcotics investigating committee's criticism of law enforcement in Vancouver.

2. Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's writ of libel against the publishers of the Toronto tabloid Flash.

Following the night meeting with the attorney-general, magistrate Oscar Orr, member of the commission, made the following statement:

"Certain measures have been discussed but specific announcements would be premature for a few days. . . .

"In making any statement the board has kept in mind the fact that litigation has been commenced. . . ."

the Senate committee said in its report that it could not understand why laws against vagrancy, prostitution and the like hadn't been more "effectively invoked to uproot and break up" the concentration of addicts in Vancouver.

The report said vigorous law enforcement is the answer to Vancouver's problem.

Police Chief Mulligan declined to comment, except to say: "If that is their finding, I must accept it as constructive criticism."

At the same time, the chief announced he had issued a writ of libel against the Toronto tabloid and also asked for an injunction restraining the weekly from repeating the alleged libel.

Chief Mulligan alleges two instances of libel by the magazine in its two most recent editions. The magazine said with the first of the articles that it would publish an eight-part series on the city police force and the conduct of officers.

Who's Who in the Building Trades

HOUSTON CO. LTD.

Since 1886 the Houston Company has been supplying the Bay of Quinte district with quality building materials.

The firm, founded in Tweed by Robert Findlay Houston and E. Van Dusen as a logging operation and saw mill, has grown steadily into a modern, efficient retail outlet for all kinds of building materials.

The business, originally known as Houston and Van Dusen was renamed the R. F. Houston Co. when Van Dusen's interest was purchased by his partner and subsequently was known as R. F. Houston and Son when J. F. Houston entered the firm. In 1910 the name of the firm was changed again to the Houston Co.

Robert Findlay Houston, who founded the firm and acted as its president until he died in 1918, was a carpenter and a building contractor. In the latter capacity he built a great part of Madoc.

J. F. Houston became president of the company in 1918 and served in that capacity until his death in 1938 when Fred E. Houston became president. Fred E. Houston died in 1939 and was succeeded as president by R. E. Houston who serves in the same capacity today.

Other officers of the company are Harry Rollins, treasurer, and Norland Houston, secretary.

MOVED TO BELLEVILLE

The firm moved to Belleville in 1927 into the premises on St. Paul St. formerly occupied by the Steel Company of Canada's plant which was vacant following Stelco's move to Swansea. At that time the firm gave up its contracting business to concentrate exclusively on building materials.

Today the Houston Co. Ltd., with a staff of 40, operates a complete building materials supply business on its 11 acre property at 75 St. Paul St. It has the only double sash and door plant in this area, a machine shop complete with saws, planers, drill presses jointers, resaw planers, sanders and a matcher sticker for tongue and grooving, as well as a complete cabinet making shop, a custom frame department, and a new Moore dry kiln capable of quick drying 15,000 feet of lumber at a time, in its 60,000 square feet of enclosed buildings.

The company's motto, "specialists in all types of building materials and will work," accurately describes the company's experience and capabilities. Plumbing and heating supplies are the only lines of builders' supplies not carried by the company.

VARIETY OF MATERIALS

Houston's sells cement as well as everything in lumber. The company handles such a varied stock of lumber that it can meet almost any customer's needs, and in a quantity sufficient to supply contractors engaged in heavy construction.

The sash and door plant, established in 1937, is the only one of its kind in this area. The cabinet shop makes all types of fireplace mantels, kitchen cabinets, and custom built door and window frames for schools and institutions.

In 1953 the company established its Belfab division and from it sells prefabricated houses, summer cottages, horse stables, chicken coops, and any type of building that can be prefabricated.

Retail lines include a complete selection of plaster boards, ceiling tiles, insulations, plywoods, interior and exterior mouldings, bricks cement, windows glass and everything in builders' hardware.

Flue tile for chimneys, sewer tile, asphalt shingles, floor tiles linoleums, hardwood flooring, all lines of glass and rough and dressed lumber in any quantity are available at Houston's.

Houston's also carry a complete line of dry kiln hardwoods including oak, maple, ash and basswood in addition to all west coast woods, firs, pine, etc.

All kinds of plaster and cement products including stucco are handled. Roofing felts, rolled roofing and shingles are available.

Houston's also has in stock water proofing materials, and a complete line of paints from cement finish to furniture paint.

All kinds of doors, interior and exterior, are carried or can be custom made. Houston's has a large stock of ready-made doors in a variety of styles.

For all builders' supplies from the smallest repair project to the biggest construction job, the Houston Co. Ltd. is equipped to meet your requirements. For experienced, helpful, efficient service in the building materials line, Houston's is the place to do business.

Some Rules For Windows In the Home

How much window space would you allow for each room in planning or modernizing a home?

Most building codes accept not less than 10 per cent of the area of a room as the area for windows. But research shows that glass areas should be more than double that amount for proper lighting.

Because windows can affect your comfort both physically and psychologically, the University of Illinois Small Homes Council has worked out a set of new rules to be applied to windows in an ideal house.

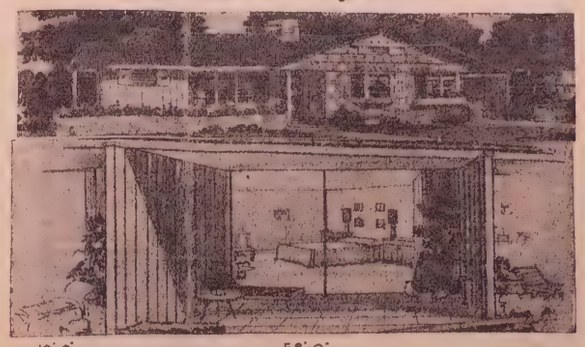
"Provide glass areas in excess of 20 per cent of the floor area of each room." That is the first rule. And the experts suggest that much more is desirable, especially for cloudy days.

SOUTH IS BRIGHTEST

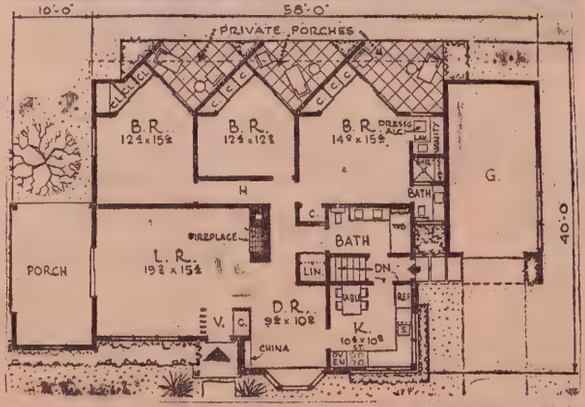
"Place the principal window areas toward the south except in warm climates where a northern orientation will limit heat from the sun." This rule is based on the fact that the south sky is the brightest. Direct sunlight can also be controlled easier on the south than on the east and west.

"Windows in more than one wall of a room give more effective daylighting than windows in just one wall." Also one large window provides a better distribution of light than the same amount of space devoted to separate windows with dark areas between them.

Extending window heights as close to the ceiling as possible lengthens the depth of light penetration into a room.



WATCH YOUR CURTAINS



Draperies, curtains and other window hangings should be placed above the head of a window and to the sides of the frame to free the entire glass area for light. "Dark, heavy draperies hung over the sides and top of a window can reduce the available daylight by 75 per cent," the experts found. "The practice of pulling window shades one-fourth or one-half way down results in loss of light in the rear of the room where it is needed the most."

When it comes to ventilation the research showed that more than 10 per cent of the floor area of a room should be matched with windows that open.

"Screen only those parts of the window that open for ventilation," the council advises. "Full screens can absorb as much as 50 per cent of available daylight. Half-screens take up only 15 per cent."

A Porch For Every Bedroom

Inspired by cabana terraces of Central America, this house has a series of private porches secluded along its rear garden side. Each bedroom has its own private porch set off at an angle to retain increased privacy in the bedroom. Sliding glass walls separate bedroom and porch. A living room porch at the side is walled in front to cut off the view from the street front. The main bathroom has two lavatories. A shower stall is planned large enough to accommodate a seat. A vanity-lavatory dressing alcove adjoins the master bedroom. This is plan 425M by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-34 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y. The house covers 1,363 square feet without garage and is planned for a basement.

Gluing is by far the strongest permanent fastening for fir plywood. Glue may be used with nails or screws. When glue alone is used pressure on the glued-up joint should be maintained. Use waterproof glue for exterior exposures. Extremes of dampness won't hurt the fir plywood itself because all fir plywood made in Canada is bonded with waterproof glue.

A tough and economical utility floor can be laid by using Abitibi Treated Grade Hardboard. Lay the sheets smooth side up over flooring lumber; the floor then can be painted or waxed.

A solid, attractive exposed edge on fir plywood can be obtained by filling the edge with wood dough or putty and sanding it smooth. A coat of shellac before sanding will give a satiny finish.

CONCRETE SEPTIC TANKS
STEEL REINFORCED
These tanks are made from a special mixture of cement very similar to the formula that is used in the manufacture of our concrete burial vaults and are fully reinforced with a steel wire mesh. The baffles are cast into the tank and no special or any fittings are needed to connect the tank to the sewer lines. Being a horizontal type of construction the above tank has a much higher rate of digestion than tanks poured into the ground.
All tanks are guaranteed waterproof as this is done in the batching of the cement, it is therefore not necessary to plaster or asphalt as in the case with poured tanks.

FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

Big Enough For Everything

This home is small, but it's big enough for everything that's needed to keep a small family comfortable and happy.

Storage, always a problem, is none here. Design H-314-KF takes care of that with a full basement that has rooms for all the odds and ends a family collects. In addition, closet space throughout the home is generous and well-planned.

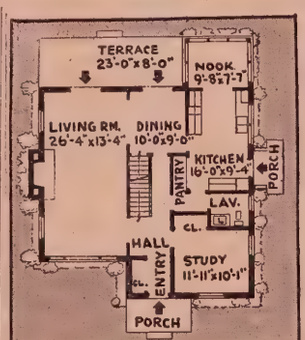
A THIRD BEDROOM

The plan calls for two bedrooms but, if necessary, there can be three, because the first floor study, which has wardrobe space, can be turned into sleeping quarters. This study conveniently located near the front door, might also serve as an office for a professional man. It's a versatile room!

The living room runs the full depth of the house, with a picture window at front, a door to the terrace at back. There's also a big fireplace that's an extremely decorative feature.

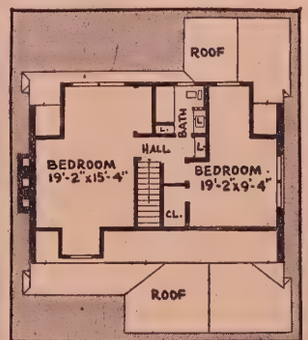
The dining area is adjacent to the living room and it, too, has access to the terrace.

Just about the most appealing part of the plan — at least from a homemaker's viewpoint — is the kitchen-nook arrangement. Here there is a large pantry area, an efficient work space and, best of all, an all-glassed-in breakfast nook. Imagine eating breakfast in this charming corner, as sun streams in through the windows and a colorful garden view can be seen on all sides.



Downstairs, there's a lavatory; upstairs, a full bath, with ample linen storage space and a vanity floor, are good-sized, the largest one having a dressing alcove.

All told, H-314-KF comprises 27.303 cubic feet.



If you are interested in obtaining blueprints for this house, send your inquiry and a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper for the name and address of the company from which it may be obtained.

FOR OUTDOOR LIVING

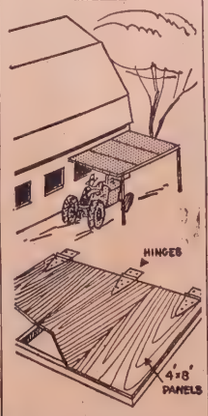
Create a play yard for the children or outdoor living room (patio or terrace) for the entire family.

A STUDY and a kitchen with dining nook and pantry area make the attractive first floor plan.

BOTH BEDROOMS are large, one with dressing alcove. Bath is well-equipped with storage space.

Rules For Selecting Bathroom Tile Color

A few basic rules for selecting colors in bathroom tilework and fixtures have been worked out by experience.



Color experts say that if a bathroom is small, as most of them are, the wisest course is to use the same color for both the walls and the floor. If you have two or more tile colors, you will automatically limit your choice of colors for accessories, since they will have to go with all the tile shades.

With a single tile color, on the other hand, you can use a number of different shades for accessories and still have a satisfactory room. The color scheme can be changed completely from time to time by using towels, shower curtains and bath mats in a different shade. Such a change of accessories will do as much as an ordinary decorating job to freshen up the room.

HOW TO CUT SHELLAC

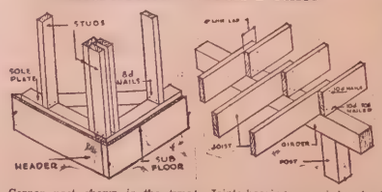
Shellac is usually sold in 4 or 5-pound "cut" or strength. To thin for proper use, add an equal amount of denatured alcohol — not anti-freeze.

Hinged Drop Roof Makes Handy Spot To Park Tractor

Out-of-weather parking for a tractor or other farm implement can quickly be provided. A hinged roof attached to barn, house, garage or other building is simple to make.

The tractor-port shown above can be let down out of the way when barn-yard space is needed for passage of hay racks, separators or similar large implements.

Full-sized fir plywood panels are nailed to a light frame of 2 x 3 inch lumber to make the hinged roof. The while structure should be given a good primer coat of high-grade exterior paint and finishing coats according to paint manufacturer's directions.



Fir plywood used here simplifies construction. The plywood is bonded with waterproof glue which will not be affected by hot dry summers and cold or wet winters.

Supports for the roof need only be a pair of light poles. For security in storms a method of anchoring the poles to the roof and to the ground should be devised.

CALKING IS EASY

Correct calking is easy if you follow these three easy steps. (1) Make sure the surface is dry and free from dust, putty, paint, etc; (2) Rub linseed oil over the surface to be calked; (3) Apply calking compound with a putty knife.

Construction Check-Points

Corner post shown is the type most commonly used in outside walls. The objects are to stiffen the corner and provide a nailing edge for the application of inside wall finish.

Joints bearing on a girder should have a minimum lap of 4 inches over the bearing and be nailed into the girder and to each other. Drawings by Small House Planning Bureau.

Plywood Sandwich, an Old Idea Modern Glues Make it Popular

Plywood as a major construction material is a relatively recent phenomenon yet the idea of plywood or a wood sandwich is as old as mummies of ancient Egypt. Early Egyptians discovered how to make veneer that goes into the plywood sandwich.

But plywood did not come into its own until introduction of waterproof glue to the plywood industry in the late 1930's. Up until that time plywood was used mainly by specialists making furniture and to an even more limited extent in some interior panel applications.

Then came development of phenolic formaldehyde resin glue as a key factor in hot-press bonding of veneers. A whole new field of outdoor uses for plywood was opened up because light, tough veneers peeled from fir tree logs could now stand extremes of wetness and temperature without damage to the waterproof glue bond.

Waterproof glue made production of fir plywood a major industry in Canada. All of Canada's fir plywood is produced on the west coast and all of it is bonded with waterproof glue.

In 1954 some 650 million square feet of fir plywood were produced in British Columbia. Nine plants turned out 4 x 8 foot panels for use in home building in heavy construction, in boat making, around the farm and in industry.

In every form of building, from do-it-yourself knick-knacks to concrete forms for a mighty river dam, fir plywood has come to play a major role.

Richards Has Player Midas Touch-When He Trades Them To Other Clubs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

NOT FAIR

Some of the more "hard-boiled" wrestling fans have assailed this department with the suggestions that we should tie a ton of coal around the neck and hop off the government dock (not a bad idea if they eliminate the coal).

The suggestions stemmed from the stories written about the latest wrestling sensation, Prince Maiava, who is one of the most agile colorful graduates of the College of Applied Pachdermy Professor Frank Tunney had safari'd here in many a moon.

They yelp "Phoney". They scream he's a drug store cowboy from Brooklyn, with a Florida tan, getting paid by a well-known mop company for advertising their product atop his noggin. They say they will expose him some night by yelling "Oivin, how's t'ings at the fishmarket."

Nothing could be further from the truth.

The lithe, speedy dark-skinned son of the South Pacific is a bona-fide prince from the Samoan Islands. He has a brilliant war record with the United States Army, and his activities as a scout for the Marines in jungle warfare was the direct cause of his coming to the United States.

His close friend, confidante, manager and interpreter called "Coconut Willie" is no less colorful than the prince. They met during the war in the Pacific. Willie was a major in the Marine Corps at the time. Drawn close together in the hell of jungle battle they became close friends and Willie saw a future for the prince stateside. He brought him to the USA about 18 months ago.

While scouting for the Marines on one of the Fiji Islands the prince and other scouts came across Willie who had been shot down behind the Japanese lines. They rescued him from the jungle. Maiava posted a great record after that Besides being credited with knifing 42 Japs to death, he carries a citation for bravery signed by President Truman.

He is an extraordinary specimen. His cranium is rock-hard as many opponents have discovered. His feet are tougher than a rhino's hide. He can walk on red-hot coals and sleep on a bed of nails.

But don't get the idea he is just a raw untamed savage from the head-hunters' jungle. One of the first things he did after arriving in the United States was to visit Salt Lake City, Utah, the cradle of Mormonism. It is said that he gives 20 per cent of his earnings to the church.

Naturally he found things different in the USA. For instance there was a mere trifle called food. In his Fiji Island the prince's favorite dish was a platter of raw fish washed down with copious draft of coconut milk. No roast beef with Yorkshire pudding, stewed chicken or roast duck for the prince on Sundays. No sirree.

Instead there was a large casserole of bats. Not the baseball kind but those juicy beggars with wings that fly at night Live fish and stewed bats are uncommon on North American menus but, Willie says, the prince is getting along OK on steaks and chops. His splendid physique is evidence of that. So much for the sceptics. The prince with his current ring buddy Lord Athol Layton will be seen in action tonight against those Texas Terrors Lou Plummer and Dick Raines in what will be a grudge battle. Others on the card are George Scott and Don Lewin and Billy Stack and Chico Perez.

ANOTHER FOR PAT

Over Frankford way last night, Pat Maracle, who doesn't know how long it will be before he gathers in the old-age pension, took a look at the sky, the lights and the Merchants, and reckoned "This is it."

It was. The Mohawk with the Irish moniker loosened an arm, tested its rubberiness, flipped it a couple of times in cartwheel fashion, and decided it was in good form. In the old days when the Indians (not Cleveland) were at loggerheads with the whites and the tomahawk was the favorite Indian method of paleface elimination, Pat would have been been a heluva good guy to have on your side, when his flipper was in the condition of that of last night.

For the ageless one, long the mound mainstay of the Ox Pointers and possessor of an outstanding hurling record, went out there and hung a beautiful horse collar on the Merchants. If had to be, for the ornery cuss did not give them a single clout.

It was Pat's first no-hitter of the year and his third in two seasons. Last year he fashioned two no-blowers in succession, which is something of an alltime softball record for the district.

Pat whiffed four and issued four walks. His mates bobbled once which makes it only five Merchants to reach first base. The win was the fifth for the Ox Pointers—and the fourth for their ace moundsman. More power to his elbow.

ATTENTION MIDGET BASEBALL PLAYERS

All players of midget age who are not yet affiliated with a team are requested to get in touch with Bill Brennan, president of the minor setup in the city for registration with a team. Mr. Brennan can be reached at 39 Pine Street, phone Woodland 8-8918.

Stoneham, "Lip" On Mystery Trip

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Leo Durocher and his boss, Horace Stoneham, arrived here Thursday on separate planes, but neither would give a hint toward confirmation of a rumor that Durocher was finished as manager of the lagging New York Giants.

Rumor had it that Durocher would leave the world champions to become manager of St. Louis Cardinals.

Stoneham, arriving about two hours behind Durocher's chartered team plane, said there was "no truth" to rumors of a managerial change in the Giants. He made no further comment.

PITCHER SOLD

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night announced the sale of right-handed pitcher Bob Tiefenauer to their Omaha farm club in the American Association.

Tiefenauer has a 1-4 record and appeared in 18 games for the redbirds this year.

Gene Woodling, Byrd, Turley Sparkle In Thursday Games; Dodgers May Use Tail-Light

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Baltimore manager Paul Richards kept a record of the players he has traded away, he could call it "poor Richards' diary."

Richards, who doubles as general manager of the last-place Orioles, has palmed off, among others, pitchers Bob Turley and Harry Byrd and outfielder Gene Woodling.

Woodling, traded to Cleveland last week, really boomeranged. He got four-for-four and batted in four runs as Indians trounced Orioles 9-2 Thursday.

Byrd, a 30-year-old righthander bundled off to White Sox nine days ago, gave just four hits and blanked Washington 7-0. It was his second victory in two starts since leaving Orioles.

And Turley, the young fire-baller who went to New York Yankees in an 18-player deal that shipped Woodling and Byrd to Baltimore last winter, fanned six, walked only one and shut out Kansas City 3-0 on three singles.

DIDN'T NEED HELP

The other American League game was won by Boston without any help from Richards. The Bostons whipped Detroit 7-0 behind Frank Sullivan's two-hitter, moving to within one percentage point of the fourth-place Tigers.

Those results—with each winner sweeping a three-game series—left Yanks out front by two games over White Sox, in turn two ahead of Cleveland. Both Boston and Detroit are 10 games behind New York.

Just how far Red Sox can go may be determined this weekend. The second-place White Sox open at Boston tonight. Cleveland is at New York.

In the National, first-place Brooklyn swept three from Chicago by winning 7-4. Cubs, in second place since May 25, slipped one percentage point behind idle Milwaukee Braves, who greet Brooklyn in a weekend series, trail Dodgers by 14 games.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia 7-1 in the only other game scheduled, dropping Phils into sixth place behind idle Cincinnati.

AVERAGE IMPROVED

Woodling, who Richards had hoped would give the Orioles a big bat but who hit only .221 in 47 games, now is batting .444 for Cleveland in six games. Indians had 15 hits for the second straight day off Baltimore pitching while Bob Feller tossed a four-hitter for his second victory of the year.

Only one Washington runner reached second against Byrd, who had a 3-2 record in 14 games with Baltimore. White Sox got seven of their 11 hits off loser Camilo Pascual while dumping the Nats to their 13th defeat in 14 games. Nellie Fox, whose hitting streak was stopped at 17 games the night before, doubled home the first two Chicago runs in the third.

Turley, as wild as he is fast on most occasions, held off until the eighth inning before giving his lone walk. He retired the first 15 men he faced, fanning the first four, while upping his strikeout total to 106. Only Cleveland's Herb Score has more with 111. Bobby Shantz, who holds the A's only two successes against Yanks this season, was the loser.

TWO DOUBLES

The only Detroit hits off Sullivan were doubles, by Bill Tuttle and pinch-hitter Ferris Fain, as the big righthander made his record 9-6. Boston, zipping along with 14 victories in the last 16 games, romped in on a grand-slam homer by Jackie Jensen and a two-run clout by Norb Zauchin. Ted Williams was walked three times and singled in his only official trip.

Brooklyn kept winning as bases-loaded singles by Peewee Reese and Gil Hodges scored four runs in the seventh to overhaul Cubs and loser Sam Jones. Unbeaten Clem Labine won his sixth, but failed to finish for the 23rd straight time since the playoff set with the Giants in 1951. Karl Spooner worked the last three innings, striking out seven.

Cards had 12 hits off loser Herm Wehmeier and two relievers, including homers by Wally Moon and Bill Virdon. Rookie Floyd Wooldridge scattered seven hits, giving Phils just one after the fifth.

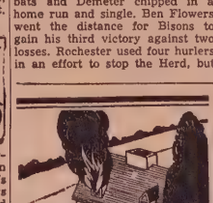
Sugar Kings Nudge Leafs For Top Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings have become the big threat to the front-running Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League.

The Cubans have been the hottest team in the league during the last few weeks, playing at an .857 clip, with 18 victories in 21 games. They moved to within half a game of Maple Leafs Thursday night by sweeping a doubleheader from the last-place Syracuse Chiefs, 4-1 and 5-1, while the third-place Montreal Royals salvaged the final game of a three-game series with Toronto, 10-4.

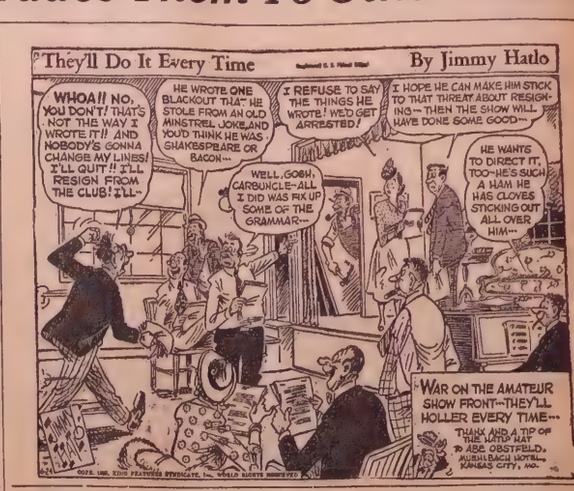
In other games, Columbus Jets moved into fourth place, one point ahead of Rochester Red Wings, by defeating Richmond Virginians 5-3. Buffalo Bisons made it three out of four over Red Wings by taking a 6-4 verdict.



Havana has defeated Chiefs 11 times in 13 meetings this season. Joe Bracho yielded only three hits in taking the first game. Sugar Kings could only get four hits from three Syracuse pitchers, but three of them came in the four-run third inning. They scored all their runs on two walks, two singles and a double.

Emilio Cueche limited Chiefs to six hits in the nightcap for his fourth victory in seven decisions. Louis Garcia sparked the 12-hit Cuban attack with a home run, double and single.

After using two lefthanders in the first two games against Maple Leafs, Royals tried righthander Don Drysdale in an effort to pull out the final game. Drysdale, in posting his seventh victory of the season, helped his own cause with a bases-empty homer in the sixth inning. Eddie Blake, who lasted 4 1-3 innings and gave up six runs was tagged with the loss.



Ossie Van Brabant gave up 10 hits but went the route as Jets swept the three-game series from Richmond. Columbus jumped on starter Mario Picone for four runs in the first inning, climaxed by Spider Wilhelm's bases - clearing double. The Virginians outhit the Jets 10-7 but Van Brabant kept them in check until the ninth when Clint McCord drove out a home run with two aboard.

Walt Streuli and Steve Demeter led the 11-hit Buffalo attack which sank Red Wings into fifth place. Streuli got two singles in four at bats and Demeter chipped in a home run and single. Ben Flowers went the distance for Bisons to gain his third victory against two losses. Rochester used four hurlers in an effort to stop the Herd, but

Milligan, Laing Battle in Finals Ontario Ladies' Golf Championship

BURLINGTON (CP)—A 21-year-old western Canada co-ed and a 19-year-old darkhorse, the fallen favoriter behind them, fight it out today for the Ontario ladies golf championship.

Rae Milligan, a power-hitting girl from Jasper Park, Alta., who rose to prominence with victories over veteran Ada Mackenzie of Toronto and Marlene Stewart of Ponthill, tees off against Noreen Laing of Toronto in today's final 18-hole match-play round.

Although neither has won the Ontario title, the experts figured Miss Milligan, who entered competitive golf only five years ago, has too much class for her opponent. On the other hand, Miss Laing was riding a hot streak and could make it tough.

Rae, three-time Alberta champion, ousted Roma Neundorf of Toronto Ladies 2 and 1 in her semi-final match at the Burlington Golf and Country Club Thursday. She took care of Miss Mackenzie Tuesday in the first day of match play and eliminated Marlene, Canadian open and closed champion last year, Wednesday.

Miss Laing tossed five birdies at defending champion Anne Sharpe of Lookout Point Thursday to gain a 5 and 4 victory—one of the biggest of the tournament—in her semi-final match. Her putter had a touch of magic as she sank 20- and 30-foot putts with ease.

Miss Sharpe was in the traps and rough too often to place herself in a contending position. She was three holes down by the time she hit the nine-hole turn. She lost two more to Miss Laing on the back nine and was defeated on the 15th hole.

Miss Milligan's great tee shots were the big factor in her victory. Miss Neundorf sprayed her shots and was scrambling to stay up to her steady opponent. Rae led one up at the turn and was three ahead at the 11th.

Miss Neundorf cut the lead to a single hole on the 12th and 13th holes but was forced to halve the next two. She lost the 16th and was eliminated on the 17th when it was halved.

Moore, Olson Farce Should End Boxing's Mixed Grills

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be a long time before the boxing promoters will serve the customers another blue plate special between the champions of the 160 and 175-pound divisions.

It has long since been proved to be an unnatural pairing. The latest farce, in which large and deadly punching Archie Moore dispatched "little" Bobo Olson with almost the first good lick he landed should serve as a lasting warning to the middleweights to stay in their class.

A middleweight champion who feels he has outgrown his opposition and who insists upon stepping up a notch, should at least be forced to abandon his title and declare himself a full-fledged light-heavyweight before the papers are signed. This would automatically deprive such a match of its false glitter and mute the ballyhoo. Olson would not have agreed to such terms.

In retrospect, there was less reason for his mixed grill than there was for the previous one between Joey Maxim and Sugar Ray Robinson on another sizzling June night in 1952.

LED IN POINTS

Ray was a genuine fistic marvel for years as he fought his way triumphantly up through three weight divisions while Maxim merely was the best of a sad crop of 175-pounders.

Even so, it was Robinson, not Maxim, who practically passed out in the 10-degree heat with two more rounds to go. Sugar was far ahead on points, but the physical exertion of tugging and hauling with the bigger man proved too much for him.

As for Olson, he almost seemed to realize from the moment the bell rang that he was a boy on a man's errand. He looked pale and extremely uneasy and there was no light of battle in his eyes.

Within less than two hours a still dazed but much smarter Bobo was in the air on his way back home to San Francisco.

Strangely enough there is not the slightest feeling among any of the experts with whom we have since talked that Archie might do the same to Rocky Marciano if and when they meet. They give him a chance of lasting the route with the Rock, at best. If Marciano should be no sharper than he was against Don Cockell recently, they can even see Archie outpointing him in a dull exhibition. But they can't imagine Archie or anyone else around today putting Rocky on the deck and keeping him there.

SCORES NO-HITTER

OTTAWA (CP)—David Scrim, 11-year-old pitcher for the Ottawa Little League Indians, Thursday night struck out 14 batters to earn himself a 15-0 no-hit victory over the Giants.

The pint - sized mound man walked the first batter, then settled down and retired the next 18 straight. Four grounded out. He whiffed the rest in the six-inning game.

Juan de Fuca Beats Logger, Three to Try

VICTORIA (CP) — An irrepressible American logger, whose desire to conquer the undefeated Strait of Juan de Fuca amounts to a passion, is preparing for another crack at the foe that beat him for the third time Thursday.

"What has that strait got against me?" 29-year-old Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., cried after he was pulled from the water nine hours and 11 minutes after he set out from neighboring Esquimalt to swim across the 18-mile stretch of water.

Thomas said he would try again, possibly Saturday, and it appears the strait will be heavy with swim traffic during the next few days.

Also here for a crack at the chilly, tide-ripped strait are two eastern Canadian swimmers.

Rev. John Donelin of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church in Toronto and Janice White, 18 - year - old daughter of a wealthy Toronto businessman, have announced they will attempt to swim the strait Monday.

SWAM 20 MILES

Thursday's defeat was a bitter pill for Thomas, a former U. S. marine frogman. He had swum nearly 20 miles on a zig-zag course before being pulled from the water and at one stage came within less than six miles of the Washington state shore before a strong wind and tides pushed him back.

Earlier this month the tides had stopped him dead when he was nine miles from Port Angeles, Wash. In April he was pulled out with a stomach cramp after swimming only seven miles.

Father Donelin hopes that his attempt will help construction of a youth centre in Toronto. He is sworn to poverty and can't take money but hopes that any money accruing will be used to help the centre.

Miss White was here earlier this year to take a crack at the strait but bad weather stopped her attempt.

Patterson Whips Durelle Easily Bout Stopped

NEWCASTLE, N.B. (CP)—Floyd Patterson of Brooklyn Thursday night stopped Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., Canadian light heavyweight champion, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round non-title bout.

Durelle, nursing a hand injury and bleeding from a cut on the upper lip, survived the fifth round but did not come out for the sixth. He signalled he had enough, and referee Petey Scalzo of New York stopped the bout.

It was Patterson all the way. Second in the rankings of contenders for the world light heavy title, the Brooklyn battler was in beautiful shape and pounded the Canadian champion almost at will. Each weighed 170.

Durelle was unable to last as long as he did in a Brooklyn fight with Patterson in February, 1954, when the latter gained an unanimous eight-round decision.

The New Brunswicker said he hurt his right hand against Jimmy Garcia, Puerto Rican middleweight king, in a fight at Moncton, N.B. last Thursday. Garcia lost in the eighth.

Haggis Juniors Lose To Kingston 7-0

The Kingston Giants, league - leaders in the Limestone City baseball league, were guests of Al Kelleher's Belleville Haggis Juniors in an exhibition tilt here last night and went home with a 7-0 victory in six innings. The local club will pay a return visit on Saturday night.

Don Cherry of the juniors and Murray for the visiting nine were well matched as far as hits were concerned, each allowing but five. Cherry received poor support in the first frame and added to his woes by walking nine Giants while Murray handed out only one free pass, making a great deal of difference.

The Eastern crew sent three runs home in the initial frame, made it 4-0 in the second, added a pair in the fourth and finished strong with another in the sixth. Murray claimed four on strikes while Cherry fanned one.

Tony Pettitt, catcher for the Belleville Bata, co-champions of Ontario in 1954, came back to haunt coach Kelleher and his lads last night, pounding a two - run double and knocking in another with a single, drawing two walks and scoring twice himself to lead his club with the hickory. North had the only other extra-base hit off Cherry, a double while singles went to B. Joyce and D. Jeffrey.

Charles Kingston, Belleville first sacker, met Murray's slants for a brace of singles in a losing effort. The other three local hits were doubles, one each for Ted Batchelor, Harvey Stoliker and Gord St. Louis.

Caron led off for the Giants in the first by reaching 1st, on an error and North promptly doubled. Tony Pettitt then crashed a two-base blow to left, plating both runners, and errors by Buskard and St. Louis made it 3-0. A hit batter, walk and Pettitt's single added the second inning marker.

A walk to Pettitt, Fox's error and Joyce's single brought in two more tallies in the fourth while three walks and an error closed the scoring in the sixth as darkness called a halt to activities.

Berle Should Lift This One

PARIS (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Thursday a new effort will be made to define "amateurism" in Olympic competition.

Brundage told a press conference he will ask the IOC to "make a series of interpretations" of amateurism in the hope that common ground can be reached.

Brundage strongly condemned any state subsidization of Olympic athletes, declaring that sports "should be controlled by sportsmen—not politicians."

He said he had heard many charges that Russia had violated Olympic amateur rules, but said "we have no definite evidence."

Kesselring, Horvath Top Field of 100 In Ontario Open Golf Championship

KINGSTON (CP)—More than 100 professionals and amateurs, headed by favorites Rudy Horvath and Gerry Kesselring, start out today in a stroke-for-stroke bid for the Ontario open golf championship.

The field tees off at Kingston's lakeshore Cataraqui Golf and Country Club in their hunt for the crown and the $500 that goes to the winner. Only those with the 50 best scores and ties in the 18 holes today will advance into the 36-hole windup Saturday.

Although some of the province's top amateurs are entered, the experts have made Horvath, a dapper little pro from Windsor Essex who won the Open last year, and Kesselring, playing out of Toronto Downsview, the favorites.

Both have been touring the United States' winter circuit. Horvath, who arrived here Wednesday, fined in two good practice rounds. He fired a three-over-par 73 Wednesday and a three-under 67 Thursday. The competitive course record is 69.

Kesselring, a former champion in this Open who once golfed out of Kitchener, shot a practice 67 Wednesday and a 72 Thursday.

Horvath and Kesselring have each won the tournament twice.

Although they have been installed as favorites, few are counting Moe Norman, an amateur from Kitchener Rockway, out of the running.

Norman could get hot and leave the field behind him, as he did when he fired a nine-under-par 63 at an invitation tournament at Brantford last week.

The Open is the third of four tournaments in which Ontario's Willingdon Cup team is selected. The previous two tournaments were at the Burlington and London Hunt clubs.

Scores in the 36-hole matches played at each of the two clubs will be added to total scores in the 54-hole total here to decide the four-man team.

All team members must take part in the Canadian Ontario amateur at Kitchener July 6-9. The winner of the amateur automatically gains a berth on the team and the low man is dropped.

Norman is nine strokes ahead of his closest pursuer in the qualifying matches for the Willingdon Cup team. Behind him is Jerry Magee of Toronto Lambton with 289.

"I want to protect that nine-stroke edge," he said after arriving here Thursday. "They tell me this is a driver's course. That happens to be the best part of my game."

Dick Greene, pro at the Cataraqui Club, doesn't think any of the competitors will find the course easy. Many veterans say the layout is one of the toughest in the province. The consensus is that 210 —even par on every round—will win.

Winners At Horse Show

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Bianca owned by Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Chassels of Willowdale, Thursday won the hunter brood mare class competition at the St. Catharines horse show.

The same horse also won the competition for mares suitable to produce hunters.

Cadet's Commanderette, owned by Thornlea Stables, Jordan, was chosen as the hackney mare, suitable to reprogenate. The Shetland mare, suitable to reprogenate, honours went to Show Girl, owned by Marwood Robbins of Shedden.

The Shetland foal of 1955 was Holloway's Sammy, Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Holloway of Caistor Center.

The winning pair of roadsters was Vanette Vola and Mary Lee Guy, owned by Dr. E. Foster, Galt.

Argyll's 2nd Edition, owned by Dr. W. W. Bartlett and Son, Brampton, was the winning single harness pony.

Brantford's Long Bane Farm entries of Alasa Tagalong and Alasa Torchbearer won the championship for pair of harness ponies.

Jumping sweepstake honors went to ABC Farms entry from Brampton, Black Velvet, Knight Rose won the open saddle horse for Long Lane Farm, Brantford.

Single harness hackney pony champion was Alasa Torchbearer, Long Lane Farm, Brantford.

SIGN FOR MATCH

NEW YORK (AP) — Contracts were signed Thursday for a 10-round bout in San Francisco July 22 between Sugar Ray Robinson, former world welterweight and middleweight champion, and Rocky Castellani.

The bout had been tentatively set for July 15.

The fight will be staged in the Cow Palace and each of the fighters will receive 30 per cent of the gate. Also it was agreed that they must weigh in at 161 pounds or Watch good golfers and you'll see they all observe the rule that the head must be kept from moving either up or down, or sideways, throughout the swing. Do you do that? No! Well that you just gotta do! You hold the head in fixed position and pivot your hips a quarter and your shoulders a half turn with the head and the feet as fixed bases. And here's why: the golfer who sways his hips to the right in his backswing inevitably moves his head to the right. Such head-shifting makes it almost impossible for the player to bring his clubhead back to the ball, in the downswing, with accuracy or timing. That is he can not bring the face of the club squarely to the ball; and he can't make contact at the correct mechanical instant which is when the club reaches its greatest speed. The headshifter also is apt to lose balance and fall out of position when attempting to follow through. Steady with your head throughout the swing.

Argos Acqure Canadian Star

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's football Argonauts are acquiring 220-pound Canadian fullback Len Metzer, general manager Harry Sonshine announced Thursday.

Metzer has previously played with Vancouver Lions and Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Argos succeeded in having him waived from the Western League so that he could play here.

Sonshine said that Metzer is just what the Argonauts need.

"His great speed and size will give us a good solid Canadian for punt returns and fullback duty."

FANS GLAD, WILLIE SAD

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Horse race fans can be a heartless lot.

Willie Shoemaker, the leading jockey at Hollywood Park had to withdraw from all mounts after one race Thursday. He had a tooth ache that was so painful he couldn't stand it any longer.

When it was announced that Willie was being taken off his horses, a huge cheer went up from the crowd.

Whenever Willie rides the payoff is generally pretty low.

Petes' "Ike" Tops Scorers In Lacrosse

TORONTO (CP)—Ike Hildebrand who has seen National Hockey League action with New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks is proving this year that he hasn't lost his touch in lacrosse.

Hildebrand, last year with Montreal Royals in the Quebec Hockey League, tops the scorers in the Ontario Senior Lacrosse Association, statistics released Thursday showed.

The 155-pound Peterborough Pete star has scored 20 goals and leads the league in assists with 17 for 37 points. The figures include games played June 17.

In second place is Hamilton's Jack Dorney who is tied with Hildebrand for goal scoring honors with 20. He also has 11 assists. Right behind Dorney is Doug Smith of St. Catharines with 30 points.

Moon Wootton, Peterborough goalkeeper, leads in that department with an average of 9.86 goals-against.

Les Digby of Hamilton is the most penalized player with a total of 35 minutes, including one match misconduct.

Majors, Elgins Bow To Panthers, Oshawa

By The CANADIAN PRESS

John Ambrose, St. Thomas Elgins' pitcher, threw a waist-high pitch Thursday night that appealed to Oshawa Merchants' leftfielder Ted O'Connor.

O'Connor belted the ball outside the park and scored following two teammates to win the Senior Intercounty Baseball League game 8-6.

Ambrose was one out away from a victory that would have sent St. Thomas into second place when he served the fatal pitch.

In another game Kitchener Panthers came from behind to defeat London Majors 5-4.

Elgins scored single runs in the first, third and ninth innings and added three in the seventh. They were ahead 6-5 going into the final half-inning.

Oshawa scored once in the third and twice in the fifth and sixth innings before O'Connor's blow.

The win strengthened Oshawa's hold on first place and pushed third-place St. Thomas two games from that position.

BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"West of Zanzibar"

Filmed entirely in the jungles and coastlands of East Africa, with the Technicolor photography enhancing the beauty and mystery of lush backgrounds, colorful tribal dances and the wild animal life, the picture is fascinating to watch, as was "King Solomon's Mines, "The African Queen" and other outstanding films made on the Dark Continent. The story, dealing with the hunt for ivory smugglers who are corrupting peace-loving natives, is interesting but it always takes second place to the authentic shots of elephants, lions, crocodiles and hippopotami. Edric Conner contributes a fine portrayal of the wise old native chieftain and Sheila Sim does nicely as Steel's wife, the only feminine role. Story and direction by Harry Watt. Produced by Leslie Norman for Michael Balcon, in association with the Schlesinger Organization.

Anthony Steel National Park Warden, is disturbed because the Galanas, a tribe he has long befriended, are being forced by soil erosion to Mombasa, on the coast where they fall prey to the temptations of large-scale ivory smugglers. Despite the warning of their chief, Edric Conner, some of the Galanas are caught killing elephants for their ivory. Steel takes a party of natives and treks inland in search of the man responsible for corrupting the tribe. He encounters many dangers before he comes across Martin Benson a white lawyer with a load of poached ivory. In the ensuing fight Conner is killed and the Galanas turn against Benson and help Steel to bring him to justice. The tribesmen have learned their lesson from "civilization."

Game Given New Twist

GALT (CP)—The all-star game, never much of a financial success, will be given a new twist this year by the Intercounty Baseball Association.

Ernie Reeve, chairman of the all-star game committee, said Thursday this year's competitors will be a single team from the senior A section and an all-star squad from the senior B circuit

Kitchener Panthers have been chosen to represent the top-bracket loop. The game will be played at Listowel July 15.

Last year both teams were selected from various squads in the senior A section.

Contestants Carefully Screened On CBS' Hottest New Show

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' $64,000 Question, hottest new show on television, is so lucky on having interesting contestants that it might appear they were carefully screened —and they are.

Louis Cowan, who owns the show and executive producer Steve Carlin make no secret about that. But they say contestants are chosen for their human-interest value rather than on the basis of whether they're likely to be able to answer a lot of difficult questions.

The first big winner, Redmond O'Hanlon, was quite a story himself. He's a New York City policeman, a Shakespearian scholar, holder of a master of arts degree and the father of five children. And he quit with $16,000 rather than risk it trying for $32,000.

Equally interesting is the new 64er contestant, Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer, mother of six grown children and grandmother of seven, who has run her prize to $8,000 on questions about the Bible.

HER FIRST SHOW

Mrs. Kreitzer, wife of a carpenter and currently working as a typist at a Pennsylvania naval supply depot, rode in an airplane for the first time to come here for the show. It also was the first time she'd ever been in a TV studio.

Carlin says contestants are not tested in their favorite categories in advance and are not even asked to choose one until they're on the stage and ready to compete.

Some viewers were skeptical that O'Hanlon hadn't been given some clue or other help when he won the $16,000 last week by giving the names of the printers and publication date of the first collection of Shakespeare's works. But Cowan and Carlin say there were no clues and no communications with him whatever. They added that Dr. Berger Evans of Northwestern University, who compiles most of the questions, insisted that the question was not unduly difficult for a Shakespearian scholar, although it might have seemed so to the layman.

AT THE McCARTHY — Dirk Bogarde and Virginia McKenna in a tense scene from "Simba," a gripping story of Mau Mau and those who fight these fanatical terrorists in Kenya. Donald Sinden also stars in this drama of life in the turmoil and strife of Africa today. "Simba" is in color and is now at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Teenagers' idol, John Derek, co-stars with James Cagney and Viveca Lindfors in Paramount's action packed "Run For Cover," filmed in VistaVision and in Technicolor, starting today at the Belle Theatre. VistaVision visits Mexico and a Popeye Cartoon, are added attractions.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, June 25, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Public and governmental affairs, work and other activities requiring initiative and courage are top favorites today. You can attain if you use your fine head, capability.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A reasonable amount of aggressiveness (but not force) urged in all worthwhile endeavors. Naval, military maneuvers highly encouraged. Be careful in private matters, financial transactions.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not an easy day. Try to generate stimulus by keener action, getting to the core of things, finding out why and how some things click while others don't.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — With your innate intelligence you can make headway in management, selling, real estate, general merchandising. The most inauspicious hours are the early ones. Devote some time to research.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Don't make any drastic changes in living or business matters before you have checked all angles. Follow your schedule to the best of your ability but don't force your opinions on others.

August 22 to September 23 — (Virgo) — A good day in which to make serious plans for the next few weeks. Avoid extremes, contention; be the peacemaker and reactions will be in your favor. Heart interests favored.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Forethought and patience should be your watchwords now. It's easy to use stimulating influences as an excuse for harmful aggression. Respect others' rights; be diplomatic at home as well as elsewhere.

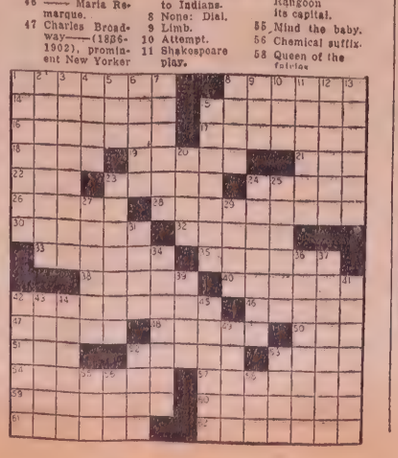
October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Let your better judgment and keen intuition dominate your activities; you can turn in creditable results. Don't be hasty and don't try to change smooth running projects unless absolutely necessary.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Calmness is imperative now. Accept tasks with a gracious, willing attitude and do not forget that friendship and a sense of humor are big assets.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — It is important that you do not take on more tasks, obligations than you can reasonably handle. Watch health, home requirements. They need your attention as well as do business associates.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Encouraging rays; a generous day on the whole. Your planet is in excellent position to assist your best endeavors today. Stimulating for professional matters.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Rays favor wholesome activities, honest endeavors. Predominant today are children's interests, community affairs. Don't be drawn into irritating discussions. Set a good example.



You born today have a strong personality; are a natural defender of high principles and good causes. You may have unusual literary talent (journalism, stage, politics, law, promoting are in your line). Curb oversensitiveness, moods; heed others' sound suggestions. You are innately a devoted parent, lifemate; clean - minded, loyal, if true to your better self. Restlessness should be controlled if you expect the fine gains you can make. Be consistent if you wish cooperation. Birthdate of: John Horne Tooke, Eng. philologist.

Minor Softball

Scoring eight runs in the sixth inning, the Elliott Regents downed Tip Top Cleaners 14-9 in a bantam softball game at the Moira Street fireball last night.

Ted Hook sweated the distance to gain the victory, surrendering ten hits, whiffing four and walking but one. Hill and Donovan shared the mound duties for Tip Tops, also giving up ten hits but walking ten to make the difference. Between them they fanned nine.

The winner's hits were evenly divided, Keller pacing the pack with a double and two singles while Blaker claimed a home run. Locke was the loser's top batter with a double and brace of singles while McGuire punched a trio of singles and Skinner had a double and single.

Clapp caught for the victors while McGuire was the Tip Top receiver.

Pat Maracle Fashions No-Hit Game As Point Anne Blanks Frankford 6-0

FRANKFORD. (Special)— Pat Maracle, the ageless softball hurler who pitched two successive no-hit, no-run games for the Point Anne Cementmen last year, did it again last night at Frankford, winning his fourth game of the year, a 6-0 victory over the Frankford Merchants in a Belleville and district softball game.

Maracle spun masterful ball to gain the no-hitter, facing 32 batters, four of the Merchants reaching base on walks while another was safe on an error. Pat claimed four on third strikes and had the homesters grounding out or popping up all night, allowing only four balls to be hit to the outfield. He aided his own cause with a single and fielded his position flawlessly.

Meanwhile his mates took a 3-0 lead in the initial stanza and completed the scoring with another trio in the eighth off Doug Radner. The Merchants ace tolled the distance for Frankford and allowed seven hits while downing six via strikes and walking only one. He fired near perfect ball from the third frame to the eighth. Three errors in the eighth cost Radner the extra three runs.

The second-place Ox-pointers had three of their hits in the first inning to register the trio of runs. Pat Gilmour started the rally with a double after Elliott flied to centre field. Wade popped to the second baseman but John Green drew a base on balls to keep things going. Gerry Goyer followed with a two run double and Bert Whalen slashed a single for the 3-0 score before Lally fanned.

Singles by Elliott in the second and Green in the sixth were the only hits Radner allowed until the eighth. Maracle started this run-producing frame with a single and Jack Elliott followed suit. A long fly by Gilmour advanced the runners and Dafoe's error loaded the sacks. Cosgrove's error sent two runners home and when Dafoe booted Goyer's greunder, the sixth Point Anne run crossed the plate. Whalen grounded out to end the inning.

Dafoe had a walk for Frankford in the first but Maracle then retired the next ten batters before walking Leavitt in the fourth. A two-base error by Whalen and a wild pitch made Gilmour the only Merchant to reach third base in the fifth frame, while Radner drew walks in the fifth and eighth but that was all.

Jack Elliott was the only batter with more than one hit, the left-fielder slashing a brace of singles while Pat Gilmour and Gerry Goyer claimed doubles. John Green, Bert Whalen and Maracle also met Radner's slants for singles.

Line ups—Point Annet Elliott, Gilmour, Wade, Green, Goyer, Whalen, Lally, Logue, Maracle.

Frankford — Dafoe, Cosgrove, Leavitt, B. Rankin, Murphy, Gilmour, Ackerman, Appleby, Morgan, Radner.

Line Score	R.	H.	E.
Pt. Anne	300 000 030—	6	7 1
Frankford	000 000 000—	0	0 4

Tennis Notes

Quinte had a fairly easy time on Wednesday night in a Bay of Quinte senior tennis match when they racked up a 5-0 victory over Trenton. After capturing the 1st men's by default, they went on to win every game, downing the opposition in three sets in the 2nd men's and 1st mixed while taking the 2nd mixed and ladies' doubles in straight sets.

Results—

1st men's—Quinte by default.
2nd men's—Quinte —Alf Wilkes, Dennis Orde; Trenton—Gerry Ireland, Val Scott. Quinte 6-4 2-6, 6-3.

1st mixed—Quinte—Eleanor and Arnold Anderson; Trenton—Helen Farrar and Bill Templeton. Quinte —6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

2nd mixed—Quinte—Pat Brearley and Dan Cowley; Trenton—Helen Johnson and Bob Burns. Quinte—6-1, 6-4.

Ladies' doubles—Quinte—Josephine Hurst and Madge Cowley; Trenton — Betty Mueller and Beth Miniely. Quinte—6-1, 6-2.

In a Bay of Quinte senior tennis match played at Batawa last night, the home club scored a narrow 3-2 victory over Point Anne by capturing the 1st men's doubles, ladies' doubles and the 2nd mixed doubles.

Results:

1st Men's Doubles — Tony Machala and Van Gelder, Batawa, defeated Robert Legate and Dick Morden, 6-1, 6-3.

2nd Men's Doubles — Doug. Bennett and Jack MacDonald, Pt. Anne, defeated Joe Pacas and Hubert Knapik, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

1st Mixed Doubles — Jennie Bilanski and Thorald Horwood, Pt. Anne, defeated Helena Moravick and Tom Kralick, 6-4, 6-0.

2nd Mixed Doubles — Pavia Miles and Melan Karlik, Batawa, defeated Diane Whitehead and Jack Horwood, 6-0, 6-3.

Ladies' Doubles — Freida MacDonald and Phillipa Cowles, Batawa, defeated Iona MacDonald and Sheila Bowler 6-3, 6-3.

Sunday School Lesson:

Vigorous Faith Overcomes Fear

By ROY L. SMITH

Our generation ought to know something about the Old Testament prophet, Zephaniah, for he lived and preached in an age remarkably similar to our own, and though he is not one of the greatest of the ancient preachers he was a man with a great faith in God—a faith sufficiently vigorous to save him from fear.

COMMUNISM AND SCYTHIANS

Down out of the northwest there came a tidal wave of terror in the form of hordes of Scythians, intent on rapine, plunder, loot, destruction and pillage. Incapable of understanding art, literature, civilization, they destroyed that which they could not understand or reproduce. They looted and burned for the sheer love of sadism.

The Uniform Sunday school Lesson for June 26: "God and The Nations," Zephaniah 3.

So completely pagan were they that they held the whole world in the grip of a great terror through 28 years as they rode, burned, destroyed, and devastated the earth. The prospect of communism, as we view it today with its program of world conquest, is almost identical (minus the philosophic element) with the terrible dread that filled the earth at the prospect of a Scythian victory over all the race.

THEN A PREACHER SPOKE

Out of the welter of woe, panic, frenzy and destruction, there came the voice of the prophet Zephaniah, assuring the people that though the direful threat which hung over the race was inexpressibly terrible, the might and the mercy of God was even greater. It was impossible for any man to withdraw into an ivory tower, or take refuge in some monastery. There were no hiding places. Even religion could provide no escape. The faith that the hour demanded must be able to stand up against the foulest forms of destruction the world had ever seen. And that was the faith Zephaniah preached.

TERROR WAS DESERVED

No man is in a more difficult or dangerous position than that one is who knows that the fates are falling and that he deserves the worst.

For nearly 60 years the simplest demands of justice had been ignored in Judah. The ancient mishpat which characterized the civil code of the nation (a Hebrew form of social justice by which the poor were safeguarded against the rich and greedy) had been ignored and the helpless had been debauched and despoiled. Zephaniah was convinced that the nation's woes were a direct result of the nation's sins against the people. The destruction he thought he could foresee he believed was eminently deserved. And yet he saw hope.

SIN NEVER SUCCESSFUL

Through a period of more than 50 years the exploiters, bloodsuckers, and overlords had pursued their wicked and cruel ways without restraint or interference. The courts had become corrupt, the city's leaders had become callous, and the moral life of the people had become polluted.

Yet the prophet would not give up hope. Even when he had no facts tailored to his faith he continued to believe that the God of Israel was a God of mercy and that his design would prevail and his purposes would be worked out in justice and in hope.

Let no one be deceived. There is good cause for the fear which grips our generation, but for three thousand years the spokesmen for God have been assurring us of the help of heaven. And that faith is to be heard in Christian worship even today.

SALESMAN SENTENCED

WALKERTON (CP) — A salesman was sentenced Thursday to two months on a charge of abduction of a nine-year-old girl last April 11. Police said Dennis Desmond, 39, of Pinkerton was stopped by a farmers' posse two hours after he picked up Agnes Sitler in Culrose township. The child was unharmed.

2ND THURLOW

Neighbors' Aid Hears Interesting Talk on Work of W.H. Auxiliary

2ND THURLOW. — The June meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Manley Mitchell on Wednesday. About 35 adults and children were present.

Mrs. M. Mitchell presided at the piano. The president presided and welcomed all and thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting. The secretary, Mrs. M. Dent read the minutes and letters of appreciation.

Mrs. M. Dent and Mrs. W. Lazaruik, will be hostesses for the July meeting at S.S. No. 4 school. Mrs. Chumbley is to arrange the program. Mrs. S. Ray invited the Aid to her home for the August meeting.

The meeting was then handed over to Mrs. Fred Mitchell, who arranged the program. Mrs. Don Leeming gave a humorous reading after which Mrs. Mitchell introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Buchan, president of the Hospital Auxillary, who gave an informative and interesting talk on the working of the various Auxiliary organizations; told of the many projects undertaken in helping to provide toys for the children's ward, as well as many comforts, especially to ward patients, who spend long periods in the hospital.

She also mentioned the coffee and snack bar recently installed and asked Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon to tell how the snack bar is operated.

Mrs. McCutcheon told of providing hot coffee, snaiads, pie, tarts, and sandwiches, to those who are staying with sick ones, and to the doctors and nurses, who are tired after long hours on duty in operating rooms.

This talk gave many, who were not so acquainted with the auxiliary work, a better understanding of the various acts of kindness carried on by the organizations.

Mrs. C. Howard moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Buchan for the enlightening and instructive talk.

Mrs. Bruce Portt favored with a guitar solo and Mrs. M. Mitchell favored with an instrumental.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked Mrs. Buchan and all who took part in the program.

Mrs. Atkins expressed thanked to Mrs. Mitchell for the fine program arranged and also added thanks to Mrs. Buchan and Mrs. McCutcheon.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. S. Ray, Mrs. Earl Grills, Mrs. W. Lazaruik and Mrs. Robert Atkins.

British Seamen Vote To Call Off Wildcat Strike

Southampton and Liverpool 26-Day Walkouts Are Over

LONDON (Reuters) — The wildcat strike of seamen which has tied up trans Atlantic liners for the last 26 days collapsed today at the two affected ports — Southampton and Liverpool.

Mass meetings of strikers at the two ports voted to call off the stoppage which began May 31 in demand for better working conditions.

At Liverpool, 400 men voted to return to their ships Monday. A similar decision was taken later at Southampton.

Shipping companies immediately began plans to handle the large number of tourists who had been forced to find alternative travel accommodations during the strike.

Most of the strikers are stewards and kitchen help. The walkout occurred just as the tourist season was getting well under way.

Plane Beats Stork But Bird Triple-Loaded

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — Triplets were born Friday night to Mrs. Ruth Keith of Windom, Minn., who raced the stork from mid-Atlantic in Scandinavian Airlines plane.

Authorities at the hospital where the three girls were born said mother and children are doing fine.

Mrs. Keith, en route from Oslo, Norway, to her home, unnerved the crew and her fellow passengers by announcing she thought she was going to give birth to triplets over the Atlantic.

She arrived at the international airport at Gander without difficulty however.

Haggard Austrians Say 50 Britons Are Held by Reds

WIENER NEUSTADT, Austria (AP)—A haggard group of 186 Austrians returned from long Soviet imprisonment today and told of 50 Britons and 10 Americans still held in Russian labor camps.

One of the Americans, Sidney Ray Sparks of Tennille, Ga., asked the Austrians with tears in his eyes to inform U. S. authorities that he is being held incommunicado at Camp Potma in eastern Russia.

The Austrians said he told them he was arrested by the Soviets in Berlin in 1951. They said the 23-year-old American is sick but still is forced by the Russians to work in the woods.

The U S. Army European headquarters at Heidelberg, Germany, listed Sparks, a private, as absent without leave from Berlin since Dec 4, 1951.

The Austrians said they also met an English major who told them his name was Earl of Wymouth. He was said to be 32 years of age but no other details were known.

The 186 Austrians who arrived at this Soviet zone Austrian town included 45 women. Four of the returnees were completely paralyzed. Three walked on crutches.

Today's group included several figures of Austria's most famous kidnap cases. One of them is Dr. Margarethe Ottolinger, 36, who was carried out of the train on a stretcher. She is suffering from pleurisy.

She held a high position in the Austrian government when snatched in November 1948 from a car in which she was riding with the then Austrian minister of property control, Dr. Peter Krauland. They were returning to Vienna from Austria's American occupation zone. The Russians charged her with "espionage" and sentenced her to 25 years. Margarethe Ottolinger was the expert on Marshall plan aid in the property control ministry.

WILL SEEK RELEASE

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will make renewed representations to Russia following the naming by newly-released Austrians today of Britons imprisoned in Soviet camps.

Announcing this, the foreign office said three of the names were previously unknown, and that further investigations to identify them will take place before representations are made.

The names disclosed today bring the number of Britons named by released prisoners to 19.

Given 3 Years For Manslaughter In Child's Death

KENORA (CP) — Mrs. Norah Laindon, 32, of Macintosh, Ont., was sentenced Friday to three years in prison for manslaughter in connection with the Dec. 10 slaying of her three-year-old daughter, Vivian.

A Supreme Court jury deliberated two hours and 12 minutes before reaching a verdict of manslaughter. Mrs. Laindon had been charged with murder.

Raymond Lands, eight-year-old son of Mrs. Laindon testified Thursday he had seen the accused grab hold of her child and throw her to the ground.

"She then went out to the stove and brought back a stick. The baby was outside the cabin near the door. She then hit the baby on the head with the stick."

TOOK STICK AWAY

When Ed Hyacinthe, a friend, took the stick away from Mrs. Laindon she picked up another stick, beat the baby once again, and threw her to the ground.

Mrs. Laindon, testifying on her own behalf, said she had been drinking with Hyacinthe and the Lands.

"I had lots to drink from big Ed's bottle and I do not remember how many," she said. "The next thing I remember is being with big Ed on the railroad."

She said she did not remember anything else until she awoke the next morning in a friend's house. When she returned to the Lands' home she discovered the police car waiting. She said she had not known the child was dead.

'Party-Line Hogs' Will Be Fined

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Governor George Leader Friday signed into law a bill aimed at "party-line hogs" who refused to surrender their telephone connection for emergency calls.

Under the law a $50 fine will be imposed for the first offence committed by any person "who wilfully refuses to immediately relinquish a party line when informed that the line is needed for an emergency call."

First Arctic Supply Ship Sails To Carry Stores to Men Near Pole

MONTREAL (CP) — The Arctic supply vessel, C. D. Howe, was scheduled to leave Montreal early today, the first of six ships that this summer will sail to within 90 miles of the North Pole to take vital stores and medical men to lonely Canadians manning weather and defence installations in the far north.

Sunday, the two other ships — the icebreaker N.B. McLean and the patrol ship Edward Cornwallis — are slated to follow in the Howe's wake. Three more vessels will sail later in the summer to complete operation Nora II, the largest government operation of this type ever attempted.

The Howe, a department of transport ship commanded by Capt. P. M. Fournier, will carry the official government party—doctors and dentists from the health and welfare department, RCMP officers and post-office department men to handle the more than two tons of mail on board.

The Howe will also be carrying 17 Eskimos, returning to their Arctic homes after receiving treatments in local hospitals. They will be accompanied by four nurses.

ARMY SPENDING DROPS SHARPLY SAYS MINISTER

Govt. Lays Out More For Air Force, Navy

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal expenditures in May on the air force and navy showed increases over the same month a year ago but spending on the army dropped sharply.

Finance Minister Harris reported Friday in his monthly treasury statement that outlays for the air force doubled to $73,802,000 from $36,011,000 last year. Naval spending rose to $23,802,000 from $20,372,000 but expenditures on the army declined to $10,306,000 from $23,554,000.

Total federal spending in the month increased by $32,627,000 to $278,217,000 from $245,590,000 a year ago. This increased outlays for the first two months of the current fiscal year to $474,710,000 from $461,352,000.

A decline in income tax collections decreased total revenues for May to $382,318,000 from $390,133,000 from $390,133,000, a drop of $7,815,000. The April - May total dropped to $611,330,000 from $635,553,900.

Increased expenditures in the month trimmed the monthly surplus to $104,101,000, a decline of $40,442,000 compared with the same month in 1954. For the first two months the surplus was down to $136,620,000 from $174,201,000 a year ago.

PREDICTED DEFICIT

Mr. Harris forecast in his April 5 buaget that he would have an over-all deficit for 1955-56 of $160,000,000, as against $194,251,000 deficit last year.

Total defence spending in May increased to $119,165,000 from $88,185,000 a year ago, with the two-from $168,652,000.

In the two-month period outlays for the air force rose to $103,899,000 from $92,412,000 and for the navy to $31,500,000 frm $26,467,000. However army expenditures dropped to $27,371,000 from $35,459,000.

Operations of the old age security fund resulted in a surplus of $600,000 in May and a deficit of $8,000,000 for the two-month period This deficit is covered by a temporary government loan. For the first two months of the 1954-55 fiscal year there was a deficit of $6,400,000.

Thirty Girls Will Compete In Contest

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Thirty attractive and talented Canadian girls from across the country are due here this weekend to take part in the annual pageant to name Miss Canada.

Contestants from as far east as Charlottetown, P.E.I., and as far west as Victoria will try for the coveted title and the right to represent the country in the coming Miss America contest at Atlantic City, Ga.

Only Newfoundland, Nova Scotia are not represented on the entry list.

Judging will begin June 30 for three days. The pageant heralds the opening of this city's 10-day centennial celebration.

Candidates include: Dorothy Margaret Girty, 23, Kingsville; Lorna Doone, 18, St. Catharines; Joan Marie Turton, 18, Woodstock; Judith Eleanor Welch, 18, Peterborough; Ella Sumner, 19, Kapuskasing.

Nameless Germ Forces Closing Of Operating Rooms at Hospital

CALGARY (CP) — A nameless germ has forced the closing of operating rooms at Col. Belcher hospital here to all but emergency cases as medical research workers seek a method to overcome it.

The germ causes a form of staphylococcus infection, hospital superintendent Dr. J. K. Mulloy said. The infection resists common antibiotics and leads to post-operative complications.

The chief of surgery at Calgary General Hospital, Dr. J. R. Francis, said Friday the infection's symptoms are sore throats, croup in children and acne conditions of the skin

Dr. Francis said the germ is "very dangerous" and strikes after surgery has been performed.

Dr. Mulloy said the germ has not resulted in any deaths. He said it is hoped to reopen the operating rooms by July 1.

In Edmonton, Dr. A. C. Mc-Gugan, superintendent of University Hospital, said the germ is not confined to hospitals, but may be found anywhere The bacteria has been in Alberta for the last "five or 10 years," he said.

Dr. Francis said the germ is confined primarily to the British Isles and the North American continent.

In Ottawa, Dr. E. H. Lossing, assistant chief of the epidemiology division of the health department, said the germ is well - known to the medical profession and there are various methods of destroying it.

He said federal health officials have not been informed of the infection in Calgary. Such a problem would be reported to Ottawa only if provincial health officials required assistance.

Officials in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Saskatoon hospitals have also reported the presence of the germ.

Doctors From Commonwealth Countries Wind Up Convention

By MICHAEL MACLEAR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Four hundred medical men from 10 Commonwealth countries today bade Canada farewell until 1980.

The medical men, along with 2,500 Canadian doctors, Friday ended a two-week joint convention of the British, Canadian and Ontario medical associations. They traditionally meet here each quarter century as the British Commonwealth medical conference.

Bags packed, the Commonwealth delegates made a group tour of Niagara, lunched as guests of the Hamilton mountain sanatorium and had tea with the Niagara Falls Medical Society before going their individual ways.

Much advice and many views emerged from the convention.

Dr. R. W. Raven, senior surgeon to London's Royal Marsden Hospital, a centre for cancer research, said a "cancer substance" has been isolated in tobacco. However, its action on the lungs was not yet known.

An Oxford neurologist, Dr. Graham Weddell, said science now has a new concept of the nature of pain, saying it has to be learned by humans or they would never know it.

The Salk anti-polio vaccine was praised but not everyone was enthusiastic.

An American scientist, Dr. John Brobeck of the University of Pennsylvania, expressed his belief in miracles, saying science today doesn't understand the power behind them. He predicted miracles would again occur.

Birth, childhood and old age came into the discussions. A Canadian child health expert, Dr. David Ballon of Montreal, said young children shouldn't eat peanuts, and a Scotsman said too many mothers are demanding birth by caesarean section.

Dr. Ian Grant of Glasgow favored an alcoholic nightcap for the elderly as a means of inducing sleep and easing anxiety.

The last words were said for women. A Toronto doctor, R. I. Harris said women should buy home equipment of a height to suit their own stature. For example, he said, constant bending over an unnecessarily low sink will eventually cause back pain.

Vancouver Chief of Police Placed on Leave of Absence

By AL MARKLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Control of the 723-man Vancouver police force entered the hands of a junior inspector today as the department awaited the floodlight of investigation.

A year in which the department has ricocheted from one crisis to another came to a climax Friday when a senior detective attempted suicide and police chief Walter Mulligan was ordered to take leave of absence.

Traffic superintendent Alan Rossiter was named acting chief of a force that has been harassed by gangland warfare and wholesale bank robberies and criticized by a Senate committee for its handling of the worst narcotics problem in Canada.

Detective Leonard Cuthbert, 54, former head of the gambling squad, shot himself, police said, after a conference with his senior officer. The slug from his service issue .38-calibre revolver missed his heart by a fraction of an inch.

Cuthbert was named this week in the Toronto tabloid Flash as an officer who told the attorney-general's department of alleged corruption in the Vancouver force. The weekly faces a libel suit brought by chief Mulligan.

Later in the day, at the third police commission meeting in two days, chief Mulligan was placed on leave of absence from his duties for the duration of the provincial inquiry into his department.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced that Reginald Hibbert Tupper, a 61-year-old Vancouver lawyer, will head the commission. Mr. Tupper is the grandson of Sir Charles Tupper, premier of Nova Scotia in 1855, prime minister of Canada in 1896, and one of the Fathers of Confederation.

SHAKEUPS COMPARED

Observers have compared the situation in Vancouver with the 1947 reorganization of the force.

It was that shakeup that saw Mulligan brought up from the ranks to become superintendent of detectives. He headed the detective branch for only a short while before being boosted to the top.

NAMED GRAND MASTER

OTTAWA (CP)—W. C. V. Martin of Saint John, N.B., was re-elected grand master of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America at its annual session Thursday.

Try to Patch Up Quarrel Between Peron and Church

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine officials today were reported trying to patch up differences between President Juan Peron's government and the Roman Catholic Church in the wake of last week's unsuccessful revolt.

The report came from informed sources Friday night as Argentines looked forward to a relaxing weekend after a long period of tension. The country's activities resumed an apparently normal rhythm.

The informants said the peace moves were being masterminded by Foreign Minister Jeronimo Remorino. They said Msgr. Mario Zanin, papal nuncio, called on Remorino Wednesday at the foreign ministry.

Officials were said to be studying terms of a possible concordat between the government and the Vatican if and when a constitutional assembly, already authorized by Congress, votes on ending Catholicism's status as Argentina's state church. A concordat is an agreement between church and state for the regulation of church matters.

ATTACKS STOPPED

There were other signs of willingness to end the dispute. The pro-goverrnment press has ended its long series of attacks on the clergy, which began last November after Peron accused some churchmen of seeking to undermine his regime.

All priests arrested during the feud now have been released. Police guards have been stationed at churches to prevent such incidents as the burning and sacking of eight religious buildings during the revolt.

19 DIE IN INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian Air Force headquarters announced that 15 air force and four army men were killed today when two Dakota planes collided near Agra and went down in flames.

An air force spokesman said no senior officials or foreigners were involved in the crash.

PC MEMBER HITS AT COMIC BOOKS IN PARLIAMENT

Claims Laws Should Be Considerably Tighter

OTTAWA (CP) — Davie Fulton, who has fought for years against crime comic books with some success, says there still is too much lurid literature on Canadian newsstands.

The British Columbia Progressive Conservative from Kamloops said in the Commons Friday that laws should be tightened against printers and publishers of the illegal books.

In too many cases, he said, only local vendors are prosecuted. Some of the fines were "nothing more than a licence fee."

"The only way to deal adequately with this problem is at its source." said Mr. Fulton, whose persistent criticism of crime comic books resulted three years ago in the Commons agreeing to legislation outlawing them.

VARIOUS TOPICS

The topic was raised during debate on justice department estimates — a discussion that also ranged over penitentiary administration, the state of crime in Canada and parliamentary handling of divorce cases.

Earlier, the House completed approval of fisheries department estimates. It also voted $257,700,000 to keep the government operating for another month, passing the money bill in about five minutes.

As measures to hit at the source of crime comic books, Mr. Fulton said the government should consider—whenever a vendor is convicted—requiring provincial authorities to take action against the printer and publisher. Fines against printers and publishers should be heavier and the importation of plates to print the books should be made a criminal offence.

AGREES WITH AIMS

Justice Minister Garson said he agreed with Mr. Fulton's aims. But he could not agree that changes in the law are necessary.

Provincial authority to administer the law could not be made greater than at present. He would consider making the importation of printing plates an offence, but importers now could be caught under another section of the Criminal Code

As for stiffer penalties on printers and publishers, Mr. Garson said the present maximums are two years' imprisonment and, in the case of corporations, unlimited fines.

"I don't know how we could increase that," he said.

Mr. Fulton replied that most prosecutions are carried on through magistrate's courts where lesser penalties apply.

Put Pacific Salmon in Hudson Bay, Must Wait to Learn if They Live

WINISK, Ont. (CP) — In two years fisheries scientists may know the result of a bold experiment in the cold clear waters of the Winisk river.

It will take at least that long, and perhaps five years, to see whether chum salmon can be made to grow and thrive where they have never lived before.

If the scientists guessed correctly thousands of fingerling salmon now have deserted the sand beds of the Winisk and cruised a few miles downstream to Hudson bay.

They are the product of 435,00 eggs planted in the river last winter by biologists of the Ontario department of lands and forests, who had to chop through two feet of ice in 40-below-zero temperatures to put them there.

It was part of a plan to bring a new source of food supply to the areas around Hudson bay, which for some reason has never produced a fishery comparable to the waters of the north Atlantic.

The biologists picked on the chum salmon, a Pacific coast variety averaging about 10 pounds at maturity, for the experiment and had the eggs flown from the Washington state hatchery.

A springtime survey showed some of the eggs well hatched. But from here on it's just a waiting game.

The biologists have no way of knowing how many young salmon survived to make the trip down to the sea this summer, or whether the bay contains enough nourishment to feed them and permit them to grow to useful size.

Two Russian Jets Attack Navy Plane Over Bering Sea

Seven U.S. Airmen Hurt In Crash-Landing on Isle

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unprovoked attack by two Russian jet fighters forced a United States Navy patrol plane into a crash-landing with injury to seven of its 11 crew, the United States said Friday.

United States officials said the attack occurred Wednesday over international waters between Alaska and Siberia. The navy P2V5 Neptune plane crash-landed and burned on American-held St. Lawrence island, in the Bering sea about 100 miles from the Siberian coast.

Announcement of the Russian attack was delayed two days while President Eisenhower conferred by telephone with state and defence department officials and Secretary of State Dulles discussed it with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in San Francisco.

Molotov was quoted as saying he knew nothing of the incident but would investigate and report back.

First announcement of the incident came from Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, at Whitefield, N.H., one of the stops on the president's new England tour Hagerty called the attack "inexplicable and unwarranted."

ANGRY PROTESTS

The incident took on added diplomatic importance in the light of Russia's current peace offensive in advance of the scheduled July 18 Big Four summit conference.

Congress members were quick to point that out as they sounded an angry protest.

"Unless we get assurances that the attack was not premeditated, we should not go to that conference," said Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem. Mont.).

The navy department, amplifying Hagerty's original announcement, said the navy plane was attacked by two Soviet MIG - type airplanes "which made one firing round" and set one engine ablaze.

The navy said patrol flights like the one the Neptune was making have been made regularly the last year.

NO RETURN FIRE

At the Kodiak, Alaska, naval station, the pilot of the navy plane said "we didn't have time to fire back."

Lieut. Richard Fischer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the bullets set the wing afire. The bomb bay fuel tank exploded as the plane landed, and some of the crew members suffered face and hand burns in escaping. One broke his ankle. None of the injured was critically hurt.

Chrysler Opens Driveway For New Customers

WINDSOR (CP)—Chrysler Corporation of Canada Friday opened a new retail customer's driveway to make it easier for customers to pick up new cars directly at the factory.

The driveaway is described as the most modern and best equipped of its kind in the automotive industry.

Chess Addicts Happily Play As Home Burns

LONDON (Reuters) — When W. O. Hall and his son play chess, W. O. Hall and his son play chess.

Hall's wife, Audrey, came home Friday night to find smoke billowing from their suburban Highgate dwelling. She dashed inside and threw water over furniture blazing in a spare room.

In the next room she found her husband and 19-year-old son calmly playing chess.

"Talk about Nero fiddling while Rome burned," Mrs. Hall remarked later.

Civic Workers At Kitchener Again on Strike

KITCHENER (CP) — After three days of off-and-on walkouts, civic employees in this city of 45,00 went on a full-scale strike today.

Union leaders said all city services, including the few essential services maintained during stoppages Wednesday and Thursday, will be closed.

City council promptly disclaimed responsibility should any epidemic follow the shutdown of sewage disposal plants.

The 185 members of the Civic Workers Union (TLC) decided on the strike action Friday in a vote supervised by the Ontario labor department after a day of negotiations with city council produced no agreement on contract terms.

The strike was suspended Friday while union and city officials met with William Dunn, labor department conciliator, in an effort to reach a settlement.

The union stood pat on its original demand for a 10-cent hourly increase over the basic pay rate of $1.20. The latest council offer made public ranged from a nine-cent boost over the basic rate to three cents for workers above the $1.38-an-hour bracket.

George Browning, TLC representative, said the only services to be performed by union men during the strike will be those connected with burial of the dead.

Fire Threat Nearly Licked

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Thanks to a long-sought break from the weather, the fire threat across northern Ontario's timberlands was just about licked today.

One by one, the string of outbreaks that flared up during the week between the Sault and Sudbury were being beaten into submission.

Twenty fires were stamped out Friday and no new ones were reported. All of the 43 still burning — including 3,500 acres of Hornepayne, 1,500 acres at Gogama and 4,500-acres at Goulais lake 65 miles north of here.

CARELESS RESPECT

BRISTOL, England (AP)—Garbage man Bill Belcher tipped his hat in respect as his dust cart passed a funeral procession—and drove into the back of the truck in front. His respectful gesture cost him £3 in court on a careless driving charge.

Three Minor Alarms Answered By Fire Dept.

Three minor alarms were answered by the city fire department last night and this morning.

Gasoline dripping onto the motor of a car at the corner of Front and Bridge streets brought out the reels last night. Firemen were not required to use anything.

The reels were also called to the College street quarry where brush was ablaze.

And this morning firemen were called to the playgrounds at Bayview Heights where a campfire being used by some campers to cook their breakfast started a grass blaze.

Obituary

CARA ANNE SILLS
(Halloway)

The 13-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sills, Halloway, Cora Anne Sills, died suddenly in the Belleville General Hospital yesterday.

She is survived besides her parents by one sister Janet, aged three years.

Resting at her late residence on the eighth concession of Thurlow. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. PHILIP BLAKE
(Deseronto)

Funeral of Mrs. Philip Blake, 79 Main St., Deseronto, who died in Belleville General Hospital, June 21, was held June 23 to Deseronto cemetery.

Officiating clergyman was Rev. W. E. Neelands, Deseronto United Church.

Bearers: F. Marlin, R. Bowen, G. Hopping, C. Reid, G. Burley and L. McCullough.

Mrs. Blake, the former Amy Louisa Chappell, was born in Bath, England and had lived in the Deseronto district for 58 years. A member of Deseronto United Church she was associated with the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Her death followed a lengthy illness.

She leaves three sons, Stanley Clarkson, Ont., Victor, Bagotville, Que. and Gordon, Toronto. Also surviving are six grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the White Funeral Home, Deseronto.

Small Fruit On Local Market For First Time

Small fruit this morning was placed on the local market in wide variety for the first time this season. Gooseberries, red currants, white currants and cherries were offered for sale and met fairly active demand.

Cherries particularly sold easily at $1.75 a six-quart basket for black cherries and $1.50 for red. White and red currants and gooseberries brought from 25 cents a quart box with the gooseberries bringing $1.50 a basket.

Fresh, new vegetables also met a ready demand. New cabbage sold from 25 cents for two heads up to 25 cents each for three-lb. heads. A few cucumbers offered sold at 25 cents for two. New potatoes — Irish cobblers — were 35 cents a quart box for large and 25 cents for small, with baskets selling at $1.75. Pencil-pod beans, making an early appearance, sold quickly at 25 cents a quart for both yellow and green beans. Radishes brought 10 cents a bunch with some vendors offering two bunches at 15 cents.

Peas continued at 40 cents a pint, shelled and 80 cents a quart with unshelled at 25 cents a box and $1 a basket.

Asparagus, in lighter supply, sold at 15 cents a bunch. Beets and Spring onions were 10 cents a bunch and young lettuce sold up to 15 cents a head.

Apples, in diminished supply and at the end of their season, brought 75 cents a basket for Delicious and $3 a bushel.

A bulky offering of flowers speckled the stalls with Sweet Williams at 25 cents a bunch, cornflowers 20 cents a bunch; Canterbury Bells 35 cents and delphiniums $1 a dozen.

Plants sold from 30 cents a flat for both vegetable and flower roots.

On the inside market eggs took a jump in price with large grades being offered at 58 cents and mediums 55 cents. Poultry held steady to 45-50 cents for fowl and 55 cents for chickens.

Large Offering of Prize Acts Features Ringling Bros. Circus

Four enchanting spectacles, a host of brand new acts and the largest herd of performing elephants ever assembled feature the 1955 edition of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

According to Edward A. Johnson, advance press representative, this year's program surpasses anything heretofore produced by The Greatest Show on Earth.

Ten more double-length steel cars have been added to the Big Show, making an 80-car circus special this year. This addition was necessitated by the vast increase in the size of the menagerie, which will be housed in its own special quarters this season.

The vastly augmented show will be seen in Belleville on Monday at Sidney Street Show grounds.

The magnificent spectacle "Mama's In The Park", features nearly two hundred tons of elephants. In this charming fantasy bonnetted behemoths air squalling offspring in gigantic baby carriages. Twenty baby elephants were imported from India by John Ringling North to stage this massive production.

NOTABLE EXTRAVAGANZA

The outstanding extravaganza of the Big Show is "Holidays", a glittering accumulation of costumes, lavish floats and colors in which hundreds of animal and human artists participate.

"On Honolulu Bay" is a stunning sky ballet with beautiful Pinito del Oro, Spanish trapeze mistress, and a bevy of sultry beauties revelling on high in a romantic aura of South Pacific charm.

A final riot of color and beauty is seen in the stirring patriotic finale entitled "Rainbow 'Round the World." The music for all four of these enchanting spectacles was written personally by John Ringling North, with lyrics by Irving Caesar.

Among the outstanding new acts imported this year from Europe and the Far East are Takeo Usui, who performs a death-slide on a wire stretching from the ground to the apex of the Big Top, and a thrilling high ladder and rolling globe number by Delia Canestrelli, a member of the noted European Canestrelli family of circus aerialists.

The Carmenas, in hand-to-hand and head balancing; the Oliveras, high wire acrobats; The Adanos, in unbelievable juggling feats; Attilana, Spanish wire queen; Octave De Jonghe's hunting dogs; The Naukos, unicycle jumpers; the Marilex plate spinners and jugglers; The Seguras, superb springboard specialists; Evy Karoly, Hungarian bareback sensation and the Cordons, masters of the long whips, are other new attractions appearing for the first time in America.

Among the popular holdover attractions are the Palacios, Sabrejets and Falcons, world-famous flying quartets and the Three Nocks, Swiss stratosphere artists, who again do their chilling feats on high swaying masts.

SEVERAL ANIMAL ACTS

Trevor Bale's jungle-bred tigers head the hold-over animal acts, which include performing bears, comedy lions and humanized chimps.

Lovers of fine steeds will find horse acts aplenty. Marion Seifert, Nadia Houcke and Alexander Konyot are supreme at dressage riding.

The Justine Loyal Troupe; Ilonka Karoly, riding ballerina, and the liberty horses of Charles Moroski, Gena Lipowska and Hans Ussim provide new treats for lovers of fine horsemanship.

Circus fans will see for the first time an okapi, a strange African beast which combines the features of a zebra, an antelope and a giraffe, as well as twenty newly imported baby elephants, bringing the circus herd this year to more than fifty.

Performances begin at 2.15 and 8.15 p.m.

Splattered With Sulphuric Acid Two Men Douse Selves in River

TRENTON — (Special)—Presence of mind and quick thinking yesterday saved two Trenton men from serious injury after they had been splattered with double-strength sulphuric acid.

Councillor James MacDonald, Trenton hardware merchant, and his helper, Bobby Burns, doused themselves in the Trent River seconds after the deadly acid hit them.

Both men were loading the acid, in a ten-gallon container, onto a truck from a warehouse on the east side of the river. The container slipped out of the men's hands and shattered at their feet. The acid was powerful enough to eat the legs off the councillor's pants, below his knees.

Later he discovered several burn holes in his shirt, inches from his face. Burns also had a similar escape.

The acid contaminated an area in front of the warehouse and the Trenton fire department played hose lines on the ground for over a half-hour to neutralize the acid.

Before firemen arrived the acid had eaten away the door frame to the warehouse. Mr. MacDonald later told a reporter that the only thing that saved them from dreadful burns was the fact that they were within twenty feet of the water's edge.

The acid was to be transported to Trenton RCAF station for use in aircraft batteries.

Said Mr. MacDonald, who later delivered a second container of acid as a replacement for the first: "I was pretty shaky having to start carrying more acid all over again after the first experience."

Minor Baseball

Close scores featured the Bantam games played Friday night, the K.C.'s downing Point Anne at the Point by an 8-4 score, while the Vics nosed out the Y's Men 8-6 at the Alemite Field.

The big item on the night's play was the no-hit hurling of Larry Sodden for the K.C.'s as he claimed no less than 15 on strikes. Point Anne scored their four runs on nine walks and a pair of errors by Sodden's team mates. Sodden also sparked his team at bat by pounding four singles while Doug Scrimshaw aided with a triple and double. The winners had 11 hits in all with one each going to Moore, Follwell, Doyle, Keller and Clapp.

Lloyd Maracle went all the way for the losers, fanning nine and walking only two. Scrimshaw caught for the victors while Gary and Ron Hull shared the losers' receiving duties.

In the other game, Vic Morris' Vics came from behind with five runs in the third inning to whip the Y's Men.

Dainard and Asselline hurled for the victors, giving up 11 hits between them, while W. Waite surrendered 10 safeties while taking the loss. Asselline was the winner.

The Smith brothers led Vics with the wood, each getting two hits. T. Phillips claimed four hits in a losing effort, Waite and T. Keller each getting two.

Charged After Death

CHATHAM (CP)—The driver of a car which struck and killed a 10-year-old girl on her way to school at Palmyra, 35 miles east of here, was charged Friday with criminal negligence and careless driving.

John Albert Felder, a bank clerk of Rodney township, was charged following the death of Evelyn Carey, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mildred Carey.

35 Applications Received By School of Nursing

Thirty-five applications for admission to the School of Nursing of the Belleville General Hospital in September have already been received by the director of nursing, Miss M. L. Peart.

Information concerning possible enrollment of the largest class in the hospital's history was given members of the board of governors Friday at their June meeting.

Other items dealt with by the board included purchase of kitchen equipment for the new wing; provision of a paved parking area; implementation of new regulations for private nursing service and approval of the professional report for May.

Miss Peart reported that there had been 65 inquiries to date concerning enrollment in the school of nursing, 28 personal interviews of applicants and receipt of 35 applications.

POST GRADUATE STUDY

Miss Peart also reported that three staff nurses will attend the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for a four-month post-graduate course in operating room technique commencing in August and that three nurses will begin one year of postgraduate study in Nursing Education at the University of Toronto in September.

The board approved a recommendation that: "Only nurses whose credentials are in order, as established by the director of nursing, may be permitted to nurse in the hospital."

This recommendation was directed specifically towards nurses wishing to do private duty for friends and relatives.

On a recommendation from the architects the board approved a tender of $52,851 from the Wrought Iron Range Co. for kitchen equipment for the new wing. The tender was the lowest of six submitted.

Other tenders were: Toronto Refrigeration Fixture Co. Ltd, $56,093; S. H. Newman Co. Ltd., $60,995; Dominion Kitchen Equipment, $56,856; General Steelwares, $63,358; Prowse Ltd, $56,766.

PARKING LOT

A tender from the H. J. McFarland Construction Co. for paving of an area 100 x 100 feet for parking at a cost of $622.30 was accepted.

Professional statistics for May showed 546 admissions; 108 live births; 5,054 patient days for adults and children and 675 for newborn; daily average patient population of 163 adults and children and 22 newborn.

During May there were 65 major, 49 intermediate and 117 minor operations. Seven very minor operations were performed and 352 patients were treated in the emergency operating room.

X-rays taken totalled 2,796; lab exams numbered 6,373; physiotherapy treatments, 325; electrocardiograms, 107; out-patient visits, 823.

The board also approved purchase of an X-ray machine at a cost of $20,029.40 and gave approval, subject to the approval of the medical staff, to a new schedule of charges for bacteriological work.

Injuries Prove Fatal to Boy

PICTON. — Injuries suffered when he fell from a load of hay proved fatal to eight-year-old Bryce Douglas. He died in Kingston General hospital yesterday from a punctured kidney. Son of Sgt. William Douglas, a member of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery here, and Mrs. Douglas, the boy resided in the tenant house onthe farm of Harold Hayden at Gilead, Hallowell township. He loved to be about the farm and was on a load of hay when he lost his balance and fell to the ground. He was an only child.

Some in Canadian Prisons Being Treated Like Animals Harold Winch Tells House

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's penal system was accused Friday of treating some prisoners like animals by keeping them in solitary confinement for indefinite periods.

Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) said in the Commons that two men in Kingston penitentiary have been in solitary cells for a year with no knowledge of when they will get out.

Their cells, about 4½ by 10 feet, had only a mattress on the concrete floor, a lavatory, a sink and radio earphones. Outside the barred door was a solid door with a four-inch peephole. The men were taken out for only 30 or 45 minutes a day.

Mr. Winch, who said he spoke to the men three months ago, said they are dangerous criminals. One was a riot leader; another had escaped and was recaptured. Lawbreakers should not be pampered or coddled, he said. "but they should be treated as humans and not as animals."

Mr. Winch also criticized the fact that criminally - insane prisoners are kept at Kingston penitentiary with nearly 1,000 sane but dangerous criminals. He said either the Ontario government should be forced to accept its responsibility of caring for the criminal insane or the federal government should build its own separate institution.

Later, Justice Minister Garson, whose estimates were before the Commons, said "we're not operating a Sunday school picnic in Kingston." Mr. Winch had omitted facts which gave a balanced picture.

Mr. Garson said one of the two men in solitary is a trouble-maker with a record dating back to 1937 and now is serving his third term. He had escaped last June and only recently was found possessing a hacksaw blade. His cell bars had been partly cut, apparently in another escape attempt.

Dealing with criminally - insane prisoners, Mr. Garson said the government has been able to get them placed in provincial mental institutions for treatment in all but two provinces, which he did not name.

At no time had there been more than six such prisoners in those two provinces. There were less than 50 insane prisoners in Canada.

Mr. Winch said that when he spoke at Kingston to the two men in solitary confinement it was 10 minutes before they could speak because they were shaking so badly.

The problem apparently was that the penal system did not have the accommodation to handle the various types of criminals.

"It's archaic, it's vicious, it's despicable," he said.

He knew of no country which enforced solitary confinement as Canada's prisons did. In progressive states of the United States, uncontrollable prisoners never were kept in solitary more than 15 days. Unruly prisoners could be controlled better by removing rights and privileges such as letters and tobacco.

Council Sets Increased Tax Rate of 63 Mills

STIRLING. — Stirling Village Council held a special session to determine the current year's tax rate. The total village assessment is almost nine hundred and thirty-six thousand dollars. This year the increase in county levy is 2.4 mills; high school area 1.3 mills; public school 2 mills; hydrant rentals 1. mill and after some discussion it was decided to set the tax rate at 63 mills, which is an increase of eight mills and will bring in approximately nine thousand dollars more in taxes.

The council decided to accept an offer of a Toronto firm and have an initial survey of the village for sewerage installation.

Some discussion took place re drainage problems and final plans were made for ditches, culverts, etc. Street signs and stop signs will be purchased and nine bills paid.

The initial sewerage survey will cost approximately $300.

Clerk F. R. Mallory has purchased two new flags one for Stirling community hall and the other for Victoria park.

Found Unharmed

EGANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Four-year-old Harry O'Neill, missing since before noon Thursday, was found unharmed Friday in the woods about three miles from his home.

Harry, who spent the night in the woods with only his dog for company, told searchers who found him wandering along an abandoned logging road that he was "going fishing."

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory O'Neill, left his home seven miles southeast of Eganville Thursday to meet his uncle.

When he failed to return home, 100 searchers combed the area during the night.

IN MEMORIAM

CAIRNS. — In treasured and loving memory of our dear mother, Frances Maude Cairns, who passed away on June 26th, 1954.
Once again the sad day dawns, Mom,
And our hearts are filled with pain.
Oh, this earth would be heaven
Could we hear your voice again.
It is lonesome here without you, Mom
We miss you more each day.
To the rest of the world you were only one,
But all the world to us, our Mom.
—Sadly missed by daughter Muriel and son Gary.

CAIRNS. — In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. F. M. Cairns, who passed away June 26th, 1954.
What would we give if we could say,
Hello Mom, in the same old way.
To hear your voice and see your smile
To sit with you and chat awhile.
—Always remembered by son Morley, daughter-in-law Audrey and grandchildren.

KINCAID. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert N. Kincaid, who passed away June 25th, 1946.
Gone from us but leaving memories
Death cannot take away,
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife Ann and daughters Edna, Mary and Jane.

BRANT. — In loving memory of my grandmother, Jane Ann Brant, who passed away one year ago, June 25th, 1954.
My heart aches with sadness,
My eyes shed many tears,
Only God knows how I miss you
As ends this one sad year.
—Sadly missed by grandson Ray-of our darling daughter and sister Marilyn Jean Herbertson, who left us so suddenly nine years ago, June 26th, 1946. Aged seven years.
Beautiful memories are all we have left
Of her we loved and will never forget.
Her loving smile and happy face,
A broken link we can never replace.
Sad was the parting, no one can tell
So sudden on us the sorrow fell.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal.
Only those who have lost are able to tell,
The pain in our hearts of not saying farewell.
—Sadly missed by mother, father and sister.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank Father Brieland, Father Murphy, Father LaMarche, Dr. Cronk Sr., and Dr. Bruce Cronk, nurses and staff of 2nd Floor East, Sisters of Notre Dame Convent, C.W.L. and all daughter friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown me while a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Safety Rules For Summer

By NANCY CLEAVER

Does your child know what to do and what not to do in a boat?

In 1952 in Canada 1,429 people lost their lives from drowning and of this number 458 were children under 15 years. The origin of a few of these tragedies lay in old and unseaworthy craft or faulty motors. But a great many more of these fatal accidents took place because the occupants of the boat were ignorant about safety procedure on the water. Foolhardiness in a boat is very silly. Drowning is so permanent!

Taking care of possessions is something which most children must learn from imitation and instruction. A boat is no exception to this rule Boys and girls should be taught that boats are valuable; they cost money! They are necessary for travel in many parts of the world and they are essential for the commerce of mankind. pleasure boats add much to the relaxation and enjoyment of a holiday It is usually a boat of this type in which boys and girls are especially interested.

FISHING DANGEROUS

They should learn to carry paddles or oars with the blade upright in the air, so as not to crack or dint the blade. A boy or girl should never sit in a boat and rock it when it is pulled up on dry land. Fishing from a canoe is too dangerous. No one should stand up in a canoe or a boat or change places while out on the water.

Children can be a real help in keeping any small craft baled out and free from sand or dirt which injure the finish of the inside of a boat When in strange, shallow water they can help watch for rocks or floating logs or "dead heads" which might rip the boat.

Strict rules about the use of boats by boys or girls are enforced at any first-rate camp. No camper is allowed to go out in a canoe or a sail boat until that camper has passed a swimming test. A non-swimmer is thus very eager to quality for the special privilege of a paddle or a sail. In these two types of boats there is greater risk than in a row boat or punt.

Even in comparatively safe boats, in camp, non-swimmers must put on life belts before going out on the water, in the boat in charge of a capable adult. There is a definite time in the camp schedule for instruction, not only in swimming, but in learning to row, to paddle or to sail. Campers are taught how to care for a boat, the names of the parts of a boat and never to take foolish risks on the water.

Children should not be allowed to use home-made rafts or logs nor go out in a boat which is not seaworthy. Older boys and girls are eager at a cottage to run a motor boat. The All Canada Insurance Federation experts recently stressed the importance of these boats being equipped with both life preservers and fire extinguishers. They also added the warning that speeding in motor boats may be just as dangerous as in cars.

SAFETY RULES

Safety rules for boys and girls in boats at a camp or at a cottage are as follows: A boat is no place for fooling or wrestling. Act sensibly. Help keep the boat level from side to side and on an even keel from bow to stern. Don't go in an overloaded boat, overloaded with freight or passengers. Don't lean over the side of a boat. If you can't swim, wear a life-preserver belt when you go in a boat. Don't go out in stormy weather in a boat and don't attempt to shoot rapids.

If a sudden rain storm comes up or an unexpected "blow", keep calm and don't panic! Practice hanging on to an overturned boat. Clasp the wrists of a person on the other side of the boat and let that person grasp your wrists. Then if either of you should tire, the grasp of the other person might prevent the fatigued one from slipping under the surface for good!

Last, but not least, if the boat should tip, even if you are a good swimmer, and not far from land, stick to the boat. Numerous drownings could be avoided if this excellent rule had only been followed. Never try to swim to shore. You will avoid danger from cramps, fatigue or weeds by staying with the boat until help arrives.

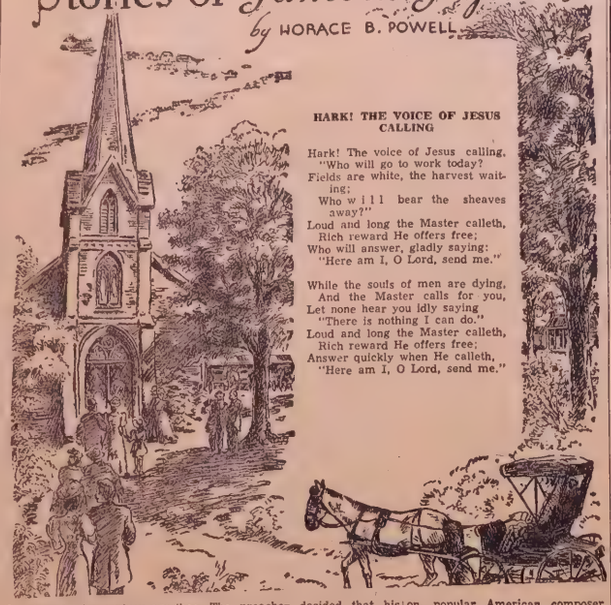
Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

Who was the King who disguised himself and sought to know the future from the medium at Endor? The Philistines in great numbers had gathered to fight the Israelites and when this King saw the enemy's army he was very much afraid.

This King had been doing evil and when he sought to inquire of the Lord, he received no answer. Neither did he find guidance from his prophets or in his dreams.

Earlier in his reign he had expelled all wizards and mediums. Thus the medium was frightened when he visited her. But he commanded her "Divine for me by a Spirit, and bring up for me whomever I shall name for you" She reminding him that the King had cut off all wizards and mediums from the land, asked, "Why then are you laying a snare for my life to bring about my death?"



Then the king promised the medium, "As the Lord lives, no punishment shall come upon you for this thing." The woman asked whom he wished to talk with and the King answered "Samuel." But when Samuel appeared, then the medium knew the identity of her visitor. In a loud voice she cried, "Why have you deceived me? You are the King!"

When Samuel, as an aged man wrapped in a robe, appeared, the King bowed low to the ground. The old prophet asked, "Why have you disturbed me?" Then the King answered, "I am in great distress, for the Philistines are warring against me, and God has turned away from me and answers me no more. Therefore I have summoned you to tell me what to do."

Read this King's name and the account of Samuel's message to him in First Samuel, Chapter 28.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

HARK! THE VOICE OF JESUS CALLING

Hark! The voice of Jesus calling,
"Who will go to work today?
Fields are white, the harvest waiting;
Who will bear the sheaves away?"
Loud and long the Master calleth,
Rich reward He offers free;
Who will answer, gladly saying:
"Here am I, O Lord, send me."

While the souls of men are dying,
And the Master calls for you,
Let none hear you idly saying
"There is nothing I can do."
Loud and long the Master calleth,
Rich reward He offers free;
Answer quickly when He calleth,
"Here am I, O Lord, send me."

One day about a century ago the Rev. Daniel March, popular Congregational clergyman, was preparing a sermon for the Christian Association of Philadelphia.

His message was based on the Bible verse in Isaiah 6:8: "Also, I heard the voice of the Lord, saying: Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I, send me."

The preacher decided that his message should be followed by an appropriate song. He noticed, with disappointment, that the program for the service called for the singing of a hymn entirely out of harmony with his sermon. Casting about for a substitute and finding none that suited him, Dr. March resolved to write a hymn of his own. And that is how the verses of "Hark! The Voice of Jesus Calling" came to be born. Lowell Mason, popular American composer, set them to music.

Dr. March was a graduate of Yale university. When he finished his studies there in 1840 he began to prepare himself for the ministry. Five years later he was ordained by the Presbyterian church. He went over later into the Congregational fold and was serving a Philadelphia pastorate for that denomination at the time his hymn was written.

A Lift For Living

Our Aims in Life

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

When the late Justice Holmes reached the ninetieth year, rich in honors, Chief Justice Hughes said of him that he had attained that rarest of things, a complete life. But at that same anniversary Justice Holmes was writing that his life was like a Japanese print, unfinished at the border.

No human life, however seemingly full, is ever complete in this world. But there is a vast difference between a life which is ended its end, and a life which is unfinished because it is left at loose ends.

So much of life's tragic waste is due to our failure to carry through our aims. If I were to ask my readers today what their aims in life are, the answers would fill volumes. Yet I suppose we could say that the aims of all of us could be summed up in one three-fold desire: to be somebody, to do something, and to get somewhere.

THRUST OF LIFE

Take the first. The urge to amount to something is a part of our native equipment. It is the thrust of life to completion. The child without ambition is like a watch with a broken spring. In him must be aroused the desire to succeed at something.

But what do we mean by success? Is it money? Reputation? Social prestige? Some of the world's richest men possessed little or no material wealth. Many of our immortal scientists died in poverty. Their desire to be somebody was inspired by the needs of their fellows to whom they left vast heritages

Then consider the desire to do something. Work is essential to living. Human energies turn in on themselves destructively if they have no other outlet. Deprived of work, people exhaust themselves like caged animals beating against the bars. To find one's work is to find a place in the world. It gives a person courage. It helps to dispel grief. It is a link with other comrades.

JOB NOT ENOUGH

This desire to do something is not fulfilled by merely getting a job or entering a profession. Our schools and colleges do a good job of vocational training, and right now we seem to be a pretty busily employed people. Nevertheless, there is tremendous manpower lying unused in America.

Think of the people who have passed the age of employability. A woman once told me with pride how her father had kept active in his work to a very advanced age. She observed that he had been incited to keep on working by the remark of a friend who said to him," When you quit work and retire, you'd better buy your coffin."

This was rather a brutal remark. Perhaps it would have been wiser to say, "When you stop work and retire, you had better start working on your coffin." That would at least have given him something to do. I do not suggest coffin-making as a hobby, but it would be better than nothing. We need something to work on, if we are to keep our zest for living.

Not only has a man a desire to do something, but also to do something that counts. Not many of us are satisfied just pottering around. There is a difference between a potter. A potter creates something; a potterer just dawdles. We are all endowed with a creative instinct. It is not enough just to be busy. We want to be creative, to do something worthwhile.

NEED TO GROW

Another of our aims is to get somewhere. Any position, however high, which does not offer some chance for advancement will prove frustrating in time. We desire to get somewhere? Then let us not look restlessly and longingly at the next-higher rung on the ladder of success. Let us examine ourselves to see if we are growing.

To take a job and make it grow is better than to take another's job away from him. No position is small when it is held by a big man. Success is better measured by growth than by displacement.

Get out an old photograph of yourself Look into the eyes of the person you were 20 years ago and ask, "Am I seeing things more honestly than I did then? Have I lost something of the purity of heart I had then? Are my ideals higher, my faith stronger, my influence more wholesome? Do my trophies consist of the persons I have worsted or those I have helped? Has my character grown with the years?"

June, the month of commencements, is now closing. Maybe it is time for some of us to commence again.

WE ARE TWICE AS RICH

The vast majority of Canadians cart home fatter pay cheques than they did fifteen years ago, but amongst the older workers there are sometimes heard complaints that today's higher wages buy no more than the slimmer pay of yesteryear.

It may surprise many, therefore, to learn that the average Canadian "is buying just about twice as many goods as he bought as recently as only 15 years ago."

The authority for that statement is Richard L. Edsall, writing in the June issue of "Canadian Business," the organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

As everyone knows, inflation has resulted in a sharp decline in the purchasing power of the dollar. The inflation bogey, however, has been over-emphasized. Over all gain in sales for all types of stores was 389 per cent in the last 15 years, says Mr. Edsall. Allowing for Canada's increase in population, 35 per cent since 1939, and the climb of 84 per cent in the consumer price index, this increase in sales still indicates a gain of 97 per cent in real physical volume of sales to each Canadian.

As might have been expected, the rate of increase varies greatly for different types of businesses. Grocers are now getting 18.8 cents out of the retail dollar, compared with 14.4 cents in 1939. Restaurants have almost doubled their share, from 2 cents to 3.8 cents. The 812 per cent gain in restaurant sales between 1939 and 1954 can be laid to the extreme rise in food costs, says Mr. Edsall, but he adds that this is not the whole story, since grocery stores increased their dollar sales by "only" 541 per cent.

Mr. Edsall gives as additional reason for increased volume of restaurant business the fact that "nearly everybody has a little more loose change jingling in his pockets" and that "far more people seem to be getting into the habit of eating out." He appears to miss the possibility that this increase in restaurant business is actually a reflection of an important change in the Canadian way of life. Is it not possible that more Canadians are eating in restaurants not from "habit" but from necessity, arising from two causes? One is the great growth of the larger urban centres, with more and more workers unable to return to their homes for their noon meals. The other is the increase in the number of married women who are filling jobs in offices and factories, and who are thus unable to prepare meals at home.

Other figures which indicate a change in our mode of living are those for the automobile industry and for appliance and radio dealers. Automobile dealers now get 17.2 cents out of every retail dollar, compared with only 12.4 cents in 1939. Appliance and radio dealers get 2.3 cents today compared with 1.4 cents in 1939. The latter group's sales are up 789 per cent from the 1939 level, the largest percentage increase next to restaurants.

Another interesting figure is that for the sales of lumber and building material, up 714 per cent from 1939. In part, this increase reflects higher prices for building materials, but it also is indicative of the sharp increase in construction activity.

Of course, while some trades have gained larger shares of the retail dollar, others have lost, even though their total sales have risen. Butchers slipped from 2.7 cents to 1.3 cents, with department stores, men's clothing stores, fuel dealers and tobacco stores also showing declines. The figure for tobacco stores is illustrative of another interesting trend. Cigarette sales have shot sky-high since 1939, but Canadians are buying more of their cigarettes from grocery, drug and variety stores. One would expect that increased sales in the meat departments of chain stores have also been responsible, at least in part, for the butchers' smaller share of the retail dollars.

Incidentally, Mr. Edsall has a surprise for most of his readers in connection with the sales of chain stores. Many may have the impression that chain stores have been grabbing an ever-increasing share of retail sales from independent merchants. This is not so. In 1939 chain stores accounted for 17.7 per cent of the total retail dollar volume, in 1954 for 17.8 per cent. Grocery and combination chains recorded the highest gain, from 35.2 per cent of the trade in their classification to 38.4 per cent. Chain restaurants, on the other hand, saw their share of the market halved, from 14.4 per cent in 1939 to 7.3 per cent last year. Chain drug stores now do only 12.2 per cent of the total drug store business, compared with 20.5 per cent in 1939.

THE FINAL INDIGNITY

The horse has suffered the final indignity!

As it happens, the unkindest cut of all has been inflicted not by the automobile but by an earlier rival, the iron horse, in a strange alliance with organized labor and debutantes.

The horse should not feel too badly. An unnatural combination like that would dismay even a totalizor.

For those who missed the news item, it happened this way.

The Ascot gold cup race was scheduled for June.

Came the railway strike. The race was moved to July 14.

But July 14 is the day that Queen Elizabeth will be hostess to debutantes—and others—at a royal garden party.

So the Ascot race was moved again, to July 13, to enable the Queen to be present.

Apparently somebody thought the horses would be less inconvenienced by running a day ahead of time than debutantes would be by being required to hurry up their preparations. Perhaps Britain's hairdressers were too busy to complete their chores by July 13.

THE WEATHER

Weather hot or weather cold
Seldom perfect seems to be.
Of us all it can be told
A complaining lot are we.

We don't like it when it rains.
We're not happy when it snows.
Every one of us complains
When a breeze no longer blows.

Free to grumble better stay;
More and worse would be our woes
If for just a single day
Each of us the weather chose.

If I ordered weather clear
When my neighbor asked for rain,
Both could not be happy here.
One of us would still complain.

Pain Is a Benefactor

(International Science Press Service)

There are some people who cannot feel pain. They are unlucky beings, for they are continually in danger. As children, they are usually covered with bruises and frequently burn themselves severely. As adults, internal diseases, such as appendicitis, give them no pain warning and are often not detected until they have become very serious.

This lack of pain sometimes is nothing mysterious. It arises from the absence of the myriads of specialized nerve endings, in the skin and within the body, which send damage signals to the tissues.

The intensity of the pain we experience is not always related to the amount of damage we suffer. It depends on the speed at which the injury occurs, or the rate at which it progresses. For example, sunburn does not hurt the skin during the initial stages while the damage is slowly being done. But a very hot object pressed against the skin for a fraction of a second, not really long enough to do any great harm, causes intense pain because the injury to the skin is proceeding very rapidly.

• • •

Scientists also distinguish between the sharp pains experienced on the surface of the body and the duller aches which usually result from internal troubles. The arrangement of pain-receiving nerve endings in the body is very "sensibly" organized. Pain-receivers are buried deep in the palms of the hands and in the soles of the feet, places which are constantly exposed to relatively unimportant painful stimuli.

On the other hand, pain spots are found closer to the surface in the areas of the neck, shoulders and groin where important structures like the large bones and blood vessels are near the surface, and therefore subject to serious injury from wounds, in these regions, quick warning of danger is important.

Certain internal regions of the body are relatively free of pain-receivers. For example, some parts of the gastro - intestinal tract are insensitive to pain, and therefore cancers and other ailments in this area frequently escape early detection.

The brain itself contains no pain-receivers, but these points are concentrated along the vital blood vessels which feed it or other neighboring structures.

In measuring the intensity of pain, doctors realize that their experiments do not give them a true picture. The severity of pain is affected by emotional factors such as the worry and concern felt by the victim of an accident or a serious disease. Also, the researchers say, the expectation of relief will of itself often help to ease pain. Thus, tablets containing only sugar will provide some patients with pain relief if they believe that the pills contain a pain - relieving substance.

• • •

There are many drugs used to vanquish pain. So-called analgesics raise the pain threshold of the nerves, and cause the nerve to require more stimulation before it responds with a pain signal to the brain. Local anaesthetics, like procaine, deaden a nerve or group of nerves completely so that no signal can pass to the brain.

Pain is one of the most important aids to the physician in curing the sick. It alerts the victim to the fact that something is wrong with him. When the patient sees the doctor, the location and type of pain experienced frequently enable him to find and treat the cause of the distress.

The sensation of pain can rightly be called a blessing in disguise. Without it, we could not learn to avoid harmful experiences and we would often perish from diseases we did not know we had.

Hurry Is For Slaves

(New York Times)

Emerson had a good idea when —in his "Essay on Manners"— he said, "Let us leave hurry to slaves." These days, although that thought may be highly regarded, even Emersonians seem to pay little attention to it. The business day is filled with appointments, conferences and communications, all tied firmly to time. "The day just isn't long enough," A says to B as he stuffs unfinished business into a briefcase and runs for the 5:20.

"Hurry," says the alarm clock in the morning. "Hurry", says the clock in the dining room, frowning on a second cup of coffee. "Hurry," says the clock on the office wall. And so it goes, all day —even at the day's end. "Hurry," says a voice at the dinner table, "there's a school play rehearsal." Or a book due back at the library, which closes at 8.

A gentleman who has observed all these manifestations of slavery says that he has discovered a way to break the chains and be free again. He discovered it, he reports, when his watch stopped running and he put it into a bureau drawer while he mulled over the wisdom of having it repaired or replaced by a new one. It was still ancient and faithful watch, he said, and therefore he was prepared to give the matter some thought.

But while he was thinking about it he made a wonderful discovery. Not immediately, but in a day or so. For the first couple of days, while his watch rested in the bureau drawer, this gentleman says that a half dozen times an hour he looked at his wrist to see what time it was. Then, worried, he'd ask someone for the time. After a while, he said, he stopped asking. And then he stopped looking—looking at his wrist for the watch that wasn't there.

• • •

It was then, he said, that he found something very worth while. It was simply that he really didn't need to know what time it was as often as he once had thought. He began to slow down (leaving hurry to slaves). He found that his morning train to town came into the station just as noisily when he wore no watch as it had when he'd kept an eye on a minute hand. He got to the office about the same time every day. He seemed to get to all his appointments without difficulty. He could tell when lunch-time came because when everybody else began to leave the office —then it was time to eat lunch. His own lunch he discovered, became less hurried; because he did not know precisely what time it was he seemed to enjoy his lunch hour more.

• • •

Somehow he managed to catch the 5:45 almost every day after work with no trouble at all. His evenings, he reports, seemed longer and more restful in the absence of a watch. In short, his life became less hurried, more serene and altogether more enjoyable—all because his watch was in a bureau drawer, and not on his wrist. This gentleman contesses that he is beginning to think many of our current ills are due to watches and clocks and that perhaps the return of the hour-glass and sundial—with their rather vague measurements of time—would be a great boon to mankind. That idea, he concedes, is impractical, but he says that for himself the best place to have his watch is safe in a drawer where he cannot see it. Emerson was, he says, on the right track.

Editor Likes Dull Children

(Fort Worth Star-Telegram)

Maybe it is because we are old and nervous, but we like dull children better than smart ones. Today Cousin Ellen brought her dull little boy when she came to see us. He is so dull he allowed Ellen and the rest of us to talk. He was not impudent to her or to us, as a bright child would have been, and he didn't interrupt everything we tried to say. Ellen wasn't constantly calling attention to something cute he was doing. He looked at things in the house, but he didn't show enough intelligence to try to break up our property, and he didn't hit his mama in an effort to make her take him home. Yes, we like dull children and their parents should be proud of them. They take in everything and by the time they are grown they are able to do something useful.

Small City Without Taxes

(Windsor Star)

In these days when so many municipalities are hard pressed for funds, Madisonville, Ky., is almost fantastically prosperous.

Madisonville is a small city, having a population of 12,500, and its story is short. It simply says that as the revenue isn't required, property and poll taxes for this year have been abolished.

The poll tax abolition one can understand. But a city without property taxes! It befuddles the imagination.

What's Madisonville's secret? Oil wells in the city hall basement? Whatever the reason, somewhere rich springs of dollars must be flowing.

Some fact-finding junketeers may set out soon for that ideal spot. In this julep season, who wouldn't want to join them?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DOCTORS

I don't know what the world would do without its doctors—but there are doctors and doctors. I contacted one today who made me feel like going from his office into the street and giving a great cheer, so that I might be heard, and explaining that I had just left a doctor's office after a long and careful examination—and he said I didn't need his services, that I hadn't got that far and I had nothing to worry about.

Here was an honest doctor. He has plenty of patients who need his services—and he serves them well, I am told—but they are the ones who have proved they need him. How easy it would have been for this doctor to string me along and keep me worried, but he wasn't that caliber. All glory to his type and kind. He told me he was a born Canadian, so we felt at home with each other at once.

There is another type of doctor I like—that one who gets you acquainted with yourself and who does so much to make a person honor his body and take pride in it.

Such doctors don't think it essential to disturb their patients so as to keep them running back and accumulating a lot of unnecessary bills. Said that doctor whom I visited today: "Mr. Adams, you don't need my services. Tell your good wife I said so."

Many of our greatest doctors do more through common sense and wise counsel than ever they do with medicines and unfortunate operations. This body of ours is a wonderful machine and it will stand long punishment, but in time it will revolt unless treated with kindness and consideration. On the other hand, when treated kindly, this body of ours blossoms like the rose.

I have noted in hospitals that as soon as a cheerful doctor comes into the hall he is heard all over the floor and immediately every patient feels better. His laugh puts as much medicine in it. I have in mind just such a doctor and it's so good to have had him in the world.

HAPPINESS A BY-PRODUCT

How can I find happiness?

First of all, we have to define what happiness is. Is it having our own way all the time? Is it giving vent to our passions? Is it making and spending a lot of money? Is it acquiring power and dominating the lives of other people? Is it being a social success?

Happiness is quite evidently beyond all such. There can be no happiness without contentment. Happiness is not the possession of anything or the exercising of a right but rather it is an inner state of pleasantness and contentment as regards ourselves and an eager spirit of good will as regards others.

The most striking aspect of happiness is that it comes into our lives without our knowing it. If we try to get it, it eludes us. If we pursue it, it is a will-o-the-wisp. When we do the right things and think the right attitude toward others and believe sound truths concerning God and His goodness happiness creeps over us. Under such circumstances, it just happens.

It is pathetic to see the way people pursue happiness, as if they could capture it and make it theirs. But they can't. Happiness only comes when we cease to seek after it—when we stop thinking about it. It is God's gift to those who have put something else first.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Who Knows What Allergy Means?

When the doctor prescribed a basic health, corrective, protective, reducing diet for a patient with spurious sinusitis, the patient squawked that he couldn't take a quart of milk a day. My stars, he couldn't take milk at all —he was allergic to milk.

One might as reasonably purport to be allergic to outdoor air, tap water or gravy.

Doctors and folks have carried the notion of allergic sensitivity far beyond reason. Allergy has become a byword in the glib chatter of the half-informed. It's as useful as ulcers for smartcracks.

For all I know, it may well be that some persons do acquire a peculiar sensitivity to one or another component of milk, persons who for some reason, have lived for long periods without milk or with too little milk in their diet or with only "processed" milk or milk products.

I suggest potassium chloride and vitamin C for relief of the spell of calcium feeding to prevent or combat development of allergic sensitivity. So it is all right to use the KCl and C as medicine for relief of distress or as a palliative remedy. The Ca and D, however, is nutritional, not medicinal, and in order to get the full benefit of it, one must eat the daily fation throughout the season or throughout the year.

Incidentally, the hay fever season is opening, and hay fever is allergy to one or another kind of pollen, and if you decide to go on a high calcium diet with Ca and D supplementation, you had better start on it right now—four glasses of milk every day.

Polar Route Catches Fancy

(Vancouver Sun)

Canadian Pacific Airlines' new Vancouver - Amsterdam route through the polar region already appears to rank among the great successes of aviation pioneering.

CPA and Swedish Air Services operating from Los Angeles are opening up the world's first new major travel route in centuries. It is clearly destined to become one of the greatest travel routes.

Public imagination is so caught that CPA would double its weekly service right now — though it started operating only over the week-end — if planes were available. It will be doubled early next year.

Nearly 1,100 seats have been sold. All eastbound seats are gone until mid-July. Westbound bookings are equally heavy starting in September. Westbound freight for Australia and New Zealand is available to fill any vacant space.

CPA officials confidently predict that the Polar service will make money right from the start —a bonanza which has occurred rarely if ever before in opening a major airline route. Usually it takes years to build up profitable traffic volume.

Soon four airlines will be competing on this shorter route to Europe. Government-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation and Pan American now have U. S. permission to fly it.

But the first man to urge its great potential was CPA president Grant McConachie.

Mr. McConachie apparently would have been content to let government monopoly Trans-Canada Airlines open up the Polar route as an alternative to its round-about service to Europe and a faster connection for CPA's trans-Pacific routes. But TCA showed no interest.

Though CPA gets passengers from Vancouver to London with 1,000 miles and three to four hours less flying, it's not allowed to pass on its financial savings to the public.

By licensing condition CPA cannot charge lower fares to London than TCA.

In contrast Swedish Air Services from Los Angeles charge $18 less than competitive U. S. airlines flying the roundabout route via New York.

Cruel Quest For Truth

(Montreal Daily Star)

A New York drama historian is going to open the tomb of Sir Thomas Walsingham, the Elizabethan nobleman, in England. He fully expects to find in it a lead box containing the 36 manuscripts of the first folio of "Shakespeare" plays.

That blessed name is put in quotes here because the drama historian is one of those who don't believe that Shakespeare wrote Shakespeare. Christopher Marlowe is his nominee, and he thinks Marlowe left the first folios with his patron, Walsingham.

Most of the heat has gone out of the Shakespeare controversy, and nobody much cares now who wrote the plays so long as we have them to enjoy. It's cruel to revive it now and even crueler to discover that Marlowe did after all write Shakespeare. Think of the shock that would be to the Baconians.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

To hose the concrete back prch where we sit, we carried the cocoanut matting rug out on the lawn. The wind was blowing hale, and the elms and maples were waving.

When we went to carry the matting back, it was covered with keys, debris. We had to shake the rug vigourously to tidy it.

The wind does a wonderful job of tireless pruning of the trees. And the trees never cease to shower down the miniature rubbish of their endless growth and endless day.

Trees are the great earth-builders. It is easy to think of a noble tree falling in decay and adding a ton or so to the earth's quiet volume. We can also call to mind the tonnage of leaves the trees shower down, each autumn, to build the patient layers of mould and humus that make the fertile earth. Out of water, air, sun, and a few chemicals drawn from the soil, but mostly from the air and the sunlight, the tree has converted formless elements into solids upon which life can thrive. But every hour of the day, the tree is shedding a small, largely unnoticed detritus of twigs, scales, bits and fragments. Being fragile, they are almost at once set upon by mold and fungus, ants carry them off to bury underground, they are quickly entered into the earth's metabolism.

Many agencies share in earth-building. The grasses are immense contributors, especially the richness of their contribution is considered. All plants have a share in the miracle. Water, cold, heat, wind, the sun, the darkness, all have their finger in the wonderful pie. But trees, particularly trees moved by wind, are the busiest of all. When you see in the summer wind the trees waving and twisting, you need not think they are dancing for your entertainment. They are earth-making.

And about the thankfullest thing you can do, as one beholden to the earth beyond any measure you can conceive, is to get a shovel and go out and plant a tree.

Wellington on the Lake

GARDEN IN JUNE

The scarlet of the poppies,
The iris' gleaming gold,
The bridal white of peonies
A wealth of beauty hold;
And in the tree above them
A bright-red bird-box swings,
While purple martins airy
Sail by on flashing wings.

A little wren is singing
Up in the apple tree,
And orioles, too, are joining
In songs of ecstasy;
While on the ground, the robin
With step so proud and firm,
And eye so bright and friendly
Picks up a juicy worm.

Ah! the delights of June-time
Are sweet and manifold,
With verdant fields and meadows
And sunshine's gleaming gold.
That we might stay their passing—
These days so glad and free—
For soon, ah soon, these joys of June
Will be a memory.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — Truly every prospect pleases on this June day, and one is unobserving who sees not the beauty of June. In this village there is many a flourishing garden of both flowers and vegetables, of which each owner is very proud. Entering to view a neighbor's garden, we were accompanied by a friend, a lover of gardens and beauty, who quoted the following lines:—

"The Kiss of the Sun for pardon,
The song of the birds for mirth,
We are nearer God's heart in a garden
Than anywhere else on earth."

Our view of the garden of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ford was a delight—here a variety of flowers in bloom, and the vegetable garden combined beauty and utility. A gift of young potatoes and green peas from this garden with fresh strawberries from the Cleminson farm made a delicious dinner, the home-grown fruits and vegetables being more appetizing than those imported.

The canning season opened with the canning of peas on Monday which are a good crop. Many men and women are employed.

Mrs. Arthur Goodmurphy returned home on Sunday after spending some time in Toronto. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Sanders and baby, Carl Allen, who spent the week-end in Wellington.

Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Wannemaker, Rose Hall.

Mrs. Hewitt of Chesterville, Ontario, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Carley and Mr. Carley, Wellington.

The Wellington friends of Miss Jennie Aylesworth were saddened to hear of her death. Miss Aylesworth, formerly of Madoc, had resided several years here and had made many friends.

Miss Marjorie Blakely with Mrs. Ostrander and Mrs. Allison of Picton were dinner guests at Lakeland on Sunday. This fine resort is preparing for a busy holiday season.

Miss G. Lumb is improving the appearance of her residence by a fresh coat of paint.

JOINT MEETING

On the afternoon of June 16, the members of the W.M.S. and the Evening Auxiliary of Bloomfield United Church were guests of the Missionary Societies of Wellington United Church. There was a fine attendance and all enjoyed the program presented by the Bloomfield ladies, with the local presidents Mrs. G. Stoneburg and Mrs. P. Elliott in charge. A humorous reading by Mrs. Spurrell, and vocal selections by Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. D. Baxter were followed by an inspiring address by Mrs. Spafford. At the close of the program, all repaired to the school room of the church which was prettily decorated with flowers and the quartet tables invitingly laid. Here tea was enjoyed nicely served by the local ladies, this delightful social hour closing a pleasant afternoon.

EVENING AUXILIARY

The Evening Auxiliary of the United Church met on Tuesday evening in the school room of the church with the president, Mrs. P. Elliott in charge who opened the meeting with a poem. There were twenty-one members present. Mrs. G. Parks gave the treasurer's report, Mrs. Pyne reported five community calls, and Mrs. Frank Brimley reported on Christian Stewardship. Mrs. Welbanks thanked the auxiliary for cards received.

The program followed, comprising a fine report on Trinidad by Mrs. G. Harris; an inspiring devotional by Mrs. C. Cleave on the Church of Angola, a reading by Miss Edith Ward, and a chapter of the Study Book by Miss Martineau. Mrs. Gibson thanked all who had helped with the program. Lunch and a social time closed the meeting.

HILLIER W.I. ENTERTAINED

The members of Hillier Women's Institute were entertained at the home of Mrs. Norman Foster, Wellington, on Friday evening. It was the June meeting. The president, Mrs. H. Weese occupied the chair. A report of the Demorestville convention was given and plans were discussed concerning the bus trip of the Institute to Stratford in August to attend the Shakespeare play, "The Merchant of Venice".

Mrs. Jordan presented the program and the meeting closed with a social hour and refreshments.

Performer Back After Trapeze Fall

Miss Mara, now completely recovered after an almost fatal fall, once more thrills Big Show audiences with her sensational heel catches high in the dome of the Big Top. She uses no net.

One of the most sensational circus performers of all time is back with the Big Show after a miraculous recovery from a fall that threatened to put an end to her career as an aerialist.

Her name is Miss Mara and she spearheads the streamlined aerial squadrons of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, June 27.

The daring young lady, one of Spain's most delightful products, works her high, single trapeze act in bare feet. Her dangerous and thrilling performance is climaxed by one of the most suicidal bare heel catches ever to chill a spine.

Two years ago, at Tacoma, Wash., Miss Mara missed the catch while performing this same breath-taking heel catch high in the dome of the Big Top, and plummeted to the circus ring far below. She spent months and months in a plaster cast and many feared she would never be able to return to the show.

However, by sheer determination and painstaking exercise she managed to recover completely and now appears in the 1955 edition of The Greatest Show on Earth with a trapeze performance even more astounding than before.

Miss Mara is but one of the many attractions which make this year's show the greatest ever staged. It is loaded with gorgeous new spectacles and there are scores of daringly original acts imported from many foreign lands.

Performances in the world's largest tent, now completely air-ventilated, are at 2.15 and 8.15 p.m.

'24-Hour Men' Preparing Ringling Circus Lot for Big Show's Arrival

Making last-minute preparations for the arrival Monday morning of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, the Big Show's "24-hour men" were busy here today.

For Monday is circus day and the men who travel just in advance of The Greatest Show on Earth are arranging for its unloading as soon as it arrives from Montreal over the Canadian National Railroad.

All personnel and equipment will be transported quickly to the lot at Sidney St.

Performances will be given Monday at 2.15 and 8.15 p.m. in the new air-ventilated tent, with doors opening at 1 and 7 p.m.

Scores of thrilling new attractions and four great spectacles, one of which features the largest herd of performing elephants ever assembled, are in store for circus fans this year.

"Holidays," most glittering of the four extravaganzas in the 1955 edition, presents a glorious kaleidoscope of colors, costumery and lavish floats. Hundreds of human and animal artists participate in this pageant dedicated to the festive days on the American calendar.

200 TONS OF ELEPHANTS

Nearly two hundred tons of elephants appear in the magnificent spectacle "Mama's in the Park," an utterly charming fantasy in which bonnetted behemoths air trumpeting offspring in gigantic baby carriages. To stage this massive production, John Ringling North imported twenty new baby elephants from India and added to his already vast adult herd.

The aerial spectacle this year features bevies of sultry beauties revelling on high in a romantic aura of South Pacific charm. Beautiful Pinito del Oro is the central figure of a stunning sky ballet whirling to the lilting strains of "On Honolulu Bay."

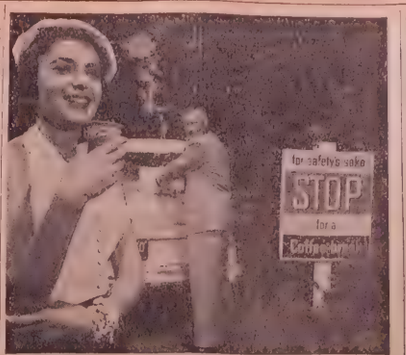
The stirring patriotic finale, entitled "Rainbow 'Round the World," brings a final riot of color and beauty to Mr. North's latest entertainment triumph.

In addition to producing the four enchanting spectacles, Mr. North composed all the music for them. He also has brought a host of new acts to thrill and amaze spectators this year.

Outstanding among these are the death slide by Takeo Usui on a wire stretching from the ground to the apex of the Big Top, and Delia Canestrelli, who performs a thrilling high ladder and rolling globe number.

The Cordons, masters of the long whips; Evy Karoly, Hungarian bareback sensation; The Seguras, superb springboard specialists; The Marilex, plate spinners and jugglers; The Naukos, unicycle jumpers; Octave De Jonghe's handsome hunting dogs; Attiliana, Spanish wire queen; The Oliveras, high wire acrobats; The Adanos, achieving unbelievable juggling feats, and the Carmenas in hand-to-hand and head balancing, are among other brand new attractions appearing in America for the first time.

WORLD-FAMOUS ACTS



Held over by popular request are the Three Nocks, Swiss stratosphere artists, who perform chilling feats on high swaying masts. The Palacios, Sabrejets and Falcons, world-famous flying troupes, are displaying new aerial artistry.

Pinito del Oro; Josephine Berosini, high wire ballet mistress; The Rixos and Alfred Burton, spectacular equilibrists; Logano, aerial contortionist; Miss Mara, trapeze heel-catch marvel; the juggling Cupers; and Evy and Everto, wizards of the anglocycle, again appear in their distinctive acts.

There are also Luis Munoz and Tonito, top-notch wire performers; the four tumbling Whirlwinds; the pyramiding Fredonias; the acrobatic Yong Brothers and Sisters; the balancing Wedanis; the incomparable Unus, who stands on his forefinger; Antoinette Bisbini, blonde trapeze thriller; the cycling Radinos, and the Renellys, on the double trapeze.

Heading the hold-over animal acts are Trevor Bale's jungle-bred tigers; Alphonse De Jonghe's humanized chimps; Paul Fritz's comedy lions and a troupe of performing bears.

There are horse acts aplenty for lovers of fine steeds. The superb dressage riders, Marion Seifert, Nadia Houcke and Alexander Konyot are artists in their specialties. Then there are the Justino Loyal Troupe; Ilonka Karoly, mounted ballerina, and the liberty horses of Charles Moroski, Gena Lipowska and Hans Ussim. Finally, there is a brace of roping Mexican Charros who combine trick lariat work with reckless riding.

Wise drivers on Canadian highways this summer have discovered how to combine pleasure and safety to help death, too, take a holiday. The relaxed driver who realizes that it's better to reach the lake or mountain alive than to try to be there half an hour earlier, is helping to reduce Canadian highway fatalities. When he feels the slightest sign of fatigue, he pulls off to the side of the road, stretches his legs and helps himself and his driving companion to a cup of strong, hot coffee. Or he drops into a roadside restaurant for some of the same alertness beverage. To stay alive, stay awake at the wheel, is the advice of both Canadian and U.S. safety experts. Fatigue, or driving monotony, they say, are two of the greatest summer highway hazards so "for safety's sake, stop for a coffee-break."

Along Canadian Trails

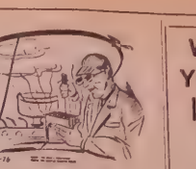
Canada's First Auto

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by David Ranson

In Charlottetown, capital of Prince Edward Island and Canada's Confederation City, you can still see the rusty remains of Canada's first automobile. It made its first public appearance on June 24, St. Jean Baptiste Day, away back in 1866, the year before the Dominion of Canada was born.

It was strange that Charlottetown should be the home of the first Canadian automobile owner, because until a few years ago motor cars were not even allowed on Prince Edward Island. The Islanders love horses. Horse racing, with pacers and sulkys, is the favorite sport in the smallest Canadian province. And farmers who love horses simply couldn't stand having them frightened by gasoline buggies. So they banned automobiles until recent years. Then, for a while, cars were permitted to run only on Thursdays.

Father George Antoine Belcourt, a Catholic priest in the parish of Rustico, was the first Canadian to drive his own car. He bought a "steam wagon" that had been built in Philadelphia and had it shipped to the island. It was a heavy contraption, built of wood and iron, not unlike a locomotive. It weighed several tons and was so difficult to manage that it took two men to steer it.



On the French Canadian feast day, June 24, 1866, the astounded villagers of Rustico saw for the first time what their priest had purchased. To help him run the machine, Father Belcourt had a crew of two. First, they had to stoke up, to raise enough steam. Then the car, snorting and puffing, rumbled off and went for about half a mile without stopping, the villagers running along beside it shouting and hooting.

At the end of the first half mile. The car came to a sharp turn. Here, the priest and his helpers pulled on the steering bar but could not swing it hard enough to make the corner. The heavy, snorting machine plunged into a ditch. Runners were sent back to the village to bring the priest's horse. The car, imported from Philadelphia and historically launched in the Island village, was hauled back to town by a team of island horses.

Father Belcourt did not lose out entirely, however. When he found his new car unsatisfactory for driving, he put its engine to work sawing wood and pumping water. On St. Jean Baptiste Day, it was often put together and drawn through the village streets, a patriotic. Now, it is too old even for that. Somewhere in a Rustico junk heap, Canada's first automobile is rusting away.

Your Car

Air-Cooling Chemical Harms Eyes

By EUGENE MILMOE

If, like many new car buyers, you invested a little extra for air-conditioning, heed this bit of advice on service and safety.

Generally, car air-conditioning systems give little trouble. However, if anything does go wrong, don't make any attempts at repair unless you're wearing goggles.

The same protection is recommended when moving any unit in the system (for example, the compressor which is mounted on the engine) in order to gain access to other car parts that need servicing. Freon, the air-conditioning refrigerant, is harmful to the eyes. Since it is under pressure in the system, there is a danger of its splattering when any units are disconnected.

B.S. asks: Lately, my brake pedal feels very spongy and I can't locate the trouble. The brakes were adjusted and a thorough inspection made for fluid leakage, but everything seems to be in order. I also bled the wheel cylinder to get rid of any air that might be in the system. What else can be done?

(A) Check the vent hole in the filler plug. If it is clogged with dirt, that's the source of the trouble.

HESITATES AT 30

From L.R.: My 1950 car seems to hesitate or hold back slightly when I hit 30 miles per hour. However, when I'm driving at 35 or 40, it runs smoothly. The same hold true at low and idling speeds. New generator, plugs and points did not cure the trouble. Can you help?

(A) Apparently this trouble is due to a flat spot at that point in the accelerating pump cycle. In other words, at 30 mph the pump does not discharge enough fuel to your engine. Up to and beyond that speed, pump action is efficient.

E. C. writes: I drive my car only a few miles each day, and I've been having the peculiar problem of no oil consumption. On one occasion, the oil was actually too high when I checked it. I've had a new fuel pump and a carburetor installed but there is no difference. Now, the mechanic suspects the automatic choke. What do you think is to blame?

(A) Your mechanic may be on the right track. If a faulty automatic choke is causing an overrich fuel mixture, excessive oil dilution will result. Those short trips, by the way, will also tend to increase dilution of oil.

C.P. asks: On my 1953 car with automatic drive, I notice a slight hum at times. Mechanics have told me this condition is nothing to worry about and it would be a waste of money to try and correct it. Would you advise doing anything about it?

(A) As your mechanics have advised — save your money. According to factory information, a slight hum or whine can be expected in your automatic transmission and should not be interpreted as a sign of trouble.

Bulletins From Birdland

TRAVELLING WITH BINOCULARS

Do not expect to see a hummingbird when you are travelling at 50 miles an hour or more; nevertheless, many kinds of birds can be identified en route—so bring along binoculars. Every ocean ship seems to have its flock of herring gulls that fly beside the vessel just waiting for scraps to be thrown overboard. If you go by plane you may encounter several species, although you will probably not be able to recognize them.

But looking from the window of a train, a bus, or a private car you may be astonished at the number of birds that can be seen. Many are particularly fond of roadsides. The indigo bunting and the song sparrow are not easy to identify by sight from a swiftly moving vehicle, but their voices carry well.

Several birds partial to roadsides are unmistakable. The vesper sparrow with its white tail shafts and the kingbird with the white band across the end of its tail both like to sit on fences, but fly at the approach of your car, in so doing exhibiting their distinguishmarks. The meadowlark also usually shows you a back view, with the broad tail and its white shafts.

UNIQUE MARKINGS

But should the bird face you, there is a conspicuous black V visible on the bright yellow breast. Bobolinks are sometimes found near roadsides, their light upper and dark under parts making them almost unique in birdland.

Crows are generally to be seen in any district, and occasionally a big hawk is spied circling round and round up in the sky. Telephone and power wires are good places to watch for swallows.

If your way lies near a body of water quite different birds may be added to your list. You cannot hope to distinguish a little sandpiper on a beach as you pass by, but a stately great blue heron is certainly big enough to be seen, although should it "freeze" at your approach it could be quite close to you, yet invisible.

A flock of ducks is a common sight. You might come upon a kingfisher, with is big, shaggy head, just as it dives head first and rises with a fish dangling from its large bill. And there is always the chance that you will be exactly in time to get a thrill as an osprey plunges feet first, and comes up holding a fish in its powerful talons.

So remember that the hours spent on travelling to and from your holiday resort are never wasted if you are on the watch for birds.

Stirling

FELLOWSHIP BANQUET

STIRLING — Dr. Ralph Vandervoort, Messrs Bruce Bell; Earl Fox; Carl Bateman; Robert Patterson; Edwin Warren; Stan Meeks; Bill Webben; Francis Jeffrey; Dave Duffin; George Lyons, all members of Stirling Rotary club attended the Intercity International fellowship banquet at Club Commodore, Belleville, on Monday evening.

Other groups were in attendance from Cobourg; Napanee; and Picton. It is understood that the 11 members from Stirling was a high mark for the local club in the attendance count. The guests came from Watertown, N.Y. by Chartered coach and the visitors provided most the program.

St. Andrew's presbyterian church held a very successful ice-cream and strawberry social on the church lawn, on Tuesday evening. The booths, including a fish-pond, were well patronized.

On Monday evening Messrs Ray Tanner, Ross Hermiston; George Heasman; Bill Long; Jack Bice; Bert Basteds; Major Fraser; Fred Heasman, and Bill Fewer all nine new members of Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion journeyed to Picton. Here the Hon. George Drew gave a address, there was also colorful initiation ceremony and the Legion presented another cheque to the Building Fund of Prince Edward Memorial Hospital.

Miss Rosa Spry attended a special office administration conference at Gananoque, Ontario, last Thursday and Friday.

Bandmaster Maurice Bell and members of Stirling Citizens' Band staged an open air concert at Victoria park, on Sunday evening.

Born at General Hospital, Belleville, on Tuesday, June 21st, 1955, to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nelson, Stirling No. 2, a son-a brother for Leslie.

Rev. H. C. Secker attended an International Clericus of The Church of England at Gananoque last week.

Stirling Masonic Lodge No. 69 attended a divine church service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last week. Rev. W. H. V. Walker delivered the message.

A practical demonstration of harvesting a field of hay took place at the home of Mr. Harold Detlor, with Ken Ray in charge of the demonstration.

FIRST VISIT TO CANADA

Mr. Gustave Wodzak of West Germany, arrived last Friday via air, to visit his son, Mr. Max Wodzak, 20 Gordon Street, and his brother, William of New Carlow, who has been in Canada for over 50 years. This is Mr. Wodzak's first visit to Canada, which he says is one of the most beautiful countries he has seen.

Holloway St. F.C. Enjoys Pot-Luck Supper

The Fellowship club of Holloway Street United church had its closing meeting at the church, in the form of a pot-luck supper. The table fairly groaned with the many delectable dishes and all members forgot their diets and had a happy time.

A short business period was conducted followed by a discussion of one of the favorite Psalms.

All members left for home calling best wishes for a pleasant summer vacation.

4-H Quinte Girls' G.C. Holds Meeting

The Quinte Girls' Garden Club held its second meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix. A reading was given by Miss Bernice Stratton, a new and welcomed member, based on the history behind gardening.

Plans were made for the next meeting which is to be held next Tuesday in the afternoon, at Mrs. Archie Greatrix.

A general outline on cooking vegetables, transplanting, and thinning vegetables was discussed by the leader.

It was agreed to hold a demonstration of each at the next meeting, as the gardens were not ready.

The home assignments were read, and a garden quiz was held by the president, after which the meeting was closed.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Craig, and daughter, Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Morch are pictured following their marriage in the RCAF chapel at St. Hubert, Quebec. The bride is the former Miss Sandra Ellen James, daughter of Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James and Mrs. James, of Mount Royal, Quebec, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Morch of Belleville. (Photo by Geraldine Carpenter, Montreal.)

The RCAF chapel, at St. Hubert, Quebec, was the setting on Saturday, June 18, at 3.30 p.m., for a lovely wedding ceremony, when Sandra Ellen James, of Mount Royal, Quebec, daughter of Air Vice-Marshal, A. L. James and Mrs. James, became the bride of John Edward Morch, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Morch. Squadron Leader G. E. Fee, assisted by Flight Lieutenant J. McAvany, officiated before a background of white peonies.

Squadron Leader R. Patteson provided the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her model bridal gown of antique shantung with low bateau neckline, full skirt with cording at the hipline, ending in a slight train. Her veil of tulle illusion in fingertip length was held by a small matching Juliet cap. She carried a shower bouquet of white iris.

Miss Helen J. Claxton of Ottawa, as maid-of honor, was attired in oyster color printed pure silk shantung in street length, fashioned with long torso and bouffant skirt. She wore a matching headdress, and carried a hand bouquet of pale pink sweetpeas.

Miss Doreen E. Johnson, also of Ottawa, as bridesmaid, was gowned similarly to the maid of honor, and carried similar flowers.

Mr. Ian F. Morch, of Belleville, attended his brother, while Messrs. John Stubbs, Alan Rowland, John Cameron, William Cooke and John Ensinck were ushers.

The reception was held at the RCAF Officers' Mess, at St. Hubert, Quebec, where the bride's mother wearing an imported Swiss Dior blue coat dress with matching shoes, hat and mauve orchid corsage, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in blue-grey Honan silk with navy accessories, and corsage of red roses.

For travelling to the Thousand Islands, the bride chose a blue, pleated dress and matching jacket with white accessories.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Belleville, Lansdowne, Lindsay and Windsor.

Music Pupils Present Fine Annual Recital at Collegiate

On Thursday evening, the pupils of Mrs. Emily Veley, R.M.T., presented their annual piano recital at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium.

Mrs. C. Scott on behalf of Mrs. Veley and the Harmony Studio club welcomed a large number of parents and friends. She also paid tribute to the pupils and teacher for their fine work which was accomplished through the year.

Once again the pupils from beginners to the advanced grades, presented their work with a fine display of musicianship. The smaller pupils showed an excellent display of performance and platform etiquet. They were followed by the older pupils who presented work which showed years of hard work and development.

During the evening Heather Seger presented Mrs. Veley with a bouquet of roses and Marina Bongard, on behalf of the pupils, presented a gift of money, thanking Mrs. Veley for her interest and help with their work during the past year.

Going Places

Sloans Tote Tots on Tour

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Like the reporter who set out to prove that an atomic energy plant was improperly guarded and very nearly got himself shot and electrocuted climbing over the fence, we set out to prove something a few weeks ago and almost disproved it.

What we had in mind was to show that it's perfectly feasible to take two small children on a two-week motor tour and see a good time had by all. Well, by the end of the first week we were ready to concede that we were about half right. The kids were having a heck of a time.

But be of good cheer—the story has a happy ending. By the second week we'd got pretty well used to it. So if you're in the same family boat we are, bear with us and perhaps we can help you avoid some of the trails of our first week.

First off, we quickly disproved the common belief that if you travel with a child from its earliest days, it will grow up a seasoned traveler Claudia, now two and a half, had been on the road with us on and off since she was three months old. For Jonathan, 1, it was a first trip. But he was by far the better traveler, though it may have been only because he was younger and less susceptible to boredom.

MAULING PROBLEM

Actually, boredom seemed to be the biggest problem. Claudia is active and gregarious. She found it difficult to switch from her normal stampeding home life to being cooped up in the car for hours at a time. Without playmates to distract her, she took to mauling the daylights out of her parents and younger brother to an extent which, for a while, sorely tried the patience of all.

But by the second week she seemed to get used to it and settled down into the routines of stopping and going.

Jonathan, placid by nature and still young enough to take anything for granted, sat in his car seat or took his naps with a minimum of trouble to anyone.

Our seating arrangements in the car took many experimental forms. Our equipment included, besides the car seat, a portable play-pen-crib and a collapsible stroller. At one time or another they were all inside the car.

A car seat (preferably two) is indispensable. One child or the other was always riding in ours. And the stroller was the next best thing to a high chair for inside-the-car feedings when restaurants didn't turn up at mealtimes.

PLAYPEN TROUBLE

We tried propping the open playpen on suitcases and the rear seat cushion to make a play area. This worked fine when Claudia was an infant and just lay there. But with both kids upright on uncertain young legs, they become easy prey to every bad bump and spent too much time tumbling and banging themselves around. The playpen was soon relegated to the trunk for travel hours.

Budetwise, things were tougher than we anticipated. The Motel Game, popularly known as Milking the Motorist, is at the height of its season and all entrants are gleefully bucking for the championship.

We encountered not a single place where we were unable to bargain the room rate down a dollar or two when we felt it was unreasonably high. The proprietor of a court in Ottawa plunged all the way from $12 to $7 when we threatened to report him to the auto club whose guide listed his rates as $7 top.

Tourists with children are particular prey to these gougers, because the youngsters are a good excuse for upping the rate a dollar or two for each, even though the children actually use none of the rooms "perishable" facilities (extra linen, towels, soap, etc.).

Each night we made it clear that we needed only a "single" unit, that we had our own crib and that Claudia would sleep with Shirley, but still we were asked the inevitable ominous question, "But just now many of you are there?"

It's hard for us to pass on to you an average or "normal" rate for a family like ours, but the fair thing would seem to be the usual $5 to $7 for two persons plus—if they must—a nominal dollar each for tots who don't use the motel's equipment.

FEEDING EASY

Feeding was no problem. The children ate normally, and Jonathan's baby food was warmed in everything from drug store lunch counters to fancy tourist-attraction restaurants without trouble. Sometimes it even warmed itself in the trunk or on the car's sunheated back shelf. If you're really cutting corners on the budget, a small child can be fed adequately from Mommy's and Daddy's portions. Milk was excellent everywhere, and water changes never made either child ill.

Most restaurants had high chairs, though a surprising number didn't. For those who want to do it right, a portable high chair might be a good investment, though the car seat hooked over the backrest of a restaurant booth is a good substitute. So is the stroller, if you've got a good back for bending over.

Keeping clean was a big problem. They wouldn't be kids if they didn't have grimy paws, so it's wise to travel in clothes you don't care about too much.

Afternoon naps didn't prove too troublesome. The children welcomed the opportunity to stretch out on the car's seat when they got tired enough. The same applied in the motel at night, the lack of privacy apparently not inhibiting them. We all would have liked it better with adjoining rooms, undoubtedly, but the rates were out of the question for families of average means.

25 Silver Dollars Presented To New BSP Chapter

Twenty-five silver dollars in artistic arrangement on black and gold ribbon was the goodwill token presented to the newly formed Silver Anniversary Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi by the parent Chapter, Alpha Lambda.

The occasion was the "Pledge Ritual" for the new Chapter held at the Quinte Skating Club. The president of Alpha Lambda Chapter, Mrs. Grant Badgley, made the presentation to the president of the guest chapter, Mrs. J. L. Acton, along with the director, Mrs. Don MacKinnon, and the social sponsor, Mrs. A. J. Wolfendon.

Members of the newly formed chapter were installed in the colorful, traditional candlelight ceremony.

At the close of the installation, a buffet supper was served.

27 Little Ones Graduate Into Senior S.S.

Last Sunday was a Red Letter Day for 27 tots who graduated from Christ church Beginners' Sunday school to the Senior Sunday school.

In the unavoidable absence of Mr. Ray Lennox, the Senior school superintendent, graduation diplomas and pins and class pictures were presented by Mr. Clarence Fuzzen, to the following pupils: Sharon Anderson, Ruth Bateman, Ronnie Bazuk, Ted Beresford, Warren Bongard, Philip Buttle, Gerald Bull, Rodney Carter, John Cherry, Tommy Clark, Peter Clark, Doris Day, Carol Fraser, Graydon Flindall, Joy Howitt, Beth Martin, Roger Maudsley, Hazel Miller, Jane McCutcheon, Peggy McCutcheon, Jimmy Noakes, Ernie Pope, John Parsons, James Parsons, Patsy Reid, Paul Rose and Stephen White.

At the conclusion of the Sunday school program, the rector, Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, spoke to the children, encouraging them to continue in their Sunday school attendance.

At this time, another presentation was made, this to Mrs. Arthur Bongard, who had worked with the Beginners' Sunday school since its inception and has been the superintendent for many years. Now at this time, she is taking a well earned rest. To show the love and appreciation everyone has for her, Mrs. T. Clarke, on behalf of the teachers and pupils, presented Mrs. Bongard with a beautiful painted picture, one she had admired, and for which she thanked everyone.

Before leaving for home, each child was given cookies, booklets, and text cards, and all were invited to attend the summer vacation school to be held early in July.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.G.

The Women's Guild of Shannonville Trinity church, held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. McBride, Milltown. Mrs. Fitzgerald, president, welcomed the members. Prayer was conducted by Mrs. Page.

Following the regular business matters, special offering folders were distributed by the president. Several articles were turned in for the coming bazaar.

Treasurer, Mrs. Whittle gave a fine report.

Mrs. Spencer offered her home for the next meeting on July 7.

After the meeting closed the hostess, Mrs. McBride, and helpers served refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

Young Singer From Quebec In Contest

By SHIRLEY MORRIS

QUEBEC (CP)—A young singer with flashing French eyes and a broad Irish smile sets out for London, Ont., this weekend to become the first girl from this city ever to enter the Miss Canada contest.

Denyse Angers, a television and nightclub entertainer at 18, has her eye on the scholarship awarded to the girl chosen Miss Canada as she wants to study singing in France.

"I adore the singing of Edith Piaff, the French chanteuse, and I would like to adopt her style," Denyse said.

Although she has only sung professionally for seven months, she has appeared on the television shows "Holiday Ranch" and "Pick the Stars." She also has auditioned successfully for Arthur Godfrey and has sung in night clubs in New York, Montreal, Buffalo and Quebec City.

"I got my start last October when a talent scout for Mart Kenny heard me," she said. "I went to Toronto and appeared as a guest on my first television show."

The contest, made up of tests for which beauty counts for 1-5 of the points, will run from Monday to Saturday. There are 36 contestants.

The daughter of an Irish mother and a French-Canadian father, Denyse has three sisters and four brothers. Two brothers and a sister sing professionally in Quebec City and another sister, in Toronto.

"House Plants" Topic At W.I. Meeting

The regular meeting of the Cannifton - Corbyville W. I. met recently with 13 members and four visitors present.

Reports were read by conveners of standing committees.

Following the business, the convener of Agriculture, Mrs. H. Melburn, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Barber, who spoke on house plants. This was of great interest to the ladies and concluded in discussing many plants as Mr. Barber has been in this business for some time.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. M. Milton, and helpers.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PUT YOUR MIND ON SOMETHING BESIDES GETTING A MAN

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 21, and separated from my husband.

Since the separation, I have had three dates with another man. He tells me he loves me and that I am real sexy-looking, yet he doesn't come to see me for three or four days at a time.

Do you think he loves me or is just playing games with me — B.L.F.

Dear B...F.:

You haven't gained any maturity through having had a marital failure, have you Nor even any commonsense. Nor judgment.

Don't you really, for one thing, have any idea how much trouble you might get into by going out with other men when you are only separated, not divorced from your husband And for another thing, do you really think that three dates with a man means that he is in love with you, no matter what he says

Unless your idea of life is merely to run from one man to another in search of romance, you had better stop right where you are and begin to use your head about things. If you keep on the way you're going, you will sooner or later get into some very unsavory messes:

For heaven's sake, find yourself some worthwhile interest in life, and put your mind on that for awhile instead of finding yourself a man.

YOU'RE DOING RIGHT; KEEP ON DOING IT

Dea Miss Fairfax:

I date different boys and don't go steady with any one.

Last week I went to the skating rink and was talking to different boys there. Most of them, I used to go to school with.

There was a girl there who goes with a married man, and she said that people were talking about me for going with different boys. My father and mother agree with me that I should go out with different ones, and it makes me mad when a girl like that tries to tell me what to do.

Please give me your advice on it. I am 16 years old. — M.L.H.

Dar M.L.H.:

Surely you realize that a girl who goes out with a married man is not a girl who has good advice to give to anyone, and consequently she's not even worth getting mad at. Just ignore her.

I don't mean that you should be rude to her, because it's never a good idea to be anything but courteous with anyone. But that doesn't mean you have to stand around and listen to her talk. Just say hello if you meet her anywhere and then walk away as though you had something else to do, which you probably would have.

You are doing the right thing in going out with different boys at your age, and, in doing so, are far smarter than the girls who feel they must concentrate on just one boy. So don't get upset when anyone says foolish things about what you're doing. Just remember that your parents approve, and be too sensible to pay attention to these others. When the right time comes, you'll know enough to choose the right boy for your "steady."

Holy Rosary C.W.L. Sponsors Berry Social

A most successful strawberry social was held in Holy Rosary Hall last evening with a capacity crowd in attendance under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League.

Upwards of 400 adults and children enjoyed the delicious treat of strawberries and ice cream at the quartet tables with their snowy white cloths.

NOVELTY BOOTH

A large assortment of aprons, embroidered cloths, pot - holders, were on sale at the novelty booth under the convenership of Mrs. L. Donovan and Mrs. M. Bradden. Tickets were also on sale on a hand made cushion at this booth.

A fish pond, located out of doors in front of the hall, kept the young fry busy and also the conveners, Mrs. B. Thompson, Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. B. Fox.

Mrs. J. McHugh was busily engaged selling tickets on a full course dinner which was raffled at the close of the evening.

To conclude a most successful event, a draw on floor polisher and chest of flat ware was made. The winners were Randall LaMoore, floor polisher; Mrs. K. Rashotte, Tweed, flat ware; cushion, Mrs. F. Buckley; chicken dinner, Mrs. N. LaPlante. Lucky tickets were drawn by Mr. Murphy and Mr. Bruyea.

A vote of thanks is extended the conveners, Mrs. A. Eves, Mrs. S. Haley and all others who assisted in making this event a success.

As Conducted by Mary Moore

"Here is a Three Fruit Marmalade which is good too—

Two oranges, 1 grapefruit, 1 lemon, 1 quart of water. Boil together for 20 minutes. Then take out fruit and run through chopper. Return to water and boil for 20 minutes. (Meantime warm 6 cups sugar.) Then add sugar and boil for 20 minutes. Boil well each time. Put in sterile glasses. (Double this quantity makes 12 to 14 medium glasses.) — Signed Hazel P. T.

ANSWER:

Thank you Hazel. I have answered the other part of your letter by direct mail.

QUESTION:

I have clipped many of your very fine recipes and ideas, also enjoy the bits you include of your family and Sunday school work. I am going up north this summer and expect to be baking rolls and tea biscuits. Can you send me your favorite recipe for both in large quantities? Thank you kindly. —Signed Mrs. Alice S.

ANSWER:

TEA BISCUITS (For 20)

Six and one-third cups flour, 3 1-2 tablespoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon salt, 3-4 cup fat, 3 cups milk. (1) Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. (2) Work in fat until pieces are the size of green peas. (3) Make a well in the centre of the mixture pour the milk all at once in rolls. the centre of the well. Mix lightly and quickly until all flour is dampened. (4) Turn dough out onto a lightly floured board. Knead lightly 2 to 3 times. (5) Roll to 1-2 inch thickness. Cut with a 2 1-2 inch cookie cutter. (6) Place on lightly floured pans. (7) Bake in a hot oven 450 deg. until golden brown, for 12 to 15 minutes.

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS

Four cups milk, 10 tablespoons shortening, 6 tablespoons sugar, 6 teaspoons salt, 3 yeast cakes, 13 cups flour, 1-2 cup butter, or margarine (for spreading rolls when shaping). Heat milk. Add shortening, sugar and salt. Dissolve yeast cakes in 8 tablespoons lukewarm water. Add to mixture. Add 4 cups flour and beat thoroughly. Cover and set in warm place to rise until light, about 1 1-2 hours. Add enough flour to make a firm dough. Knead on a floured board until smooth and elastic to touch. Cover and set in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Knead again. Roll the dough to 1-4 inch thickness and cut with large round cutter. Brush each peace with melted butter. Mark through the centre with the back of a knife and fold over. Place rolls in a greased, shallow pan 1 inch apart. Cover and set in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Bake in a hot oven 400 deg. Fahr for 15 to 20 minutes. Yield 60 rolls.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHO GIVES THE HOPE CHEST?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would you please help a "wondering" group of girls about a question concerning the Hope Chest? Some of us feel that the family of the bride-to-be is supposed to buy or provide the hope chest. Others of the group feel that it is the duty of the fiance to present his fiancee with the hope chest as a gift. Which is proper? — The Group

If the girl is engaged when she wishes to acquire a hope chest, it is quite correct for her fiance to give it to her. It is just as correct for her family to give it to her. And of course she may buy it for herself. Today there is a trend toward a girl's acquiring a hope chest quite a time before she is even engaged. Then it is usually given to her by her parents, or her godmother, sometimes by a devoted aunt and uncle, perhaps as a Christmas or birthday present. Then she can happily begin to "fill it up" with gifts she receives (linens for example, decorative accessories, and so forth), or items she makes (kitchen towels, for example, or hand towels or guest towels she embroiders with her own initials or monogram).

Important Note: It is definitely not correct for a girl to accept a hope chest from a man unless she is engaged to him.

INFORMAL CHURCH WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our wedding is to be a very small church wedding. I am not sending formal invitations. Please suggest a form I could use in the notes inviting relatives and friends to this kind of wedding.

2. The groom and best man will wear dark blue business suits. The groom would like to know what kind of necktie they should wear.

3. My father will be present at the wedding, but there will be no procession because of the small wedding. Would it be permissible for him to wear a summer suit? — Mary Ann

1. The invitations to such a small, informal wedding my correctly be given verbally or by telephone. Or of course it is very gracious to invite the guests by notes. The best form is for your mother, or whoever is to be hostess of the wedding, to write these notes, you writting the ones to your closest friends. Your mother's notes might read:

Dear Flora,

Mary Ann and Donald Hill are to be married on Tuesday, August 9th, at 4 o'clock, in the—Church, and we so very much want to have you and Jim come to the ceremony and then to our house to greet the bride and groom. The wedding to be very small and informal, and please tell us you'll come.

Dearest greetings to you both from all here.

Affectionately,

2. A four-in-hand tie with a dark blue blackground and narrow white or gray stripes or small pattern would be in excellent taste; or any other conservative two-shades-of-blue tie. Then men should not wear a white tie.

3. Yes . . . but not one very light in color.

COVERING HEAD IN CATHOLIC CHURCH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a Protestant, and soon I am leaving for a tour of several European countries. When I enter a Catholic church or cathedral, would I be expected to cover my head as Catholics do? (I practically never wear a hat, and probably won't while traveling.) — S.W.

A Protestant woman entering a Catholic church, even as a tourist should always cover her head, out of respect for the custom of the Catholic church. A woman tourist not wearing a hat, prepares for this by carrying in her purse a fresh handkerchief or small kerchief with which she covers her head before she enters a church.

Scholarships Presented By H-S Assoc.

The Shannonville Home and School Association held its last meeting of the year Monday evening with a large attendance.

A "thank-you" letter from the Chest X-ray clinic supervisor thanking the ladies of the Home and School for their assistance in registering 190 persons at the unit that visited the village in May was read.

Installation of officers took place with a past president from Belleville doing the honors. President, Mrs. J. Kliburn; vice-president, Mrs. Ray Reid; secretary, Mrs. Helen Louis; treasurer, Mrs. A. Hollands; executive committee —Mrs. Nellie Howard and Mrs. Doris Johnson.

SCHOLARSHIP PRESENTED

A scholarship was presented to three Grade 8 pupils for their splendid work throughout the year; also one Grade 7 pupil, the highest marks and 1st scholarship went to Velma Hill $25; 2nd Gerald Green $15; 3rd, Shirley Green, $10. Lorraine Shelly, $2, a present from the association. Lorraine was a Grade 7 pupil therefore unable to qualify for the scholarship but a clever girl and her teacher, Mr. Cameron, was quite confident she was ready to pass on into Grade 9.

After the meeting came to a close, a musical program prepared by Mrs. Nickie Sero was enjoyed which included songs by the senior girls and dancing by Kirk Reid, Vickie Sero, Bobby Brant and Connie Reid, all in lovely costumes. A big thank-you was extended to Mrs. Sero for taking time to train them. Also a special thank-you to the school board for its donation and to Mr. Ray Reid who furnished each child with a cold drink and Mr. A. Kilburn for a cash donation.

The conveners for the evening served refreshments and called it a year well spent.

St. John's Guild Plans Fall Activities

The members of St. John's Guild met at the home of the president, Mrs. O. Babcock for the last meeting of the summer. They welcomed back an old member who has been ill, also two visitors from England.

Plans were discussed for the Fall bazaar after which the hostess served tea.

Meetings will be resumed in September.

Paint your home in ½ the time*....

For Repainting Surfaces in Reasonable Condition Use TITAN WHITE*

A wonderful new warm white with extra Titanium content, giving it greater hiding power. Brushed smoothly over all but unpainted or badly weathered surfaces according to directions, just one coat of Titan White has an opaqueness equalling two coats of ordinary paint, saving you 50% of the work of repainting. By carefully controlled 'chalking' Titan White retains its gleaming whiteness season after season, allowing minute particles of the paint film to chalk away, taking with them accumulated surface dirt and grime.

For New or Badly Weathered Surfaces Use . . .
High Standard House Paint TWO-COAT SYSTEM

For new wood and painted surfaces in poor condition, whether brick, concrete or stucco, this 2-coat system provides beauty plus complete scientific protection. By means of 'Controlled Penetration' specially compounded oils in High Standard 260 Primer seal all porous surfaces, penetrating the immediate sub-surface just far enough to ensure firmness of the prime coat. Enough oil is left on the surface to form a tough, elastic film, providing an ideal foundation for a finish coat of Titan White or Lowe Brothers' High Standard Exterior Paint.

Lowe Brothers PAINTS

for a complete range of modern colors . . . see Ranch Tones for exterior beauty, at your Lowe Brothers dealer!

● In choosing Lowe Brothers Exterior Paints too, you get the benefit of laboratory and performance tested formulas. Each contains carefully selected pigments, dispersed in durable paint oils to guarantee tough, elastic paint films. Each is developed to do a specific job and each is tested for film strength, abrasion resistance, drying time, adhesion, surface hardness, viscosity and color permanence. Properly applied, Lowe Brothers High Standard House Paints form a protective coating that resists heat, cold and humidity —stays smooth and resilient season after season.

Garden Notes

Guard Against June Garden Pests

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Tomato plants now are in flower and that means the developing fruits will need a good supply of plant food.

You may add fertilizer to water and make a solution; make a shallow trench around each plant and put in a half cupful of balanced fertilizer, or place fertilizer, in a trench between the rows working it in lightly with a fork, or hoe. There is also a hormone spray called seedless set which enables the fruit to develop more quickly with very few seeds. The fruit is larger, and of better color than untreated fruit. Spray on the blossoms as they open, repeating as new ones form.

Staked plants can be set two feet apart, unstaked plants need three to four feet space. If staking, use six to seven foot poles and loosely tie the plants every eight inches. A mulch three inches deep of grass clippings, shredded peat moss, or chopped straw will conserve moisture and discourage the weeds. It also will keep the fruit clean.

PEST CONTROL

Pest control is important; flea beetles, tomato horn worm, and early and late blight are the worst offenders. Blight is first evidenced by black spotting, yellowing and death of older leaves. The big ugly horn worms must be picked off by hand. We hold a pail under the plant, and with a pair of scissors snip off the leaf which holds the worm. The flea-beetle do their "shothole" damage to leaves early in the season. Dust the plants each week with end-o-pest, or some lime type of poison dust prepared for vegetables.

Cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli also need weekly dusting to discourage the cabbage butterfly worms. It is time to put in cabbage and broccoli for late crops and frozen storage. These plants need a plentiful supply of nitrogen for lush growth. Apply a side dressing which is high in nitrogen. Lettuce and all leafy green plants will benefit from the same treatment.

As the radishes, early lettuce and onion sets are used up put in some beans. There are many types; the green pencil pod is prolific as long as the weather remains fairly cool and moist. Hot dry weather tends to cut down their production. The yellow wax types seem to stand hot dry weather better.

BETTER BEANS

Inoculating the seed with nitrogen-fixing bacteria produces better bean crops. This is a dry powder, which can be dusted on the seed. Pole types and the big meaty limas can be grown on a fence or on staked poles. The old favorite scarlet runner bean will give you a colorful bloom, a shady back proch and long luscious green beans for the table. Pick them before they become tough, and the blooms will keep forming.

Crowded for space, you can still plant some cucumbers, if you have a few feet of unoccupied fence. Late planted cucumbers often miss the beetles, and develop quickly in the warm moist weather. They are heavy feeders, so supply plenty of fertilizer to the soil when planting the seed, and apply extra amounts when the plants are well advanced. You can also use seedless set on cucumbers, for earlier, seedless cukes. Cucumbers take to soil rich in humus, so supply leaf-mold, well rotted manure, or peat moss. A mulch also conserves moisture and keeps the fruit up off the ground.

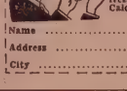
HEARING AID EVALUATOR



No gadget or gimmick can ever take the place of thorough audiometric hearing tests, but an ingenious new slide rule calculator developed by the Maico laboratories is proving very helpful to the hard of hearing as a means of making a rough appraisal of the type and degree of their impairment.

Characteristics of the various types and degrees of loss are listed on one side of the slide rule, suggested courses of action on the other. A simple movement of the slide matches up the suggested action with the user's hearing condition.

Quick and easy to use, this new calculator is something every hard of hearing person should have.

For a limited time only, the ingenious new slide rule is being offered free of charge to hard of hearing persons. Fill out coupon and mail to us in an envelope. This offer is limited so act now!

Checkpoint... "ACCURACY"

The watt-hour meter that measures the electricity you use is made with the same precision as a fine watch. Sealed to withstand dust and moisture, its sapphire-jewelled bearings never need oil. It is designed to operate efficiently and accurately at all temperatures and is periodically checked by Dominion Government Inspectors.

Electricity is metered in kilowatt-hours (1,000 watts used for one hour). The small dial, at the bottom of the meter illustrated measures 1/10th of a kilowatt-hour. On completion of one revolution, the dial at the right moves one unit to show one kilowatt-hour. Similarly, the three other dials indicate, from right to left, units of ten, one hundred and one thousand kilowatt-hours—your meter, at all times maintains an accurate record of the small amount of low-cost electricity required to provide a better way of living.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

AT LONG LAST!

"Everything comes to him who waits" may well apply to that gontee'd gypsy of the ring, Archie Moore, world's light heavyweight champion.

A fortune will come to Moore, for sure. The heavyweight championship of the world? That's not so sure. Goodness knows he's been waiting round long enough for both.

A shot at the heavyweight title is the goal of a long-cherished ambition on the part of Bobo Olson's conqueror. He has made no bones about it, not being a shrinking violet when it comes to verbosity, nor has he spared what he could of his low finances to help put the idea across.

He was the traditional ugly duckling with the boxing mob and got the run-around more than the lead-horse on a merry-go-round.

Moore was thrust into the shadow of the sidelines by other managers for the best reason in the world. His ability. He rated no great ballyhoo from the typewriters of the boxing fraternity, in those darker days but he will be top copy when Al Weill, Marciano's manager, on whose words the millwrights hang, starts negotiations with Jim Norris, boss man of the International Boxing Club, and Charley Johnson, Moore's manager.

Like the cheap skate at the ball game who takes a sudden interest in a passing cloud when the collection hat is passed, Weill had his head turned or wadding in his ears whenever Moore was mentioned as a possible challenger for the Brockton Blockbuster's crown.

That this was obvious to the "mob" is evidenced in the statement made by Jersey Joe Walcott, another victim of the vicious run-around system, who said on an air-show, "Boxing is a business. A fellow has a title and there is a fellow like Archie Moore standing first in line for a crack at the title—and to me—Archie Moore is one of the greatest fighters we have had in a long time—but in due respect to Moore, you cannot very well blame the manager of the fellow who is holding the title if he avoids men like Archie Moore. He, to me, is a really great fighter."

Also it was obvious that Weill knew Moore packed a wallop that possibly might change the noggin' wearing the heavyweight crown. He wrote in a magazine article: "Nobody can tell me he knows for sure how long a champs going to keep a title. If he keeps putting it up he's going to get into trouble. That much I know."

Weill knew that through experience. He once managed Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion, who was knocked out in an upset by Lew Jenkins. "That's how it happened. Jenkins was a good puncher."

He wrote Louis did not duck anybody when it came to putting the title up and Marciano is managed the same way. And here's the significant statement: "When it comes time to meet a certain fighter, he'll be ready and willing as usual."

Weill went on to write about matches being hot at the time of the fights.

They were gradually warmed up by the heat of the typewriters. But there should be no crescendoing heat for a Moore - Marciano bout after the light heavyweight's crushing victory over Bobo Olson.

This boxing potato will be plunged into the boiling water of publicity. Already the IBC mills are grinding and they won't be "grinding exceeding small."

Master Weill is a wizard of colorful verbosity and his mayhem of syntax has provided reams of copy for the boys south of the border.

So, after long weary years of frustration and the "run-around," the rags-to-riches story of Archie Moore, which started the latter phase this week, rolls on to a golden goal, if not glory.

By way of comparison when Moore took the light heavyweight crown from Joey Maxim in 1952, he received $800. The other night he picked up a cheque for $81,540.

AT "HANK'S HANGOUT"

While the Toronto Maple Leafs claim they have the most colorful ball club in the International—or one of them at least—the management is leaving no stones unturned to bring in the faithful from all parts of the province through the turnstiles.

They have come up with all kinds of gimmicks, some of them seem like expensive ones, too, for the management.

One of the best attractions offered to those who live in the sticks is a series of week-end parties throughout the mid-summer months. For $6.60 you see the Leafs play three ball games, on Saturday night and a Sunday double-header. You stay overnight at one of the better hotels and have "breakfast brunch" at the Town and Country restaurant. You can write Maple Leaf Stadium, 1 Lakeshore Boulevard, for the various dates.

Today, secondary and public school students of the metropolitan area are the guests of the management at a "Student Graduation Night." The Buffalo Bisons will be the Leafs' guests today and Sunday.

The Chicago White Sox will play an exhibition game with the Leafs on Monday night, June 27—and Master Marion will bring his whole collection of stars. He remembers that the Leafs gave the Milwaukee Braves a close three-all battle last year—but no such thing is going to happen to the Sox if "Mr. Shortstop" can help it.

TED GRAY RELEASED

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sore-arm southpaw Ted Gray, who tried to make a comeback with Cleveland Indians, didn't make it. He was released Friday to make room for Joe Altobelli, rookie first baseman recalled by the Tribe from its Indianapolis farm club.

The 30-year old pitcher had been signed a few weeks ago after his release from the Chicago White Sox, which he joined at the start of the 1955 season.

ORIOLES SIGN COACH

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ken Raffensberger, 37-year-old former major league pitcher, was signed Friday by Baltimore Orioles to coach and play for his native York in the class B Piedmont League.

Mathews Does 485-Foot Job As Brewers Start to Foam; Yankees Nudge Indians 2-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Could it be that Milwaukee Braves finally are perking up? and if so, is it too late to catch Brooklyn Dodgers?

Manager Charlie Grimm's Athletes, pre-season favorites to win the National League spring, haven't looked much like contenders for most of the early running. The pitching and the hitting that was to deliver the big reward for all that fantastic fan support barely kept them ahead of the rest of the pack.

But now things have changed. The Braves have moved into second place with seven straight victories, belting home No. 7 Friday night with an 8-2 uprising against the Dodgers.

Until the current string got started, Milwaukee hadn't been able to put together more than three at a time.

ALL THE WAY

Lew Burdette went all the way against the Brooks, winning his fifth and against four defeats with a nine-hit breeze. Braves let him load by making the most of eight hits.

Three of them were home runs off loser Carl Erskine that afforded Burdette a 7-1 lead in three innings. One of the socks was a 485-foot job by Eddie Mathews—the longest on record at County Stadium.

The only shadow on the Milwaukee picture is the fact that the Dodgers — with power men Roy Campanella and Duke Snider ailing—are still 13 games up. The question is: Is that too much for Braves to overhaul?

In the other national league games, Chicago's Cubs beat Pittsburgh 10-3, New York beat St. Louis 1-0 and Cincinnati split with Philadelphia in a twi-nighter, losing the first 8-6 but winning the second 6-0.

AL STILL CLOSE

The American League scrap stayed close. New York Yankees remained two-games out front by nudging Cleveland 2-1 on Irv Noren's home run in the 10th. Runner-up Chicago held the pace with a 3-2 victory that cooled Boston Red Sox.

Detroit pasted Washington 18-7 and Kansas City blanked Baltimore 2-0.

The Yanks had just five hits from Mike Garcia, but two were home runs, Yogi Berra got the other. Cleveland scored in the first on two Yanks' errors, then stranded 14 men Jim Konstanty won it, his fifth, in relief of Johnny Kuchs.

Boston, which had won 12 of 14, dropped behind with Nellie Fox's tie-breaking single in the seventh off loser Mel Parnell and then fell short of a winning rally in the ninth. A hidden-ball trick by Chico Carrasquel, plus Morrie Martin's strikeout of Ted Lepcio with the tying and winning runs on base held off the Red Sox.

TRAPPED AT SECOND

Carrasquel went to the mound for a conference, with Consuegra and when Sandy assumed what looked like a pitching position on the mound, Carrasquel swept behind Sammy White at second to trap him.

Ted Williams was missing from the Boston lineup because of a sore back.

Frank House and Bill Tuttle each whacked three-run homers for Tigers, who had 17 hits off loser Bob Porterfield, Chuck Stobbs and Pedro Ramos. Billy Hoeft coasted in for his seventh victory while Al Kaline upped his American League-leading bat mark to .376 with three singles.

Ruben Gomez, the only Giant hurler to record a shutout this year, notched his second while six-hitting the Cardinals. New York had just three hits off Tom Poholsky, with Whitey Lockman's homer in the fourth providing the edge.

Ted Kluszewski's 22nd home run, coming with two on, was just one of three big blows as Cincinnati recouped against Philadelphia in the nightcap. Roy Smalley's three-run homer in the eighth inning of the opener put the Phils on top.

Two Veterans Lead Golf Pack In Ontario Open Tourney

KINGSTON (CP)—Ontario's 32nd annual open golf championship swung into the 36-hole windup today with two veterans in the lead and a pack of professionals and amateurs close behind.

Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro and Murray Tucker of Toronto Rosedale, both former champions, fired two-under-par 68s Friday in the qualifying round of the medal-play tournament.

The only other sub-par shooter among the more than 100 who started was amateur Dave Morland of North Bay, who finished with a 69. The 56 golfers who were successful in firing a 78 or better over the tough Cataraqui course teed off in the 36-hole final today.

First prize for the low pro is $500. If an amateur wins the open, he receives various gifts.

The lightning - fast greens and long narrow fairways proved tougher obstacles than expected for many of the golfers. Apart from the three-under pars, two others shot even par and the remainder of the field was scattered—upward.

A pre-tournament favorite, Gerry Kesselring, playing out of Toronto Downsview, had an even par 7. So did his clubmate, Bill Thompson. Rudy Horvath of Windsor Essex, last year's Ontario champ, had to settle for a five-over 75. A 3-foot putt on the 18th green helped him get that.

A fine showing was turned in by the 11 amateurs seeking to qualify for the four positions on the province's Willingdon Cup team. Highest score among the 11 competing was a 76 by Bruce Castator of Weston.

Dave Morland fired the best round of the amateurs. His 69 moved him into No. 2 position, seven strokes behind Kitchener Rockway's Moe Norman, who had a 72 Friday. Dave's brother, Bill, also of North Bay, had a 72 also and is in 11th spot in the Willingdon race.

Gray's 68 was a bit of an eye-raiser, particularly for those who figured one of the younger pros would be tough to stop. The long-hitting Scarboro veteran, who has won the Open twice, has seldom played better golf.

"My game feels like it used to," he said. "It's like old times again."

Gray teed off under a slightly overcast sky and in perfect temperatures in the mid-60s. However, he ran into trouble on the first hole when he hooked into trees flanking the fairway. He took a one-over five.

He also went over par on the fifth but birdies on the 488-yard par-five fifth, the sixth and the eighth gave him a 34 before he made the turn. He ran over par on the 13th but picked up birdies on the 12th and 16th.

Tucker was steady most of the day. He went over par on the 18th but ended with birdies on the fourth, 14th and 15th.

Dave Morland ran into trouble on the short second hole, going over par. However, he repeated the Gray-Tucker stunt of a birdie on the long fourth and added a birdie on the seventh. Coming home he birdied the long 16th.

Kesselring, who won the Open in 1952 and 1953 when he was still an amateur, bogged down in his putting. Going out he three-putted three holes and took a 37, two over par.

He settled down on the homeward nine and began to show the pre-game form which had brought him a sizzling two-under 68 in practice rounds. He scored a 33 on the return nine for the 7.

In the Willingdon Cup trials, Norman, leading contender with a 280 total in the Burlington and London Hunt Club matches, retained his position by carding a 72 for a 352 total.

Jerry Magee was dropped from second place with a 289 to third place after he scored a 71 for a 360 total, while Dave Morland came home in 69 to add to his 290 total for a 359 and second spot in the trials.

The top four amateurs will represent Ontario on the Willingdon Cup interprovincial tournament. The four successful golfers must compete in the Ontario Amateur at Kitchener July 6-9.

Winner of that tournament will automatically join the team and the low man will be dropped if necessary.

Rae Milligan, Western Links Gal, Wins Ontario Ladies' Golf Title

BURLINGTON (CP)—Rae Milligan, a 21-year-old Albertan in competitive golf since she was 14, won the Ontario Ladies golf crown Friday with the "best game I ever shot."

Noreen Laing, a 19-year-old newcomer from Toronto, lost her chance for the title because "I couldn't have played against a better golfer."

Miss Milligan overpowered Noreen with a crushing 12 and 10 victory at the Burlington Golf and Country Club to take the title. It was the biggest margin ever scored in the 36-hole final and the first time in the tournament's 40-year history that a golfer from outside Ontario won it.

"Everything went well," the University of Alberta co-ed said. "My putting was wonderful."

OPPONENT AGREES

Noreen will agree with that. She expected to be outdriven on the tee but figured on picking up strokes on the green.

However, the five-foot-five westerner rode a hot putter all day, one-putting 12 of the 26 holes. That, coupled with her flawless tee shots and tremendous approaches, was too much for Miss Laing.

The Alberta champion was under par nine times, canning 20- to 40-foot putts regularly. She needed only 20 putts on the first 18 holes, turning in an approximate medal round of 70—four under par.

Miss Laing, who upset defending champion Anne Sharpe of Lookout Point Thursday, managed to take only one hole Friday. That was on the par-five 11th, when Miss Milligan's third shot hit a trap and she was holed out with a one-over six. Noreen had a birdie four.

Noreen, Toronto and district ladies champion, halved only 12 holes over the route.

STARTS WITH BIRDIE

Miss Milligan, who topped such stars as nine-time winner Ada Mackenzie of Toronto and former champion Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., in earlier rounds, started off Friday's match with a birdie four on the 445-yard first hole.

She birdied the 240-yard, par-four second by sinking a 39-foot putt. By the end of the first nine, Rae was six up. She was eight in the lead when the first 18 holes ended.

At the 26th Miss Laing was 11 down. It was here that she hooked her second shot into some trees and couldn't find it. She dropped another ball and fired it to within 20 feet of the pin.

Miss Milligan was on with her second and holed out with a birdie three. Miss Laing conceded the tournament there.

Tiger-Cats Favor Canuck Gridders

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats, aware they can't afford as many high-priced imports as Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes, are hoping a new preseason training camp for promising Canadian newcomers will make up some of the difference.

The club, always noted for its top-notch Canadian football players, this year is stressing plans to produce some new outstanding homebrews. For that reason the Ti-Cats appointed Merle Hapes, former New York Giants and Hamilton halfback, head scout in the off-season to come up with more Canadian players.

Hapes inaugurated a training clinic for his new "finds" which started June 20 at the McMaster University campus. It will continue until July 15 when the Tiger-Cats open their regular training camp in preparation for the Big Four season.

GOOD TURNOUT

"We've had from 26 to 31 boys out each night," Hapes said. "If we feel they have what we want they'll be asked to attend the actual Tiger-Cat camp."

The players have been scrimmaging since the third day of practice and take 90 minutes of training each night under the guidance of Hapes as well as head coach Carl Voyles and line coach Ralph Sazio.

"The backbone of any team in Canada is its Canadian boys," says Voyles. "We've had good Canadians and that's why we can compete with other teams who can afford high-priced imports."

Two of the newcomers who have made an impression are Marv Bevan, 19-year-old, 195-pound fullback and a brother of Tiger-Cat guard Eddie Bevan, and Dick Snider, 205-pound guard from Niagara Falls, both played with Hamilton junior team last season.

CLEAR SANTE EPARTLY

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—AAU officials said Friday that Wes Santee, outstanding United States miler, has been cleared of two of three charges that he violated his amateur standing. Investigation of the third charge is continuing.

Santee has been accused by a San Francisco newspaper of accepting more than actual expense money for taking part in three Pacific coast meets. There were at Fresno, Modesto and Los Angeles.

Galt Turns Back Elgins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers may be cellar-dwellers in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League but they are making life miserable for the other teams in the circuit.

Friday night Terriers turned back St. Thomas 8-1 for their second win over Elgins this week.

London Majors strengthened their grip on second place by nosing out Brantford Red Sox 11-10 in the other Intercounty game.

In a Niagara District Senior League game, Stamford Kerrios defeated Crowland Bisons 7-5.

The win moved Terriers to within a few percentage points of fifth-place Brantford and knocked Elgins into a tie with Kitchener Panthers for third place.

Tiger-Cats Moan "That Jones Boy"

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, who breathed a sigh of relief when they escaped paying a $325,000 suit brought against them for signing a player who was under option to Chicago Bears, disclosed Friday night they have signed another player who is under option to a National Football League team.

However, this time it happened by accident and the club has placed the player, Charlie Jones, on the waiver list.

TiCats recently discovered that Jones had signed an option with Chicago Cardinals while he was in the U.S. army.

Sam Snead's Golf School

In a good golf swing the player's weight is forward so that he is able to swing down strongly, smoothly, accurately. As the clubhead goes through the player's left shoulder rises rather perpendicularly. This permits his right shoulder to pass under his chin in the follow through. Meanwhile he keeps his eyes fixed on where the ball was, and his head immovable both in the horizontal and vertical planes. Just after impact, as pictured, notice that his hips and shoulders are both almost parallel with the line of flight. But the left hip has correctly pivoted back away from the line a trifle, taking the body out of the way for a full smooth, follow through. This player is a good golfer. His feet are well anchored to the ground. He is in no danger of losing his balance, and thus spoiling his shot, as he pours clubhead power into the ball.

Green's 1-Hitter Gives Orfuns Eighth Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Behind the one-hit pitching of Bobby Green, the league-leading Belleville Orfuns racked up their eighth consecutive victory in the Belleville and District Softball League Friday night by downing Madoc 4-1 at the C.N.R.A.A. Park.

For fastballing Bobby Green, it was his fourth triumph and his second one-hit job of the year. He was touched for a double in the third frame last night by Harry Brown but was unbeatable the rest of the way, while his mates played steady ball behind him. Green threw third strikes by 11 of the village crew while walking five and hitting one batter.

The Orfuns saw Madoc take a 1-0 lead in the top of the third before scoring a pair in the bottom of the inning, enough to take the victory. They added another in the fourth and completed the scoring in the seventh with a singleton.

Bob Schofield toiled the route for Madoc and held the local's big guns to eight hits. One of the Orfun tallies came on a four base error to Burnside while another scored on a misjudged homer and one on a passed ball. With better support the Madoc hurler would have made it real tough. He fanned one and issued four free passes. Two pitchers played the outfield and another worked at second base for the shorthanded visitors.

Green pulled out of possible trouble in the second by fanning a pair while hitting one batter and walking another. He also whiffed the first two in the third but Schofield walked and Harry Brown drove a double in the hole in centre field to give the visitors a 1-0 lead.

ORFUNS COME BACK

Spafford's lads came back in their half of the inning, also with two out, when Claude Coe drew a base on balls and John Batchelor hit a single through the centre. Glenn Young then drove in the lead runner with a double into centre field and Batchelor came home on a passed ball. They added to their total in the fourth when Doug Soule lifted one into right field that Aylesworth misjudged, letting the ball fall for a home run and a 3-1 score. The final Belleville tally came on Burnside's four base error on Barclay's ball to right-centre field. Wardhaugh walked but a double play ended the inning.

Doug Soule spearheaded the winner's attack with a homer, double and two walks for a perfect night at the plate. John Batchelor also had two hits, both singles, while Young crashed a two-bagger and singles went to Jack Wardhaugh, Dave Jones and Ron Belnap. Some fine fielding plays by Hagerman at shortstop and pitcher Schofield robbed the pace-setters of several other hits.

The Orfuns and their nearest rivals, the Point Anne Cementmen, hook up in what should be the battle of the week next Thursday night at the C.N.R. The game was to be played at the Point but the transfer was made when Point Anne disclosed that their field would not be available part of next week.

Line-ups:

Madoc — Hagerman, Schofield, H. Brown, Burnside, Aylesworth, Shaw, Devolin, McInroy, Hatch.

Orfuns — Barclay, Wardhaugh, Carr, Batchelor, Young, Jones, Belnap, Soule, Green.

Indian Football Rough, Tough No Rules, Everything Goes

BEARSKIN LAKE, Ont. (CP)—The Bearskin Crees call it football. Moccasin mayhem would be a better tag.

Whatever it is, the Crees around this settlement 200 miles south of Hudson bay love it and will flock to the field at the drop of a ball. After that just about anything goes.

There is a referee but his functions are obscure. There are goals 75 yards apart, but the players often forget about them. There may be rules too, but they are beyond the comprehension of the white man.

No sidelines are marked and the game often ranges far from the actual field, the only interruptions coming when ball and players tumble into the bushes.

Sometimes there is as big a scramble going on behind the goal posts as in front, but it isn't etiquette to try to score from that direction.

The goalkeeper, being in a vulnerable position, has a little more leeway. The posts are whippy saplings that bend at the slap of a make a "save" by yanking in the post as the ball goes by.

It's no game for the fat or short-winded, because there is no pause for offsides—no sides to be off. The ball is kept in motion constantly and so are the players, with body contacts frequent and bone-rattling.

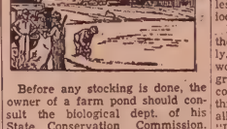
The game comes closest to soccer when the ball takes to the air. The Crees are accomplished headers, bouncing the ball around from noggin to noggin in best English League tradition.

The game, which starts with about 15 players to a side, ends up with most of the spectators on the field, too. After about 45 minutes, it's all over—apparently by mutual consent. There is no indication of anybody calling time.

The players amble off the field. Nobody has bothered to keep score, so they call it a tie.

Then come the women for their game.

That's even rougher.



Solunar Notes

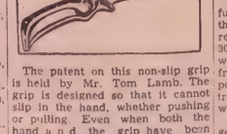
Farm Ponds, Fish Dials, Flies

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

Every once in awhile I receive a letter from the owner of a new farm pond, asking about stocking. The last one asked me how to stock the pond properly—a very large one, this time—and then he went on to tell me what he had already put in the pond. The list was as follows: 14 largemouth bass, about 2 to 3 pounds; 18 crappie, small to medium; 60 large catfish; 80 bluegill and bream; and 8 large pickerel. What he will have five years from now, only time can tell.

Stocking a farm pond properly and then keeping it "in balance" is a rather tricky process. Certain varieties of fish live together amicably and thrive. Other varieties are constantly at war with each other.

Before any stocking is done, the owner of a farm pond should consult the biological dept. of his State Conservation Commission. These men know about such things and they will be glad to tell the owner what to put in his pond and in what quantities.



Moreover, they can give him an over-all plan for harvesting his annual crop of fish and so managing the pond that it will stay in balance and continue to produce its indicated quota.

And remember this—farm pond, once it has been properly stocked, should not need restocking. Such things as bass, bullheads or catfish, crappie, bluegill, and so on all are notoriously prolific. If the pond is properly managed, so that one species does not predominate, it should restock itself as the years pass.

Should it come to pass that the pond does seem to be lacking in certain species, then it is time to talk to a biologist. Obviously, something has gone wrong. So before you make any radical move, ask your state biologist and get his recommendations. Then you won't make any mistakes.

NEW HUNTING KNIFE

Abercrombie and Fitch, the world's leading sporting goods store, every now and then comes up with a new one. This time it is a new hunting knife. Variations and improvements in the blades of hunting knives have been brought out from time to time, but now Abercrombie and Fitch has brought the handle of the hunting knife up to date.

The patent on this non-slip grip is held by Mr. Tom Lamb. The grip is designed so that it cannot slip in the hand, whether pushing or pulling. Even when both the hand and the grip have been dipped in machine oil, there is no slipping of the grip.

The blade was chosen from a variety of shapes as the most useful design for an all-round hunting knife. It is incredibly hard (in steel-manufacturers' terms, Rockwell C63—about 5 degrees harder than any other production cutlery). While it is difficult to sharpen, because of its high temper, once sharp it will hold its edge indefinitely.

Both knife blade and aluminum-alloy grip have been given a heavy planting of chrome that is from 10 to 100 times thicker than ordinary plating. Both plating and knife have a lifetime guarantee.

A wise man once remarked that the most sincere form of flattery is imitation. If that is the case, then I, the developer of the Solunar tables, should feel mighty proud. Every year sees more imitations of the Solunar Tables come to light. These exist for awhile then disappear while others are introduced.

This year seems to be the year for "fish dials." No doubt you have seen them. Made of circular plastic dials, these gadgets, when aligned as to month and day, purport to give the user the best time for fishing on that day.

Of course, these things are imitations of the original idea—the Solunar Tables, and as such are infringements and open for plagiarism suits. Time was when I used to worry about them, but not now. Too many imitations have come and gone for me to get very excited about any one of them.

Meanwhile they do help matters along somewhat, in that they accustom the anglers of the nation to the idea that fish and game do actually function in set daily cycles of activity periods and rest periods.

However, they tell only part of the story and that not too accurately. Sooner or later a man or woman who uses one of them will grow weary of the imitations and come around to the use of the real thing—THE Solunar Tables. After all, you can teach a parrot to say, "It's just as good," but he won't know what he is taling about.

THE KNIGHTHAWK FLY

You who read this column may remember that a few months ago we, my son and I, introduced to the fishermen a new fly. We asked fishermen and at last the name "Knighthawk" was chosen as the accepted one, and the sender was mailed a selection of Knighthawks, tied by yours-truly. Since then much water has gone over the dam.

Down in the Florida Keys last March I used the Knighthawk almost exclusively—the salt-water variety. Being devoted to the fly rod for most kinds of fishing, I fished with a fly rod most of the time despite the high winds. In Florida Bay the Knighthawk caught just about every game fish in those waters from the tiny mangrove snapper to the full-grown tarpon.

Bonefish, snook, crevalle, barracuda, houndfish or channel bass, grouper, sea trout, jewfish, cero, shark, tarpon—every one of them thought the Knighthawk was beautiful. We were lucky enough to take the big snook that won first place in the flyrod division of the Miami Tournament on a Knighthawk, but that is another story.

Now that the trout season is in full swing, we are happy to report that the Knighthawk wet flies are really delivering the goods. At 7:30 of the morning on which this is written, I received a 'phone call from an enthusiastic angler, reporting an unusual catch of brown trout, all taken on this fly, a No. 12 wet fly.

As we told you some time ago, a good deal of study and research went into the development of the Knighthawk, It is indeed gratifying to know that others are finding that the fly is as good as we knew it was when we first told you about it.

THE NATIONAL PASTIME

For a long time the sports writers of the nation have referred to baseball as "the national pastime." Sports writers are often prone to exaggeration. Being one of them, I should know. However, when their euphonious titles and similes are subjected to inspection under the clear light of cold, hard facts, often they fall somewhat short of indicating the actual story.

Baseball, as I say, they call "the national pastime." Don't you believe it! America's national pastime is all wrapped up in the sports of hunting and fishing. This statement is based on actual participation and cash paid out by those participants.

In 1953 baseball had 18 million customers who paid admission. Horse racing had 30 million. Hunting and fishing came in first, with 32 million licences sold and 4 million salt-water fishermen who do not need to buy licences. About 3 million others, such as over-age persons and members of the armed forces, were given free licences. Still further are the countless women and children who go fishing but do not need licences. All of this adds up to an impressive total.

Sports Afield magazine has done some intensive and thorough research in the matter of annual expenditures by the hunters and fishermen of the nation. Even though I am rather closely associated with these sports, the totals are astonishing to me.

For example, consider the amount that is spent on hunting dogs each year. This expenditure includes, of course, purchase price, training fees, kennel fees, dog food, collars and leashes, etc. But the grand total comes to 875 million dollars, more than was spent on paid admission to all of the spectator sports combined, let alone baseball.

Adding it all up—tackle, guns, ammunition, dogs, meals, lodging, transportation and miscellaneous equipment, the grand total comes to—hold your hats—9 billion, 200 million dollars a year. The boys had better get together and revise their opinions on what is and what is not the national pastime.

Red Sox New Club With Williams

NEW YORK (AP)—Cleveland's Al Lopez said Friday the return of Ted Williams has put fresh life into Boston Red Sox and forced a brand new appraisal of the American League baseball race.

"This is not the same ball club we saw on our first time around," Lopez added. "It's now a confident club. Everybody's swinging. Everybody's running. Everybody's plugging.

"Quite obviously it's the Ted Williams influence. He has put a spark in the club which wasn't there a month ago. They're cocky and confident."

AMONG THE VICTIMS

Lopez' defending American League champions have been counted among the victims in the recent Boston burst which has seen the Red Sox win 14 of the last 16 games played through Thursday, though they lost 3-2 Friday to Chicago White Sox.

Lopez said he still believes the Indians will win the pennant again "because we have the soundest pitching over the long haul" and added:

"You have to put the Yankees up there as the most dangerous of the other clubs. They've got balance and whatever they need to be strong they'll get."

Petes Whip Hamilton 26-7

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Trailermen overwhelmed Hamilton Lincolns 26-7 Friday night to maintain their first-place lead in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior League.

In a clean game, Trailermen piled up a 5-0 first period lead and were in front 15-4 at the end of the second stanza.

Jim Hefferman paced the Petes' attack with six goals. Bob Thorpe, Carl Brioux and Bob Allan each counted four times.

Rockey Bailey and Curly Mason scored twice and Grant Burns, Harry Wipper, Ike Hildebrand and Bob Curtis each scored once.

Bert Barrager was best for the losers with three goals. Stan Kapasky tallied twice and brother Steve and Don Meeke once each.

Wow! the Bark Bites the Dog! Boxing Brass Raps Commission

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The state athletic commission Friday was attacked as an illegally-constituted agency without jurisdiction to investigate boxing.

Garfield W. Levy, attorney for matchmaker Pete Moran, said in argument before the commission:

"Actually, this commission is an unconstitutional group. The Act of Assembly of 1923 vested the powers to control boxing in the legislature and the legislature cannot delegate that power to someone else, namely the boxing commission."

The commission met to hear summations of counsel for Moran and five other respondents cited on charges growing out of the Harold Johnson-Julio Mederos bout at the Arena last May 6.

The six were charged with conduct detrimental to boxing and with involvement in a "sham and collusive bout."

Johnson was unable to answer the bell for the second round and lost by a technical knockout. Physicians said an examination and tests disclosed the Philadelphia fighter, No. 1 light heavyweight title contender, had been drugged with a barbiturate.

Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania barred boxing in the state for 90 days as a result of the Johnson-Mederos bout and ordered the commission to conduct a thorough investigation of the sport.

Levy said that if the commission is "a legal group of men," then the governor erred in banning boxing.

"Either you have the say or you don't," he said.

Thomas Burke, counsel for Loughrey, urged dismissal of the charges saying it was difficult to understand why the respondents were charged with knowing that Johnson was unfit and did nothing about it.

"After all," said Burke, "two commission doctors were at the fight. One of them examined Johnson about 15 minutes before he entered the ring and found nothing wrong with him."

Martinez Wins Over Varona

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP)—Third-ranked Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., tucked his 14th straight victory under his cartridge belt today—a win over Chico Varona—and went off to camp with his national guard unit.

The tough Cuban, puzzled and too slow to catch the cute-boxing welterweight, was the victim of consistent left jabs and occasional power-laden rights Friday night as Martinez won a 10-round decision.

It was Martinez' first fight of 1955 and he made it a convincing one. Afterwards his handlers said they didn't think they would have "any more trouble" getting opponents. Martinez has complained that the boxing managers guild had "grounded" him because of difficulties with his former manager, Bill Daly.

Vince floored Varona with a perfectly-timed left-right combination to the chin in the fourth round. Varona bounced up at two and had taken five of the compulsory eight-count when the bell sounded.

'Miss Supertest' Is Favorite

DETROIT (CP) — A Canadian boat, Miss Supertest II, owned by Gordon Thompson, of London, Ont. has made herself the favorite to win the Detroit memorial regatta for unlimited class powerboats Saturday.

Miss Supertest, who ran her first race at Windsor a week ago, looked so impressive competing against the seasoned powerboats from the American side that many experts are touting her as the boat with the best chance to beat the world champion Slo-Mo-Shun, from Seattle, Wash.

Warner Brothers to Produce TV Series of Hour's Length

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week Warner Brothers launched the filming of its TV series, "Kings Row," part of its bold venture into the home-screen medium.

Warners, once a fierce holdout against TV, now is embracing the field with a formula that is different from those other studios have tried. Columbia has specialized in half-hour story films, as will 20th-Fox. Disney has gone in for hour-long variety shows, using old and new footage.

Warners has taken the characters and locales of three successful films—"Kings Row," "Casablanca" and "Cheyenne"—to be featured in brand-new stories of an hour's length. Thirteen of each series will be made this year.

Paul Stewart, directing the first of "Kings Row," is the able actor who appeared in "The Window," "Champion" and many other films. This is not his first fling at direction. He has done several plays and was under contract to Paramount as a director, though he never got an assignment.

"I also directed my own TV series in the East," he added. "I did a 15-minute show called 'Top Secret.' We did 28 films in 25 days, so you can see I'm used to making deadlines."

His pace on "Kings Row" will be absolutely leisurely. The company will rehearse five days and shoot five days for the 48-minute dramas.

He is directing a young but experienced cast. Jack Kelly is cast in the role of the young doctor, played by Robert Cummings in the 1941 movie. Robert Horton has the Ronald Reagan role and Nan Leslie plays the Ann Sheridan part.

As with Disney, the Warners show will plug the studio's product for theatres. The studio feels this will placate the theatre men who have complained about Hollywood's holding hands with TV.

AT THE BELLE — The screen's top tough guy, James Cagney, portrays a hard-bitten sheriff in Paramount's "Run For Cover," at the Belle Theatre. Viveca Lindfors and John Derek co-star with Cagney in this milestone in the line of great westerns, the first to be filmed in VistaVision.

AT THE CAPITOL — One of the most spectacular underwater scenes ever recorded by motion picture cameras is depicted in Cecil B. DeMille's mighty all-time Technicolor epic of the sea, "Reap the Wild Wind," a Paramount re-release which is due to open Monday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program, "The Detective Story," starring Kirk Douglas, William Bendix and Eleanor Parker.

AT THE McCARTHY — Smiling Virginia McKenna has the exciting role of a white girl in the heart of Mau Mau menaced territory in Kenya for her new film, "Simba," in which she co-stars with Dirk Bogarde. "Simba," which is filmed in color, closes tonight at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"Taza, Son of Cochise"

When Cochise, the Apache chief who struggled to bring peace between his people and the whites, died, he hands over leadership of the tribe to Taza (Rock Hudson), his eldest son. But Naiche (Bart Roberts), the second son, is jealous of Taza, hated the whites, and plots to take the Apaches on the warpath again. He and Taza also clash over Oona (Barbara Rush), a beautiful Indian maiden who loves Taza. When Naiche and his followers attack a wagon train, they are captured b Gregg Palmer, a U.S. cavalry captain, and imprisoned—despite Taza's pleas that Apaches should be punished by their own tribe. The whites agree to allow Taza to set up his own police force. Meantime Naiche allies himself with the renegade Apache, Geronimo, in widespread raids; Taza and his followers join the cavalry in wiping them out, and peace comes to Arizona.

Another battle at Cannifton last night saw the home team down Shannonville 5-2, to keep them even with Read for first place in the league standing, at the half way mark in the schedule.

Foster pitching for the home team, struck out five and walked one, to give up four hits in the third, giving the losers their two runs.

Hill, for Shannonville, struck out four, giving up two, 2-base hits to Cole and Foster in the second; and another run in the fifth, with two more in the 7th. Another 2-base hit, by Wynne in the 7th, and Foster being hit by pitcher gave Harder a single, to force in two more runs.

LINE-UP:

Cannifton— Harder, Marner, Moore, MacDonald, Sheffield, Baker, Cole, Wynne, Foster.

Shannonville — Barberstock, Reid, Maracle, Sero, Lewis, G. Hill, Bennett, Nickle, S. Hill.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Monday, June 27, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Some things are on the uncertain side. Be cautious in money, business matters. The alert, careful one will make a go of it by consistently forging ahead, looking hard and being logical.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Research before acting will prevent errors this so-so day. Professional and skilled workers will have an opportunity to show their mettle. Heart interests, children's affairs favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—A.M.: be careful not to get involved in domestic, personal or other unpleasant disputes. Dealings with superiors, labor, finances need smart, shrewd handling.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Everyone wants to reach the top of the success ladder. Fine! Getting there honestly is the commendable way, otherwise the stay is precarious and unhappy. A good record can be made by you.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A friendly outlook. Sound judgment plus poise and your smiling disposition make a winning combination. You can straighten out problems admirably when you try.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—If you don't lean too far in any direction, but are reasonable and pleasant, you can accomplish a great deal in both work and personal matters.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Very good [illegible] day for you folks. Activities could move along smoothly, produce good results. Romance, social affairs highly rated.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You may be up against difficult and irritating problems today. But keep your disposition unruffled and you will overcome obstacles, come out on top quicker. Follow through with essentials.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)— Too strenuous effort may cause you to overlook details important to success. A think-twice attitude is the answer. A fine time to relax; don't impair health.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Not entirely auspicious for financial or business matters. Be sure you know the right answers before going into action. You may find happiness in good news and friendly assistance.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Emphasize high principles and give yourself a real chance to move forward. Don't pass up openings because you don't understand them; seek competent advice, study and you will achieve.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Neither very stimulating nor very discouraging rays. The day can be restful if you are restful within. Attend duties with a cheerful heart; listen to, as well as talk, to others. There is much to learn now.

You born today have a retentive memory, the talent for a legal or professional career; would make an able doctor, nurse, business manager, advertiser, journalist. You have the knack of achieving unusual success in handling the public or their affairs. You may be restless and, at times, rush into things before giving them ample thought. Stability, patient persistence are your constant needs. You can go far in any worthy endeavor if you follow through intelligently.

Texas Terrors Torpedoed By "Rasslin's" Royal Rogues

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Texas shrank to half the size of the United States last night. "Old Glory" fluttered in the breeze but the breeze was a zephyr.

Down in the Pacific the palm fronds whispered a paean of victory. Over 'ome, the pubs dished out arf-and-arf for a bob.

For lo and behold those Texas Terrors, bit the dust, podner, before the onslaught of Prince Maiava and Lord Athol Layton. Aslats were given the portly Bunny Dunlop with slight arguments on the part of Sammy Gotter.

Ah, but 'twas sweet revenge. Even Coconut Willie the prince's grand vizier started to thump the "Turkey in the Straw" instead of the Samoan paean of victory.

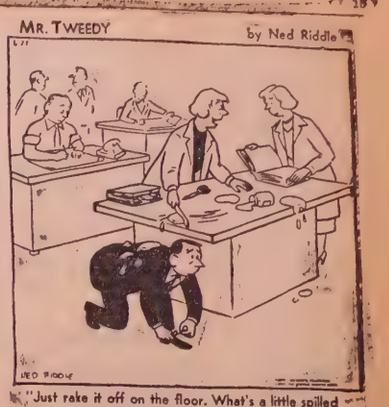
Admittedly the tough Texas team of Lou Plummer and Dick Raines lived up to all advance notices, but they did not reckon with the undercover resolve of the Prince and the Lord.

True in the first fall the Texans chanted a lone star version of 'Davy Crockett' in the second and third falls the princely duo staged an 'Alamo" and that was that.

Gad, men, all was going well in that first tussle until that "Dirty Dic" Raines caught the Prince with his foliage down and wham, he cracked him across his knee with a back-breaker and His Nibs forgot about a snack of stewed bats and went bye-bye.

Ah Sweet Victory. The Prince shook his Samoan headdress. Lord Layton murmured a prayer to Nelson's Monument and gad, the battle was joined. The Terrors stalked back into the ringed square, (you thought I was gonna say circle, didn't ye?) for the second fall with the Texas prides boastfully bouncing from their bulging biceps but they hadn't figured on the come-back stamina of the Royal Rogues.

The bell sounded and out of the hero's corner came the human edition of the nation's mightiest H bomb in the form of one Samoan Prince. To the beat of a thousand tom-toms, ye south-sea royalty battered and rammed his way through the tough? Texans.



In came Layton with a couple bear-hugs and a judo chop for dessert, the resounding slap of the hero's pinkies together and once more the Prince took over. He threw the villains off the ropes, met them in the centre of the ring with a rock-hard head and promptly placed several more bumps on the Plummer noggin and that was it. In all the round took about 90 seconds, slow time.

In the final session, the boys rolled around the ring in a tangle of feet and legs for awhile but the end was in sight when the Lord sharpened the edge of his flipper on a piece of nearby steel and joyfully warned the ring-side customers to hoist the bumbershoots for protection from flying western-style Adams-apple juice.

He whipped the soggy-bodies, on to the ropes and off, meeting Plummer and Raines in turn with snake-like arches across the upper regions of the now almost collapsible chests. The battle roughened and soon the speeding bodies of six men, all sizes and assortments ripped in 99 different directions at the same time. Then from out of the tangled mess rolled one Lord Layton with pillar-like legs entwined with those of one of the "utter side". That was it and once more Layton and his buddy chalked up a victory via the - English octopus.

The Texas Terrors howled their discontentment for the decision but even Sad Sam Gotter lifted a royal arm while the popular Bunny Dunlop reached high in the air, secured a strangle hold on Layton's arm and smiled contentedly as the cool evening breezes swayed the coconut trees in Samoa and the 'ome Lands smog drifted over Big Ben.

Production May Not Get Started On Rifle for Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian production of the Belgian FN (fabrique nationale) rifle isn't expected to get rolling for about a year.

Officials said Thursday it will take months before Canadian Arsenals Ltd. can obtain the machine tools necessary to turn out the rifle. Tenders for the tools likely will be called soon.

Defence Minister Campney announced last week that Canada's 49,000-man army will adopt the automatic .300-calibre FN as its standard infantry weapon to replace the Lee-Enfield .303.

Number of FN rifles to be turned out by Canadian Arsenals' small arms plant at Long Branch, Ont., is secret. Production may be stretched out over several years.

Conversion of production drawings of the FN to the inch from the metric system—a compulsory step for Canadian production—was completed early this year.

Britain, as well as Belgium, has also adopted the FN, which will mean standardization and interchangeability of the weapon between the Canadian and British armies.

Canadian production of the FN would also give Britain an alternative source of manufacture in the event of war.

Big advantage of the FN is that it can fire 20 rounds with one squeeze of the trigger. The Lee-Enfield has to be cocked for each round.

Attack on Plane Casts Shadow Over UN Meet

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Soviet fighter attack on an American navy plane over the Bering sea cast a shadow over the United Nations 10th anniversary session today as Secretary of State Dulles, Russia's V. M. Molotov and other top diplomats headed for home.

On instructions from President Eisenhower, Dulles Friday called Molotov's attention to the incident. Molotov said he knew nothing of the affair but would investigate.

Meanwhile, aides of the Big Four leaders worked on a peace declaration to wind up the week-long anniversary meeting.

After five days of speeches, the 60 delegations took a day off for private business and sightseeing. All that remained was the closing ceremony Sunday afternoon at which it was hoped a "declaration of San Francisco' would emerge as the final act.

FORM NOT DECIDED

Precise form of the declaration still had not been determined, though it was agreed it would simply be read by the assembly president, Dr. Eelco van Kleffens, rather than formally adopted by a vote.

The round of formal speeches wound up Friday night with an address by former president Harry S. Truman, who indicated he warmly supported the forthcoming top-level talks.

Truman spoke to a capacity crowd in San Franciscos Opera House. Both Dulles and Molotov were among those present, even though the Russians had originally protested mildly to UN Secretary Dag Hammarskjold against having Truman speak.

India's V. K. Krishna Menon, special envoy of Prime Minister Nehru, was the last of the 60 delegates to speak. He outlined a UN EXPE[illegible]am for the next decade, which result in: Representation of all the peoples of the world; liberation of all colonies and dependent areas; expansion of UN activities "into broader fields where they will take root i nthe minds and hearts of all peoples;" disarmament and renunciation of war.

Plans Barbecue But Pig Squeals, Neighbors Too

NEW YORK (AP)—Planning a barbecue, Augustine Rivera bought a fat pig for $60 and took it home to his basement apartment in the Bronx.

Rivera was given a suspended sentence Thursday for harboring a pig without a licence. The neighbors had complained when the pig failed to keep his mouth shut.

"The pig squealed and somebody squealed on you," magistrate William Strong summed it up.

Members Not Happy Way Fish Cooked

OTTAWA (CP) — A commoner from a fishing constituency says it's impossible to get a respectable fish dinner in the parliamentary restaurant.

Thomas M. Bell (PC—St. John-Albert) questioned the restaurant's culinary efforts as he urged the government to increase its efforts to teach Canadians how to cook fish. His plea was supported in the Commons by members of all parties, but there was sharp disagreement on what type of fish makes the best meal.

East coasters said Atlantic salmon cannot be beaten and British Columbia members retorted that the Maritimers apparently had never tasted Pacific salmon.

William Bryce (CCF—Selkirk) said the East and West coasters can keep their salmon "as long as I can get Winnipeg goldeye, Winnipeg whitefish and a bit of pickerel for a change."

Mr. Bell said members of the Commons are responsible for the fact that fish meals in the restaurant are below quality. Members did not care enough to fight and ask for fresh fish properly cooked.

George Nowlan (PC — Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said if Canadians could taste fish cooked in the fisheries department kitchen "part of the problem of the fishing industry would be solved very quickly."

More fish would be consumed if Canadians knew how to cook it.

Majority Increased

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Returning officer Thomas Wharf said Thursday night Arthur Reaume, Liberal candidate who won the riding of Essex North in the June 9 provincial general election, received 31 votes more than were announced election night.

The results of Thursday's official count gave Mr. Reaume 10,200 votes compared with the 10,169 votes credited him June 9. Progressive Conservative candidate E. J. Arbour picked up two votes, giving him a total of 9,551. The CCF candidate, Fred Burr, gained one bringing his total to 6,546.

Public Libraries For the Elite Says Librarian

SASKATOON (CP) — A Toronto librarian and author says libraries should not be for the type of person attracted to them by radio quiz programs.

Josephine Phelan said Wednesday that public libraries should be for the elite. She was one of a panel of three at the trustees' section meeting of the Canadian Library Association discussing, "How can trustees get more people to use the library?"

Miss Phelan described the elite as persons capable of reading and using books, "Not the characters who can't use the library, can't read books and the library can't help them."

"Do you want hundreds of the radio quiz type to use the libraries? I cannot imagine what it would be like if 90 per cent of the population used a library."

Others on the panel included Isabel McLean of Sudbury.

CARDINAL GREETED

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A rousing welcome greeted James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto Friday as he stepped from a special train nine miles from the city and drove through crowded streets to the down - town Roman Catholic cathedral that is celebrating its 100th birthday.

Graceful Flamingoes, Swans Headaches For Zoo Keepers

By SHIRLEY MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ORSAINVILLE, Que. (CP)—Graceful flamingoes and swans delight most people, but they are headaches packed in feathers for zoo keepers.

The brilliant pink-red plumage of the flamingoes must be kept from fading and attendants have their troubles arranging truces when swans declare war on each other.

Raymond Cayouette has run into these problems and more as keeper of the 600 birds from Asia, Africa and North and South America at the Quebec zoological gardens at Orsainville, seven miles north of Quebec

SPECIAL DIET WORKS

When the flamingoes are taken away from their natural diet of crustaceans, their plumage pales. Mr. Cayouette put them on a diet of foods with red pigment—carrots, shrimps, paprika and tomato juice —to brighten them.

The keeper says the foods do transfer color to the birds, but he is unable to explain the process.

Mr. Cayouette says the swans are downright quarrelsome. There are three pairs in the zoo and to keep them out of each others' feathers he has a pool for each pair.

"As long as the swans are mates, they get along fine," he says. "But put them with other swans and the fighting starts."

Blue and White peacocks are also fighting birds. While the blue variety struts proudly about the grounds, the white peacock is kept in a cage.

Mr. Cayouette's continuous problem is the collection of eggs before the male birds eat them. He rushes the eggs to an incubator in his office where the snow geese are hatched side-by-side with Himalayan pheasant and ordinary partridge.

The bird keeper has to watch the diets of his charges as carefully as a mother trying to find the right formula for her baby.

The African Toucan, whose brightly-colored beak is almost as big as his body, can eat only tiny berries; the condor from the Andes, with its nine-foot wingspread, has to be fed dainties since its talons cannot carry prey; the vulture is given white mice once a month as a treat

The zoo, which covers 3 acres, also has about 125 animals, nearly all of them from North and South America. To mark its 25th anniversary next year, a new building is being constructed to house lions, tigers and jaguars, with a wing for the monkeys.

Publisher Dies

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Amon G. Carter, who rose from poverty to become the colorful multi-millionaire publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, one of the major newspapers of the United States, died Thursday night at 75.

His career started as a dishwasher and waiter in a Texas boarding house. From there he travelled to the Indian territory of Oklahoma to sell gilt-framed pictures, then to San Francisco as an advertising man, later to Fort Worth as head of his own advertising company.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (CP) The Malayan government today launched an all-out war of nerves against Communist-led terrorists still lurking in the jungle. A barrage by loud-speaker planes, leaflets and radio urged them to surrender now.

A FLORAL TRIBUTE TO THE A.N.A.F. - A WORTHY ORGANIZATION

The above is an excellent example of what can be said with flowers. It is on display at the Cenotaph Park on Station Street. The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' crest is cleverly outlined in color with flowers in full bloom. This fine floral tribute, which is the work of Mr. Gordon Nicholson, superintendent of the Parks Board, and Mrs. Nicholson, has won the admiring glances of many Belleville and district residents.

Britain Protests Athens Broadcasts Incite Revolt

Stiff Note Accuses Greece Of Backing Cyprus Rebels

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The Manchester Guardian urges the government to rethink of its policy on Cyprus, where the British colonial administration is faced with outbreaks supporting demands for union with Greece.

"It is the government's business to get us out of a mess that as the months go by will become still more menacing," the Liberal newspaper says.

"We do not want another endemic colonial insurrection on our hands: and we do not want to have our old friendly relations with Greece quite destroyed with the further embarrassment of growing Turco-Greek embitterment.

" . . . The British public will take a lot of convincing that we must hold on at the price of blood without any concession on the major issue of sovereignty. The days of absolute sovereignty against the wishes of a territory's inhabitants are dead."

LONDON (AP) — Britain protested to Greece today against an Athens radio broadcast which the foreign office said "incited" the people of Cyprus to revolt against British rôle.

A British note delivered to the foreign ministry in Athens today accused the Greeks of breaking promises that they would control the broadcasts put out by the government radio.

A foreign office spokesman told reporters the note complained that Athens radio had broadcast June 21 the text of a proclamation issued by a Cypriot organization known as EOKA, which is the underground national organization of Cypriot fighters.

Britain has lodged strong complaints with the Athens government several times in the last few months against the activities of Greek broadcasters.

A spate of anti-British demonstrations and bomb incidents has shaken the island during the last few weeks.

ADD TO TENSION

The foreign office did not indicate whether it believes the incidents have been directly caused by the Athens broadcasts. But British officials privately expressed the view that they consider the broadcasts have contributed to the atmosphere of tension which blankets the island headquarters of Britain's Middle East forces.

Meantime, a new statement of British policy towards the future of the strategic island is before the cabinet, official sources reported.

Expectation is that before a week or so Britain intends to offer a new constitution providing for a limited measure of self government to the Cypriot people.

Atom Bomb 'Kills' Fifty Canadians In NATO Exercise

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GROS TENQUIN, France (CP)—In terms of mock warfare, Canadian airmen in Europe now know something about the atom bomb.

Sunday a bomb landed some 12,000 yards from the support area at Canadian air headquarters in Metz, France. Umpires officiating in exercise Carte Blanche, the big NATO air manoeuvres, ruled that 50 were killed and 20 wounded.

For the exercise, personnel at the Canadian chateau in Metz have moved into a huge underground bunker, built by the Germans after the Franco-Prussian war. Here, under six feet of concrete, 600 Canadians spend the working day. At night they sleep in tents in fields near headquarters of the 1st Canadian Air Division.

Canadian bases at Baden Soellingen, Gros Tenquin and Marville have also suffered theoretical hits in this biggest of all NATO manoeuvres.

Every airman in the 1st Canadian Division is taking part. Some 300 aircraft have flown 1,500 sorties. The score on kills is 150, with 200 planes damaged. Flights are being made from the four permanent Canadian bases, including the one at Zweibruecken in Germany, and from three dispersal fields in France.

Three Members Of Family Shot to Death

DICKINSON, Tex. (AP) — The bodies of three members of a prominent Dickinson family were found Saturday night in their three-bedroom home.

Police investigating, after neighbors became suspicious on discovering the morning papers for three days still lay on the lawn, found Mrs. Ruby C. McPherson, 44, her son, George, 12, and mother, Mrs. Zola Norman, about 65, all shot to death in their beds.

Texas Ranger Johnny Klevenhagen said there was no evidence of a sex crime but it was possible all three were asleep when killed late Wednesday or early Thursday.

Police sought an airman for questioning. Deputies said the airman was seen with Mrs. McPherson in a restaurant Wednesday night and is believed to have stolen her automobile and started for California.

Four Are Killed When Laborer Blows Up Shack

WIESBADEN, Germany (Reuters)—Adolf Hartlieb, a 31-year-old laborer, today blew up himself his wife and two children in a shack from which they were due to be evicted, police reported. All four were killed.

An empty gasoline can was found. Police believe Hartlieb emptied the can and ignited the fumes.

Hartlieb destroyed his garden plants Sunday and hacked down fruit trees he had planted s that no one else would be able to use them.

Indentify Body

CORNWALL (AP)—Police have identified the body of a man found in the St. Lawrence river near here as that of Yvon Theoret, 20, of Valleyfield, Que.

The body was found Friday near the site of construction on the St. Lawrence river power project.

Theoret was reported to have fallen Nov. 19 from a tugboat that was being used for work on a coferdam. It was the first casualty on the power and seaway projects.

Seeing-Eye Dogs Whine in Alarm As Their Masters Go Water-Skiing

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IVRY-SUR-LE-LAC, Que. (CP)—It was a happy and adventurous weekend in this Laurentian lake district—for everyone but the seeing-eye dogs.

The seeing-eye dogs were horrified at the antics of their blind masters, who practised water-skiing behind fast motorboats on Lake Manitou, near Ste. Agathe.

In what was believed to be the first event of its kind, the blind men and women braved speed and swells while observers with normal vision marvelled. Six blind persons from Montreal — including three women—took part, led by George Cohen, who originated the fad last year when he tried water skiing for a lark and was successful at the second attempt.

George, 41, totally blind for some 10 years, skimmed over the lake off Manitou lodge with apparent ease, but his seeing-eye dog Bambi whined and whimpered on the dock, shocked to see his master moving at such speed.

Other seeingeye dogs chimed in with their mournful dirge despite the delighted laughter of the blind folk as they frolicked on the waves.

Cohen—termed "practically professional" by veteran water skiers —had little difficulty, while the others plowed head first into the water without injury on their initial attempts during the two-day outing.

None had ever attempted water skiing before this weekend.

The sport was sponsored by the C.N.I.B., and the Montreal Association of the Blind.

Mr. Cohen, originator of the plan, said he was delighted with its success. He plans to fly to Saint John, N.B., next weekend to demonstrate water skiing there in aid of a C.N.I.B. building fund, and if possible later continue to Halifax.

PLAN TO IMPROVE FERRY SERVICE LACKS WATER

New $6,000,000 Ferry Cannot Enter Nfld.

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal government plan to improve the ferry service promised Newfoundland when it entered Confederation in 1949 has run short of water—two feet, to be exact.

A spanking new $6,000,000 ferry was about ready to supplement the present once-a-day service between North Sydney, N. S., and Port aux Basques, Nfld., when somebody discovered the ferry draws two feet more of water than the Port aux Basques channel can provide.

The ferry, the 320-foot-long William Carson, now is expected to be used on some other, longer route—at least for the two years a works department official said it will take to dredge the channel and build a breakwater so that the ferry can use Port aux Basques harbor, at the southwest tip of Newfoundland.

LONGER DISTANCE

Most prominently mentioned alternative port in Newfoundland is Argentia, on the southeast coast. But is is some 300 miles and 18 hours from North Sydney while Port aux Basques, closest port to Nova Scotia, is only 110 miles and eight hours.

Other possible choices are Corner Brook on the west coast about 250 miles from North Sydney and St. John's on the east coast and some 400 miles from the Nova Scotia jumping-off point.

The terms of Newfoundland's 1949 union with Canada specified a ferry service between North Sydney and Port aux Basques to be operated by the Canadian National Railways. At present the ferry Cabot Strait, smaller than the William Carson, completes a round-trip every 24 hours. It carries cars, passengers and freight. The William Carson was to supplement this service.

"TOUGH HARBOR"

"It is a straight case of a tough harbor," a competent official said here Saturday after the situation came to light Friday.

"There's a weather bottleneck—wind, wave and surge—in the inner harbor at Port aux Basques."

In addition the problem of shallowness. Port aux Basques also has harbor winds considered too strong for safe unloading of vehicles from the William Carson.

The official said the CNR, which will operate the new ferry along with the present one and a coastal steamship service among Newfoundland's main ports, did not begin to realize the difficulties in the harbor until the ferry was nearing completion and the channel at Port aux Basques had been dug out.

Times Buys Land

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times announced Sunday purchase of a large tract of land on the west side of midtown Manhattan "to provide space for future expansion."

The property, bought from the New York Central Railroad, adjoins the line's freight tracks paralleling the Hudson river between 62nd and 65th streets, about one mile north of the newspaper's present location in Times square—42nd street and Broadway.

Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger said The Times does not expect to move "for several more years."

28 Violent Deaths in Eastern Canada During Week-End

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The toll of violent deaths in eastern Canada this weekend reached 28 today.

A Canadian Press survey shows 12 persons died in traffic accidents, 12 were drowned and four died of other causes.

Ontario's death rate was the highest as 19 people died during the weekend. Quebec had five while New Brunswick had two and Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia registered one each.

Worst fatality listing in Ontario was a quadruple drowning in the Port Colborne area when a fishing trip ended violently as a small outboard motor boat overturned in rough waters and high winds on Lake Erie.

Drowned were Earl Snyder, John Smith and Rene Chamberlain all of Welland and Theresa Degazio of Crowland. Mrs. Gladys Wilson of Welland and Gordon Johnston of Welland survived the accident after clinging to the boat for 13 hours.

Harry Frith, 73, of Glen Tay, Ont., was killed when he was run over by a car driven by his wife.

An automobile which struck a hydro pole in Iroquois resulted in the death of Flt. Sgt. Kenneth Christensen, 31, of Ottawa.

Another serviceman, 20-year-old Gerald Weller of Weston, was killed when a car in which he was riding went out of control and hit two trees.

In Orillia Mrs. Mary Clark, 83, of North Bay died of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile collision. Four other persons were injured.

A Toronto bond salesman, George Leblanc, 48, was killed when he was crushed by the wheels of his own car after it crashed into a bridge.

Also in Toronto, Romeo Ravaglio, 24-year-old Italian immigrant, was electrocuted while engaged in plumbing repairs near a high-voltage line.

Bruce Duncan, 27, of Toronto was drowned in Lake Simcoe while practising rapid turns in a fast motor launch.

In St. Thomas, Mrs. Erika Lemanas of West Lorne was killed when her car skidded into an apple orchard. Another woman passenger was severely injured.

Garnet Eugene MacDonald, 22, of Toronto was drowned in the Humber river when his canoe tipped.

A double drowning in Simcoe claimed Mrs. Lydie Davis, 45, and her young grandson, Larry Davis, 15 months. The small truck in which they were riding plunged into a creek.

Bill Lanks, 35, of Calgary was drowned in Lake Wahnapitae near Sudbury. A companion was rescued.

In Hamilton, a 72-year-old bicyclist, Ardria Furry, was killed after being hit by a car.

Expect West Will Propose Plan to Reverse Arms Race

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain, the United States and France probably will propose at next month's Big Four summit talks that Russia consider a formula for reversing the arms race in Europe.

The idea is one which Secretary of State Dulles discussed with Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay during the last 10 days at New York and San Francisco.

Dulles returned Sunday from United Nations 10th anniversary ceremonies at San Francisco.

He said he was gratified at Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's response to American demands for compensation in the case of a U. S. Navy patrol plane shot down by Soviet jet fighters between Alaska and Siberia last Wednesday.

Landing on an island, the plane burned. Seven of the 11 crew members suffered burns or injuries.

The state department made public Sunday a note Molotov handed Dulles just before both men left San Francisco Saturday. The Soviets said the airplane had violated Russia's "state frontier." The American government said Soviet MiGs blasted it in a surprise assault while it was over international waters.

Molotov also said there was an "exchange" of gunfire, but the United States said the American plane did not fire.

However, Molotov expressed regret at the incident and offered to pay one-half the damage, an unprecedented offer in such cases.

The Soviet note, despite its moderate tone, sought to place blame for the incident on the U. S., saying the United States had not taken steps which Russia had urged previously to prevent "a repetition of undesirable incidents."

But it spoke of poor visibility and conceded "the possibility of a mistake from one side or the other."

Dulles may be called upon to report on the incident this week to the Senate foreign relations committee, some of whose members have said it raises serious questions as to whether the U. S. should go through with the Big Four talks.

It was evident from Dulles' attitude, however, that the affair no longer posed any threat of upset to plans for Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure to meet at Geneva July 18.

Western Towns Are Isolated By Cloudbursts

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP) — Cloudbursts Sunday isolated towns, downed power lines in Nebraska and Wyoming.

An estimated 20 inches of rain fell at Guernsey, Wyo.

Initial reports from the area indicated there were no injuries.

Torrington, Wyo., a town of about 3,000 near the Wyoming-Nebraska border, reported 10 inches of rain and the southeast one-third of the town was under water early today.

The National Guard was called out at Torrington to evacuate the flooded area.

Police Making Arrest Find Gun Under Pillow

TORONTO (CP) — Police said they found a revolver under a pillow in a city house where they called Sunday to arrest a youth in connection with a Saturday night street stabbing.

Officers arrested Anthony Femia 19, on a charge of wounding James Leroy McIntyre, 18, who police said suffered a stab wound in the chest during a midnight argument outside a city park.

They said the unregistered gun was found under a pillow on the bed of Peter Commisso, 22. Commisso was charged with unlawful possession of a firearm.

McIntyre, given seven stitches to close a gash in the right side of his chest, was in satisfactory condition today.

Drowning Man Bites Hand That Saves Him

TORONTO (CP) — A young woman who saved her husband from drowning in the Humber river Sunday was badly bitten on the fingers as she pulled him to the shore by his mouth.

The husband, Edward Siren, 32, suffered severe spine and head injuries when he dived into shallow water and hit a submerged rock.

Mrs. Siren, 28, ran into the water when her husband failed to come to the surface. She tried to pull him by the chin, but her fingers entered his mouth and the panic-stricken husband closed his teeth on them.

Columbia River Rises at Trail

TRAIL, B. C. (CP)—Pumps were in action today at this Kootenay smelter city as the flooding Columbia river surged over some downtown streets.

Crews were piling sandbags along the banks of the Columbia, which has been on a steady rise since Friday.

However, serious flooding was not expected. City officials counted on cooler temperatures now spreading over British Columbia's interior to return the river to below-flood levels.

MANY SHAKEUPS IN VANCOUVER POLICE HISTORY

Plan Public Hearings On Corruption Charges

VANCOUVER (CP)—The lawyer named to conduct public hearings into charges of corruption in the 700-man Vancouver police force says the investigation will open in about a week.

R. H. Tupper of Vancouver said Sunday night it will take roughly a week to complete arrangements for the inquiry.

"It will definitely be a public hearing," he said in a brief interview.

Mr. Tupper, a grandson of Sir Charles Tupper, one of the fathers of Confederation, said that all persons who may have information of value will have the chance to appear and testify.

The police commission asked the attorney-general's department to conduct the hearings after Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert, 54-year-old former head of the gambling squad, fired a bullet from his police revolver through his own chest Friday.

STILL CRITICAL

Hospital authorities said he remained on the critical list today. The detective had been named by the Toronto weekly tabloid Flash as teiling the attorney-general's department that corruption had crept into the force.

The hearings also follow criticism of the force by a special Senate committee for police handling of the west narcotics problem in the country.

A few hours after the shooting in the force's new headquarters building in the city's east end, the police commission met in emergency meeting and announced that police chief Walter Mulligan had been placed on leave of absence.

NAMES TRAFFIC EXPERT

Mayor Fred Hume by-passed deputy-chief Gordon Ambrose and a number of other senior officers to name Alan H. Rossiter, a junior inspector and the city's traffic expert, as acting chief pending the outcome of the inquiry.

The ruckus was nothing new for the force that since 1928 has been rocked by probes, charges of graft and corruption, counter-charges, dismissals and dissention.

The greatest scandal occurred in 1928 There was another shakeup in 1947 and there were others in the years between.

The 1928 investigation came when charges of bribery and corruption were levelled at the police force headed by H. W. Long, under Mayor L. D. Taylor.

Both Mayor Taylor and chief Long were exonerated but special commissioner R. C. Lennie's report hit the mayor's "open policy" which it said was at the root of police force demoralization.

AUSTRALIAN SEIZED

MANILA (AP) — Police Friday night arrested an Australian and seized $100,000 in cheques and notes they said he was trying to smuggle to Hong Kong. Harry B. Kennedy, 34, was charged with violation of Philippine currency control laws and falsification of documents. Customs officials said they seized Kennedy just before he was to board a plane for Hong Kong.

Motorboat Upsets And Four Drowned Near Port Colborne

Two Rescued After Clinging To Upturned Boat 13 Hours

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Four persons were drowned early today near here. One by one they slipped in the choppy waters of Lake Erie beneath the waves after clinging desperately through the night to their overturned boat.

Only two of the party of six managed to hang on until rescued by fishermen.

Drowned were Earl Snyder and Rene Chamberlain, 24, of Welland and Eugene Smith, 25, and Theresa Degazio, 32, of suburban Crowland township. Police at first reported that a John Smith, 47, of Welland had drowned, but later confirmed that it was Eugene who went to his death.

CLING 13 HOURS

Mrs. Gladys Wilson and Gordon Johnson, 28, of Welland were rescued after clinging to the boat for more than 13 hours.

They were spotted by George Taylor and Jerry Murphy who were out on the lake fishing early today. They said they saw the survivors waving and shouting and went to their aid.

Mrs. Wilson was hysterical and sobbed all the way to shore. Johnson was so weak he had to be hauled from the top of the overturned craft into the rescue boat. He was paralyzed in one leg.

The two were able to give only the barest details of the accident.

They said Snyder and one of the other men, out fishing early last evening, came into the breakwall near shore where they met the other four. The four asked them to take them for a ride and Snyder agreed.

They said they had been out only half an hour when the boat upset. Everyone clung to the boat at first. As the night wore on and the water became rougher, they lost their grips and went down.

Snyder held on to the last. He slipped beneath the water at 4 a. m., minutes before the rescue boat appeared. His body was found underneath the boat by Crowland township firemen.

Miss Degazio hung on until 3 a. m. The others slipped away earlier.

Johnson and Mrs. Wilson were taken to hospital immediately and given sedatives. Doctors would permit no one to talk to them and said it would be some time before anyone would be allowed to see them.

The party was first missed when Mrs. Snyder telephoned police this morning to say her husband had not yet returned from his fishing trip. Police arrived at the dock just as the survivors were being brought ashore.

Police said the 14-foot boat had an outboard motor on it. It was owned by Snyder.

CHARGED WITH SPYING

HONG KONG (AP) — Nine "Chiang Kai-shek agents" have been sentenced to death on charges of spying and sabotage in Shantung and Shansi provinces, the official News China News Agency reported from Peiping. Death sentences on 14 others were suspended for two years or commuted to imprisonment ranging to life.

Treated Like Infant for 40 Years Doctors Find Man Physically Normal

By THOMAS KENNEDY

READING, Eng. (Reuters)—Charlie Dunford's mother thought he was an invalid and treated him like an infant for 40 years.

After she died doctors found he was completely normal physically—and completely undeveloped mentally. Now, under the guidance of doctors and nurses, the 51-year-old is just going through the child's processes of learning to walk, talk, eat and read.

Charlie's strange story was disclosed Sunday.

In 1913, when he was eight years old, he suffered a severe attack of measles which left him frail and with an impairment to his sight.

Charlie's mother decided he was too weak to play with other children, so she kept him indoors. To protect his eyesight she covered his eyes with bandages.

It was in such circumstances that he grew to manhood, spending all his time in bed or in a wheel chair. He never spoke and hardly moved.

As far as his mother was concerned the growing youth was blind and paralyzed, so no attempt was made to teach him to read or write.

Both world wars and all the events of the years between passed without Charlie knowing anything about them. In fact, he wouldn't have known what the word "war" meant if he heard it.

In 1950 Charlie's father died. Then two years later his mother died and there was no one to look after the helpless middle-aged man.

That was when he was brought to hospital here. Curious doctors found there was nothing physically wrong with him.

Charlie had to be taught to walk like a toddler before he could use the limbs that had been idle for 40 years. He had to be taught everything as if he were a year-old baby.

Now after three years Charlie, a man with grey hair and thin features, is able to walk around the hospital and its grounds with a cane. He can carry on conversations. He has learned to weave rugs and now is training to fit himself as a carpenter.

He remembers nothing of the long years before he came to the hospital.

Does Not Get Single Vote, Not Even Own

GRANARD, Ireland (AP) — John McGovern, an independent candidate in town council elections held during the weekend, didn't get a single vote—not even his own.

"I voted for the other chap," he said. "I thought it was the decent thing to do."

An editorial in the Dublin Mail offered the consolation that perhaps his popularity was such that almost everyone thought he would win and no one bothered to vote for him.

Polynesian Ship Crosses Pacific In Fifteen Days

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A strange, twin-hulled sailing craft of ancient Polynesian design has skimmed from Hawaii to California in a surprising 15 days.

Before the arrival Saturday night of the Waikiki Surf, a craft patterned after those built hundreds of years ago by Pacific island natives, the coast guard estimated the trip would take her 26 days against prevailing winds.

Skipper Ernie Nowell, 33, a Honolulu hotelman, and the four other crew members sailed the 320,000 boat, called a catamaran, here seeking to enter the trans-Pacific yacht race back to Hawaii starting July 4.

"We feel we can beat anything in the race," Nowell said. "Our 'cat' attains speeds of 25 to 30 knots at times and we are sure that with favorable weather we can beat the best yachts in the race by many days."

GIANT SURF BOARD

The Waikiki Surf carries 1,500 square feet of sail. Designer Rudy Coy, 31, a crew member, added that it weighs only 1½ tons, has a draft of just 20 inches and because of the light weight almost skims the water like a giant surf board.

The two hulls are of plywood covered with fibre glass. A platform ties them together. On it is a low cabin with a double bunk and below the deck are two double bunks, a galley, lavatory and storage space. The craft has a 13-foot beam.

65,000 Persons Hear Graham At One Service

NURENBERG, Germany (CP)—American Evangelist Billy Graham drew a crowd of 65,000 when he preached here Sunday during his current crusade in West Germany.

Almost 7,000 persons, among them American soldiers, stepped forward when Graham asked the assembly to declare for Christ. They joined in a common prayer in front of the grandstand of the Zeppelin field, the city's largest open square, where Graham preached.

City firemen had only one minor call over the week-end. Early Sunday afternoon the reels were called to a Station street address for an over-heated stove. No damage was reported.

Capt. R. Marks Will Take Over Army Citadel

Belleville's Salvation Army citadel next month will be under new command.

On July 1, Sr. Capt. Robert Marks will arrive from Winnipeg, Man., to take over from Capt. Cy Fisher. Capt. Fisher will leave on June 30 to take over his new post with the Salvation Army in Guelph, having served in Belleville for a year.

Capt. Marks is married and has three children. He was one of the faculty members at the Salvation Army training college in Toronto and also has held posts in Toronto and Regina.

Truck Almost Total Wreck After Accident

Two young Belleville men escaped with little more than a shaking up Saturday evening, when the half ton truck in which they were riding went out of control at Marsh Hill on No. 14 highway, knocked over several small trees and went into the ditch.

Douglas Burkitt, driver of the truck, told provincial police that he and a friend G. McFarland, were on their way to Oak Lake for a swim when their truck skidded on some gravel on a turn. The truck skidded out of control across the highway several times before ending up in the ditch. Police said the 1949 model truck was almost a total wreck.

Officers Remanded

OSHAWA (CP)—Two officers of the Pickering township police force today were remanded until July 7 on charges of theft of a police cruiser and assault on the police chief.

Roy Morden is charged with theft and assault occasioning bodily harm and Grant Thompson is charged with assault occasioning bodily harm.

The charges arose from a beating police chief Lester Hill received June 17.

Rev. Thomas Peter Callaghan Sings First Mass on Sunday At St. Michael's Church Here

Rev. Thomas Peter Callaghan of the Redemptorist Order, sang his first Solemn High Mass in his parish church of St. Michael the Archangel, Sunday morning, in the presence of his family and an overflow attendance of parishioners and friends.

Father Callaghan, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Maurice Callaghan, 163 Albert Street, was ordained to the priesthood at the Redemptorist Seminary at Woodstock on Sunday, June 19th, by His Grace Bishop Cody, of London.

Yesterday's Mass was followed by a breakfast at the Golden Acre Inn for the family and visiting clergy; a reception for the parish at Tobe's County Gardens from 3.00 to 6.00 p.m.; Solemn Benediction at 7.30 p.m., and presentation of a purse to Father Callaghan from the parish.

Rev. Matthew Meehan, rector of St. Mary's College, Brockville, was guest preacher at the Mass.

"When a young priest comes home for his first Solemn Mass the whole world smiles and sings with happiness," said Father Meehan.

GOD IS HAPPIEST

"On this day, in this city called beautiful, God has blessed us with song and His smile. Of all those who are happy today the happiest is God. He is happy because as He looks down on this church he sees a young man ready to work for Him, filled with all the powers of the priesthood."

"This young man has the power to change bread and wine into the Body and Blood of Christ. He can bring down God on your altars and can place Him on the tongues of little children, married couples, the sick and aged. He can take Christ into your hospitals and your homes."

"He received that tremendous power last Sunday in Woodstock, when Bishop Cody placed his hands on his head and gave him the power of the priesthood, just as Christ did at the Last Supper when He said, 'This is My Body. This is My Blood. Do this in commemoration of Me."

"God is also happy today because he sees a young man with the power to take away sin. This is a tremendous power. People yearn for someone to take away the load of guilt on their souls.

"God has said 'Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven. Whose sins you shall retain, they are retained.'

"There is no good in a sinner going to a doctor or to a psychiatrist. They cannot touch his soul. Sinners want to go to someone who can do something about their sins and that is the power of the priest. Those burdened by the sins of birth control, injustice or passion can go to the priest. This young priest can forgive their sin and take away their guilt.

"God is happy, too, because He sees a young man with lips blessed to speak the truth in His name. He gives him the command which was given to the apostles, 'Go and teach all nations.' With television, radio, speeches and false newspaper reports, people are becoming more and more confused, especially about the rules of good conduct."

POWER TO SPEAK TRUTH

"After years of theology, philosophy and study of what is truth God gives this priest the power to speak truth in His name. Not in his own names does he speak. The priest speaks the truth whether his hearers like it or not. He tells people what they should do in their married life, while keeping company and what children should do. He tells them because he has the power to speak the truth," said Father Meehan.

"The young priest is happy, too. He is filled with a tremendous joy standing at the altar of his parish church. He knows he is not worthy of the power God gives him. He knows that in this parish, in this province, and in this country there are better men than he is, but he says, 'Thank You, God, for choosing me.

"He knows his powers are given him to help you and not himself. He knows he is the latest in the long line of wonderful priests who have worked in this parish, in this province and this country.

"You, his teachers, his priests, his friends and his family are happy because God has chosen one of you. A special blessing goes with this to those who have helped him to the priesthood.

"Priests are happy too, because a good man is stepping into the ranks to bring the love of God to His people.

WONDERFUL DAY FOR FAMILY

"It is a wonderful day for his family because they are related to God in the work he does. Who can tell what memories are in the minds of his parents today as this boy, who came to them from their united love, who was taught his first prayer by them, and who left them in his first steps to the priesthood, stands here to say his first Mass.

"There are tears today. Tears of thankfulness to God for being so good to them. We congratulate them today and we thank God for giving us a priest from amongst us.

"Let us ask God and His mother to use His power to consecrate, to forgive and to speak the truth, to be a good priest from now until he sees the Great Priest face to face."

Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin, parish priest of St. Michael's before introducing Fr. Meehan, said that "it is a great joy to welcome to the ranks of the priesthood Rev. Father Thomas Callaghan of the Redemptorist Order."

Dean Garvin extended to Father Callaghan and his family the congratulations and best wishes of the parish.

ASSIST IN MASS

Assisting Father Callaghan in his first Solemn Mass was his cousin, Rev. Michael Callaghan, of Sarnia, as deacon; Rev. J. A. Carley, English-speaking secretary of the Canadian Catholic Conference of Ottawa, as subdeacon, and Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin, as arch priest.

A guard of honor was formed by members of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus. The children's choir was in attendance.

Following the Mass a breakfast in honor of Father Callaghan was held at the Golden Acre Inn for the family and visiting clergy.

Rev. J. A. Carley was toastmaster. Father Callaghan spoke briefly. Brief addresses were delivered by Rev. C. E. Baker, of Stoco, and Rev. Michael Callaghan, of Sarnia. Also present at the breakfast were Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin, Rev. Matthew Meehan, and Rev. J. J. Buckley.

Sunday afternoon a reception was held at Tobe's County Gardens for hundreds of parishioners and friends.

Receiving guests were Father Callaghan, his parents, his brothers, Jack and Maurice Jr., and his sisters, Teresa, and Mrs. George (Catherine) Simboll.

Refreshments were served by members of the Catholic Women's League which sponsored the reception.

Sunday evening Father Callaghan presided at Solemn Benediction assisted by Rev. Peter Murphy, of St. Michael's, and Rev. Joseph Shannon, of Tweed.

PURSE PRESENTED

Representatives of all parish societies were present in the sanctuary for the reading of a citation and the presentation of a purse. Edward Esbaugh read the citation and Ernest Cook presented the purse.

The citation was as follows:

"We, the parishioners of St. Michael the Archangel in Belleville, are happy for you and with you. To us, whose parish has been blessed with your vocation, it seems worth rejoicing that from among us you have been chosen to carry out the Divine command pronounced so long ago, "Go forth and teach all nations." We are happy that from our schools another graduate will be privileged to offer daily the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

"This is indeed a sublime occasion. While we were removed from that glorious hour when you consecrated your being and your life to a Divine Master, nonetheless, we are inspired by the sanctity and fervor which has led you to His altar. The past years of training and diligent preparation are over. The future, with its countless graces and blessings, lies before you. The present is with you, and into this present we now tread softly, a humble laity paying its tribute to a humble priest of God.

"Stored within the recesses of our hearts are cherished wishes, which when spoken, may sound too trite. We have, therefore, charged this 'coin of our tribute' with the onerous task of giving melody to our words. As the Magi of yore brought a gift of gold to that King they had striven to find, so too, your friends at St. Michael's bring their token of tribute and present it to you. May its golden glitter remind you of our sincerity and our prayerful good wishes for a brilliant ministry in the service of Him Whom you seek to honor and serve so nobly.

VOICES GRATITUDE

In replying Father Callaghan said: "the moment has now come for me to attempt the impossible —to express in words what I feel in my heart.

"To each and everyone I owe a debt of gratitude. The story of a vocation is difficult to explain. God does not chose those who seem most worthy. He chooses whom He will.

"I have been given this privilege even though there are many in this church more worthy than I am. My vocation has been obtained through your prayers and not my own alone. It is too great a privilege for myself. On the last day you will realize the part you have played in my vocation.

"To my parents I owe a debt of gratitude that is incapable of being repaid. To them, and to my brothers and sisters and friends who have gathered to celebrate this triumph I can only say thank you. Continue to assist me in your prayers.

"Pray to God to strengthen me if I should falter. Help me to carry on and fulfill the vocation to which He has called me."

Following benediction Father Callaghan bestowed his personal blessing on each member of the congregation.

Father Callaghan sang a special High Mass for the school children at 8.00 a.m. Monday.

Following a week's vacation with his family, Father Callaghan will spend five weeks at a Redemptorist camp near Peterborough before returning to Woodstock for his ninth year of study, completing his two-year course at St. Mary's College, Brockville, and his six years of seminary training prior to his ordination.

Obituary

JOHN EXLEY

John Exley, well known Belleville railwayman, died at the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday morning, in his 83rd year. Mr. Exley, who had been in failing health for the past year, suffered a stroke on Saturday afternoon at his home, 302 Bridge St. east.

Mr. Exley was born in Bath, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Exley. As a boy he entered the employ of the Grand Trunk as a section hand, later becoming a switchman. He moved to Belleville from Shannonville over forty years ago. Here he served as a switchman before entering the shops and about 1920 he became an engine crew dispatcher, holding this position until his retirement in 1936.

The late Mr. Exley is survived by his wife, the former Amelia Maude Weldon. There are no children. One sister, Mrs. Thomas (Elizabeth) Portt of R.R. 6, Belleville, also survives.

In religion the late Mr. Exley was an Anglican, a member of St. Margaret's - on - the - hill Church here. He was a life member of Moira Lodge No. 283, A. F. and A.M. and for many years held the office of tyler in that lodge. He was also a member of Moira Chapter and of the Napanee Odd Fellows' Lodge.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this issue.

EDWARD BLAKE THOMPSON (Murray Township)

Funeral services for the late Edward Blake Thompson, 9th concession Murray township, took place Friday from the Rowe Funeral Home at Frankford where service was conducted by Rev. Charles Clarke of Frankford. Interment was in Stockdale Cemetery.

The bearers were John McColl, Morley Wadsworth, Albert Cashey, Lorne Mikel, Blake Terry and Frank Rose.

Tented City Mushrooms Under Mechanical Perfection Magic; Circus Soon Ready for Patrons

A miniature tented city mushroomed under the magic of mechanical perfection near Sidney street early this morning.

Under what purported to be a blazing sun in a cloudless sky, the advance parties of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, "The Greatest Show on Earth" swung into action minutes after the first train of three ground to a stop at the CNR Station.

Along with a few hundred others of the curious, this writer was a kid again for an hour or so. Regardless of the mechanical aspect of the circus, the old familiar scenes, smells and atmosphere of 'The Big Top' of a decade ago was there.

The hoarse cries of the bossmen, the colorful Negro roustabouts, the smell of cooking food, the hush, rustle and bustle of checkerboard perfection.

Tractors sped about and hundreds of workers were running around carrying equipment and pulling on ropes. The various wagons such as the ticket offices, cages swung into position with clockwork-like perfection. The harsh staccatos of mechanical pile-drivers echoed in the morning air as the steel stakes were driven into position.

Poles sprang up like stately sentinels. Men hovered like ants over ground-flat canvas. Then with a flip of an eyelid a big tent was in position.

Later from a jumbled mound of canvas, poles and rope the massive "Big Top" started to rise in some sort of majestic splendor. The poles were placed in position and the elephants called to action. In cumbersome harness "Ruth and Myrtle" plus several other huge pachyderms poked by keepers' gaffs started puffing and pulling.

It was up. Pennants fluttered in the light morning air from its caparisoned top.

HOLDS 8,500 PEOPLE

The precision and perfection of a circus crew is evidenced in the fact that with all equipment on the ground, the show is ready to being just two hours later. The "Big Top" holds 8,500 people.

Then with the animals, cages, clowns and performers a new wave of youthful nostalgia was apparent. We met sad-faced clowns and gay-faced acrobats. The host of performers with the beautiful girls, prancing horses, the barkers, and all the color that has been "circus" since the first Big Top sprang into erection, was there.

Meanwhile trucks bearing food and other supplies for man and beast raced in and out of the grounds. Straw, hay, everything was on deadline. Small sideshow tents sprang up as if by magic. Tractors sprayed water over the dusty roadways.

In the menagerie were the 55 elephants from Babe Ruth to Little Ruthie; Mrs. Gargantua the Great and her twin youngsters, the giraffes, chattering monkeys (no relation), the clever chimpanzees and jungle carnivora.

It is all there with all its colorful impediments. The equipment might change with the years. Machines have taken the place of the singing darkies swinging sledges in rhythm as the wooden stakes sank into the sod. The sawdust is there, the horsey aromas and everything that goes to make the circus part of the American and Canadian way of life.

This writer wafted his way to the source of appetizing smells. Through the magic of a press pass we invaded the huge tented kitchen where Chief Steward Al Welch, who has been with the circus for 16 years, was supervising the preparation of breakfast.

65 STAFF IN KITCHEN

Al, who has a staff of 65 under his watchful eyes, feeds 1,100 people three times a day. The top-artists, the stars eat the same fare as the humblest roustabout — and they can eat all they want.

Al was busy "punching" out the dough for hot biscuits when we invaded his domain. "Keep talking", he said, "I can answer whatever you want to know without stopping." He did. He talked for five minutes and never missed a punch.

The biscuits were part of the morning meal which included hot and cold cereal, ham and cream gravy with hot biscuits, boiled potatoes, coffee and other beverages besides mountains of bread and butter.

Due to the lateness of breakfast, Al said that lunch would not be quite the usual fare. The circus folk would appease their hunger with franks and sauerkraut, cold cuts, fried potatoes and a soup of broth and rice. There would be the usual trimmings, but no dessert.

At night they would eat a dinner of griddled steaks, oven-brown potatoes, creamed peas, lettuce and tomato salad, pineapple and cheese salad, with a dessert of yellow cake.

The circus is carried on 80 railroad cars divided into three trains. The first train arrived at the CNR station shortly before six-thirty and it had barely stopped before the unloading crew sprang into action. A few minutes later the first truck cavalcade started the two-mile haul to the Sidney Street grounds.

The afternoon performance got under way shortly after 2.30. It was a perfect circus day with its heat, excitement and all that goes with it. Wide-eyed children, a lot of them seeing their first circus stared goggle-eyed at the strange sights. Oldsters too, stared in revived enjoyment at the familiar sights and a lot of new ones. There is the side show with its strange freaks — and all the rest of a world of entertainment that will forever stand in a class by itself.

MASONIC FUNERAL SERVICE

The Members of Moira Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 11, and Sister Lodges, are requested to assemble at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, Church Street and Victoria Ave., TONIGHT, MONDAY, JUNE 27th at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of attending a Masonic Memorial Service for their late Brother JOHN EXLEY.

By order of J. Ray Grant, W.M.

A. E. BARLOW, Secretary.

BIRTHS

GUEST.—Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Guest, (nee Gwen Fairman), R. R. 2, Belleville, are very happy to announce the birth of their son, Robin Ronald, born June 23rd, 1955, at the Belleville General Hospital.

DEATHS

EXLEY, John. — At the Belleville General Hospital, on Sunday, June 26th, John Exley, 302 Bridge St. East, beloved husband of Amelia Maude Weldon, in his 83rd year. Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Ave. at Church Street, where the funeral will be held on Tuesday, June 28th Service in the chapel at 2 p.m. Interment Belleville Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

BRANT. — In loving memory of my grandmother, Jane Ann Brant, who passed away one year ago, June 25th, 1954.

My heart aches with sadness,
My eyes shed many tears.
Only God knows how I miss you
As ends this one sad year.
—Sadly missed by grandson Raymond.

HERBERTSON. — In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Marilyn Jean Herbertson, who left us so suddenly nine years ago, June 28th, 1946, age seven years.
Beautiful memories are all we have left.
Of her we loved and will never forget.
Her loving smile and happy face.
A broken link we can not replace.
Sad was the parting, no one can tell
So sudden on us the sorrow fell.
Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal.
Only those who have lost are able to tell.
The pain in our hearts of not saying farewell.
—Sadly missed by mother, father and sister.

CREWSON. — In loving memory of father and grandfather, Joseph Crewson, who passed away June 26th, 1954.
And while he sleeps in peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by son George Locke, daughter-in-law Rosie, grandsons Rick and Tommy.

300 Workers Keep Dock Strike In London Going

LONDON (Reuters) — A mass march on London by 300 striking stevedores from north England ports today succeeded in keeping a strike, now in its sixth week, going in the sprawling London docks.

The 7,000 London strikers voted last week to go back to work this morning. But the march by the determined northern men kept most of them out.

Hundreds of extra police were rushed into the grimy east end area to prevent clashes between the marching members of the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union and non-striking men of the rival Transport and General Workers Union.

Later at a mass meeting with the marchers 2,000 London workers voted to continue the walkout. Nearly 18,500 men are on strike in six key ports while 30,000 members of the TGWU are on duty.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported an exceptionally quiet week-end with few calls for even routine matters being received at either station.

City police had only one call all day Sunday, this for a family matter, and the only other activity for the week-end was the investigation of a few very minor motor accidents.

Saturday night a parked auto on William St. was entered with a fishing rod and camera being taken.

Also Saturday night Lorne Palmer, Coleman St., escaped injury when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a Rawson bus.

FIND EXTRA LEGS

ZWOLLE, Holland (Reuters) — X-ray examination of an Egyptian mummy, long-prized by an historical museum here as one of its greatest treasures, revealed that it had four legs. Museum authorities have sent the photographs to Egyptian professors in London and Cairo to find an explanation.

596 Contacts Made by Club In Field Day

"A very successful meet" was the way which members of the Quinte Amateur Radio Club described their annual field day at Little Lake north of Brighton over the week-end.

Club officials stated that a total of 596 contacts were made during the 24-hour stretch from five o'clock Saturday afternoon to the same time Sunday. Stations all over the world were contacted including several freighters steaming across the Gulf of Mexico. The field day is an international affair with an estimated 15,000 radio hams all over the world taking part.

The portable generator owned by the Belleville club supplied the power for all sets during the field day at Brighton. Boy Scouts from Belleville took part, assisting in erecting tents, while the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment signallers put on a signals scheme as part of the field day program.

Queen and Duke Head for Home On Royal Yacht

OSLO (Reuters) — The royal yacht Britannia headed across the North sea for Scotland today taking Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh home from a three-day state visit to Norway.

They are due at Dundee Tuesday.

Somewhere among her baggage the Queen has several parcels, presents given her in Oslo for Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

The weather was calm and fine as they left Oslo Sunday night after a farewell banquet on board in honor of Norway's King Haakon who is the Queen's great uncle.

CROWDS WORRIED

The last to take his leave of the Queen Sunday night was King Haakon himself. He stayed aboard the Britannia with Crown Prince Olav and Princess Astrid after the other guests had left. They went the first few hundred yards in the royal yacht before leaving it in their royal barge.

The king's voyage was not in the official program and some consternation was caused among the thousands of Norwegians waiting on the dock when they saw the Britannia move off down the fjord with their king still aboard.

Plane Crashes Into Motor Boat; Tosses 2 in Lake

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A small plane crashed into an outboard motor boat while taking off at nearby Lake Chemong Sunday but nobody was severely injured.

One pontoon on the Piper Clipper aircraft, piloted by Bob Groombridge of Peterborough, knifed through the boat, tossing its two occupants into the lake.

Leo (Red) Hill, 24, and Nancy Rose, 18, both of Peterborough, were in the boat. Hill was knocked unconscious and was held by Miss Rose until help arrived. He suffered fractured ribs and face cuts.

Groombridge noticed the boat just as he was about to take to the air. He pulled the nose of the plane up and shut off the engine. The pontoon punctured the boat. The plane landed on top of the craft. Groombridge dived from the Piper Clipper to help Hill and Miss Rose. A passenger in the plane, Joe Campanero of Peterborough, was not hurt.

400 Turn Out To Hear Band Concert in Park

Close to four hundred music lovers turned out at Victoria Park Sunday evening as the Belleville Municipal Band under Bandmaster Albert Wright staged one of its scheduled summer band concerts.

The one hour and fifteen minute program included lively marches, overtures and other selections featuring solo artists.

Numbers played included marches "The Thin Red Line" and "The Stars and Stripes". Overtures played were "Rosamunde", "Lutspiel" and "H.M.S. Pinafore". "Songs of the Shamrock" medley struck a nostalgic note for those professing Irish blood. "Bones Trombone" featuring soloist Walter Aselstine and the selection "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" featuring baritone vocalist William Campbell, were other numbers heard.

900 Invited Guests See Game At Penitentiary

KINGSTON (CP)— A Kingston penitentiary softball team called the Saints will play a game against the Belleville Orfuns inside the penitentiary Wednesday night before 900 invited guests.

Warden Walter F. Johnstone said the game is first he has known where an "outside" team has played a penitentiary team with such a crowd of spectators.

He said the Saints have played since 1949 when baseball was reintroduced as part of the recreation team. Up to now their audience has been made up of prisoners and guards.

For two years, in 1951 and 1952 the Saints played in the Kingston Amateur Softball Association and won 20 of their 22 games in their last season.

RECORD GOOD

Since then they have played only exhibition games and this year have won each of their six starts. One pitcher won six games for them and this year he has struck out 37 batters, allowed only 27 hits and has a .90 earned-run average.

Despite the high walls many of their batters have high averages and home runs are frequent.

RoK Says Reds Build Up Force Of 580 Planes

SEOUL (AP)—The Republic of Korea charged today that Communist North Korea has built up an air force of 580 planes, including jets, in violation of the armistice agreement.

The government said the North Korea Reds have three divisions of MiG-15 jets, a fighter-bomber force, 15 air bases in operation and two more under construction.

The statement attributed the figures to two North Korean air force pilots who fled the Communists last week.

The Communist Korean air force now has 500 pilots and 25,000 men, with more being trained in Red China by Russian advisers and more planes coming in by rail, the government statement charged.

At the time of the armistice North Korea had no air force in operation and no air bases that could be used for warplanes. Any air force or airbase buildup would be an armistice violation, since the armistice forbids any stepup in forces over those in being on July 27, 1953, the armistice date.

Quebec Bowlers Defeat Ont. In Inter-Provincial Contest

TRENTON (Special) — Quebec lawn bowlers defeated the Ontario team 120 to 105 here on Saturday to take home with them the H. C. Argue trophy emblematic of the inter-provincial goodwill tournament championship.

Visiting bowlers from farthest points started arriving here on Friday. On Saturday the entrants were welcomed by Mayor Ross Burtt and Councillor James MacDonald representing the Trenton people. Mayor Burtt opened the competitions throwing the first bowl down the green.

The prize vied for was the trophy presented by H. C. Argue of Belleville in 1950 the year the association was formed and Mr. Argue was the first president. In addition Mr. Argue convener of the meet presented the winners with the permanent record book containing names of contestants and their scores since the inter - provincial tournaments started six years ago.

Commenting on the meet here Saturday convener Argue said it was the unanimous feeling of the visitors that the Trenton match was the best ever held in Ontario. He announced that the association expects to play next year's tournament on the greens at Westmount, Montreal.

Dave Colville, president of the Quebec Lawn Bowling Association received the Argue trophy and book of records on behalf of the winners.

WELCOMED TO TRENTON

At the banquet following the competitions Lloyd Worrall acting president of the Trenton Country Club in the absence of Alex Wilson extended welcome to visiting bowlers. During the period of speechmaking remarks came from A. A. McLeish, president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association of Ontario, S. A. Shoemaker, vice - president, Ray Knight, honorary secretary, W. Inkster, oldest team member from Ontario, Roy Brown of Trenton, convener of entertainment for the meet.

Dave Colville, president of the P.Q.L.B.A., J. R. Douglas, honorary secretary, W. Brown, oldest Quebec player present, spoke for the Quebecers.

The teams:

Quebec — J. Linford, E. H. Franklin, E. Deschamps, M. Moon, S. T. Wiles, J. R. Douglas, W. Burnside, A. Brown, D. Kean, W. Tait, C. H. Rowe, J. M. Heggie, D. Colville, M. Hall, N. McKenna, W. Brown, H. Buckthought, S. A. Shoemaker, Harold Grossin.

Ontario — Dr. H. L. Cheney, Dr. A. A. Walkey, L. C. Dalgleish, Frank Liddle, A. H. Davis, A. Atkinson, Vic Hill, Perc Hill, H. R. MacGregor, Fred Rutherford, T. Hargreaves, J. Brown, A. A. McLeish, J. Inkster, Harry Taylor, S. H. Sorley, W. McAdam, H. Crossin, W. F. Kelly, G. C. Stevens, J. C. Burns, F. Eastwood, C. W. Loomis.

Toronto Priest Ends Bid to Swim Unbeaten Strait

VICTORIA (CP) — Rev. John Donelon, Roman Catholic priest from Toronto, was pulled out of the water today to end his bid to swim the unbeaten Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The priest had been in the water two hours and 27 minutes and was only two miles from Victoria on his more than 20-mile course to Port Angeles, Wash.

He had started off from Macaulay Point in neighboring Esquimalt in a terrific burst of speed, swimming with an overhand crawl at 62 strokes to the minute.

His pilot boat headed rapidly to shore after picking him up.

Although he was only two miles from Victoria Donelon had swum four miles.

OTHERS TO TRY

At 5:35 p. m. PDT., today, 18-year-old Janice White of Toronto will become the fourth swimmer to tackle the strait since Saturday when she sets out from neighboring Oak Bay.

Veteran Bert Thomas, former U. S. Marine frogman from Tacoma, Wash., Sunday was defeated on his fourth attempt to beat the strait after he was in the water five hours and had swum only six miles. He was still tired from his third unsuccessful attempt Thursday.

Saturday, 36-year-old Bill Muir of Saanich, B. C. made remarkable time before a leg cramp stopped him. He covered almost 15 miles in three hours.

Father Donelon, an amateur pilot who plotted his own course in Toronto, did not get expected help from the flood tide and after his first hour found he was not making good headway.

VETERINARIAN RETIRING

GUELPH (CP)—Dr. Frank W. Schofield, internationally known veterinary pathologist, is retiring this month after 40 years on the staff of the Ontario Veterinary College. He will carry on work in Korea which he left in 1920. In 1916 he was commissioned by the presbyterian church to go to Korea and teach bacteriology and hygiene.

TRIED AND TESTED ON
40,000 FARMS IN 1954

A proven fly killer, deadly to flies, yet no more toxic than DDT. Sprinkle FLYBAIT on window ledges or floor of barn, milk houses, hog pens or other farm buildings where flies congregate. Easy to use, odorless, and quick to act. Flies die within 5 minutes of eating bait. Even kills flies resistant to other types of insecticides.

Introduced for the first time last year, FLY BAIT (containing Malathion) became popular overnight due to its quick thorough action in ridding barns of flies. For ordinary fly infestation, use 2 cans per year. Larger farms and heavy fly population will use 4 cans.

- Approved for use inside dairy barns.
- Continues to kill up to 21 days.
- Kills DDT resistant flies.
- One of the safest fly killers known
- Odorless.

Full Support For Annual Wage Given by Unions

OSHAWA (CP)—Full support for the guaranteed annual wage drive being made by workers of General Motors of Canada and Massey-Harris-Ferguson was pledged here Sunday by all Canadian locals of the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL).

The pledges was given by 110 union delegates, representing 75,000 members throughout Canada who have assembled for the quarterly meeting of UAW's district council No. 26.

In a policy statement, George Burt, Canadian director of UAW, said the union is "determined to impress" on General Motors during forth-coming contract talks that "it must end now once and for all the incentive wage system, which its two main Canadian competitors have long since dropped."

"The company," he added, "must close the wage gap which exists between GM wages and those of its competitors and go on to new wage levels in the industry."

Mr. Burt also said that employees of Massey - Harris-Ferguson will carry the fight for an annual wage for Canadian agricultural implements workers this year.

Bronte Printer Building Boat For Ocean Trip

BRONTE, Ont. (CP)—A Bronte printer says he hopes to visit his native England in a boat he is building in his back yard.

Herbert Kendall of Bronte said Sunday he became interested in boats when he helped his son build a small speedboat last fall.

His present project, a 32-foot $3,000 motor cruiser is expected to be launched in the spring of 1956.

Mr. Kendall says his effort began "just to prove to myself that I can do it."

KILLED BY TRAIN

CLAREMONT, N. H. (AP)— Robert Miles, 4, was killed Friday while, authorities said, he had his ear to the railroad track listening to vibrations. County solicitor George Zots said the youngster apparently watched a passenger train roar by and then placed his ear to the tracks to listen to the vibrations. He did not see a locomotive which was following the train.

LET'S HAVE A SAFE SUMMER

School days will soon be a memory for all of Ontario's students—of whatever age they may be.

This is the signal for the motor vehicles branch of the Department of Highways to launch its special child safety campaign.

Thousands of teachers are co-operating by closing their classes with traffic safety messages and by distributing safety leaflets to their pupils.

It is to be hoped that this is one lesson which none of the students will fail to study.

The campaign cannot possibly be a success, however, unless adults also co-operate, not only by setting good examples but also by taking special care whenever and wherever they drive during the holiday months.

In this connection it is interesting to note a few facts contained in a letter on highway safety received from Philippe Murteau and Co., a Montreal public relations firm.

Particular stress is laid on the advisability of drivers guarding against over-fatigue. A series of tests recently completed by Alfred L. Moseley, a psychologist at the Harvard School of Public Health, "proved that every driver who is over-tired is risking his own and other people's lives when he takes the wheel. Tiredness causes him to be slower on the brakes, to clutch at the wheel and to react slowly in an emergency. A cup of coffee and a cigaret proved useful but not lasting pickups."

Other suggestions besides coffee breaks every 100 miles or so include refraining from starting a trip right after work, pulling off the road and taking a nap when drowsy and having another driver take a turn at the wheel.

An interesting fact is that the period between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. is the most dangerous. This is coupled with the advice: "Avoid driving at night whenever possible," but it is difficult to see how this advice is related to the danger period mentioned. The hours between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. are not "night" hours during the summer months. Presumably this danger period was determined on the basis of statistics for a full year. Perhaps these hours are dangerous not because they are "night" hours but because, during much of the year, they are the hours during which day is fading into night. Many drivers with long experience would probably agree with the suggestion that vision is most difficult not during the night but at twilight. If this is the reason for the danger period from 5 to 8 p.m., it follows that the time during which extra caution should be exercised will vary at different seasons of the year—and during the summer, when daylight time is in effect, will be considerably later than 8 p.m.

SPEEDING ELECTION RETURNS

The business of holding an election is detailed and complex. It is further complicated by the necessity to do a great deal of work with a hurriedly trained staff in a minimum of time with a maximum of accuracy and speed.

That various phases of such an enterprise should function with less than commendable efficiency is to be expected. By and large, however, the work is done adequately and in some cases superlatively.

Newspapers have a particular interest in elections and especially in the speediest possible presentation of election results. Results from each polling subdivision are usually relayed to the chief returning officer as soon as they are compiled and checked by scrutineers. Reporters relay information from the returning officer to their newspapers.

At every election, however, there always seem to be three or four polls that are reported hours later than all others—sometimes not until the next day. Quite often these laggard polls are not the big urban subdivisions with hundreds of ballots, but small rural polls with a dozen or two votes that could be counted in a few minutes. These polls delay complete returns from the riding and necessitate a great deal of checking and explaining on election night.

Hastings West and Hastings East ridings in the last provincial election had an extremely efficient reporting service marred slightly by failure of certain polls to forward returns to the chief returning officer as soon as ballots were counted. In a close contest failure to relay polling results quickly would have been most irritating. Swift reporting across the province generally, and the one-sided nature of the vote, made it possible for the Canadian Press to report a Conservative sweep 67 minutes after the polls closed.

Since elections are recurring phenomena the irritation of late reporting subdivisions recurs with the same frequency. There are many ways to speed up election returns from chronically slow poll captains but possibly the best would be to list the names of the captains in the last three subdivisions to report and then recommend that they not be hired in subsequent elections.

BENIGN

The happiest news we'll ever hear:
Benign.
This single word can banish fear:
Benign.
The sweetest sound that's ever heard
By which to rapture hearts are stirred,
Is when the surgeon says the word:
Benign.

From worry this will free the mind:
Benign.
Hear this and peace at once you'll find:
Benign.

The books have words of every sort
And some are long and others short,
But none so good as this report:
Benign.

This brings relief to loved ones all:
Benign.
Most hoped for when the chance seemed small:
Benign.
Wanting a word of glorious news,
From all the others I would choose
The one all smiling surgeons use:
Benign.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JUNE 27th, 1935

Strawberries sold on the market today and the ruling price was two boxes for 25c; a few vendors sold their stock at ten cents per box.

Mr. A. W. Armstrong, formerly of this city, has been elected secretary of the Oshawa Rotary Club.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bapty, of Deloro, are included in a party which is leaving Toronto this week on the CPR tour of Soviet Russia.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Walter have returned to the city after spending a few days at Niagara Falls, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren, of Saskatoon, Sask., are spending a vacation here with Mr. and Mrs. William Warren, Grove St.

Miss Katherine Whalen, Reg. N., of Toronto, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Whalen.

Mr. Clayton Hicks is home from Chats Falls to spend a few holidays.

30 YEARS AGO

JUNE 27th, 1925

Mr. Norman Miller of the Hamilton Spectator is visiting friends here.

In the recent examination at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Miss Marie Townsend, a pupil of Miss Irene Casey, passed the primary examinations with honors.

The Rev. Dr. Abbott Smith and Mrs. Smith of Montreal, are spending the week-end in the city. Dr. Abbott will deliver the sermon in Christ Church on Sunday morning.

A lawn social was held last evening on the grounds at the residence of Mr. J. B. Findlay under the auspices of the Ladies' Help in connection with John St. United Church. There was a large attendance and the event was most enjoyable.

Miss Shand, the Victorian Order nurse here, has resigned. She will leave the city early in July, and will go to Halifax. A successor has not been appointed.

40 YEARS AGO

JUNE 27th, 1915

In a baseball match between the Ontarios of this city and the town of Perth team, the Belleville boys won, the score being 8 to 2. To Freddie Goyer, the local team owes much; his clever pitching held the Perth sluggers within bounds. The following composed the Belleville team: Mills, Goyer, Gerow, Stark, Fegg, Kelleher, Little, Symons and Knott.

Mrs. Charles Champagne, of Avondale, Trent Road, brought to the editorial room of the Daily Ontario today a box of new potatoes. They are as large as good sized hen's eggs. This is remarkable development for this time of year. The abnormally cool season has evidently not retarded the growth of the potatoes as these were not transplanted, but were put out in the regular way in the early spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newton left today for their home in Toronto after visiting his parents at their home on Ann St.

50 YEARS AGO

JUNE 27th, 1905

Mr. A. Kirk of Hungerford township, a member of the Hastings County Council, was a visitor in town today.

Mrs. L. R. Curlette left today to visit friends in Winnipeg and Calgary.

Mr. S. T. Kenyon of Cass City, Mich., is visiting his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hampton, Foster Ave.

Mr. J. T. Osborne, well-known resident of this city who has conducted a leather goods store here for some years, left today to make his home in Calgary, Alberta. Many friends regret his departure from the city.

Strawberries were plentiful on the market today and sold at four boxes for 25 cents.

More College Grads Needed

(Ottawa Journal)

An interesting contribution to the lively question of the maintenance and expansion of higher education in Canada is made by the Rev. Dr. H. J. Somers, president of St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, NS.

Dr. Somers, maintains that there should be no curtailment of the work of the universities, that they must expect to accommodate more students rather than fewer if they are to meet the need for trained minds, and that in consequence new and greater sources of revenue must be uncovered.

He points out that industry leans heavily on the universities for recruits, that since the war the demand by industry for university graduates has increased many times, and he thinks industry, and business generally, should take greater advantage of the right to deduct up to five percent, of taxable income for charitable and philanthropic causes.

To meet this situation Dr. Somers proposes that the 33 degree-granting institutions in Canada unite in an annual campaign to raise funds for their support — he thinks $15,000,000 a year is a conservative estimate of what might be secured and he feels the amount could be doubled in five years.

Dr. Somers would divide these funds among the 33 colleges on the basis of student attendance "giving three times as much per student for graduate and professional students as for undergraduates since the costs of graduate and professional schools are so much higher". On the basis of $15,000,000 and present registration this would mean annual grants of $200 and $600 per student, respectively, towards the cost of their education.

This suggestion by the president of St. Francis Xavier is more evidence that the heads of the universities are deeply concerned with the future and are considering their proplems from all angles. It does however seem to increase the number of prospective students rather than reduce them, as was argued by the head of Toronto University the other day. The Journal feels the universities need more aid, but we'd hate to see that aid interpreted as encouragement to make still more numerous , on a per capita basis, the university enrolment.

Proof Man Is Truly Old

(New York Times)

A man is truly old when a carnival comes to town and he does not go. It is the final, ultimate proof of a situation he has long suspected. Back a bit he found he preferred watching a ball game on television to battling his way up to the Polo Grounds, and this gave him pause. Then, next, a Sunday afternoon book began to seem more appealing than a brisk game of tennis under a hot summer sun. To be sure, with the new, stronger glasses, he had discovered the small type in the insurance company's actuarial tables, but this wasn't all of it. More recently still he noted that when circumstances kept him up until 1 o'clock in the morning he was tired for three full days following. All of these things were suggestive of a worsening situation, but they awaited final proof. This comes with the carnival. When it is there, in town, and he is not, a man is truly old. He can fight it as hard as he chooses, but it will do him no good. He is old, and that's that.

Adventure in Museums

(Written for "Unesco" by Jean Marabini)

In the extreme north of Europe, there is said to exist a "secret" museum which contains, among other things, the sacred stone of the Lapps. I first heard about this place from an old fisherman, on the banks of the Ivalo River in Northern Finland. Perhaps I should have taken his tale with a pinch of salt, for the Lapps are said to believe in the transmigration of souls, and they certainly enjoy a practical joke on occasion.

"You'll find the stone five days' march from here, to the northeast," said the old fisherman, who claimed he could turn himself into a salmon when necessary. That was all very well, but if I had followed his directions, I would not have ended up somewhere in the Kola Peninsula.

The fisherman's son was equally positive, but he did not share his father's opinion: "The museum is to the west," he said, 'towards the Norwegian border, near the strategic highway which the Germans built during the war." I spent two months in the area but I never found the Lapp museum.

Later, a Norweglan forest-ranger offered another version of the story: "There's no museum," he said, "but the stone exists all right. It's hidden in the forest. During the war ,a battalion of Austrian soldiers became raving mad on discovering the stone with a pack of were-wolves standing guard over it." The ranger grinned broadly: "You know, the Lapps use magic to protect their treasures . . . but between you and me, the evil effects of scurvy seem a more likely explanation." And he added, almost apologetically: "You'll find lots of stuff about Lapp art and folklore in the museums of the big cities."

• •

This story of a treasure hunt is a good illustration of a current attitude towards museums. Nowadays, every big city can boast of at least one such institution where the treasures of the past centuries are carefully preserved for succeeding generations. But these are, all too often, neglected or little known. Man is irresistibly drawn by mystery and is apt to forget what is at his very doorstep. Museums, however, offer city-dwellers opportunities which in feudal times were restricted to princes and noblemen, and until quite recently to the wealthy elite. They can play an all-important part in educating the public, just as libraries, newspapers, films and radio do in their own particular sphere.

But to attract the public, museums must adopt a new approach, which entails, among other things, the use of publicity and of certain display techniques. Today, leisure almost invariably means entertainment. And when the spice of adventure or discovery is added to this recipe, a museum cannot fail to achieve its object, especially when the visitors are children or young people. One could well imagine a treasure hunt for the Mona Lisa taking place in a "maze" of galleries. The thrill of the chase would serve to emphasize the importance of the masterpiece in the eyes of the young visitors, and prepare them for its contemplation.

• •

It is in this spirit that the Unesco-sponsored "Campaign for Museums" is being developed. The curators of the big museums—men who, by the very nature of their work, concern themselves with things of the past—are beginning to modernize their methods and to employ techniques akin to those of the impressario. Obviously, there can be no question of organizing a museum along the lines on which Barnum staged his shows. But remarkable results can be achieved by concentrated lighting effects, a more rational arrangement of rooms or galleries, and the creation of what might also be termed an atmosphere of "suspense."

Visit the Amsterdam's Rijksmuseum provides striking proof of the value of these techniques. The visitor touring the galleries undergoes a kind of progressive initiation which culminates in the climax of the "Night Watch." Settling down in a comfortable arm chair, he can then admire Rembrandt's masterpiece at leisure, and study all the details of the painting which are brought out by a remarkable system of lighting . This is a truly grand finale, and the visitor leaves the museum feeling richer for the experience.

• •

Yet no museum—except the very big ones whose reputation is firmly established—can afford to neglect publicity to draw the public. These techniques are already successfully used for exhibitions where the time factor is important, at least initially. Later, such exhibits often become permanent, as in the case of the Paris "Palais de la Decouverte" whose director—a moving spirit in the Unesco Campaign — has turned it into one of the finest science museums in the world. Here, the young visitor can operate models, and take part in scientific demonstrations in the fields of astronomy, physics and medicine. In this way, learning becomes a game, and, as the great French physicist, Louis de Broglie has pointed out, many a scientific vocation has been born, almost unconsciously, during playtime.

The idea of children's museums, which first took root in the United States, is now spreading all over the world. Everyone knows the part these exhibits can play in the education of young people. But sometimes their activities are as dry as the school curriculum itself. In organizing "schoolboys' museums" an over-academic approach must be avoided. A children's museum must remain the realm of dreams and fantasy, and its arrangement and very conception should appeal to the young visitors' imagination. For a child's first impression of the world is, to a large extent, formed in these treasure houses of art and science.

• •

It was probably because they had free access to the studios and palaces of Italy that the artists of the Quattrocento acquired such mastery in painting, sculpture and architecture. And it is only by recreating the beauty, enthusiasm and thirst for knowledge which heralded the fifteenth century in Italy that we can prepare future generations for another Renaissance. This is doubtless one of the finest tasks which Unesco and the "Campaign for Museums" can undertake. Such action would invalidate the sombre predictions of a robot-like society made by Aldous Huxley and George Orwell in "Brave New World" and "1948". The new generation would grow up free from constraint, free to dream beautiful dreams, and to undertake wonderful journeys of discovery into fairyland. Their adventures might lead them in search of the Snow Queen or of the sacred stone so carefully hidden by the Lapps. Renewing the myths of past centuries, they could—like the old fisherman — explore the icy but ever-bountiful river of time.

Paris Police Probe Brawls

(Hamilton Spectator)

The Paris police engaged in quieting their once strident city (they claim they already have cut traffic noise by ninety per cent) have been conducting what is perhaps the world's first thorough investigation into the causes of rows between neighbors — and have come smack up against the subjectivity of human nature.

The stated causes of trouble, it appears, are about what you expect — people in the apartment above who seem to be tramping around in diver's boots; loud radios —especially when the musical taste of the owners is poor; uncontrolled children, and so forth.

But, they report, they have found it almost impossible to determine the real inwardness of the trouble — whether it's principally the irksomeness of the neighbor or the edginess of the plaintiff.

"We have noticed that most complaints come in when the international situation is depressing or when the weather is very hot."

BETTER GIFTS PERHAPS

Some time ago a number of us gathered in the local borough hall to protest action taken by the city planning committee. Just ahead of our petition was that of a woman who wanted a zoning directive changed in order that she might open a place of business in an area then restricted. Her petition was denied.

With the passing of a few months, this woman encountered a real estate opportunity almost too good to be true. She found that for a reasonable amount of money, she could locate her business in a much more advantageous place than the one she had first wanted to secure. There were other aspects which opened up possibilities greater than she had dreamed of before. Today this woman is radiant and thankful beyond words that her petition was denied.

The Bible says that God sometimes answers people's prayers and sends leanness into their souls. This does not mean that we should not ask earnestly for certain gifts; it just means that we should not insist that God give them to us, whether-or-no. In the end we have to leave it to His judgment. We are encouraged to register our desires, to bring them by the bushelful. But we are to remember that God may have different and better plans for us. Don't forget the woman whom the borough council rebuffed and who later had an even better business location offered to her.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Pyorrhea

The preceding pieces about pyorrhea gave (1) A definition of pyorrhea by a recognized dental authority: "A group of complex pathological manifestations which arise primarily from a functional atrophy of the alveolar process," (2) My own definition — "Atrophy of the alveolar process means the part of the jawbone containing the tooth sockets wastes away." (3) The suggestion: the need for an adequate daily intake of vitamins A, B, C and D; the periodic application of a dilute Talbot's solution under the dentist's supervision; and the continuing co-operation of physician and dentist in the care of the patient. (4) The opinion of a reformed horse-and-buggy doctor who admits he is certainly no authority, that once atrophy or physical degeneration of the alveolar process, jaw bone, teeth and gums has advanced far enough to be called pyorrhea, it's a little late, though not impossible, to retard, arrest or even reverse the process.

Reverse degeneration and you have regeneration.

Now we have reached a ticklish situation, and I've a good mind to drop the whole business right here and go bowling. I'm afraid that (a) casual readers won't understand we're talking about nutrition and not medicine or dentistry; (b) an essential paragraph or two may be deleted to make this piece fit the available space; (c) medical and dental critics, who are legion will pounce on some statement which, quoted out of context, will make what purports to be Brady's advice seem pretty silly.

Th diet as is includes not less than four glasses (a quart) of milk daily. That alone would yield the optimal nutritional requirement of calcium for a growing child or an athletic adult, plus at least part of the vitamin D (in milk fat) which is essential for metabolism and utilization of calcium. Exposure of naked skin to sunshine or skyshine (daylight) would manufacture the remainder of the vitamin D requirement.

To the best of my knowledge, which isn't great, and I'll be happy to hear from any one who knows better, shortage of calcium in the diet of most Americans, from early childhood to the present moment, is a common contributing factor of the physical degeneration (atrophy) of jaw structures known as pyorrhea alveolaris.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Our radio developed a buzz and a cutoff. In the olden days, all we did was telephone the radio repairman, and he came with a green fishing tackle box full of tubes and things and set it right in ten minutes. But this time, it seems it was a bench job. The young electronics expert who arrived in response to our telephone call to the nearest shop in the yellow pages was more the TV type than radio. He took out the works; and as usual, we were very surprised how small the works of a big cabinet radio really are. The works were full of small brown paper cylinders about the size of cigarette butts. They looked pretty flimsy to me, but apparently they are what the whole electronics industry relies on. It was one of these, the young chap thought, that had given out. It was a bench job. He would have to take it back to the shop and put it under the microscope or the strobo-scope or some such thing.

That was Friday. Tuesday, he brought it back, installed it and turned on the juice. It was far worse than before. It clicked, buzzed, and was grainy The voices from the radio sounded as if they were being strained through a sieve.

So he had to take it back again.

Thursday, in high dudgeon as they used to say, I telephoned and expressed my indignation to the mild, reasonable scholarly gentleman who answered the phone.

"But" how." I protested, "can it take from Friday to Thursday? I know it has to take its turn on the bench. But when it gets on the bench, surely it isn't a matter of hours, let alone days . . ."

"My dear man," said the scholar, "there are many interruptions. They don't just work steadily at one job like that. People call in about their TV's and you can't keep people waiting when the TV goes off. Our men work at yours when they can . . ."

See? It's like a garage. You leave your car in for an overhaul or a repair job. Joe starts on it. Then Joe is called to attend Mr . . Big who happens to drive in and wants something done right away. So Bill picks it up where Joe left it off. Then Bill is called away, and after lunch, Joe comes back at it.

Isn't it a marvel that things work as well as they do for us?

TODAY'S TALK

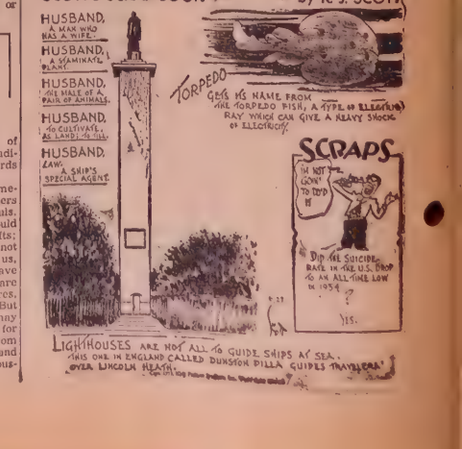
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SINCERITY AND INTEGRITY

It is impossible to place any monetary value upon Sincerity and Integrity. Neither can be bought for money. On the other hand no one ever achieved an honest or outstanding success without both.

People who are sincere and who have integrity are, and have been, the trusted leaders of this world. History has taken such to itself. But in our daily lives we have those whom we know and love as demonstrating in their modest and simple lives these two great gifts from Heaven. To such as friends we can tie for life without regret!

Everything men and women have created that has lasted, and will continue to last, has been labeled with these two immortal qualities of Sincerity and Integrity. It was of a man with these outstanding qualities that the elder J.P. Morgan spoke, as worthy to be loaned a million dollars—without any other security



It is such a pleasant thing to be trusted and believed in, to have one's Sincerity and Integrity immediately recognized. It is something in which one can take great pride. How well I recall my own father's talks along this line. This was his heritage to me.

Any character who has these two qualities as a cornerstone will need nothing else of value to recommend him or her. People will look upon such a character as greater than any bank or monetary institution. I once got a big order from such a man and wondered if I should ask for a contract, but before I could say anything he said: "My word is a contract!" I learned how true this was over a long period of years—indeed until his death. A great editor and a beloved friend. How few there are!

French by Ear

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Teaching French by ear is to be tried out extensively in Ottawa schools. That should not be as difficult as it seems because, after all, we learn to speak English before we can read or write, just picking up the language from our parents, and speaking good or bad English, according to their mode of conversation.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The 2nd Christ Church Cub Pack held its closing meeting on Monday last.

During the past year the Grey Six gained the most points under Sixer Gary McKinnon and Second Ian Sexsmith. The other members of this Six are Cubs Ronnie Munro, David Rose, Michael Stalker, Neil Miles and Vernon Martin. The boy with the highest points is Cub Jack Colwill. Cub Robbie Blaker won most achievements. These two boys received a Scout knife. Cubs Jack Colwill and Ronnie Munro were awarded First Stars and Cub Robbie Blaker his Artist's badge.

Raksha Beatrice Sexsmith is leaving for England with her son, Ian. Suitable gifts, purchased by the pack were presented to Mrs. Sexsmith and Ian. Akela Kemp and Cub Robbie Blaker performed this pleasant ceremony. Raksha has been a very faithful and able leader. All wish them a very enjoyable visit and will look forward to their return in the fall.

The mothers then played a blindfold game to the great amusement of the Cubs. They were quite good at it, too. Ice cream, cakes and cokes were served to everybody and closed a very enjoyable evening.

Akela Margaret Kemp and her assistants, B. Sexsmith and Frances Mitchell are to be heartily congratulated on a very good Cub pack, well trained and well behaved. The next meeting will be September 12th.

On Wednesday Christ Church Scout Troop held its last meeting of the season. This took the form of a council fire and parents were invited. The boys entertained the assembly with clever skits. Archdeacon Creeggan led the singing and demonstrated that he could tell which one of five sticks was touched by somebody, simply by smelling them. The Scouts smelled a rat during the performance.

S.M. Ron Lane told a story, assisted by the Archdeacon which will be remembered for a long time.

The entire evening was well arranged and everybody agreed that the 2nd Belleville is well versed in the art of entertaining. Ass't. S.M. Doug Burns gave a few selections on the pipes. He piped the Color Party to the beloved "Scotland the Brave." Another Scout played the violin. The 2nd Belleville has talent.

A.D.C. Don Allan presented Scout Richard Rowbotham with his "A" Cord.

D.S.M. Ken Moore awarded Scouts Ardell Wilson, Phil Decarlo and Richard Rowbotham with their Athletes' badges. S.M. Ron Lane awarded Scout Ron Maybee with his First Class badge.

Archdeacon Creeggan was presented with a beautifully colored picture of himself and S.M. Ron Lane, taken at Actinolite just after divine service and it was in a very unique frame made by Jerry Putman and given to the Archdeacon for his valuable services to the Scout movement. The surprise of the evening was when the efficient master of ceremonies, Scout Richard Rowbotham presented Ron Lane with an exact duplicate of the picture for the same reasons. Richard handled this very nicely and put Ron off balance for the first time at this well organized council fire.

Cokes and marshmallows were served to the party and the visitors left with a keen sense of appreciation for S.M. Ron Lane and his assistant, S.M. Doug Burns. They have a troop of keen boys and Christ Church is grateful to these gentlemen. The teamwork and good fellowship that prevails in all the boys makes the church proud and happy to be associated with the 2nd Belleville Boy Scout troop.

Bad Posture Blamed For Arthritic Pain

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto specialist said Saturday that most arthritic and rheumatic ailments are caused by faulty body posture and, as a result, drugs are of little use in treatment.

The specialist, Dr. Douglas Taylor, said at a meeting of the Canadian Rheumatism Association his conclusion is based on more than 2,400 cases referred to him for treatment during the last 20 years.

In more than half the cases further diagnosis coupled with a study of the patients' histories showed pain and swelling could be traced to faulty posture such as caused by high heels, hunching over a desk and similar habits. He found less than 10 per cent of the cases referred to him were true rheumatoid arthritis.

"Stenographers are an excellent example," he said. "They begin to complain about pains. They are sent from doctor to doctor, with none able to ascertain any cause for the pain.

"Yet the girls have sat with their necks bent forward for hours, and then go home and prop up their heads with two pillows while they read in bed. Or they prolong the distortion by knitting or playing bridge."

Roblin W.A. Entertains Selby, Melrose Guests

A pleasant time was spent on Thursday afternoon when the members of Roblin WA, invited guests from Selby and Melrose, to a tea held in the Orange hall.

The president, Mrs. Wicklam, welcomed the guests and announced the items on the program.

A most interesting program was given by the visiting ladies, Melrose, contributing a piano solo by Mrs. L. Weese; a recitation by Mrs. E. Pascoe and a reading by Miss M. Bailey.

A delicious tea was served by the Roblin ladies. The small tables were decorated with beautiful flowers and tea was poured at a daintily appointed table. The social hour was enjoyed by all, many were heard to say they wished that these gatherings were held more often.

Thanks for the pleasant afternoon were given by Mrs. J. Kimmet for Selby and Miss M. Bailey for Melrose.

Home cooking and sewing were also on display and many articles were sold.

BUYS RINK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg's north end Olympic Rink, once known as the incubator of Canadian hockey stars, has been bought by Jack Perrin, owner of the Winnipeg Franchise in the western Hockey League. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Women's Activities

CENTENARY W.A.

CENTENARY — Mrs. W. Lewington was hostess to Centenary W.A. Thursday afternoon. A good number of ladies was present when Mrs. M. Nobes opened the meeting.

Several members contributed to the birthday box. Mrs. G. Sills was reported ill in the hospital and Mr. D. A. Thrasher is under doctor's care at his home. Notes of appreciation were received from Mrs. E. Adams, Mrs. E. Ray and Debbie Slingerland.

The kitchen at the back of the church has been demolished to begin the building of a new hall.

REPORTS GIVEN

Reports of the W.A. Convention held in Trinity United Church, Madoc, were given by Mrs. W. Shortt and Mrs. C. Bain.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

W.M.S.

The members of Centenary W.M.S. gathered at the home of Mrs. Walter Lewington for their June meeting. Mrs. Harold Hancock, president, gave the call to worship and opened the meeting. The offering was dedicated by the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton.

It was announced that the Mission Band picnic will be held at noon at Searles' Beach, Oak Lake, on Tuesday. All members are invited.

The missionary program was based on the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the coming of the Christian missionaries to Angola. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Byron Harder. Mrs. Hancock led in prayer, mentioning Miss Rutherford, a missionary, for prayer. Her work takes her to Angola.

REPORT ON PROGRESS

The history of the progress of the missionary work was given in part by Mrs. R. Thrasher, Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Aikens. It is a story of progress in hospitals, doctors, and, in particular, of a farm at Dondi, where a tractor is now used and the cultivation of soy beans is being fostered. There are now schools where home economics, gardening, literal education and music are taught. During this time the Church of Christ has grown accordingly.

Mr. Middleton brought a report from the conference. The meeting was then closed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. Aikens and her committee. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Lewington for her hospitality.

3-T's M. C.

Mrs. Fred Edmondson opened her home for the June meeting of the 3-T's Mission Circle. The vice-president, Lorna Ray, was in charge of the meeting. She opened the program. The roll call revealed there were eight present. Plans were discussed for a Mission Circle picnic to be held in July.

Miss Margaret Slavin was in charge of the devotional period. Miss Lorna Ray read a passage from the Study Book and Mrs. Fred Edmondson read the Scripture lesson. Margaret Slavin read a poem, "My Land," followed by the benediction.

Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks given to the hostess.

MADOC - ELDORADO W.M.S.

ELDORADO — The Madoc and Eldorado Missionary Society held its June meeting in the Standard Church, Eldorado, with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Howard. The theme was "The Value of Prayer."

Scripture was read by Mrs. Wager; a reading followed, "My Bible and I," by Sharon Robbins, and one by James Bronson, "Nothing Shall be Impossible Unto You." A musical selection, "Nearer My God to Thee," was rendered by Grant Smith and a reading given by Mrs. Howard, "When Daniel Bates Prayed."

Mrs. Hinds gave a splendid talk on the "Value of Prayer," which was much enjoyed by all.

The Rev. J. Stobbart closed the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Black Observe Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Black, 15 Alexander St., a prominent Belleville couple, observed their golden wedding anniversary with a dinner party yesterday.

Nearly 40 relatives and friends attended the dinner at Queen's Hotel, given by the family in honor of the couple. Later in the afternoon and evening, a reception was held at their house. Approximately 150 guests from the surrounding area, as well as from Chicago and Rochester, were present.

Mrs. Black is the former Margaret Jewel Fitzpatrick, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzpatrick, Belleville. She has lived all her life in this city. Mrs. Black enjoys lawn bowling and reading. She is also active in church work and belongs to the Catholic Women's League, among other organizations.

The couple was married in Belleville in St. Michael's Church. The Rev. Father Twomey was the officiating priest.

Mr. and Mrs. Black have seven children and 16 grandchildren, the latter ranging in ages from two to 17 years. Their five sons, Murray, Al, Twomey, Jimmie and Joseph are all living in Belleville. One daughter, Mrs. Hubert Bedore, is in business with her husband in Kingston. The other daughter, the Rev. Sister Mary Imelda, Superior, is in King, Ontario.

Mr. Black is the owner of Black's Wholesale, Ltd., which is now operated by four of his sons. He has been in that business for 50 years, and came to Belleville shortly before that. He was born on a farm north of Kingston. Prior to establishing his Belleville business, Mr. Black worked for the Canada Railway News Company in Cobourg and Kingston Junction for a number of years. He is fond of lawn bowling and, at one time, was an ardent fisherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Black consider a six-week trip to Europe some years ago as one of the highlights in their lives.

Women's Brass And Drum Band Formed in West

WINNIPEG (CP)—The first all-woman brass and drum band in western Canada has graduated from beating out rhythms on chairs and doors to blowing shiny new trumpets and pounding drums. It's to be known as the 108 Manning depot CWAC band.

The band is composed of 17 music-minded women who doff their civilian garb and don the army khaki every Monday and Thursday evening. Five are housewives with children, but fathers assume baby-sitting duties when the mothers strut down to the army's 108 Manning depot.

SGT. CHARLOTTE POLITO

Not one of the musicians had played an instrument before.

EAGER BUNCH

"The girls are coming along just fine. They're really an eager bunch" said Sgt.-Major J. W. Garley, bandmaster of the contingent, in an interview.

Proving his point, Sgt. Charlotte Polito, the girl behind the bass drum, said: "Gosh, I've already walloped the heck out of my mother's door at home. I practice boom-de-boom all the time."

As for the brass section, Sgt. Polito said: "Those kids are out with the mosquitoes on the prairie almost every night—blowing their brains out."

The girls will have a chance to strut their stuff in front of a Winnipeg crowd on Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

Club Activities

SUNBEAM MISSION BAND

The Sunbeam Mission Band, White's District, held its June meeting at Quinte View School on Friday afternoon with an attendance of 32.

The president, Ronald Ferguson presided and opened the meeting.

The worship service was taken by the leader assisted by Gail Goldie, Iva Drouillard and Audrey Bowers with all joining in, in parts, and in singing "Father Bless Our School Today."

The offering was taken by Audrey Bowers and dedicated by the leader.

A story of a lost sheep "Shep Finds Ba-Ba" was read by Karl Arthur and Ronald Ferguson. "The Palace of a Hundred Rooms" read by Audrey Bowers, showed that happiness was gained by a young Prince when he learned to show kindness himself.

ALCOHOL DESTROYS VITALITY

The leader read "Who Did It?" which showed that the white corpuscles in the blood kill disease germs but if weakened by the use of alcohol they do not work as quickly and effectively as they should.

Mrs. Young read "The Harvest Festival" from the story of India, "Fig Tree Village". The Christians gave offerings from their crops to the church which would be sold for the use of the church.

A singing game played by Iva Drouillard, Audrey Bowers, Vicky Glydon, Peggy Ackerman, Susan Blong, Sheila Caves, and Judy Blong with music by Mrs. Campbell was used as the final number.

A combined meeting of the Mission Band, Baby Band and Bayside WMS will be held on the lawn at the Hockaday home, on July 6, with games and refreshments for all.

Sunday School Picnics

CHRIST AND ST. GEORGE'S CHURCHES

Several hundred very lively youngsters, some not so young, converged on Oak Lake. Six Rawson buses, loaded with energy, left the parish hall at 1.30 p.m.

Most of them lost no time getting into the water. The weather was ideal, no rain until the festivities were practically over. Ice cream and soft drinks were supplied to all members. At 3.00 p.m. the races were started and real competition was exhibited. Some of the races were so close, ties had to be run off. The largest group was the very little people under six. This resulted in a dead heat, so all got prizes. Three prizes were given for boys and girls in their age classes up to 14 years. The winners of St. George's were:

Girls, 7, 8 and 9—Darbne MacDonald, Yvonne MacDonald, Linda Polley.

Girls, 10 and 11—Donna Morrison, Betty Lou Anderson, Donna Walt.

Girls, 12 and 13—Jeanette MacDonald, Donna Walt.

Girls, 14 and over—Lynn Winstanley, Jean Stapley.

Boys 7, 8 and 9—Leonard King, Gerald Bull, Jackie Markle.

Boys, 10, 11 and 12 — Steve Galpin, Jackie Andrews, Dennis Galpin.

Boys, 13 and over—Bruce Askey.

Wheelbarrow race — Jackie Andrews, Teddy Blaker.

Ladies under 30 (all of the ladies present) staged a wild old race. A dog-eat-dog affair with no holds barred.

Men, under 30 (not so many)—showed some very good racing form. The three-legged race was the best of the day, from the spectators' point of view. A scramble of cent gum proved to be a very excitable affair, the throwers found themselves in an extremely dangerous situation for the few minutes it lasted.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Ray Lennox, Mr. Clarence Fuzzen was master of ceremonies and deserves great praise for a most successful day.

Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan controlled the races and every event was run off without a hitch. Mrs. Bull of St. George's was in there pitching. Quite a number of teachers from both churches went all out to give the kiddies a good time and from remarks overhead were amply repaid in knowing that another annual picnic can be chalked up as a very happy event without a single casualty.

St. George's Guild Enjoys 1000 Island Trip

The members of St. George's Guild held their annual closing meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Collyer, Herchimer Avenue on Tuesday.

Those arriving early, had the pleasure of viewing the lovely flowers and rose gardens before the heavy rainfall.

Later refreshments were served and enjoyed by all.

A social hour was spent and Mrs. Collyer was thanked by all, for opening her lovely home to the ladies.

A week previous, the Guild members enjoyed a bus ride to Gananoque and also the sight-seeing boat cruise through the beautiful Thousand Islands with a stop over at Clayton, N.Y.

It was a bright warm day, and all enjoyed the outing, with many thanks to Mrs. J. Collings for arranging such a pleasant trip.

St. Michael's H.S. PTA Activities Most Successful

St. Michael's High School Parent Teacher Association held its final meeting of the season last Monday, in St. Michael's Academy auditorium under the chairmanship of the president, Mr. Herbert Brown.

Reports by the officers revealed that the past year's activities had been most successful with the monthly meetings providing a varied and educational set of programs.

The Rev. Sister Mary Lenore as chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers for the 1955-56 season. This slate was unanimously approved and the officers elected are as follows:

President, Mr. Herbert Brown; vice-president, Mrs. E. B. Lally; secretary, Mrs. G. Gallagher; treasurer, Mr. Harry O'Neill and historian, Mrs. A. Black.

Following the business portion of the meeting, an amusing one-act play entitled "Pepping up the P.T.A." was presented. The cast was made up entirely of ladies from the Holy Rosary Parish Parent Teacher Association, and was under the direction of the Reverend Sisters Mary Evelyn and Mary Lawrence.

The play was greatly enjoyed by all.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS MISUNDERSTANDING CAN BE CLEARED UP

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a boy nearly 18 and there is a girl I like very much.

Everything was going all right until we were at a dance and a friend of mine asked her if she liked me, telling her that I liked her. When she asked me if it was true, I couldn't say no because it was the truth. Then she started acting as though I didn't exist. She wouldn't talk to me or dance with me the rest of the evening.

I like her a lot, but I can't figure out how I can get her to like me. What can I do, and how? — J.

Dear J.:

When this girl asked you if it was true that you liked her, did you tell her just what you told me? That you "couldn't say no because it was the truth?" If you did, she certainly reacted in a very surprising way, for I should think she would have been very pleased.

On the other hand, perhaps you didn't say this to her, but just said nothing, or else stuttered and stammered because you were a little embarrassed, and so she got the impression that you didn't really have a special liking for her and didn't like to say so.

Now for how to repair the damage, whatever its cause.

I am a great believer in going straight to the point about things, and so I suggest that you send this girl some flowers—you don't need to spend a lot of money on them; just a few will do nicely—and put a little note with them saying that you're afraid there was some misderstanding the other night and you want her to know that you really think she's a swell girl. If you like, finish the note by asking her if she'd have a date with you on a certain evening—something like going to the movies, or getting together with some of your friends or anything else that would be appropriate for a girl and boy of your ages.

If you follow this plan, it should set things right.

IF HE DRINKS, BETTER DROP HIM

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16, and in love with a boy, but he drinks a lot and I quit him. Now he wants me back.

Do you think I should take him back and ask him to quit drinking, and do you think he would quit if he liked me as much as I like him — E.N.

Dear E.N.:

You have things in the wrong order when you ask if you should take this boy back and ask him to quit drinking. What you should do would be to tell him that, if he stops drinking, you will take him back after a reasonable period of showing that he really means it.

In answer to the last part of your question, it is possible that he might stop drinking if he likes you enough, but it usually takes even more incentive than that for anyone to give up such a habit. What it takes is a realization on the part of the drinker that, if he doesn't stop, he is likely to ruin not only his own life and happiness, but the happiness of anyone who cares about him. Such a realization, followed by a real desire and purpose, is usually necessary to bring about a change.

I might add that any boy who drinks a lot is a poor bet as a boy friend anyhow, and that you would almost certainly be better off if you dropped him right now.

Cook-Out Chicken Supper

By Mary Moore

Here it is Monday before the July 1st holiday and I'd like to wager half Canada will be eating outside on that day. On the other hand you may not like ants—or you may be like my brother who says why should I squat or try to get comfortable on a car rug, when I can eat at home in my nice upholstered dining-room arm chair? We've given up on him. I think he should do more somersaults.

I'll be eating out.

Every so often I have tried to tempt you into the open with saliva-starting descriptions of cook-out suppers with thick steaks and fried tiny new potatoes or kabobs, made up of squares of steak and bacon and mushrooms and onions alternated.

This time I have a different idea.

What with the reasonable price of chicken, let us have it fried—but there's a preliminary treatment.

FRIED MARINATED CHICKEN

Using as many joined together drumsticks and thighs as you have people—plus a couple more for seconds—marinate them in this dressing.

Marinade: One-quarter cup of salad oil, 1-2 cup of vinegar, 1-8 teaspoon garlic salt, 1-2 teaspoon onion salt, 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon each of Marjoram, Rosemary and Thyme, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Mix the ingredients. Pour over chicken. Refrigerate 1 hour. Drain. Save marinade. Brush chicken as it cooks with marinade. Grill about 25 minutes turning often, or until tender.

We are going to try corn.

Spread fresh or frozen ears of corn with butter; sprinkle with celery salt. Wrap in double layers of foil. Grill over coals about 10 minutes, turning occasionally.

TOSSED GREEN SALAD

Fill bowl with washed assorted greens. Add sections, free from membrane, of 1 large grapefruit. Toss with the following dressing

French Dressing: One-eighth teaspoon garlic salt, 3-4 cup salad or olive oil, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Combine ingredients. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Yield: 1 cup.

SOUR CHERRY PIE

Make enough of your flakiest pastry for a two-crust, 9-inch pie. Mix together 4 cups fresh, pitted, sour cherries, 1 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon almond extract, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca and if desired 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate. Seal on gashed top crust. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 45 minutes.

Take along twice as much coffee as you serve at home.

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Edmondson and Mr. and Mrs. William Edmondson were recent supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nolan, Utica, N.Y., recently.

Mrs. Gillie Sills and Mr. D. A. Thrasher are ill. All hope for a speedy recovery for both.

The Explorers' Club, under the leadership of Mr. William Slavin, spent the week-end camping at Oak Lake.

Several families from this community attended the strawberry and ice-cream social held in the Alkens Community Hall on Tuesday evening.

Strawberry season is finished. The mowers and the balers are in the fields as the hay harvest is under way. Peas are being cut and taken to the viners.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edmondson entertained their parents and families at dinner Sunday in honor of Father's Day.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

POSITION OF WEDDING RING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it will be correct for me (after my marriage the last part of next month) to wear my wedding ring in front of my diamond engagement ring, or is it correct to wear the wedding ring behind the diamond — D.H.

Correctly the wedding ring is put on "the" finger first . . . then the engagement ring above the wedding ring. The engagement ring should not be put on the finger first. This important position of the rings is the reason why the bride does not wear her engagement ring on the left hand during the ceremony . . . she generally wears her engagement ring on her right hand, so that the third finger of the left hand will be free to receive the wedding ring during the ring part of the ceremony. Then, usually in the car from the church to the reception, she puts her engagement ring over her wedding ring.

WHITE BIBLE TO FIRST BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I heard of the custom of giving a white Bible to the first bride in a new church, and this may concern me. Would you please tell me if this Bible is presented as a gift from the pastor or from the parish? Also is it presented before the ceremony, or at the conclusion of the ceremony?—Ruth S.

This is indeed a wonderful custom . . . and I have known two or three brides who have the great good-fortune to own such a cherished Holy Book. If the pastor is a close friend of the bride and her family he may give her this Bible . . . but more often the members of the parish plan to contribute to the fund for this gift. But definitely it should be presented to the bride-to-be quite a time before her wedding, so that she may if she wishes (and naturally this is usually the choice) make her plans to carry this white Bible instead of a bouquet.

GODDAUGHTER AT SHOWER PARTY?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to give a shower for a girl friend of mine to whom my family and I have always been particularly close. I have a 4-year-old daughter who loves her, and indeed she is her godmother. Could you think of any way I could plan to have my little girl have some kind of share in the shower party (Of course I don't mean to have her present all during the party, but just to make some gesture to her godmother.) — Therese S.

How would you like to put the shower gifts into a child's express wagon, and have your little daughter pull the wagon up to the guest of honor when the gifts are to be presented at the beginning of the shower? She might make a "pretty curtsy" to her godmother, the guest of honor, then say good-by and leave, or perhaps she might first hand the guest of honor a shower gift she had planned for her. You could decorate the express cart gaily and merrily, and your little daughter could be dressed charmingly in a white or pink dress as a sweet messenger-with-gifts.

HOW TO EAT FRENCH-FRIED POTATOES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a dispute we are having, please answer this question: "What is the correct way to eat French-fried potatoes when they are served in a restaurant? Are they considered as a finger food or a fork food? — Georgia C.

Often in a restaurant French-fried potatoes are served in an individual service-dish. If so, transfer them to your own plate by means of the service implements if they are provided, otherwise use the spoon and fork at your place. Then eat the French-fried potatoes with your fork as you would most other vegetables . . . cutting them with the fork into the convenient pieces.

MAY SISTER BE BRIDESMAID?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have an adorable 10-year-old sister who is, in the current slang, a "doll," and I am so eager to have her have a party in my wedding. And she talks of nothing else! But I'm told she is too old to be flower girl, I'm sure she's too young to be my maid of honor, and certainly she couldn't be a bridesmaid. Can you suggest any way to have her take part?—Sister

Yes! It would be the perfect plan to have her as a Junior Bridesmaid . . . the one-and-only junior bridesmaid. Then in the Processional she would walk alone after the ushers an before the bridesmaids. How happy and proud she will be!

COMPLEXION CARE

Women have different ideas as to the best ways of keeping their faces clean. Many with oily skins are so keen about soap and water that they wouldn't touch their complexions with cream for anything in the world. But this is a mistake. Soap and water are necessary to combat the excretions of the sebaceous glands; but, if the cutaneous surface is rough or has been exposed to strong sunlight, oily preparations must be used. They should not remain on over night, however.

Some still cling to the old fashioned notion that soap should not be used, especially if the cutaneous surface is dry. Another error. If make-up is removed with cream and some of it left on, a well-soaped wash cloth can be passed over the face without aggravating the arid condition.

Unless the skin is allergic to soap, the face should have a brisk and thorough lathering at bed time. Then the skin will not be subjected to climatic changes, harsh winds or strong sunlight immediately afterward.

If blackheads are present, the suds should be forced into the pores with a complexion brush. Bristles should be so firm that they will not weaken or mat when moistened. Rinse with warm water if a cream is to be used afterwards; with cold water if an astrigent or tonic lotion is to be applied.

And here is a suggestion: You can give your complexion a vitalizing treatment when drying it. Wrap a soft towel around both hands. Start tapping and patting at the collar bones. Go up over the neck, along the jaw line from chin tip to ear lobes, over the cheeks and forward. This is your personal "face lift" ritual.

When tissues have softened, a heavy emollient should be used freely. Applied at bedtime, it will have disappeared by morning. Starved tissues will lap it up.

MADOC

New Industry To Be Located In Village

MADOC — The box factory and property owned by Richardson Company, which was destroyed by fire in November, 1952, has been purchased by a new company, the Hagerman - Symon Lumber Co., which hopes to have the new business in operation in about a month's time.

The second storey of the building will house a new planer with a capacity to handle a larger amount of lumber per hour. The lower part will be used for storage.

The installation of a new, modern permanent saw-mill is under way northeast of the old factory. Concrete for the footings has been coured and the new McCrea roller bearing will be housed in a building, 80 feet by 32 feet. Water for the mill will be pumped from the old marble quarry.

The owners, Cecil Hagerman and W. J. Symon, recently purchased timber limits, but intend also to buy logs locally. Besides sawing and planing their own lumber, custom sawing and planing will be done.

For several years Mr. Hagerman has purchased and shipped veneer logs and pulpwood and the company intends to continue this business.

USE DIESEL POWER

Diesel power will be used to operate the mill. During the past few years Madoc has lost several industries and this new business will be a welcome asset to the community. At least 12 men will be employed at the saw mill, while others will be employed at the box factory.

Local farmers will find a ready market for their cut lumber.

EXTEND WATERWORKS

Tenders are being called for extension of Madoc village water and sewerage system. It is the intention of the council to start work on the extension early in September. The streets to receive service are: St. Lawrence St. east, from Church St. to the cemetery corner, and Wellington St. from Elgin St. to St. Lawrence St. It is expected that the cost will be about $50,000.

MADOC W.I.

Madoc W. I. held its June meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. A. Herrington, with 18 ladies present. Communications were dealt with and accounts on motion of Mrs. Hulin and Mrs. Moore ordered paid.

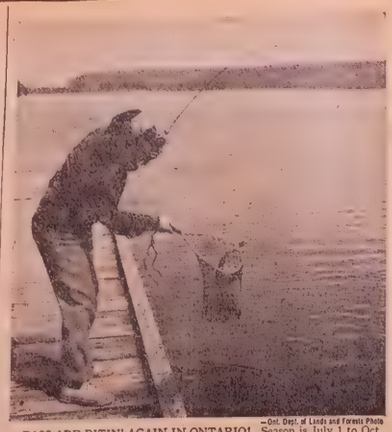
Mrs. Tanner reported on stand purchased for the Tweedsmuir Book and announced that it was being refinished to match the furniture in the reading room of the library, where the book will be placed.

Mrs. E. T. Nayler and Mrs. Warren Hill gave fine reports on the district annual held at Wellman's Corners.

In the absence of Mrs. W. Stewart, Mrs. A. Empey took charge of the program, and gave, an informative talk on the "motto," for the month, "The Largest Room in the World is Room for Improvement." This was followed by several readings, "Little Things," by Mrs. P. H. Nayler; "Family Doctor," by Mrs. Jack Henderson; "The Mother's Job," by Mrs. Wilfred Forestell, concluding the program with community singing.

Thanks were tendered Mrs. Empey for her program for the meeting by the president and closed with "The Queen," a pleasant social hour followed.

Mrs. Laura Oxley, of Woodland, Calif., and Mrs. Johnson of Parry Sound, are spendin ga few days with their mother, Mrs. Robert McGhee and other relatives in Madoc.



Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Wellington of New York, are visiting at the home of Mr. George West.

Miss Margaret Wellington, of Miami, Fla., will spend the summer with Miss Lamoine West, and Mr. Geo. West.

Mrs. C. Whytock returned home on Thursday after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hedley Henderson and Mr. Henderson, in Toronto, during the past week.

Mrs. Walter Whytock is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. Noble and Mr. Noble in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Moon and son, of Montreal, are spending their holidays with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Moon.

PLAINFIELD

W. M. S., Baby Band Hold Meetings

PLAINFIELD — A joint meeting of Plainfield W.M.S. and Baby Band was held recently at the home of Mrs. Arnold Dilts, with an attendance of 13 members and six children. Mrs. Fred Hall opened the meeting in the usual way. Mrs. Clarence Hall had charge of the worship service, the theme being "Faith."

Mrs. Blanche Emerson read the Scripture passages. Mrs. Will Sills sang, "'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus," and Mrs. Clarence Hall gave a splendid paper on "The Church's Faith." Prayers were offered by Mrs. Clarence Marshall, Mrs. Harry McCreary and Mrs. Clarence Hall.

Offering amounted to $3.28.

BABY BAND

Mrs. Garnet Denyes, Baby Band leader, and Mrs. Jack Skelly, each read Bible stories for the children. Mrs. Denyes gave a "Child's Prayer."

Offering for the Band amounted to 95 cents.

Mrs. Len Brennan was group leader for the day, her theme being "The Church, a Believing Community". Readings were given by Mrs. Will Sills and Mrs. Jack Skelly. Mrs. Arnold Dilts sang a solo which was much appreciated and Mrs. Brennan gave a splendid paper on the theme.

Mrs. Will Sills read an interesting letter which she had received from Miss Ferne Gerrie, missionary in India.

Supply secretary reported having sent a bale of clothing for Overseas Relief and it was decided to have a quilting in the hall on June 29th to defray the expenses of sending this.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Brennan's group and a social hour was spent.

There was one new member.

HALT VACCINATION

BALTIMORE (AP) — The polio vaccine program in Maryland has been temporarily shelved by the state board of health, which voted Friday to wait and see what develops nationally. The board cited the changing national situation and the present lack of usable vaccine in Maryland as its reasons. Dr. Edward Davens, chief of the health department's bureau of preventive medicine, said "there isn't a drop of vaccine in the state."

WANTS TO LOSE JOB

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Leeds inferior court judge McCoy Whitmire wants the legislature to abolish the court in nearby Leeds. The reason: The court took in only $10 last year, $100 a month. He recommended in letters made public Friday that the legislature abolish the court in Leeds. The reason: The court took in only $10 last year.

??? THE 5 MOST ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT...

LIGHTNING

Is it true that lightning never strikes twice in the same place?

Untrue! It is rare for lightning to strike say, a house or a particular tree twice but if an object is high enough to form a perfect target it will be struck many times. An example is the Empire State Building in New York which has been struck as often as nine times in twenty minutes and which is regularly struck hundreds of times a year.

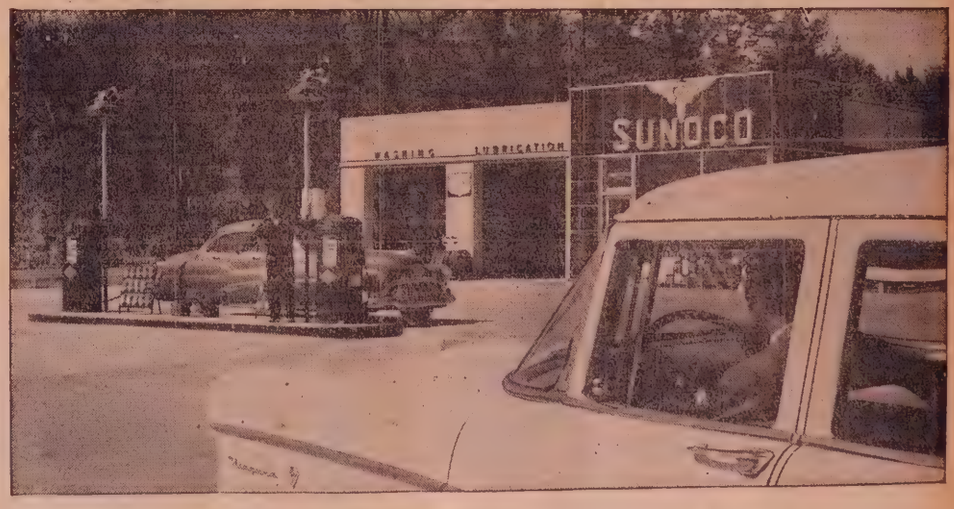
Does lightning sour milk?

No, this belief sprang up in the days before electric refrigerators came into general use. What does happen is that milk sours quickly in exactly the same kind of weather conditions that accompany electrical storms. In other words if it is hot and humid the milk will sour anyway and a thunderstorm is a good possibility.

Is it unsafe to stand near an open window or door during a storm?

Lightning always strikes the highest point of a house so you are as safe in front of an open window as anywhere. There is some risk, on the other hand, of standing near a fireplace. The lightning may strike the chimney and be conducted down the flue by the layer of soot. At the bottom it will quite likely jump into the room and strike you if you are in the way.

Is it safe to be in a car during a thunderstorm?



A car is just about the safest place imaginable. An electrical current will pass around the outside of any metal shell. So the charge will be conducted well away from the passengers and leap to the ground safely. For the same reason you are quite safe in a modern all-metal aircraft.

Do animals attract lightning?

The belief that they do comes from the habits of domestic animals rather than the characteristics of lightning. During a storm cows will cluster under trees or bunch together in the pasture and form the highest point in the field. Either way they might be struck. Or they will sometimes gather around a gate and lightning which has struck the wire fence some distance will be conducted along the wire until it reaches the cows.

Chilled Orange Juice Is New Baby of Florida Citrus Industry

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Florida citrus industry has a bouncing new baby—chilled orange juice—that may grow up to take a man-size place at the breakfast table.

The chilled juice is packaged in quart containers and sold through dairies and markets just as milk is.

The baby citrus product has caught on fast. At the beginning of the 1954-55 season six firms produced chilled juice. Now there are twice that number and more will be ready for business next season.

Most producers package the juice in containers at their plants. Compared with concentrate, chilled juice does not require reconstituting by addition of water and can be stored anywhere in a refrigerator without requiring freezer space.

JUNIOR PARTNER

During the 1953-54 citrus season, its first big year, an estimated 1,000,000 boxes went into chilled juice. Already this season more than 2,000,000 boxes have been used.

That still is only a drop in the bucket. When chilled juice reached the 2,000,000 box mark this season, 42,000,000 boxes had gone into frozen concentrate, 23,000,000 to the fresh markets and 13,00,000 for canned juice and pasteurized concentrate.

So far, largely because of the convenience, the housewife has been willing to pay a substantial premium for chilled juice. It has been selling for 39 cents a quart, compared to about 20 cents for a comparable quantity of frozen concentrate.

In recent weeks, however, many competitors have cut chilled juice prices to 29 cents, and quotations as low as 19 cents have been reported.

Young Couple Feted By Many Friends

LATTA — Tuesday evening the Rev. E. J. Kersey called friends together for a miscellaneous shower for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hall (nee Shirley Kerr). Mrs. Harry Harrison played the piano for singing, which was led by Mr. Arnold Dilts. Mr. Donald Bronson, Mr. Donnie Meeks and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilder favored with musical selections and Mr. Dilts sang a solo.

Mr. Kersey asked Ray and Shirley to come forward and Miss Beverly Gow read the address, the couple thanked the friends, and invited them to come to see them in Rednersville.

Refreshments were served and Mr. Clayton Hall and Mrs. Harry Harrison played music for dancing.

Friends from Bethany were also present.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mrs. Sam Sherman returned on Saturday from a week's stay with her sister in Toronto.

The Melrose Mission Band terminated the season's meetings with a wiener roast on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan, on Saturday evening. The children had a jolly time with treats for all.

Mrs. J. Macfarlane and her mother, Mrs. A. Pringle, Belleville, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane and attended morning church service and decoration ceremony at Melrose cemetery.

Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr., returned by air from her extended holiday to Scotland and England early this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hall and children spent Father's Day with Mr. and Mrs. R. Macfarlane. Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren had tea at the same home.

Local teachers met at Mrs. Shetler's school on Tuesday afternoon to plan for the annual picnic.

LAWN SOCIAL

The lawn social at the Melrose United Church grounds on Wednesday evening was well attended. The splash of rain at the supper hour was a bit inconvenient, but every one made the best of it, returning to the tables to finish their meal, and enjoying the program that followed in the church. During a lapse in the entertainment, the Rev. L. W. Scott and Mrs. Scott were presented with a sum of money and an appreciative address, prior to their departure to a charge in Eganville.

The Rev. L. W. Scott and Mrs. Scott spent the Sunday dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Badgley.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McLaren, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. English recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nielsen and family at Harrowsmith.

A number of young married couples were entertained at Wyman's River to a wiener roast last Friday evening; the host and hostess being Mr. and Mrs. George Lepp. An enjoyable time was reported.

NAMED AMBASSADOR

PARIS (Reuters) — Francis Lacoste, who was replaced as French resident-general in Morocco this week, today was named French ambassador to Canada.

Lacoste will replace Hubert Guerin in Ottawa.

HOW to get a Friendly Loan at NIAGARA FINANCE

Drop in to see your friendly Niagara Loan advisor. He'll make it easy for you to get the Friendly Loan that suits you best. Here are important facts for you about Niagara Loans.

Who can get a Niagara Friendly Loan?—Anyone with a reputation for honesty and the ability to repay.

How much can be borrowed from Niagara?—Up to $1500; sometimes, more.

Russia and Western Powers Agree UN 10th Anniversary Session Proved Worthwhile

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Russia and the Western powers were agreed today that the United Nations 10th anniversary session had been well worthwhile.

The anniversary session ended Sunday with a declaration by its president, Dr. Eelco van Kelffens of The Netherlands, reaffirming the determination of the 60 nations "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war."

The declaration also pledged the UN to press forward with disarmament efforts.

HAD ROUGH MOMENTS

The session had a few rough moments, when the president wielded the gavel and cautioned restraint, but behind-the-scenes relations between Russia and the western powers were unusually cordial.

In addition to a four-hour meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers, there were private talks between Molotov and each of the big three Western foreign ministers.

These talks resulted in complete agreement on the procedural arrangements for the Geneva meeting of the Big Four chiefs of government July 18. The UN disclosed Sunday that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had received a joint request from the four asking permission to use the Palais des Nations, the UN's European headquarters, for the meeting.

WILL TAKE CHARGE

Hammarskjold, who will be in Geneva at the time, will take personal charge of the arrangements.

On the basis of the speeches and private talks held here, a high Western diplomat made the following observations about the Geneva talks:

1. The Western powers are in full agreement on policies and have fully informed other friendly countries.

2. The Soviet government is sure to bring up the question of China, which includes both the Formosa problem and Chinese representation in the UN.

3. The West will try to limit the Geneva meeting to procedure for tackling individual problems, rather than seek solutions.

4. As far as the West is concerned, the first issue is disarmament. The Western position, however, still is under study.

5. The question of German unification and European security probably will be taken up together. There may be a decision at Geneva to set up a working group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the new Communist security organization to see if anything can be done to reassure Russia on German unification.

Antono Segni Asked to Form Italian Govt.

ROME (AP)—Antonio Segni, 64-year-old farmer, scholar and left-of-centre Christian Democrat, has until Thursday to accept or reject an invitation to try to become Italy's seventh postwar premier.

He was asked Sunday night by President Giovanni Gronchi to see if he could line up a new government. Segni will talk with political leaders and explore possibilities for a new cabinet before being formally charged by Gronchi with formation of a government.

As he left the president Sunday night, Segni said he hoped democratic parties would support him, indicating that, like Scelba, he would seek a coalition of the centre parties—Social Democrats, Liberals and possibly Republicans—to give the Christian Democrats the marginal support they need in Parliament.

The Social Democrats, Liberals and Republicans already have indicated approval of Segni as premier. They like him because of the land redistribution program he launched and administered while minister of agriculture from 1946 to 1951.

HUNT KILLER

CHICAGO (AP) — A coroner's jury ruled Friday that a visiting Roman Catholic priest from India was slain by an unknown assailant and directed police to hunt down the killer. Rev. John Chiramal, 42, was slain June 2. Before succumbing to knife or razor wounds he told police he had been robbed. Father Chiramal was in the United States soliciting financial support for a boys town project in Travancore-Cochin.

Drama Festival At Stratford Ready to Open

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD (CP)—Tonight the great bell in the tent theatre will toll and this southwestern Ontario city which for 10 months of the year is concerned with more mundane things will come to life in the brilliant spotlight of an internationally famed theatrical event.

When the trumpets sound for the opening of the third annual Shakespearian festival and the first-night audience makes its way down the steeply slanted aisles, "Julius Caesar," one of the great tragedies of the stage, will be unfolded.

Lorne Greene of Toronto, who has leaped to prominence in the last two years as a result of Hollywood films and a number of television and Broadway performances, has a leading role as Brutus. He will be supported by Lloyd Boehner as Cassius; Robert Christie, Julius Caesar; Donald David, Mark Anthony; Douglas Campbell, Casca, and a cast of 60.

OTHER PLAYS

On Tuesday night the second of the three festival productions, "Oedipus Rex," will open. The third play, "The Merchant of Venice," opens Wednesday night. The festival continues to Aug. 27.

Michael Langham from the London stage and Stratford Memorial Theatre directs "Julius Caesar." Tyrone Guthrie, associated with the festival since its inception in 1953, directs the other two. Dr. Guthrie is also artistic director of the festival.

Tom Patterson, director of planning and the festival founder, said he hopes the festival will grow to embrace more of the arts. This season part of this greater picture is being realized with a musical festival running from July 9 to Aug. 6. Canadian artists will appear as well as such international performers as Elizabeth Schwarzkopf and Isaac Stern.

MUSIC AND COSTUMES

Costumes and decor for all three productions are by Tanya Moiseiwitsch. Musical director is Louis Applebaum of Ottawa.

A theatrical exhibition has been arranged in the Stratford Arena. It includes costumes from previous festivals, photographs of productions from the U. S., Denmark, England, Russia, Yugoslavia and other countries. A display of Canadian painting also is included from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Band of Toronto. The paintings were hung by the National Gallery.

The opening festivities are to be covered by a large contingent of newspapers from Canada and the U. S. and by 20 radio and TV representatives. Through the facilities of the CBC the opening is being fed to a three-country TV hook-up by the NBC as part of the program "Wide, Wide World."

Rode Single Water Ski 200 Miles

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A 22-year-old girl rode a single water ski 200 miles from Miami to here Sunday and collapsed exhausted in the surf at the end of the trip.

Delores Kipple, after performing the stunt just to see if it could be done, gasped, "I'm so glad to see Nassau."

She rode on a regulation water ski that had been equipped with two foot sockets.

Survey of Car Dealers Shows Toronto Place to Buy Car

TORONTO (CP)—Looking for a car? Toronto is the place to buy it, a survey of car dealers today shows.

Prices average $200 less than those asked by dealers outside a 100-mile radius of the city. This applies to new as well as used cars.

The want-ad pages of Toronto newspapers tell the story of the scramble for customers. Dealers offer practically everything but gold plating to lure customers to the lots.

"Av, come on, live a little," one dealer pleaded in an advertisement. Others use such expressions as "Sacrifice," "Steal," "Give-away" and "Bang, bang, bang go the prices."

Dealers try to make it as painless as possible for the customer. On a trade-in deal they offered a deferred-finance payment plan of $2.50 a week for the first year and regular payments after that.

When other dealers jumped on the band wagon, this was dropped to $1 a week. "Give up smoking and drive a new car," one dealer advertised.

One dealer held a holiday sale May 24 week-end, offering from $400 to $500 worth of accessories with each car. He sold more than 300.

Another held a three-day marathon sale, staying open all night. He had customers at 4 a.m.

Advertising men say volume is the theory. Cut overhead and profit to the bone and "Move 'em out," they say.

Car manufacturers have to go along with the frantic scramble even though they don't like it, dealers say.

DEALERS SQUEEZED

One advertising executive said the manufacturers are even financing, in part, some of the "New-car price-barrier broken" ads appearing daily in the newspapers.

Dealers are in the middle. They complain customers run from one lot to another, trying to make them underbid.

The cause, they say, is that factories delivered new cars in droves with orders to "sell 'em." But the public wasn't buying as fast as the factories were turning them out and the dealers became overstocked

SEATS IN AND OUT

By spring the price line started to break and then the whole thing blew up.

One dealer said he has spent $60,000 since March advertising new cars "less than the suggested list price."

Lately dealers have tried stripping the cars of all accessories—even the back seat in some cases—and knocking the price away down. Others matched the prices, leaving the back seat in.

Most lots stay open until near midnight. Sometimes, by 10 p.m., if the day's quota hasn't been met,

If no one party comes out of Wednesday's election with a majority the three opposition parties—Liberal, PC and CCF—are said to have an unwritten agreement to co-operate to defeat a Social Credit minority government.

Mr. Prowse said in an interview that if the Liberals get enough candidates elected to form a minority administration it is understood they will get PC-CCF support on legislation of non-controversial nature.

The Liberals promise, if elected, to set up a royal commission to investigate Social Credit government dealings on which opposition parties have based their election campaign.

Premier E. C. Manning is going to the people on his government's record. He said Alberta is head and shoulders above other provinces because voters elected a Social Credit government for the last 20 years.

He criticized opposition parties for using "gutter politics" and said Mr. Prowse's questions about government financial dealings were "political muckery."

South Korea Has Fourth Largest Army in World

By MURRAY FROMSON

SEOUL (AP)—The thin line of South Korea's constabulary was shattered when war exploded on this unhappy Asian peninsula five years ago Saturday.

Soldiers with rifles, light artillery and obsolete anti-tank guns were sent to fight North Koreans armed with heavy tanks and artillery supplied by Russia. Only allied help saved South Korea.

Today—five years later—South Korea once more carried the main burden of its defence. Most of the United Nations contingents man ning the front at the time of the armistice are gone.

There is no poorly trained constabulary now. There is a South Korean army of 20 divisions. Ten reserve divisions are in the organizing stage.

South Korea now has the world's fourth largest army—behind only those of the United States, Russia and Red China. U. S. advisers call South Korea's army the best in Asia.

It is estimated at between 500,000 and 600,000 men. Still to come are some naval craft and 75 Sabre jets for the South Korean air force.

These are results of minimum demands set down by President Syngman Rhee to protect South Korea from another attack from the north.

South Korea's army chief of staff, Gen. Chung il Kwon, is seeking increased U. S. military aid. He says Communist North Korea has 400,000 of its own troops in addition to Chinese Red Forces and "will attack us again at any time they choose."

To bolster the South Korean army, which now holds almost the entire 155-mile frontline, the depleted Eighth Army maintains two under-strength infantry divisions in the field.

Whether the unstable Korean economy, which must support 20,000,000 people, can maintain its new army over the long haul is something of major concern to UN officials.

Nearly $1,500,000,000 has been channelled to South Korea since the armistice to help rebuild its war-shattered homes and industry. During the Korean War, more than 2,500,000 persons were either killed or wounded.

Dark, dreary days depress canaries, too. They just don't feel like singing. But now—good news for canary coloraturas! If they'll arrange to have the bottom of their cages lined with aluminum, they'll sing through the darkest day. The light reflected from the sparkling metal foil gives their souls that springtime lift.

People find endless household uses for aluminum foil. So does industry—for everything from fire-fighting clothing to photoflash bulbs, to wrapping for candy and food. Canada used 8 million pounds of foil last year.

Rawdon

PRESENTATION TO MRS. HARRY PHILP

RAWDON — On Thursday afternoon the members of Wellman's Women's Institute gathered at the home of Mrs. Harry Philp, Stirling, on the occasion of her recent marriage. All enjoyed a round of community singing and a social chat.

Miss Emma Rainie read an address of appreciation to Ivah (who is a former president of Wellman's W.I. in by-gone days) and she was presented with a hammered aluminum tray. The recipient graciously voiced thanks for the lovely gift. The Institute ladies served refreshments, and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The heavy hail storm that passed over Rawdon township on Tuesday damaged the apple orchards of Messrs Frederick Beckett, Charles Morton and Burton, Morton, Carl Clancy, Alton Hadley and Gordon Bailey. Another hail storm on Wednesday afternoon caused more damage to the crops and gardens.

Rawdon friends have received word that Dr. Earle F. W. Baker, Toronto, received his diploma of psychiatry at Toronto University last week. He is a son of the Rev. A. E. and Mrs. Baker, of Smooth Rock Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. William Snarr, Hoard's, visited his sister, Mrs. Hugh Morton, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Locke, of Toronto, visited several Rawdon relatives and friends last week.

MARMORA

Departing Teacher Presented With Gifts

MARMORA — On Monday evening pupils of the senior room of Marmora Separate School congregated in the Sacred Heart parish hall, tastefully decorated for the occasion, to hold a farewell party for their teacher, Miss Verna Black, who is leaving the school at the end of the term.

On entering the hall the teacher was greeted with "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," and at the same time presented her with a corsage of pink roses, by Dianne Belanger.

For the program, which ensued, Carl Clemens acted as master of ceremonies.

Denise Dauplaise, on behalf of the pupils, expressed regret on Miss Black's resignation as their teacher and their gratitude for the example she had set them and her kindly spirit of co-operation.

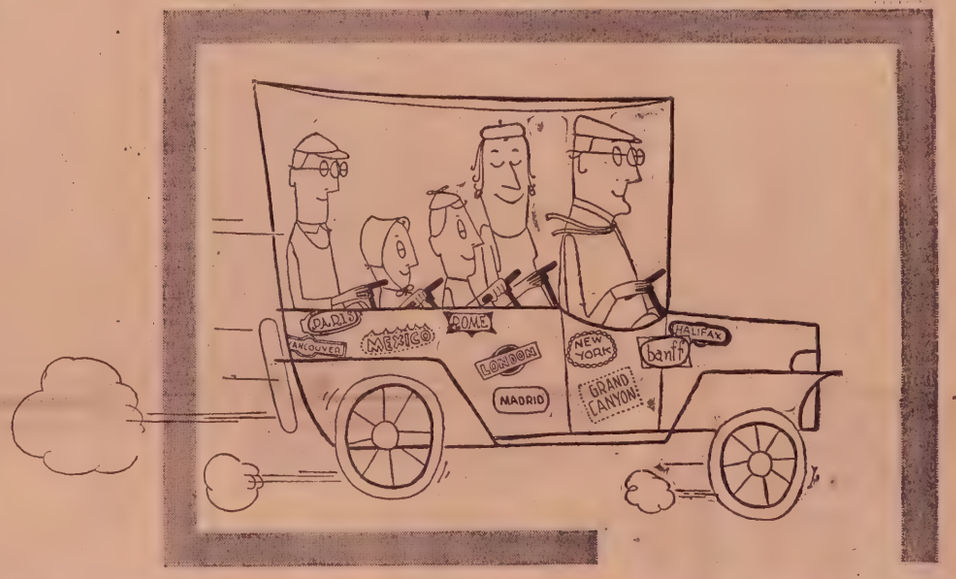
Theresa Clairmont and Jane McCarthy sang "Our Lady of Fatima." This was followed by a "Military Tap" by Carol McCrodan and Mary Lou Brady with Mrs. Hugh Brady being accompanist for both numbers.

A sing-song was held as the stage was being prepared for a short play entitled "The Best Kind of Holiday." Those taking part were: Billy Phillips, Joan Bertrand, Brian Uniacke, Danny Shannon, Michael Auger and Bernadette Warren.

A mixed chorus sang "Davy Crockett." The Highland Fling was interpreted by Mary Nicholson and Rose Anne Mechan. Carl Clemens followed with the poem, "Our Teacher," after which Freda Reynolds gave a stop dance. Rose Anne Mechan, who had written "An Ode to Our Teacher," then recited it.

Next came the presentation of an electric alarm clock by Bernadette Warren for which Miss Black tendered sincerest thanks.

Also present as guests were: Mrs. E. P. McNamara, Mrs. H. Brady, Miss Celoss and Mrs. J. Black.



MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eaton have moved into the apartment at the residence of Mrs. J. Auckland, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lavender.

Mrs. Joseph Scott and Mrs. G. McFarlane visited Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wood and family in St. Catharines last week, also Miss Linda Wood in Niagara Sanitorium, finding the latter much improved.

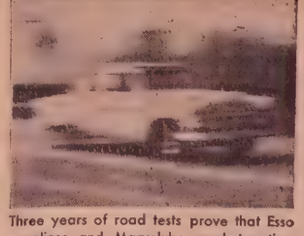
Mrs. Elymer McFarlane visited her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Campell in Campbellford last week.

The noted annual strawberry supper held in the church shed of Zion United Church, North Marmora, on Friday evening, drew an attendance of about 200. Notwithstanding this, the menu was not only well maintained, but the service by the ladies of the Women's Association was of a fine standard and the fraternizing of old friends from different sections of the Madoc and Marmora district was a real feature of the event.

NEW RESEARCH DISCOVERY BY IMPERIAL OIL MEANS EXTRA MILEAGE FOR CANADIAN DRIVERS

Improved Esso gasolines and new Marvelube motor oil used together give these results:

1. MORE MILEAGE
2. IMPROVED GETAWAY
3. LESS ENGINE DEPOSITS



HERE'S PROOF FROM IMPERIAL OIL'S RESEARCH LABORATORIES

Laboratory tests show that improved Esso gasolines burn cleaner—leaving less engine deposits that rob cars of power.

This research also revealed that when new Marvelube is used with Esso gasolines there is an even greater reduction in deposits.

Three years of road tests prove that Esso gasolines and Marvelube used together result in faster getaway and more mileage.

Drive in today—prove to yourself the better performance you can get.

This Is News? Intell Whips Whig-Standard

Plating eight runs in the last two innings, The Ontario Intelligencer softball laddies came from behind on the CNRAA diamond on Saturday evening to capture a 13-11 decision from their friendly fourth-estate rivals, the Kingston Whig-Standard.

Both teams bobbled the ball considerably more than seasoned veterans during the early stages of the game but as the play progressed the butter-fingers disappeared and several fine fielding plays brought cheers from the small gathering of spectators.

The home forces took a short-lived 3-0 lead in the initial frame but the Roddenville crew rallied for six markers in the second and held their lead until the bottom of the fifth. They tallied once in each of the third, fifth and sixth frames while Alexander's boys sent one home in the second, another in the fourth, five in the fifth and finished strong with three in the sixth.

Art Culloden, the Intell's gift to softball, sweated the route on the hill to take the win. He surrendered nine safe blows and but for a few wild streaks, hurled a fine game, fanning four.

TOILED THE DISTANCE

Playing coach and manager, Don Boswell, toiled the distance in a losing effort, allowing the local nine 12 hits, including four home runs. His mates booted the ball five times to add to his woes. Don walked a goodly number, including his rival coach three times.

The hitters for the victors were Bob McCann and Art Culloden, with a homer and double each, while Whip McCann slammed a two-run homer and a single. Don Woods crashed a three-run circuit blow in the big fifth frame. Don Weeks had a double and single, Robinson and Munns had doubles, while Thompson singled. Boswell led his club with the wood, claiming two safe blows, while nearly everyone picked up one hit.

The line-up:

Whig-Standard — Bell, Hewson, Martin, Cole, Coleman, McCormick, O'Donahue, Mason, Boswell.

Intelligencer — D. Woods, H. Skelly, L. Thompson, W. McCann, A. Culloden, B. McCann, F. Soule, D. Weeks, G. Alexander, B. O'Brien, P. Munns, Robinson.

In today's little lesson first notice the arrow pointing to the left knee. At the point pictured in the back swing the left knee breaks in toward the right permitting you to "gather" your hip and shoulder pivot without body sway. Meantime as your left toe keeps a firm grip on the ground, your left heel rises to keep your knees level. Then you'll not suffer from left side sag. After you start your backswing just keep those hands moving up and lease it to the hip pivot and, particularly, the shoulder pivot to furnish the back-and-around action. If you try to add to the around movement by just pushing your hands back and around you'll wind up with your hands stopping over your right arm, in a flat swing, instead of having your hands up between your right shoulder and your ear, in an upright swing.

"Fuca" Beats Logger Again

VICTORIA (CP) — Logger Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., still tired from his third attempt to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca Thursday, gave up his fourth try at 3 p.m. PDT Sunday after swimming only six miles from here. He said he'll try again.

Thomas, the second man to try to swim between here and Port Angeles, Wash., in 24 hours, reluctantly gave up after it was decided he was not making enough progress.

Minor Baseball

The Parkdale pee wees, playing on their new diamond erected by the Parkdale Veterans Association, clobbered the Orfuns 41-5 on Saturday in one game of three in the other games played, the T.P.T club downed the Tigers 7-6 while Deacon Quakers blanked Goldie Shellers 6-0.

B. Stratton went the route for Parkdale, allowing only five hits while fanning nine and walking 10. D. Rose caught. B. Simpson and B. Roberts shared mound duties for the losers, giving up 26 hits while their mates kicked the ball around on 20 occasions.

D. Rose had five hits for the victors and J. Oliver had four as did B. Michaud. Devereaux hit a triple and single in defeat while B. Simpson tripled.

The T.P.T.'s gathered their narrow victory by scoring six runs in the fourth and fifth frames and one in the sixth while Hookling's Tigers plated one run in nearly every frame.

Jim Muir hurled the win, allowing 12 hits and whiffing seven while Jim Stansfield did the receiving. Ted Hook took the loss in five innings pitched while fanning six. Nolan completed the game with Ross Tracey catching.

Stansfield, Ward and Muirhead spearheaded the winner's attack with three hits each. Terry McCabe had four hits in defeat while Nolan claimed two.

Deacon's took their game on the strength of Terry Thompson's 3-hit hurling Thompson got 11 on strikes and walked only one. He was rivalled by Lewis, also throwing good ball. Lewis gave up eight hits in the seven-inning affair. Larry Rowbotham caught for the losers and Peter Weston for the victors.

Thompson, Maverty and Rathwell each claimed two hits for the Deacon boys while Lewis had a pair for Goldies.

Win Prizes At Mixed Golf

Fifty-two entries in the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club's bi-monthly mixed two-ball foursomes toured the course Sunday afternoon under ideal golfing conditions.

Mrs. G. F. Wonnacott and R. Ketcheson won low gross honors with a 46. Second low gross went to Miss M. Wickerson and H. Walsh with a 49.

Low net honors went to Mrs. C. T. Dolan and F. Fisher, with a 22 and Mrs. F. Carscallen and J. Walker with a 24.

"Honest Golfers" score was hung up by Mrs. H. Mott and P. O'Riordon.

Dinner was served in the clubhouse following the matches.

Kingston Giants Score 11-5 Win Over Belleville

Al Kelleher's Belleville Haggis Juniors accepted their second defeat of the week from the Kingston Giants on Saturday evening when they dropped a 11-5 decision to the Giants in the Limestone City.

The winners built up a 4-1 lead early and the Juniors had just crept to within one run, 6-5, in the top of the sixth, when the Giants exploded for five tallies to ensure the victory in their half of the frame.

Hagemeister, one of the top hurlers in the Kingston Baseball League, then came on to relieve Roy and promptly retired the next six batters to hold the margin of victory to six runs. The game was called at the top of the 8th because of darkness.

Stan Reid started for Belleville and lasted until the fifth, touched for six runs. Claude Carr completed the game with Cameron Buskard catching. Roy hurled the first six frames to take the victory for Kingston, giving up eight hits while Caron did the receiving.

There's no mistaking this beauty!

Out of the medley of modern motor cars, one car stands out.

Whether you see it a quarter of a mile down the highway—or watch it flashing past in the line of traffic—there is absolutely no mistaking the beautiful new Pontiac.

Coming, passing or going, it's the one car that carries the great stamp of individuality.

And this wonderful difference in favor of Pontiac goes far beyond appearance.

There's the same superiority in performance.

Put the Strato-Streak V8, the Strato-Flash V8 or the Big "6" through their paces on the getaway just once—and you'll see that you never need do that again! Here's spirit to lift anybody's spirits!

Out on the road, there's solid horsepower always in reserve for the needed flash or the quick pass.

Steering is so easy and steady that you almost drive with your mind. The ride is as level as a level itself.

The whole movement of the car is so smooth and easy that people taking the wheel for the first time have difficulty believing the speedometer.

This is a great car. It's new, as you know, from the ground up—the only wholly new car in Canada. And naturally, this gives it a big advantage over all other cars from every conceivable standpoint.

Why don't you get a Pontiac? You might as well have the newest and finest—because there's a model to fit every need and every budget. Some are priced right down with the lowest.

Come in today . . . drive a Pontiac away! Once you take the wheel—and get our deal—it's an irresistible combination!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

IT HELPS!

Kingston may have whomped Belleville in Senior "B" hockey, but thanks to the inkmen of the Ontario Intelligencer the Old Lady of the Moira stands one up over the Limestone City in the realm of softball.

For, Saturday evening, diamond crews of the Whig Standard and the O. I. met in softball combat and the O. I's emerged on the long end of a 13-11 score.

You would not, by any stretch of the imagination, have mistaken the squads for the New York Yankees or the Brooklyn Dodgers. They wore nondescript uniforms, jeans and shorts or lettered sweaters being the most popular apparel.

But there was a fine spirit of rivalry that was shaded only by good sportsmanship. The Whiggers proved themselves gentlemen and fine sports both on and off the diamond. It was an evening of good sport and better fun, which made for an even better mutual feeling between teams representing their respective newspapers and cities.

It was not softball at its best, but who cared? The squads were evenly matched as the score indicates, and the tide of victory could have been turned either way. As it was, five Intelligencer runs in the fifth settled the issue but the Whiggers almost pulled it out of the fire with a pair in the top of the final frame.

Art Culloden, the O. I's Whitey Ford, went all the way, and although he tried to break off a couple of tree tops, he was good in the clutches, especially in the last inning.

Bobby (Home Run) McCann was the hitting hero for the winners and blasted a four-bagger that squared matters when the Whiggers were out front.

Oh, well, 'twas good, clean fun and a wide-open game. As was said before it cemented closer the good relations that exist between the staffs of the two newspapers.

"THRILLER"

For the most entertaining story from the world of sports in years be sure to read Babe Didrikson Zaharias' own story which is running in The Saturday Evening Post right now.

Maybe you've always thought of the Babe as strictly a "muscle moll" but believe me, even if she wasn't a great athlete, her life story is so full of human interest that you'll just have to admire her anyway.

When the Babe started her career she was only an 18-year-old girl from the country. She had never been anywhere. In 1932 she entered the Olympic tryouts as one-girl track team for the company she was working for in Dallas. All the other teams which were competing had fifteen or more girls. They announced each team over the loud speaker.

Babe says: "It came time to announce my team. I spurted out there all alone, waving my arms, and you never heard such a roar. It brought out goose bumps all over me. I can feel them now, just thinking about it."

That was the beginning. And the Babe went on to become the greatest woman golfer at all time. Then came that sad day in 1953 when she learned she had cancer. And just as she has licked everything in the past . . . she beat the cancer and came back to stay a champion.

HODGE PODGE

Point Anne and the Orfuns will battle it out Thursday night at the CNRAA Recreation Park instead of July 1 at the Point as scheduled. The Canada Cement Company is staging its annual colorful sports day on Friday, Dominion Day, and naturally the field will not be available that night . . . Pat Maracle who tossed a no-hitter his last time out will go to the mound for the Ox Pointers while Bobby Green, undefeated in four starts, will oppose him. Pat has a 4-1 record. The Orfuns are sitting pretty on top of the heap with an unblemish record, while the Pointers boast a 5-3 mark. Then, too, will be the current fight going on between Gerry Goyer and John Batchelor for the league batting leadership. Should be quite a tussle . . . Tomorrow night the Orfuns tackle Frankford on the latter's diamond while the Bobcats are also out of town playing at Madoc . . . . Al Kelleher's Haggis Juniors ran into a couple of snags over the week-end, dropping an 11-5 decision to the Kingston Giants in an exhibition game in Kingston Saturday and losing to Marmora 7-0 on Sunday . . . Incidentally, two Kingston junior baseball squads want exhibition games with the Haggismen. Get in touch with this department, "Allen."

Driver Killed in Speedboat Race; Gale IV Wins Detroit Memorial

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Cantrell drove his Gale IV to victory Saturday in the unlimited class of the Detroit Memorial speedboat regatta as five boats crashed in the blinding spray of the first heat and a driver in a smaller class was killed in a second collision.

The fatality was the first in the history of speedboating on the Detroit river. Lloyd Maddock, 51, of Pontiac, Mich., died almost immediately after a crash of Holiday, which he was driving, and Little Audrey, driven by Harry Vogel of Dearborn, Mich., in the 135-cubic-inch class. Vogel was injured seriously.

Cantrell swept to victory in the first 15-mile heat in an average time of 93.729 miles per hour and also copped the second heat with a 92.028 m.p.h. average. He finished third to a sister boat, Gale V, owned by Joe Schoenith of Detroit.

Gale IV ran up a point total of 1,025 points to 925 for Gale V, the second place finisher. Back of the leaders came George Simon's Miss U.S. with 825 points followed by Such Crust III with 565, Tempo VII, 391 and Wha Hoppen Too with 283 points.

Two drivers were injured slightly in the first heat crash. Miss Cadillac, My Sweetie, Short Circuit and Canada's Miss Supertest were forced out of the race. Tempo VII, Guy Lombardo's new boat, also was involved but not damaged.

Going into the first turn of the opening 15-mile heat, five of the 10 starters were bunched together. Miss Cadillac skidded into Miss Supertest in the resulting melee, My Sweetie was sandwiched in between. All three came into the pits. My Sweetie in a sinking condition. the third heat. Virdon, Arroyo Spark Club To Twin Wins Over Giants; Bombers Three Up In American

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If St. Louis outfielder Bill Virdon doesn't win the National League rookie-of-the-year award, his teammate, pitcher Luis Arroyo will. Anyway, it's almost a cinch to be in the Cardinal family.

Virdon was the whole show Sunday as the Cardinals swept a double-header for the first time this year, walloping the New York Giant's 9-2 and 7-2. The bespectacled center-fielder batted in six runs with a single, two doubles, a triple and a home run to boost his average to .324.

Saturday night, Arroyo whipped the Giants for his ninth victory against two losses (both by one-run margins). The Puerto Rican southpaw leads all National League hurlers with a brilliant 2.1 earned run average.

The sudden collapse of Chicago's Bob Speake and the poor play of Ken Boyer (another Cardinal) strengthens the claim of Virdon and Arroyo. Speake, an early season sensation, has slumped to .254 and Boyer is hitting .240.

HOWARD STARS

A couple of American League rookies—New York's Elston Howard and Cleveland's Herb Score boosted their stock as the Yankees increased their first place lead to three games with a split against the Indians.

Howard singled and scored the insurance run as the Yankees shut out the Indians 2-0 behind Whitey Ford's four-bitter in the night cap. Early Wynn furnished the Indians with their only victory of the four-game set with a three-bit 5-0 performance in the opener.

Score worked five relief innings in the nightcap and pitched brilliantly. He permitted only one hit, walked two and struck out nine in five innings to boost his strikeout lead to 120.

The Yankees picked up a full game on the runner-up Chicago White Sox, who saw their five-game winning streak go up in smoke when they lost two games to Boston 5-2 and 8-2. The third-place Indians remained six games behind New York.

ORIOLES LOSE TWO

Kansas City handed Baltimore its sixth and seventh straight defeats with 1-0 and 5-2 triumphs. Washington snapped its nine-game losing streak with a smashing 12-4 victory over Detroit after the Tigers had come from behind to win the opener 6-4 in 10 innings.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' huge first-place lead in the National League was cut slightly when Milwaukee shut them out 4-0 behind Bob Buhl's five-hitter. The runner-up Chicago Cubs advanced to within 12½ games of the Brooks, splitting their doubleheader with Pittsburgh. The Pirates won the opener 5-4 but the Cubs bounced back with a 2-1 victory to retain a half-game lead over the third-place Braves.

Cincinnati climbed to within one percentage point of the fourth-place Giants, knocking off the Philadelphia Phillies twice 16-5 and 5-0. The Reds shelled Robin Roberts off the mound.

MUSIAL HOMERS

The Cardinals moved past the Phillies into sixth place as Harvey Haddix turned in his fifth success and rookie Larry Jackson his third. Stan Musial chipped in with his 14th home run before 29,127, the largest crowd of the year in St. Louis.

Eddie Mathews made it easy for Buhl to register his fifth triumph, smashing his 17th homer of the season with two mates aboard in the eighth.

Vern Law pitched and batted the Pirates to victory with a home run and single that drove in three runs. Clyde McCullough singled in both Chicago runs in the second game.

Wynn, sidelined the first three weeks of the season because of sickness, notched his 10th triumph against two losses before New York's largest crowd of the season —66,511. Ralph Kiner's 10th homer of the season and his first at Yankee Stadium, was all Wynn needed. Kiner now has 361 homers, which ties him with Joe Dimaggio for sixth place among the all-time home run leaders.

The Red Sox advanced to within a game of the fourth-place Tigers with their two triumphs over Chicago. Willard Nixon won his own game in the opener with a bases-loaded double in the eighth that broke up a 2-2 deadlock. Jackie Jensen took charge in the second game, driving in three runs with his 15th homer and two singles.

After Ferris Fain's pinch single drove in the tying run in the ninth, Detroit sewed up the game in the 10th on Al Kaline's walk and hits by Jack Phillips and Ray Boone. Washington smashed eight extra-base hits in the nightcap, including a pair of two-run triples by Roy Sivera.

Track Records Go By Board At Quebec Meet

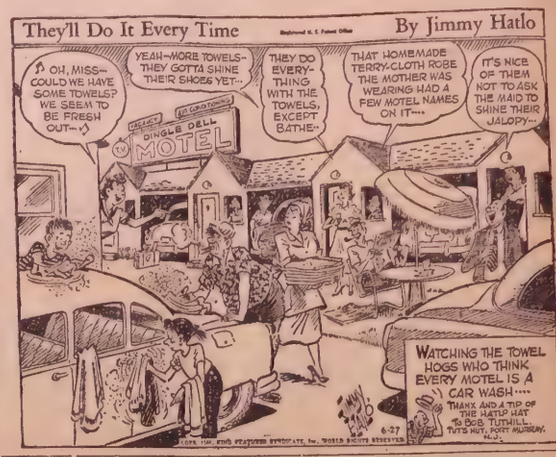
By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—Two newcomers to Canada took part in a general assault on records in St. Lambert's weekend show of Canadian and eastern Canadian track and field championships.

Hans Moks, Estonian native competing for Toronto East York Club, and French-born Roland Michaut, aligned now with Les Francs Amis Club of Montreal, had a share in the record-slicing that saw 22 marks—from Quebec provincial native to Canadian open—lowered in the two-day meet.

Canadian natives reaped the biggest harvest of records and four girl athletes, without molesting a single record, scored triple victories.

Moks competed in only the Canadian open javelin throw and was a conceded winner before he tossed the spear. His mark of 235 feet, 10½ inches was almost 10 feet better than the old Canadian open record of 225 feet, 11¾ inches.



WAS DOUBLE WINNER

Michaut was a double winner. He took the six-mile run Friday night in a breeze and the three-mile run Saturday with a minimum of exertion and a great, crowd-pleasing sprint at the finish. His time of 31:07.9 for the six miles wiped out the provincial record of 33:36.4 and was also better than the provincial native record but didn't count in that class.

On the basis of first-place finishes in the 80 championship events, the Toronto East York Club finished on top with 18 firsts, half of them in the men's open class. St. Lambert and Toronto Olympic youngsters counted 15 firsts each, scoring heavily in the age-class groups ranging through midget, juvenile and junior.

Jackie MacDonald, Toronto East York's blonde specialist in field events, headed a quartet of girls scoring triples. Jackie split her track shorts down the side while warming up for the shot put but won the shot put open title and, after a new pair of shorts were hurriedly bought, won the women's open classes in the javelin and discus throws.

Joan Wood of the Montreal Olympic Club scored a triple in the women's open 100-and 220-yard sprints and the broad jump. Gwen Hobbins of Toronto Olympic, in the juvenile class, and Garol Myers, in the midget division, were the other triple winners.

CRICKETER CHIPS BONE

LONDON (CP) — South African Test cricket captain Jack Cheetham has chipped a bone in his left elbow, doctors reported Sunday. He is unlikely to continue his innings when play against England resumes at Lords ground today.

Cheetham was struck by the final ball in Saturday's play. He dropped his bat and walked to the pavilion holding his arm. His injury is a severe blow to South Africa's chances of winning the test. At close of play Saturday the South Africans needed 166 runs to win with eight second-innings wickets in hand.

Juls Huot, Links Veteran, Wins Ontario Open Crown; Magee Takes Amateur Honors

KINGSTON (CP)—The old-time pros still appear to have the edge in class among Canada's money-playing golfers.

Take Jules Huot, for instance. The 47-year-old veteran, in the game before some of his opponents were born, won the Ontario open golf crown Saturday with a 54-hole total of 210, even par for the distance.

Huot, who plays a powerful game from the tee, turned in rounds of 69 and 70 over the tough 6,258-yard Cataraqui Golf and Country Club in the 36-hole windup Saturday to beat another old - timer, Gordie Brydson of Toronto Mississaugua, by one stroke. Brydson fired a 68 in the final 18 to take second spot.

A pre-tournament outside, Huot played a steady but unsensational game all the way. The pressure was on as he headed into the last four holes.

HE DID IT

"After I birdied the 13th I heard someone say I could win if I birdied one more hole," Huot said. "So that's what I did."

Jules picked up his birdie on the par-five 16th and went out with a couple of pars on the last two holes.

"Putting was the strong part of my game," he said. "I don't think I ever putted better."

Huot is from Laval-Sur-le-Lac, Que.

The first-day leaders, veteran Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro and Murray Tucker of Toronto Rosedale, dropped into a third-place tie with young Gerry Kesselring of Toronto Downsview. They had 213s Huot's victory gave him $500 in prize money. Brydson, who was tied for second place in the Canadian Open last year, won $300. Gray, Tucker and Kesselring each pocketed $125.

SET FAST PACE

Tucker and Gray set a fast pace Friday as they each carded two-under-par 68s.

Tucker, who won the Open in 1950, pressed his advantage in Saturday's first 18-hole round by registering a 69 but eight over-pars in his final round finished him.

Gray lost his advantage Saturday by carding a 75 in the second round but came back strongly with a par - 70 to finish with 213. On his last hole, Gray missed a two-foot putt which could have given him clear title to third place.

Kesselring, the pre-match favorite, scored a 70-21-71 for his 213 total.

PUTTING TROUBLE

Kesselring, who won the Open twice as an amateur, ran into putting trouble on his first nine-hole round. He three - putted three greens and ended up with a nine-hole score of 37. On his final 18-hole round he went over par-on the fourth hole and never got back under regulation figures.

Behind Gray, Tucker and Kesselring, was defending champion Rudy Horvath of Windsor, who carded a 75 on the first round. He shot a 69 and a 70 on the final two rounds but it wasn't good enough. He had a 214 total.

Jerry Magee, the hard-driving amateur from Toronto Lambton, carded a 215 to take honors as top amateur. His win clinched second place on the interprovincial Willingdon Cup team, five strokes behind Moe Norman of Kitchener Rockway.

QUALIFYING TOTALS

Norman finished with a 497 total in the 126 qualifying holes played in matches at Burlington, London Hunt and in the Open. Magee's 215 gave him a 504 total. Dave Morland of North Bay and Nick Weslock of Windsor are tied behind him with 510s.

Horvath, Al Balding of Toronto Credit Valley, Willie Lamb of Toronto; Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rockway; Bob Alston of Ottawa; Dick Borthwick of Hamilton Glendale; Jack Kay of St. Bruno, Que; Bill Thompson of Toronto Downsview; and B. Kozak of St. Catharines, each picked up $50.

Tony Trabert Three Matches Away From Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—This could be a golden week for globe-trotting Tony Trabert of Cincinnati. Just three matches against a handful of the world's premier tennis artists separate hime from the Wimbledon title.

Last year a cluster of blisters on his racket hand ended his chances. This year he's feeling fine, no blisters bother him and he's playing well enough to win it.

Trabert—who so far hasn't lost a set in the three matches he's played—often has said he wouldn't look down his nose at any professional offer.

If Trabert does win, he'll help keep alive a post-war Wimbledon tradition — each year since the tournament restarted in 1946 there has been a new name on the title cup.

Since the war three men won the Wimbledon, have gone on and turned pro. Yvon Petra of France, winner in 1946, did it. So did Jack Kramer of the United States the following year. Last to do it was Frank Sedgman, who won for Australia in 1952. Two winners—Bob Falkenberg and Ted Schroeder—didn't come back the next year to defend their titles.

Budge Patty, the Los Angeles artist who lives in Paris, Dick Savitt, Orange, N.J., and Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, all came back, but couldn't make the grade next time.

Patty and Drobny are trying again this year and Trabert tangles with Drobny in the quarter-finals today.

On Saturday Trabert added a deceptive drop shot to his power game in polishing off Narath Kumar of Indian 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. Lew Hoad, who with Ken Rosewall, looms as a possible Australian road block to Trabert's march to the title, was even more impressive Saturday. Hoad all but blasted Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., off the court in a 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 victory.

PULLS UPSET

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Clear Dawn, a field horse from the Darby Dan farms of John Galbreath, Columbus, Ohio, pulled off an upset at Delaware Park Saturday as she defeated 14 other fillies and mares in the $39,800 New Castle Stakes. The favorite, Cerise Reine, ended third behind Open Sesame. Clear Dawn, earning $30,600, paid $34.40, $10.40 and $4.80.

Red Sox Playing Inspired Baseball Behind Ted Williams' Greatest Effort

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The man from Boston says this is by far Ted Williams' greatest season since he came to the big leagues in 1939, no matter what his final batting average or how many runs he knocks in or how many home runs he hits.

"Ted finally is the complete ball player," he says, "not only mechanically but in the way his mind works. He finally is able to inspire his teammates to outdo themselves, the way DiMaggio used to do with the Yankees. You can safely say that everything the Red Sox have done in their present spurt they owe to Williams.

"I think that the family trouble he had this spring changed the big guy's whole outlook on life. He no longer is self-centred and he realizes that people appreciate help when they are in trouble. When he finally reported he found a lot of young fellows who needed the kind of help he could give them, and he hasn't spared himself. For the first time in his career he was in a position to take charge.

"You've got to look back and realize that when Ted first came to the Sox the club was loaded down with diamond heroes. The man in the second locker from him, I recall, was Jimmie Foxx. He didn't have much chance of taking charge of fellows like Foxx and Lefty Grove and Joe Cronin, did he? The last of the Gold Sox were leaving only about the time Ted went off to fly in Korea.

"Now he's got a lot of kids he can help, and I think for the first time he's really happy out there. He's easy to talk to. Of course, he still gets mad now and then, but that's to be expected of any good player.

"Take Billy Goodman. He's always been a better than .30 hitter, but he had been bogged down in an awful slump, somewhere around .220, until Ted got hold of him. He got Billy to grip the bat one way and another, and to swing this way and that, until he was satisfied he had everything just right. Then he told Billy "Now just hit hell out of it," and from that day until this Goodman has been hitting like a fool. Jackie Jensen has been a much better hitter just from having Ted to set him an example. The whole club is playing inspired ball."

Norris Starts Plans For Big Fight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Charlie Johnston, manager of light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, tentatively accepted terms Saturday for a heavyweight title fight with champion Rocky Marciano.

James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club who discussed plans with Johnston here Saturday, said:

"If the fight is made at the terms proposed — and we'll announce them later—Moore stands to make a quarter of a million dollars. It would be the biggest fight I ever promoted as far as both money and national interest are concerned."

Norris said he has already made an offer to Al Weill, Marciano's manager, and that he plans to talk to Weill again Thursday in New York.

TORONTO IS THIRD

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP)—Toronto Tennis Club Sunday defeated the host Tennis Club of Rochester 7-2 to gain third place in the Marsh Trophy tournament.

Sedgwick Farms Club of Syracuse, which beat Toronto 5-4 Saturday, Sunday nipped the Racquet Club of Buffalo 5-4 in the final.

May Meet US Track Team At Exhibition

BOULDER, Colo. (CP) — Canada's track and field team to the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia may meet the United States Olympic team during next year's Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, it was announced here Sunday.

George Duthie, manager of the CNE sports department, suggested the meet to president Lou Wilkie and secretary-treasurer Dan Ferris of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union. Duthie said the suggestion "met instant favor" with the U.S. officials.

The meet will be held, Duthie added, if the AAU of Canada approves the suggestion. Duthie said he would put the proposition to Morrie Bruker of Montreal, AAU president.

The Canadian and U.S. track teams will be chosen next summer and will leave for Australia in November. The Toronto meet would help keep the athletes keen and would give Canadians invaluable experience, Duthie said.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Russia defeated Sweden 6-0 in an international soccer game before 40,000 fans Sunday night.

Panthers Extend String to Four Over Terriers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was the same story again in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League over the weekend. Kitchener Panthers won another ball game.

Panthers defeated Galt Terriers 10-2 to stretch their winning streak to four games. In those games they have scored four times as many runs as their opponents—33 against eight—and have moved into third place in the standings.

In other games London won 1-0 over St. Thomas Elgins and Oshawa Merchants beat Brantford Red Sox 11-5.

Fort Erie Hortons and Stamford Kerrios fought to a 6-6 tie in a Niagara District Senior game called by darkness.

HIT AND HURLED TOO

The Panther star of the game was pitcher Preston Elkins. He went all the way giving up seven scattered hits and striking out six. He hit three singles in four trips to the plate which drove home one run.

Centerfielder Tex Kaiser walloped two triples for Kitchener and Dan Chipkauskas, leftfielder, added a pair of doubles.

Kitchener mauled three Terrier pitchers with a 16-hit barrage. Don Lewandowski, Galt starting hurler, was charged with the loss.

OBA Discusses Affiliate Rights

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Baseball Association Saturday took steps to clear up the controversial subject of territorial rights among its affiliates.

An executive meeting here ordered preparation of a map which will clearly define boundaries of the major groups in the OBA.

The meeting deferred final action on accepting affiliation from the newly formed Bruce County Association at Owen Sound.

The association also approved transfers of 29 players.

SWIMS CANAL

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A 29-year-old Rochester man completed a 38-mile swim in the state barge canal Sunday in preparation for a swim across Lake Ontario in August.

Wesley Struble, a father of three children, swam from Albion to Rochester through the barge canal in approximately 20 hours.

Struble plans to swim an estimated 50 miles from Wicked Point, Ont., to Rochester, in August.

Jets Rack Up 9-Game String;

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Colombus Jets shuffle into Buffalo tonight with a nine-game winning streak and a couple of problems.

After winning all their games for a full week, the Jets made a net gain of only two games in the standings, as the champion Toronto Maple Leafs moved at a .778 pace over the same period.

In addition to receiving no help from the rest of the league, Columbus suffered a jolt when Bill Stewart broke his left wrist attempting a shoe-string catch in the second game of Sunday's double-header against fading Havana. The Jets won both games, 8-2 and 6-3. Havana is now three and a half games off the pace and Columbus eight.

The absence of Stewart, who was slugging at a .326 clip with 12 homers and 35 runs batted in, will be felt unless Al Pinkston can make a successful comeback. Pinkston, Stewart's replacement, was the regular Columbus leftfielder until he sustained a fracture on a similar play about two months ago which sent him and his .321 batting average to the hospital. He singled in his only appearance Sunday.

Syracuse got out of the cellar with a double victory over Richmond 6-5 and 6-1 dropping the Virginians into the vacated spot, while the race for first place between Toronto and Montreal remained at a standstill as both clubs split.

Home runs abounded in Maple Leaf stadium as Buffalo's Chick King, Wayne Belardi and Paul Leply accounted for eight Bison runs with first-game circuit blasts.

SECOND IN FOUR

But Toronto pulled it out 11-10 on Loren Babe's ninth inning clout to give reliever Ray Shore his second triumph in four decisions.

Jim Bunning was treated to a 13-hit offensive by his Bison mates in the night cap, including a three-run homer by Mel Hoederlein, in gaining his sixth victory 12-3, against Jack Crimian.

Glenn Cox uncorked a two-hitter as Montreal swamped Rochester 12-1, after losing the opener 8-3. Gino Cimoli and Jim Williams hit home runs and combined to drive in five, while Red Wing Jim Cunningham batted in four mates in the opener to help Jack MacKinson go the route in winning his fourth against three defeats.

Lynn Lovenguth pitched one run relief ball and won his own game with a tie-breaking home run in the eighth inning of the first game at Syracuse and Jim Owers followed with a three-hitter in the afterpiece to move Syracuse two full games ahead of its Richmond opponents in the "race" for seventh place.

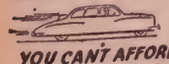
Ace Marine Wins Fourth



TORONTO (CP) — Ace Marine, winner of the $20,000-added Queen's Plate June 11, proved he is the finest three-year-old in Canada Saturday when, in a great display of determination, he won the $5,000-added Prince of Wales Stakes at Woodbine racetrack.

He stood off Senator Jim in a duel through the stretch and was running away from his rival as they sped under the wire.

It was Ace Marine's fourth consecutive win this year and the outstanding performance of his career. Docking was third.

De Soto the luxurious car that isn't a luxury

The 1955 De Soto is what the car experts call a "big package"—an amazing amount of automobile for the money!

This distinctive beauty is bigger overall than some of the costliest cars. No other Canadian automobile is roomier inside!

You can't beat De Soto for style, either! Its modern motion-design combines long, sweeping lines and low, curved contours to produce The Forward Look of movement, even when the car is standing still. Truly, here's a distinctive automobile that you can drive with pride in any company!

Look at its power and performance, too. Just this Spring, a 200-h.p. Fireflite V-8 set a new record in the famous "Flying Mile" competition at Daytona Beach, Florida. This production car, running under rigid supervision of the National Association of Stock Car Racing, was clocked at 112.295 m.p.h.

Yet despite its high style and high performance, the exciting new De Soto actually costs you less than many models of medium-sized cars! And its moderate price tag includes the convenience of PowerFlite automatic transmission.

Drive a De Soto before you decide . . . your dealer will gladly arrange a demonstration with you at the wheel. You'll find it as easy to own as it is thrilling to drive.

A styling and engineering achievement . . . manufactured by Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited

Meadowdale Wins Sidney Township Track Meet

Nearly 1,000 pupils from about 20 Sidney township district schools last week took part in the township's fifth annual track and field meet at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Winner of the meet's big prize—the annual plaque — was Meadowdale School which chalked up a 20-point total over its rivals. Runner-up was Wallbridge school with a score of 14 points.

Avondale School carried two honors from the field. It defeated Glen Miller in the softball championship game 10-2 and also emerged over Meadowdale and Wallbridge to win the relay race.

The six event program was divided into six separate classes for the boys and girls participating.

Final individual winners were: boys senior, J. Jones, (7 points); intermediate, P. Morris, (9 points); junior, M. Pokluda, (6 points); girls: senior, A. DeVries, (6 pts.); intermediate, Vougenhil, (8 pts.)

In the junior section of the girls' entries, four entrants tied for top place. Among them were: G. Morrow, SS 19, H. Morrow, SS 19 and W. Young SS 2b.

Tennis Notes

Point Anne scored a 4-1 victory over RCAF on Sunday afternoon in a Bay of Quinte senior tennis match. The losers defaulted the first mixed doubles, and the ladies' doubles, while winning the first men's doubles.

Results:

1st men's doubles—Robert Legate and Dick Morden, Point Anne; March Sinclair and Nick Sinclair, RCAF, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

2nd men's doubles—Bud Spencer and Doug Bennett, Pt. Anne; Bob Cournover and Ray Labbe, RCAF. Point Anne, 8-6, 1-6, 8-6.

1st mixed doubles—Jenny Bilanski and Thorold Horwood, Pt. Anne. Pt. Anne, default.

2nd mixed doubles: Iona MacDonald and Guy Fraser, Point Anne; Gabby Jette and Mac Maisonneuve, RCAF. Pt. Anne, 6-3, 6-2.

Ladies' doubles—Anne Bilanski and Janet Whitehead, Point Anne. Point Anne, default.

Final score — Point Anne 4, RCAF 1.

Predicts Lakes' Traffic Jump By New Seaway

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Great Lakes' traffic will jump from 10,000,000 tons a year to over 31,000,000 tons in the first two years after the St. Lawrence seaway is opened, it was predicted here Saturday.

H. J. Darling, chief of the economics division of the department of transport, spoke to 100 delegates at a one-day joint conference of the central Ontario chapter of the Town Planning Institute of Canada and the Michigan chapter of the American Institute of Planners.

He said despite a "staggering tonnage increase" no new Great Lakes ports are anticipated. Industries would migrate to Toronto and southern Lake Ontario and Lake Erie and to northern New York and other lake - bordering states.

He was one of several speakers during a panel discussion of the impact of the seaway on land uses in the Great Lakes region.

Earlier, Sterling St. John, Jr., director, port of Detroit commission, predicted a revival of the Great Lakes' package freight trade and forecast new methods of bulk shipments.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Akoolap Oxpert uses his own disposition to decide the mood of his partner. If the response from partner is not what he expected, he assumes his partner is using some cockeyed judgment bid.

A jump overcall is a defensive bid that promises eight tricks with a suit that is rebiddable. Response from partner is assumed to be based on this suit becoming the final trump contract.

The natural expectancy, therefore, is that partner will either pass or assist in this suit. If partner happens to respond in some other suit or no-trump, Akoolap believes his partner is stubborn.

This is not the attitude for the jump overcaller to take. His partner knows what the jump overcall shows. So, he knows that an assist in the mentioned suit is expected of him.

If, therefore, partner changes the denomination it is not for some stubborn purpose. It is to give better information. Since he did not pass, he is encouraging further bidding.

By responding in another suit he is giving the jump overcaller a chance to decide two things: Shall they decide on game in feither denomination or is this information helpful to reach a slam.

Let yourself pick up an east hand like this:

EAST
♠ A Q J 10 5
♥ A 9
♦ J 7 6
♣ 8 5 2

South opens with a bid of one club. Your west partner makes a jump overcall of two hearts. North passes. With less than two tricks you would pass. A responding bid shows two tricks or more.

With four tricks your pair may have a slam. Especially if west has good connections with what you show him. So, instead of making a heart assist, first bid two spades and encourage slam.

He can tell you in his next bid whether slam is worth the try. If not, he can still bid and reach game in his own suit.

No use getting mad about it.

24,000 Persons Evacuated In Less Than 30 Mins.

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—About one-quarter of Brandon's 24,000 persons were evacuated in less than 30 minutes Sunday afternoon in a civil defence exercise that went off without a hitch.

The operation, dubbed "Exercise Barbecue" and first of its kind in western Canada, was termed a success by top-ranking civil defence authorities. There were no accidents.

The 6,000 evacuees left the western Manitoba city by car and bus along pre-designated routes north, south and west as a red alert, signalling the mock air attack, was sounded at 3 p. m. CDT.

Traffic control conducted by city police and RCMP kept three columns of cars and buses rolling without a pause. The 1,200 vehicles averaging five persons to the car were accommodated at the three reception areas, each about 10 miles from the city.

The evacuees were fed barbecued beef at the reception aeeas situated on fields of district farmers and donated for the exercise. Officers and men of the 26th Field Regiment, RCA, at Brandon supervised the parking. Volunteer members of the Brandon CD organization handled all the planning, emergency feeding and other aspects of the work taught at the National CD College at Arnprior, Ont.

Senator Proposes Bill to Control Stock Racketeers

By GEORGE KITCHEN

WASHINGTON (CP) — Legislation to close the Canada-U.S. border to stock racketeers peddling phoney Canadian securities to American investors will be introduced in the Senate today by Senator J. W. Fulbright, (Dem. Ark.) chairman of the Senate's powerful banking and currency committee.

Fulbright announced his proposal Saturday night in a statement in which he said it has been estimated confidence men operating from Canadian bases are selling between $10,000,000 and $50,000,000 worth of such securities to U.S. investors each year.

The bill would deny the use of the U.S mails, telegraph and telephone companies to any person who violates the U.S. Securities Act and refuses to come to the U.S. to answer charges of violation.

It was learned the banking and commerce committee will open hearings on the bill this week.

Fulbright's bill is, patterned somewhat along the lines of legislation suggested last week in a memorandum from the Securities and Exchange Commission. The SEC expressed dissatisfaction with attempts to halt the operations of the racketeers.

However, it is not as far-reaching as the SEC proposal, which also would have closed the international border to the transmission of funds for purchase of fradulent securities. The SEC also had suggested American confidence men operating in Canada might be stripped of their citizenship if they refused to return home to face charges.

Canadian embassy officials said they did not expect the new legislation would affect trade in legitimate Canadian securities since the border shut-down would apply only to those known to be peddling worthless stock.

Fulbright said he is proposing his legislation as a stop-gap measure until the commission, the state department and the Canadian government can "arrive at a full slution of the problem."

Two Fishermen Pull Section Of Wing From Water

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—The Jefferson county sheriff's department said Saturday that two fishermen had pulled a section of a Canadian airplane wing from Lake Ontario.

Sheriff Brayton E. Peck said the wing section was found Friday night and towed ashore at nearby Cape Vincent. He said that U.S. Air Force officers stationed at the nearby Dry Hill radar station had stated that the wing section was a part of a Canadian plane.

James Benson, a private pilot, who viewed the wreckage, said the wing section apparently had been in the water from 10 days to two weeks. Benson is pilot to U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles on flights between the airport here and Dulles' home on the Main Ducks island in Lake Ontario.

The sheriff said he had notified the Royal Canadian Air Force base at Trenton, Ont.

Eisenhower Signs Into Law New Trade Legislation

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower signed his 1955 trade legislation into law the other day and thereby provided United States industries with a new king-sized loophole through which to claim protection from foreign imports.

While the professed aim of the legislation is to stimulate trade, foreign observers here fear that it will, in some instances, have just the opposite effect. Where foreign goods compete with American products, it could discourage, rather than encourage, trade.

The basic proposals in the administration's program are in the direction of freer trade. The bill provided for a three-year extension of the U.S. Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and gave the president authority to lower tariffs by five per cent each year in return for similar concessions from other countries.

Observers here concede that the passage of the legislation will serve to stabilize the international trade picture and that the administration will honestly make use of the new tariff-cutting power.

However, they note that the government, to win congressional approval of the program, was forced to accept amendments which strengthen the position of industries seeking protection from foreign competition.

One of these amendments widens the provisions of the so-called "Escape" clause in the basic U.S. trade law.

This clause permits an American manufacturer to demand a tariff board hearing on the ground his business is being hurt by imports from abroad. If the board agrees, it may recommend an increase in the tariff to help the industry meet competition.

Up to now, it has been necessary for the manufacturer to prove that his business operations were adversely affected by imports. Under the enlarged provisions, he need prove only that one segment of his operations is being damaged.

Canadian sources expect that this will lead to an increased number of requests for tariff hearings. These are costly for the foreign exporters since he is required to be represented at the hearing. At the same time, the hearing may tie up his access to the U.S. market for as much as a year.

The foreign exporter thus is faced with the threat of a tariff board hearing if he becomes too successful in the U.S. market. This fact alone, Canadian officials say, discourages exporters from making any vigorous attempt to get into the American field.

The president still retains his authority to accept or reject the tariff board recommendations. However, the law now requires that the recommendations be made public immediately. This is expected to produce pressure on the president to accept the recommendations. Heretofore, they remained secret for 60 days while the president considered them.

Another new change permits U.S firms to seek a system of quotas on raw material imports on the grounds they are endangering home production and thus threatening national security. This could apply, for example, to imports of Canadian oil. Whether or not a quota system would be established would depend on the results of a presidential inquiry.

Jeep Bogs Down In Californian Desert, 2 Perish

TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif. (AP) — Murderous heat, drifting sands and shivering nights were a grim memory today for a survivor of a desert jeep ride that claimed two lives.

"It's the worst thing I've been through in 20 years on the desert," said Chester Banker, 67, a real estate promoter. He recalled watching one man walk to his death and another die of exposure on the blistering desert when their jeep broke down during an outing last Wednesday.

Bunker, recovering in a hospital here, told this story:

He and three others set out in the jeep to inspect the Amazon valley area which Bunker described as "ripe for development." They carried water but no food for the half-day journey.

The jeep sank in drifting sand in Amazon canyon about 30 miles east of here.

WALKS TO DEATH

The bright but chilly desert night replaced the searing sun and Calvert Wilson, 49, prominent southern California Democratic politician, set out on foot for the highway about 15 miles away.

His sun-blackened body was found by searchers two days later about five miles from the jeep. He had died of exposure and thirst.

Bunker, James Thompson, 75, and Lyle Robertson, 49, remained closer to the jeep.

Their water ran out the next day. The temperature hit 120 degrees. Bunker and Robertson lay on the desert and covered their heads with their shirts.

RAN IN CIRCLES

"But Thompson got away from us and started running in circles," Bunker said. He died a few hours later.

Thompson's body and the two survivors prostrate on the shimmering sands were spotted by a civilian plane. A helicopter rushed Bunker and Robertson to a hospital.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, June 28, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Carefully consider available leads, listen to opinions—then do what you think best. Don't be forced into untenable situations by being conciliatory at the wrong time.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — If your day starts uninterestingly, buoy it up with your natural enthusiasm. And when you have the chance, take needed rest and recreation for the sake of your health and disposition.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A good day to take stock. Have you been giving yourself a break, putting your best into efforts? Don't put off important things and do be systematic.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Ease your day's work by tackling things in the order of their importance. Avoid "moods" and think before you act. The stars favor a conservative, calm attitude today.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Make haste slowly now. Don't become irritated at the dictatorial manners of those with whom you work or associate. Wait your turn though it may seem tedious. P. M. has brighter prospects.

August 23 to September ■■ (Virgo) — The influences are favorable for both business and personal affairs. Take things in stride but don't let opportunities slip through your fingers. Support causes that better all living conditions.

September ■■ to October 23 (Libra)—Step lively; be alert to advantages. Concern yourself with happenings around you. Happiness spreads quickly; foster it.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Take a less vigorous stand and wait till things break your way and you are surer of your ground. Plan tomorrow's work when free of today's obligations.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — The outlook is encouraging and should find it easy to handle your duties without strain. Be as consistent as possible and don't force your opinions on others. Give some time to loved ones.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—The early hours may be somewhat tricky, so mark time. The P. M. should be stimulating for trades, industry, and professional endeavors. Romance and social affairs are also favored.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Slightly on the "off" for financial matters, stocks, selling. Don't follow hearsay or rumors; get the facts before acting. Relax in the P. M. with loved ones.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Use your innate gifts to counteract any adverse situation which may arise. Deal fairly with those under you; ■■ will react favorably with superiors, friends.

YOU BORN TODAY possess the needed will power to move forward: have organizing ability and can make good with new and little known commodities, merchandise or ideas. This gift (properly cultivated) can be a stepping stone to greater things in life. You may experience ups-and-downs but your innate stability and tenacity can carry you through to creditable gains if you are true to your better self. You like sports, social affairs and can make friends and hold them. A tendency to speculate should be sensibly controlled. NO A-BOMBS

TOKYO (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu said today he had been assured by United States Ambassador John W. Allison that American forces in Japan have no atomic bombs at present and that they will not bring atomic bombs into Japan without first seeking Japan's permission. Shigemitsu said Allison had given him this assurance during an interview May 31.

Stirling

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL

STIRLING. — On Wednesday evening, Stirling Lodge IOOF, No. 239 sponsored a delightful strawberry social to conclude their lodge activities for this season.

The party was held on the spacious lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox, Emily Street, where tables and chairs were set up to accommodate the crowd. They invited the members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 as their guests and the proceeds of the evening will be used for the Building Fund.

Noble Grand Ray Rose and a group of IOOF members served the plates of ice cream heaped with a generous topping of strawberries. Later another portion of ice cream was served. Those who did not attend missed a rare treat.

JUNIOR FARMERS

On Monday evening, Hastings' Junior Farmers held an executive meeting in the department of agriculture board room. Plans were made for their field day on July 1st and their annual church service at Foxboro, on June 26. The girl with the most points in Junior Institute work will be chosen as "Miss Hastings".

On Thursday evening, at the close of St. Paul's United church choir practice, the group staged a social hour in honor of the recent marriage of Mrs. Harry Philp.

All enjoyed a novel contest under the leadership of the president, Mrs. William Wilkins.

Mrs. Philp was given an ovation and presented with a crystal centre piece in corn flower pattern. The recipient voiced grateful thanks. Refreshments, featuring strawberries and ice cream were served.

PAST GRANDS' CLUB

Rylstone

GARDEN PARTY

RYLSTONE. — On Thursday evening, the teacher and pupils of the 9th Line School (SS 12) held a successful garden party at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn. The grounds were well filled and were nicely decorated by the Meiklejohn family, some of the men of the neighborhood and the senior pupils.

In the early part of the evening, a ball game was played between the two neighboring teams, Petherick's Corners and Rylstone, resulting in a victory for the home team. A tug-of-war between Seymour and Rawdon teams, showed the "Rawdon Dodgers", to be the stronger, on this occasion, at least.

A clown dressed as a tattered gentlemen, amused the crowd, with his antics during the evening.

Music was supplied by a record-player with an address system. A fish-pond was well patronized, as was the ice cream and lunch tables.

A bon-fire later in the evening added to the beauty of the scene, already lighted by the moon, with electric lights hung on wires, assisting.

The Union school pupils, and their parents, and the teacher, Mrs. Cora Reid, held their annual picnic at Crowe River bridge, on Friday in spite of the showery weather.

Chapel of St. Barbara at Camp Dedicated by Army Chaplain

PICTON — With impressive ceremony, the Chapel of St. Barbara on Picton Heights, serving Picton Army Camp, was dedicated Sunday afternoon. An overflow congregation attended the dedication which was conducted by Col. the Rev. J. W. Forth, M.B.E., C.D., Director of Chaplain Services (P), assisted by the Camp Chaplain, Capt. the Rev. W. J. Phillips. Others taking part in the service were Lieut.-Col. J. Brown, M.C., Command Chaplain of Central Command, Major J. Rand, Area Chaplain, Kingston, Capt. Buxton, Chaplain at Vimy Barracks, Capt. H. Johnson, Chaplain at Barriefield.

Among distinguished military representatives present were Major-General Brennan, Adjutant - General of the Canadian Army, Lt.-Col. Sisson, Eastern Ontario Area, Lt.-Col. A. O. Hood, Headquarters, Ottawa, a former Commanding Officer at Picton Camp, Lieut. Col. G. Vincent, Camp commandant.

Col. the Rev. J. W. Forth was met at the chapel door by Lieut. R. L. Buchanan, Chairman of the Chapel Council, who asked in the name of the congregation that "You separate this church from all profane and common uses, and to dedicate it, and set it apart for the worship of Almighty God." This followed the singing of the hymn "The Church's One Foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord."

The director replied, "Peace be unto this house and all who worship therein. Peace be to those who enter, and to those who go out therefrom. Peace be to those that love it, and that love the name of Jesus Christ our Lord".

The service of dedication was carried out by Col. Forth with the various chaplains assisting. Concluding, the director said, "by virtue of our sacred office in the Church we do now dedicate, and set apart from all profane and common uses this house of God . . . and do name it The Chapel of St. Barbara, in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

The Chapel Choir sang the anthem, "Send Out Thy Light", and Mrs. B. Higgins sang the solo "Bless this House".

CHURCH IMPORTANT

The sermon was delivered by Col. the Rev. J. W. Forth, who spoke of the importance of the church, especially in this atomic age. He stressed the need of the church and the challenges it presents. He called upon all to dedicate themselves to God and His church. Be faithful in worship and generous in service, he urged.

A feature of the service was the dedication of several gifts to the chapel, A baptismal font ewer was given by Mrs. Greenwood and family in memory of Major J. W. Greenwood, E.D. In memory of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice were offertory basin by St. Barbara's Ladies' Guild; pair offertory plates by Picton Heights Girl Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs; pair offertory plates by Lt.-Col. and Mrs. G. L. Vincent; pair of religious pictures by Sgt. K. H. Johnston and Sgt. A. J. Sweet.

The chapel was built and furnished at a cost of around $100,000 a similar chapel for Roman Catholics will be dedicated when completed in the near future.

Adjoining the chapel is a three room building for Sunday school classes and other meetings.

Interior of the chapel is done in soft shades, blending with the high ceiling beams which are in natural finish. The altar and pulpit are of solid oak as will be the pews to be installed shortly. Seating accommodation is about 250 until the chapel was built, services were held in the school.

Completion of the chapel is particularly pleasing to Padre W. J. Phillips who leaves on July 10th, to become a padre at Halifax, N.S. He will be succeeded here by Capt. J. Davidson, now at Petawawa.

Confirmation service was held in the chapel last Friday evening. Capt. the Rev. W. J. Phillips presented a class of 13 candidates to Rt. Rev. K. E. Evans, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, for confirmation.

SUES FILM MAKERS

OLDENBURG, Germany (AP)—Former Maj. - Gen. Otto Ernst Remer, who was promoted for helping crush the abortive plot against Hitler in 1944, has filed a libel suit here against producers of a German movie depicting the revolt. Remer said he felt "publicly degraded" by the movie "It Happened July 20."

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 54

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Martin and Mrs. C. C. Davis attended the funeral of Mr. Tom Badgley, Mountain Grove, formerly of this line, on Tuesday afternoon at the Belleville cemetery.

Following the morning service at Bethany Church, Mrs. L. S. Throop was presented with a lovely green chair from the congregation before her departure for her new home in Belleville.

Several from this line attended the farewell party Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Willem Wilteveen and baby, Lorna, who are leaving to take up residence on Amherst Island. They were presented with a lovely mirror and card table.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Grills, Carl and Bernice, 4th Sidney, were recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. H. Walker.
